 - (b) tax upon profits or gains, whether of an income or capital nature; or
 - (c) any other tax, being a tax that is subject to an agreement having the force of law under the International Tax Agreements Act 1953;
- but does not include a unitary tax or a credit absorption tax.
- (5B) This section applies to a non-share dividend in the same way as it applies to a dividend.
- (6) In this section:

credit absorption tax means a tax imposed by a law of a foreign country to the extent that the tax would not have been payable if the taxpayer concerned or another taxpayer had not been entitled to an offset in respect of the tax under Division 770 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

law, in relation to a foreign country, means a law of that country, or of any part of, or place in, that country.

unitary tax means tax imposed by a law of a foreign country, being a law which, for the purposes of taxing income, profits or gains of a company derived from sources within that country, takes into account, or is entitled to take into account, income, losses, outgoings or assets of the company (or of a company that for the purposes of that law is treated as being associated with the company) derived, incurred or situated outside that country, but does not include tax imposed by that law if that law only takes those matters into account:

- (a) if such an associated company is a resident for the purposes of that law; or
- (b) for the purposes of granting any form of relief in relation to tax imposed on dividends received by one company from another company.

6B Income beneficially derived

- (1) For the purposes of this Act, an amount of income derived by a person, not being a dividend paid by a company to the person as a shareholder in the company, shall be deemed to be attributable to a dividend:

Section 6B

- (a) if the person derived the amount of income by reason of being the beneficial owner of the share in respect of which the dividend was paid; or
 - (b) if the person derived the amount of income as a beneficiary in a trust estate and the amount of income can be attributed, directly or indirectly, to the dividend or to an amount that is deemed, by any application or successive applications of this subsection, to be an amount of income attributable to the dividend.
- (1A) For the purposes of this Act, an amount of income derived by a person, being income other than passive income, is to be taken to be income attributable to passive income:
- (a) if the person derived the amount of income by reason of being beneficially entitled to an amount representing passive income; or
 - (b) if the person derived the amount of income as a beneficiary in a trust estate and the amount of income can be attributed, directly or indirectly, to passive income or to an amount that is taken, by any application or successive applications of this subsection, to be an amount of income attributable to passive income.
- (2) For the purposes of this Act, an amount of income derived by a person, being income other than interest income, shall be deemed to be income attributable to interest income:
- (a) if the person derived the amount of income by reason of being beneficially entitled to an amount representing interest income; or
 - (b) if the person derived the amount of income as a beneficiary in a trust estate and the amount of income can be attributed, directly or indirectly, to interest income or to an amount that is deemed, by any application or successive applications of this subsection, to be an amount of income attributable to interest income.
- (2A) For the purposes of this Act, an amount of income derived by a person shall be deemed to be income derived from a particular source:
- (a) except where paragraph (b) applies:

- (i) if the person derived the amount of income by reason of being beneficially entitled to an amount that is derived from that source; or
 - (ii) if the person derived the amount of income as a beneficiary in a trust estate and the amount of income can be attributed, directly or indirectly, to income derived from that source or to an amount that is deemed, by any other application or applications of this subsection, to be an amount that is income derived from that source; or
- (b) if the income so derived is, by virtue of subsection (1), (1A) or (2), attributable to a dividend, passive income or interest income derived from that source.
- (3) Where a beneficiary in a trust estate is presently entitled to income of the trust estate, that income shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be an amount of income derived by the person.
- (4) This section:
- (a) applies to a non-share equity interest in the same way as it applies to a share; and
 - (b) applies to an equity holder in the same way as it applies to a shareholder; and
 - (c) applies to a non-share dividend in the same way as it applies to a dividend.

6BA Taxation treatment of certain shares

- (1) This section applies if a shareholder holds shares in a company (the original shares) and the company issues other shares (the bonus shares) in respect of the original shares.
- (2) If the bonus shares are a dividend, or taken to be a dividend (including as a result of section 45C), the consideration for the acquisition of the shares for the purposes of this Act is so much of the dividend as is:
 - (a) included in the taxpayer's assessable income; and
 - (b) is not rebatable under section 46A.

Section 6BA

- (3) If the bonus shares are issued for no consideration and are not a dividend or taken to be a dividend, then for the purposes of this Act (other than section 26AAC), in determining:
- (a) the value of such of the original shares and bonus shares as the taxpayer elects under section 70-45 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to value at cost; and
 - (b) where any of the original shares or any of the bonus shares are not articles of trading stock of the taxpayer:
 - (i) the amount or value of the consideration paid in respect of the acquisition of any of those shares for the purposes of Part 3-1 or 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997; or
 - (ii) the amount of any profit or loss arising on the sale or disposal of any of those shares;

any amounts paid or payable by the taxpayer in respect of the original shares (whether on purchase of the shares, on application for or allotment of the shares, to meet calls or otherwise) shall be deemed to have been paid or to be payable by the taxpayer in respect of the original shares and the bonus shares in such proportions as the Commissioner considers appropriate in the circumstances.

- (4) A company issues shares for no consideration if:
- (a) it credits its capital account with profits in connection with the issue of the shares; or
 - (b) it credits its capital account with the amount of any dividend to a shareholder and the shareholder does not have a choice whether to be paid the dividend or to be issued with the shares.

This subsection does not limit the generality of subsection (3).

Note: A company that makes a credit covered by paragraph (a) or (b) will have a tainted share capital account.

- (5) Subject to subsection (6), if a shareholder has a choice whether to be paid a dividend or to be issued shares and the shareholder chooses to be issued with shares:
- (a) the dividend is taken to be credited to the shareholder; and
 - (b) the dividend is taken to have been paid out of profits; and
 - (c) subsections (2) and (3) apply in working out the consideration for the acquisition of the shares for the purposes of this Act.

However, the share capital account of the company does not become a tainted share capital account as a result of the crediting of the dividend to the share capital account.

- (6) Subsection (5) does not apply if:
- (a) a shareholder in a listed public company (within the meaning of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) has a choice whether to be paid a dividend (other than a minimally franked dividend within the meaning of subsection 45(3)) or to be issued shares and the shareholder chooses to be issued with shares; and
 - (b) the company does not credit the share capital account in connection with the issue of those shares.

Note: If subsection (5) does not apply because of this subsection, subsection (3) will apply.

- (7) This section (other than subsection (6)):
- (a) applies to a non-share equity interest in the same way as it applies to a share; and
 - (b) applies to an equity holder in the same way as it applies to a shareholder; and
 - (c) applies to a non-share dividend in the same way as it applies to a dividend.

Section 23AF

- (16) Where, in the making of an assessment, this section has been applied on the basis that a circumstance that did not exist at the time of making the assessment would exist at a later time and the Commissioner, after making the assessment, becomes satisfied that that circumstance will not exist, then, notwithstanding anything contained in section 170, the Commissioner may amend the assessment at any time for the purposes of ensuring that this section shall be taken always to have applied on the basis that that circumstance did not exist.

- (1A) A person is taken, for the purposes of subsection (1), to have been engaged in foreign service for a continuous period of 91 days if:

 - (b) he or she would have otherwise continued to be engaged in the foreign service; and
 - (c) his or her continuous period of engagement in the foreign service would have otherwise been a period of at least 91 days.

- (3) If the income of a taxpayer of a year of income consists of an amount that is exempt from tax under this section (in this section called the exempt amount) and other income, the amount of tax (if any) payable in respect of the other income is calculated using the formula:

$$\frac{\text{Notional gross tax}}{\text{Notional gross taxable income}} \times \text{Other taxable income}$$

where:

Notional gross tax means the number of whole dollars in the amount of income tax that would be assessed under this Act in respect of the taxpayer's taxable income of the year of income if:

- (a) the exempt amount were not exempt income; and
- (aa) if the exempt amount is a payment covered by section 83-240 or 305-65 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997—the exempt amount (excluding any part of that amount that represented contributions made by the taxpayer) were assessable income of the taxpayer; and
- (b) the taxpayer were not entitled to any rebate of tax.

Notional gross taxable income means the number of whole dollars in the amount that would have been the taxpayer's taxable income of the year of income if the exempt amount were not exempt income.

- (e) so much of any other deductions (other than apportionable deductions) allowable to the taxpayer in relation to the year of income as, in the opinion of the Commissioner, may appropriately be related to that assessable income; and
 - (f) the amount calculated using the formula in subsection (4).
- (4) The formula referred to in paragraph (3)(f) is:

$$\text{Apportionable deductions} \times \left[\frac{\text{Other taxable income}}{\text{Apportionable deductions} + \text{Notional gross taxable income}} \right]$$

Apportionable deductions means the number of whole dollars in the apportionable deductions allowable to the taxpayer in relation to the year of income.

Other taxable income means the amount that, apart from paragraph (3)(f), would be represented by the component Other taxable income in subsection (3).

Notional gross taxable income means the number of whole dollars in the amount that would have been the taxpayer's taxable income of the year of income if the exempt amount were not exempt income.

- (5) Subsection (3) applies to a taxpayer in respect of income of a year of income as if any payment covered by section 83-240 or 305-65 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 that related to the termination of employment that was made in respect of the taxpayer during that year of income were income of the taxpayer of that year of income that is exempt from tax under this section.

(b) a time (if any), since the start of the first of the 2 or more periods, when the person's total period of absence exceeds $\frac{1}{6}$ of the person's total period of foreign service;

Example: Kate is engaged in foreign service for 20 days, is absent for 2 days and is then engaged in foreign service for 10 days. These 2 periods of foreign service constitute a continuous period of foreign service, because the total period of absence is never more than $\frac{1}{10}$ of the total period of foreign service.

Kate is then absent for 5 days before commencing a further period of foreign service. No matter how long the further period lasts, it can never constitute a continuous period of foreign service with the first 2 periods of foreign service, because on the fourth day of the second absence the total period of absence is $\frac{1}{5}$ of the total period of foreign service.

(6B) In subsection (6A):

total period of absence, in relation to a particular time, means the number of days, in the period starting at the start of the first of the 2 or more periods and ending at that time, for which the person was not engaged in foreign service.

(b) at the time of making an assessment in respect of income of the person of the year of income, the Commissioner is of the opinion that, at a later time, circumstances will exist because of which those foreign earnings will be exempted from tax by this section;

the Commissioner may apply the provisions of this section as if those circumstances existed at the time of making the assessment.

(6G) Where:

- (a) in the making of an assessment, this section has been applied on the basis that a circumstance that did not exist at the time of making the assessment would exist at a later time; and
- (b) the Commissioner, after making the assessment, becomes satisfied that the circumstance will not exist;

then, notwithstanding anything contained in section 170, the Commissioner may amend the assessment at any time for the purposes of ensuring that this section shall be taken always to have applied on the basis that the circumstance did not exist.

24AL Diagram—guide to work out if body is exempt under this Division

The following diagram is a guide to help work out whether a body is exempt from income tax under this Division:

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 1AB Certain State/Territory bodies exempt from income tax

Section 24AM

The income of a State/Territory body (an STB) is exempt from income tax unless section 24AN applies to the STB.

24AN Certain STBs not exempt from tax under this Division

Income derived by an STB is not exempt from income tax under this Division if, at the time that it is derived, the STB is an excluded STB.

- Notes:
1. For the definition of excluded STB see section 24AT.
 2. Even though an excluded STB is not exempt from income tax under this Division, it may still be exempt under another provision of this Act.

24AO First way in which a body can be an STB

A body is an STB if:

- (a) it is a company limited solely by shares; and
- (b) all the shares in it are beneficially owned by one or more government entities.

A body is an STB if:

- (a) it is established by State or Territory legislation; and
- (b) it is not a company limited solely by shares; and

- (d) if the legislation makes provision as to the way its net assets may be distributed if it is dissolved or wound up—the provision is that, if it is dissolved, all of its net assets (if any) must be distributed only to one or more government entities.

24AQ Third way in which a body can be an STB

A body is an STB if:

- (a) it is established by State or Territory legislation; and
- (b) it is not a company limited solely by shares; and
- (c) the legislation gives the power to appoint or dismiss its governing person or body only to one or more government entities.

24AR Fourth way in which a body can be an STB

A body is an STB if:

- (a) it is established by State or Territory legislation; and 24AT What do excluded STB, government entity and Territory mean?

Regulations prescribing excluded STBs may be retrospective

- (2) Despite subsection 12(2) of the Legislative Instruments Act 2003, a regulation prescribing an STB as an excluded STB may provide that the STB is an excluded STB in relation to a time before the day of the notification of the regulation in the Gazette.

Subdivision B—Body ceasing to be an STB

24AW Body ceasing to be an STB

If a body ceases to be an STB in a year of income (the cessation year), this Act applies to the body as if:

- (a) the cessation were a change which requires a company to calculate its taxable income and tax loss under

Part III Liability to taxation

Section 24AX

Subdivision 165-B of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997;

- (b) the references in that Subdivision to “company” were references to “body”; and
- (c) if the body is not a company—there were no further requirement for the body to calculate its taxable income for the year of income under that Subdivision; and
- (d) the amount of any notional loss of the body calculated under section 165-50 of that Act for the period before the cessation were nil; and
- (e) the body’s deductions for tax losses were attributed under section 165-55 of that Act to the period before the cessation and not to any other period; and
- (f) those deductions were taken not to be full year deductions under section 165-55 of that Act; and
- (g) the application of Parts 3-1 and 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 were modified, for the purposes of that Subdivision, in accordance with section 24AX of this Act.

24AX Special provisions relating to capital gains and losses

Period after cessation date—prior net capital losses to be disregarded

- (1) In determining if an amount is to be included in the assessable income of the body under Parts 3-1 and 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 for a period that occurred after the cessation, any net capital losses incurred before the cessation are to be disregarded.

Special cases where net capital gain before cessation and net capital loss after cessation

- (2) Subsections (3) and (4) apply if:
 - (a) a net capital gain accrued in the period before the cessation; and
 - (b) if the period from the cessation until the end of the year of income were treated as a year of income—a net capital loss would have accrued in that period.

Special case 1—gain exceeds loss

- (3) If this subsection applies and the net capital gain exceeds the net capital loss:
- (a) the amount that is to be included in the assessable income of the body for the period that occurred before the cessation as a result of the net capital gain accruing to the body is taken to be the amount by which the net capital gain exceeds the net capital loss; and
 - (b) no net capital gain is taken to have accrued, and no net capital loss is taken to have been incurred, in any period in the cessation year after the cessation; and
 - (c) in determining if a net capital gain accrued to, or a net capital loss was incurred by, the body for the year following the cessation year, no net capital loss is taken to have been incurred by the body in the cessation year.

Special case 2—loss equal to or exceeds gain

- (4) If this subsection applies and the net capital gain does not exceed the net capital loss:
- (a) no amount is to be included in the assessable income of the body for any period in the cessation year as a result of a net capital gain accruing to the body; and
 - (b) in determining if a net capital gain accrued to, or a net capital loss was incurred by, the body for the year following the cessation year, the net capital loss that the body incurred in the cessation year is taken to be the amount (if any) by which the net capital loss exceeds the net capital gain.

24AY Losses from STB years not carried forward

- (1) If a body is an STB on the last day of a year of income in which it incurs a tax loss, the tax loss is not allowable as a deduction from the body's assessable income of a later year of income unless the body is an STB on the first day of that later year of income.

Note: This section prevents losses from years prior to the cessation year from being carried forward to years after the cessation year.

- (2) This section only applies to a tax loss incurred in the 1995-96 year of income or a later year of income.

24AYA Effect of unfunded superannuation liabilities

- (1) This section applies to a deduction under section 290-60 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in respect of a contribution made in relation to a person who was an employee of a prescribed excluded STB when it ceased to be an STB.
- (2) A deduction to which this section applies is not allowable to the body for any year of income unless the requirements of subsections (3) and (4) are complied with.
- (3) For the deduction to be allowable, the body must obtain a certificate by an authorised actuary stating the actuarial value, as at the time the body ceases to be an STB, of liabilities of the STB to provide superannuation benefits for, or for SIS dependants of, employees of the body, where the liabilities:
 - (a) accrued after 30 June 1995 and before the time when the body ceased to be an STB; and
 - (b) were, according to actuarial principles, unfunded at that time.
- (4) The certificate must be in a form approved in writing by the Commissioner. The body must obtain the certificate:
 - (a) before the date of lodgment of its return of income of the year of income in which the body ceased to be an STB; or
 - (b) within such further time as the Commissioner allows.
- (5) If the body obtains the certificate, a deduction to which this section applies is nevertheless not allowable for a year of income if the sum of all deductions to which this section applies for the year of income is less than or equal to the unfunded liability limit (see subsection (6)) for the year of income.
- (6) If the sum is greater than that limit, so much of the deduction as is worked out using the following formula is not allowable:
$$\frac{\text{Amount of deduction}}{\text{Sum of all deductions to which this section applies for the year of income}} \times \text{Unfunded liability limit for the year of income}$$

where:

Unfunded liability limit for a year of income is:

- (a) if the year of income is the one in which the body ceases to be an STB—the actuarial value of the liabilities set out in the actuary’s certificate; or

- (b) in any other case—that actuarial value as reduced by the total amount of deductions to which this section applies that, because of subsection (5), have not been allowable to the body for all previous years of income.
- (7) Expressions used in this section that are also used in section 290-60 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 have the same respective meanings as in that section.

24AZ Meaning of period and prescribed excluded STB

In this Subdivision:

period means any of the periods into which the cessation year is divided under section 165-45 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

A reference in this Division to a Territory resident is a reference to a person, not being a company, who:

- (a) resides, and has his ordinary place of residence, in a prescribed Territory; and
- (b) would not, but for the operation of subsection 7A(2), be treated as a resident of Australia.

24D Territory company

- (1) Subject to this section, a company is, for the purposes of this Division, a Territory company in relation to the year of income if, and only if:
 - (a) the company was incorporated in a prescribed Territory;
 - (b) at all times during the year of income the company was managed and controlled wholly and exclusively in that Territory and was so managed and controlled by a person who was a Territory resident or by persons who were Territory residents;
 - (c) at no time during the year of income was a shareholding interest in the company held by a person (not being a company) who was not a Territory resident;
 - (d) at no time during the year of income was a person, or were 2 or more persons, in a position to affect any rights in connexion with the company of the holder of a shareholding interest in the company; and
 - (e) no agreement was entered into before or during the year of income by virtue of which a person or persons would be in a position after the year of income to affect any rights in connexion with the company of the holder of a shareholding interest in the company.
- (2) For the purposes of this section, a person shall be deemed to have held a shareholding interest in a company at a particular time if at that time:
 - (a) in the case of a company having a share capital—the person was beneficially entitled to, or to an interest in, any shares in

Section 24D

- the company (whether or not the whole or any part of the legal ownership of the shares was vested in the person); or
- (b) in the case of a company limited by guarantee or limited by both shares and guarantee—the person was a member of the company or had a beneficial interest in any right or interest of a member of the company in or in relation to the company.
- (3) For the purposes of this section, where at any time a person held a shareholding interest in a company and at that time that company held a shareholding interest in another company (including a shareholding interest that the first-mentioned company is deemed to have held by another application or other applications of this subsection), that person shall be deemed to have held at that time a shareholding interest in that other company.
- (4) For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(d) and (e), a person or persons shall be taken to have been, or to be, in a position at a particular time to affect rights in connexion with a company of the holder of a shareholding interest in the company if at that time that person had or has, or those persons had or have, a right, power or option (whether by virtue of any provision of the constituent document of the company or of any other company or by virtue of any agreement or instrument or otherwise) to do any act or thing that would divest the holder of that shareholding interest of all or any of those rights, to reduce the extent of all or any of those rights, to specify the manner in which all or any of those rights were or are to be exercised or to do any act or thing that would prevent the holder of that shareholding interest from exercising all or any of those rights for his own benefit or receiving any benefits accruing by reason of the existence of all or any of those rights.
- (5) A reference in subsection (4) to the doing of any act or thing that would reduce the extent of any rights in connexion with a company of the holder of a shareholding interest in the company includes a reference to the doing of any act or thing that would reduce the proportion that those rights bear to the total number of the rights of the same kind in connexion with the company of all the holders of shareholding interests in the company.
- (6) A company that would, apart from this subsection, be a Territory company for the purposes of this Division in relation to the year of income shall be deemed not to be a Territory company for the purposes of this Division in relation to the year of income if the affairs or business operations of the company were to any extent managed or conducted in the year of income in the interests of persons other than the holders of shareholding interests in the company or are likely to be so managed or conducted in a later year of income.

- (7) In determining for the purposes of this section whether the affairs or business operations of a company were, or are likely to be, managed or conducted to any extent in the interests of persons other than the holders of shareholding interests in the company, regard shall be had to any act or thing done, or likely to be done, in the course of the management or conduct of those affairs or operations, irrespective of the purpose or purposes for which that act or thing was done, or is likely to be done, and notwithstanding that the doing of that act or thing took place, or is likely to take place, in the course of ordinary family or commercial dealing.

Note: Section 960-255 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 may be relevant to determining family relationships for the purposes of subsection (7).

- (8) Where, but for this subsection, a company would not be a Territory company for the purposes of this Division in relation to a year of income by reason of a non-compliance of a temporary nature with the requirements of paragraph (1)(b) or (c), the Commissioner may disregard that non-compliance.
- (9) Where, but for this subsection, a company would not be a Territory company for the purposes of this Division in relation to a year of income by reason of a non-compliance with paragraph (1)(d) or (e) or by reason of subsection (6) but the Commissioner is of the opinion that, having regard to the general effect of the provisions of this section and to special circumstances that exist in relation to the company, it would be inappropriate not to regard the company as a Territory company in relation to that year of income, the Commissioner may regard the company as a Territory company for the purposes of this Division in relation to that year of income.

24E Territory trusts

- (1) A trust is, for the purposes of this Division, a Territory trust in relation to the year of income if:
- (a) the trust resulted from:

Section 24E

- (i) a will, a codicil or an order of a court that varied or modified the provisions of a will or codicil; or

 - (c) either of the following subparagraphs applies in relation to the trust:

 - (ii) at no time during the year of income was any person presently entitled to income derived by the trustee during the year of income and at the end of the year of income no person other than a Territory resident had any interest, whether vested or contingent, in any income derived by the trustee during the year of income or could by the exercise of a power conferred on any person obtain such an interest.
- (2) A trust is, for the purposes of this Division, a Territory trust in relation to the year of income if:
- (a) the trust was created by an instrument (not being a will or a codicil) executed in a prescribed Territory by a Territory resident; and
 - (b) at no time during the year of income was any person presently entitled to income derived by the trustee during the year of income and at the end of the year of income no person other than a Territory resident had any interest, whether vested or contingent, in any income derived by the trustee during the year of income or could by the exercise of a power conferred on any person obtain such an interest.
- (3) A trust is not, for the purposes of this Division, a Territory trust in relation to the year of income except as provided by this section.

- (4) For the purposes of this Division:
- (a) where 2 or more beneficiaries are presently entitled to shares of any income derived by a trustee (whether or not any of those beneficiaries is under a legal disability), the respective shares of that income to which those beneficiaries are so entitled shall be deemed to be held by the trustee upon separate trusts for those beneficiaries;
 - (b) if there is a share of any income derived by a trustee to which no beneficiary is presently entitled, the trustee shall be deemed to hold that share upon a trust separate from the trust or trusts upon which he holds the remainder of that income; and
 - (c) a reference to income derived by a trustee of a trust is a reference to income derived by the trustee in his capacity as trustee of that trust.

- (4) Subsection (3) does not exclude the operation of this section in relation to any income if the Commissioner is satisfied that the

- (2) Subject to subsection (3), this section does not apply to income if the Commissioner is satisfied that the income has been, or may be, applied for the benefit of a person not being a Territory resident, or for the benefit of a company not being a Territory company in relation to the year of income of the company in which the income has been or may be applied.

- (3) Subsection (2) does not exclude the operation of this section in relation to any income if the Commissioner is satisfied that the application of the income as mentioned in that subsection resulted, or would result, from an agreement or transaction that was a genuine commercial or family dealing and was not entered into or effected for the purpose, or for purposes that included the purpose, of avoiding liability to taxation.

Note: Section 960-255 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 may be relevant to determining family relationships for the purposes of subsection (3).

- (3) Where:
- (a) a dividend derived by a prescribed person is attributable to residual income; and
 - (b) the Commissioner is satisfied that the dividend would not have been derived by a prescribed person but for:

(1B) This section does not apply to a profit arising in the 1997-98 year of income or a later year of income from the carrying on or carrying out of a profit-making undertaking or scheme, even if the undertaking or scheme was entered into, or began to be carried on or carried out, before the 1997-98 year of income.

Note: Section 15-15 (Profit-making undertaking or plan) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 deals with such a profit.

(1) The assessable income of a taxpayer shall include profit arising from the sale by the taxpayer of any property acquired by him for the purpose of profit-making by sale, or from the carrying on or carrying out of any profit-making undertaking or scheme.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), where:

(a) after 23 August 1983, a taxpayer sold or sells property (in this subsection referred to as the relevant property) being:

- (16) Where a taxpayer who has a right to acquire a share in a company is to be taken to have acquired the right under a scheme for the acquisition of shares by employees by virtue of the operation of subsection (2), a reference in this section to the amount, if any, paid or payable by the taxpayer as consideration for the right shall be read as a reference to the amount, if any, paid or payable by the taxpayer as consideration in respect of the first acquisition of the right by him.
- (17) A reference in this section to the amount paid or payable by a person as consideration for a share or for a right to acquire a share includes a reference to any expenditure incurred by the person in the year of income or in any preceding year of income in connexion with the acquisition of the share or right other than expenditure allowed or allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the person of any of those years of income.
- (18) For the purposes of this section, in determining the value of a share or of a right to acquire a share, the share or the right, and any share that may be acquired as a consequence of the exercise or operation of the right, shall be deemed not to be subject to any conditions or restrictions (being conditions or restrictions applicable only to shares in, or rights to acquire shares in, the company acquired under a scheme for the acquisition of shares by employees).

- (18B) For the purposes of this section, the question whether a company is related to another company shall be determined in the same manner as the question whether a corporation is related to another corporation is determined for the purposes of the Corporations Act 2001.
- (18C) In this section:
- employee*, in relation to a company, includes a director of the company.
- permanent employee*, in relation to a company, means:
- (a) a full-time employee of the company; or
 - (b) a permanent part-time employee of the company; with at least 12 months service (whether continuous or non-continuous).
- (18D) For the purposes of the definition of permanent employee in subsection (18C), the period during which a person is engaged in service includes any period during which the person is, in accordance with the terms and conditions of that service:
- (a) absent on recreation leave, other than:
 - (i) long service leave, furlough, extended leave or leave of similar kind (however described); or
 - (ii) leave without pay or on reduced pay; or
 - (b) absent from work because of accident or illness.
- (18E) Nothing in section 170 prevents the amendment of an assessment at any time for the purposes of giving effect to paragraph (4A)(e).
- (19) Nothing in section 170 prevents the amendment of an assessment made in relation to a taxpayer if the amendment is made for the purpose of giving effect to subsection (8D) or (15C) and effects a reduction in the liability of the taxpayer.

26AAD The effect of 100% takeovers and restructures on the operation of section 26AAC

Treating acquisitions as continuations of existing shares etc.

- (1) To the extent that:
- (a) a taxpayer acquires:

- (i) shares in a company (the new company) that can reasonably be regarded as matching shares in another company (the old company) that the taxpayer had acquired under a scheme for the acquisition of shares by employees; or
- (ii) rights to acquire shares in a company (the new company) that can reasonably be regarded as matching rights in another company (the old company) that the taxpayer had acquired under a scheme for the acquisition of shares by employees; and

(b) the acquisition occurs in connection with a 100% takeover, or a restructure, of the old company; and then, if the conditions in subsections (3) to (5) are met, the matching shares or rights are treated, for the purposes of section 26AAC, as if they were a continuation of the shares or rights in the old company.

(c) as a result of the takeover or restructure, the taxpayer ceased to hold the shares or rights in the old company;

Note: In determining to what extent something can reasonably be regarded as matching shares or rights in the old company, one of the factors to consider is the respective market values of that thing and of those shares or rights.

Treating acquisitions as disposals of existing shares etc.

- (2) However, to the extent that, in connection with the takeover or restructure, the taxpayer acquires anything that:
 - (a) can reasonably be regarded as matching any shares or rights in the old company that the taxpayer had acquired under a scheme for the acquisition of shares by employees; but
 - (b) is not a matching share or right to which subsection (1) applies;

the taxpayer is treated, for the purposes of section 26AAC, as having disposed of shares, or disposed of rights (other than by exercising them), that the taxpayer held, under a scheme for the acquisition of shares by employees, in the old company immediately before the takeover or restructure.

Conditions for the continuation of shares or rights

- (3) The first condition is that, immediately before the takeover or restructure, the taxpayer held shares, or rights to acquire shares, in the old company under a scheme for the acquisition of shares by employees.

- (4) The second condition is that:
- (a) to the extent that the matching shares or rights are shares, they are ordinary shares; or
 - (b) to the extent that the matching shares or rights are rights, they are rights to acquire ordinary shares.
- (5) The third condition is that the matching shares or rights are subject to:
- (a) the same conditions or restrictions as; or
 - (b) conditions or restrictions that have the same effect as;
- the conditions or restrictions (if any) that attached to the shares or rights in the old company that they can reasonably be regarded as matching.

Apportionment rules

- (6) If:
- (a) subsection (1) applies to shares or rights that the taxpayer has acquired; and
 - (b) the taxpayer had paid or given consideration (the original consideration) for an acquisition, under a scheme for the acquisition of shares by employees, of any of the shares or rights in the old company (the original shares or rights);
- the taxpayer is treated as having paid or given, for any of the apportionable assets for the original shares or rights, consideration of an amount worked out by spreading the original consideration proportionately among all the apportionable assets according to their market values immediately after the takeover or restructure.
- (7) The apportionable assets for the original shares or rights are:
- (a) all matching shares or rights held by the taxpayer that are treated because of this section as a continuation of the original shares or rights; and
 - (b) anything else that the taxpayer acquired in connection with the takeover or restructure and that can reasonably be regarded as matching the original shares or rights; and
 - (c) in the case of a restructure—any shares or rights in the old company that the taxpayer held immediately before, and continues to hold immediately after, the restructure and that can reasonably be regarded as matching the original shares or rights.

26AB Assessable income—premium for lease

(1A) For the purposes of assessments for the 1997-98 year of income and later years of income, this section applies only in relation to assignments of leases granted before 20 September 1985.

Note: The Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 does not contain a rewritten version of this section.

For the 1998-99 year of income and later years of income, Parts 3-1 and 3-3 (about CGT) deal with the income tax treatment of premiums for:

- granting leases; and

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 2 Income

Section 26AB

- assigning leases granted on or after 20 September 1985.

For the 1997-98 year of income, former Part IIIA of this Act (about CGT) dealt with the income tax treatment of such premiums.

- (1) In this section, premium means a consideration payable in one amount, or each amount of a consideration payable in more than one amount, where the consideration is:
 - (a) in the nature of a premium, fine or foregift payable for or in connexion with the grant or assignment of a lease; or

- (2) Where, in the year of income, a taxpayer receives a premium that relates to the grant or assignment of a lease of property that was not, at the date on which the agreement to grant or assign the lease was made, or the assent to the grant or assignment of the lease was given, as the case may be, intended by the grantee or assignee to be used by the grantee or the assignee or some other person wholly or partly for the purpose of gaining or producing assessable income, the assessable income of the taxpayer shall include the premium.
- (3) Where, in the year of income, a taxpayer receives a premium that relates to the grant or assignment of a lease of property that was, at the date on which the agreement to grant or assign the lease was made, or the assent to the grant or assignment of the lease was given, as the case may be, intended by the grantee or assignee to be used by the grantee or assignee or some other person partly for the purpose of gaining or producing assessable income and partly for other purposes, the assessable income of the taxpayer shall include such part of the premium as the Commissioner considers may reasonably be attributed to the intended use of the property for purposes other than gaining or producing assessable income.
- (4) Where, in a case referred to in subsection (2) or (3), the taxpayer satisfies the Commissioner that, at the date on which the agreement to grant or assign the lease was made, or the assent to the grant or assignment of the lease was given, as the case may be, he believed on reasonable grounds that the grantee or assignee intended a particular use of the property by the grantee or assignee or some other person for the purpose of gaining or producing assessable income, the Commissioner may apply this section on the basis that that intention existed.

- (b) a premium received in connexion with the assignment of a lease of land granted under a law of a State or Territory relating to mining;

- (4) For the purposes of this section, but subject to subsection (5), a taxpayer shall be taken to have received an amount under or in relation to an eligible policy although the amount is not actually paid to the taxpayer but is re-invested or otherwise dealt with on his behalf or as he directs.
- (5) Subsection (4) does not apply in relation to an amount in relation to an eligible policy if the amount is re-invested or otherwise dealt with on behalf of the taxpayer or as the taxpayer directs so as to increase the amount that might reasonably be expected to be received under the eligible policy on a surrender or maturity of the eligible policy.
- (6) Where, during the eligible period in relation to an eligible policy, a taxpayer receives an amount (in this subsection referred to as the relevant amount) under the policy as or by way of a bonus, being an amount that, but for this section, would not be included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of any year of income, the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income in which the relevant amount is received shall include:

(9) Where:

- (a) otherwise than as or by way of a bonus, a taxpayer receives an amount (in this subsection referred to as the relevant amount) under an eligible policy; and

- (a) the amount of any consideration received by the taxpayer in respect of that sale or assignment shall be deemed to be an amount to which paragraph (9)(a) applies; and
 - (b) subsections (9) and (10) apply in relation to that consideration as if "represents" were omitted from paragraphs (9)(b) and (10)(a) and "is attributable" to were substituted.
- (13) Where the amount of the premiums payable under an eligible policy in relation to an assurance year (in this subsection referred to as the premium increase year) exceeds by more than 25% the amount of the premiums payable under the policy in relation to the immediately preceding assurance year, the eligible period in relation to the policy shall, for the purposes of:

- (2) If an eligible security is held by a person as trustee for another person who is absolutely entitled to the eligible security as against the trustee, this section applies as if the eligible security were vested in the other person and any acts of the trustee were the acts of that other person.
- (3) This section applies where:
- (a) under a written agreement of the kind known as a securities lending arrangement, being an agreement that was entered into after 9 May 1990:
 - (i) at a particular time (in this section called the original disposal time), a taxpayer (in this section called the lender) disposed of an eligible security (in this section called the borrowed security) to another taxpayer (in this section called the borrower); and

- (ii) at a later time (in this section called the re-acquisition time), being less than 12 months after the original disposal time, the lender:
 - (A) re-acquired the borrowed security (which re-acquired security is in this section called the replacement security) from the borrower; or
 - (B) acquired an identical security (which acquired security is in this section also called the replacement security) from the borrower; and
 - (b) both the borrower and the lender were dealing with each other at arm's length in relation to each of the transactions mentioned in paragraph (a); and
 - (c) if any of the following events occurred during the period (in this section called the borrowing period) commencing at the original disposal time and ending at the re-acquisition time:
 - (i) the making or payment of a distribution (whether in property or money) in respect of the borrowed security;
 - (ii) the issue, by the company, trustee, government or government authority concerned, of a right or option in respect of the borrowed security;

 - (A) the giving of a direction by the lender to the borrower to exercise the right or option; or
 - (B) the giving of a direction by the lender to the borrower to exercise an identical right or option;
- then (even if the event occurred after the borrowed security was disposed of by the borrower to a third party), the lender receives from the borrower, under the agreement:
- (iv) if subparagraph (i) applies:
 - (A) the distribution; or
 - (B) if the distribution is in property—identical property; or
 - (C) a payment (in this section called the compensatory payment) equal to the value to the lender of the distribution; or
 - (v) if subparagraph (ii) applies:
 - (A) the right or option; or
 - (B) an identical right or option; or

- (C) a payment (in this section also called the compensatory payment) equal to the value to the lender of the right or option; or
- (vi) if subparagraph (iii) applies:
 - (A) the shares, units, bonds, debentures or financial instruments that resulted from exercising the right or option; or
 - (B) shares, units, bonds, debentures or financial instruments that are identical to those that resulted from, or that would have resulted from, exercising the right or option; or
 - (C) a payment (in this section also called the compensatory payment) equal to the value to the lender of the shares, units, bonds, debentures or financial instruments that resulted from, or would have resulted from, exercising the right or option; and
- (d) if the total consideration payable or to be given by the borrower under the agreement consists of:
 - (i) the transfer of, or the promise to transfer, the replacement security or replacement securities concerned; and
 - (ii) other consideration (in this paragraph called the notifiable consideration);the agreement contains:
 - (iii) if the notifiable consideration is wholly covered by one of the following categories:
 - (A) a fee;
 - (B) an adjustment for variations in the market value of eligible securities;
 - (C) other consideration;a statement specifying the category concerned and setting out such information as will enable the amount or value of the notifiable consideration to be readily ascertained; or
 - (iv) if the notifiable consideration is covered by 2 or more of the following categories:
 - (A) a fee;

- (B) an adjustment for variations in the market value of eligible securities;
 - (C) other consideration;
a statement dissecting the notifiable consideration into those categories in such a manner as will enable the amount or value of each category to be readily ascertained; and
 - (e) the lender does not dispose of (by transfer, declaration of trust or otherwise) the right to receive any part of the total consideration payable or to be given by the borrower under the agreement.
- (3A) For the purposes of paragraph (3)(c), if, apart from this subsection, either of the following events occurred after the commencement of the borrowing period:
- (a) the making or payment of a distribution (whether in property or money) in respect of the borrowed security;
 - (b) the issue, by the company, trustee, government or government authority concerned, of a right or option in respect of the borrowed security;
- (even if the event occurred after the borrowed security was disposed of by the borrower to a third party), the event is taken to have occurred during the borrowing period if, and only if, (assuming that the borrower had held the borrowed security at all times during the borrowing period) the entitlement to the distribution or issue would have been attributable to the borrower's holding of the borrowed security at a particular time during the borrowing period.
- (4) In determining:
- (a) whether an amount (other than a fee payable under the securities lending arrangement) is included in the assessable income of the lender under a provision of this Act other than Part 3-1 or 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (about CGT); or
 - (b) whether an amount is allowable as a deduction to the lender; in respect of either or both of the transactions covered by paragraph (3)(a), the lender is to be treated as if:
 - (c) neither of those transactions had been entered into; and
 - (d) the lender had held the borrowed security at all times during the borrowing period; and

- (e) if the replacement security is not the borrowed security—the replacement security were the borrowed security.
- (4A) If the lender receives a compensatory payment covered by subparagraph (3)(c)(v)(C), then, in determining whether an amount is included in the assessable income of the lender under a provision of this Act other than Part 3-1 or 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, the lender is to be treated as if:
 - (a) the lender had held the borrowed security at all relevant times during the borrowing period; and
 - (b) the right or option had been issued directly to the lender in respect of the borrowed security; and
 - (c) the lender had disposed of the right or option immediately after its issue for a consideration equal to the compensatory payment.
- (4B) If the lender receives a compensatory payment covered by subparagraph (3)(c)(vi)(C), then, in determining whether an amount is included in the assessable income of the lender under a provision of this Act other than Part 3-1 or 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, the lender is to be treated as if:
 - (a) the lender had held the right or option at all relevant times during the borrowing period; and
 - (b) the lender had exercised the right or option; and
 - (c) the lender had immediately disposed of the shares, units, bonds, debentures or financial instruments that resulted from exercising the right or option for a consideration equal to the compensatory payment.
- (5) In determining:
 - (a) whether an amount is included in the assessable income of the borrower under a provision of this Act other than Part 3-1 or 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997; or
 - (b) an amount (other than a fee payable under the securities lending arrangement) is allowable as a deduction to the borrower;in respect of either or both of the transactions covered by paragraph (3)(a):
 - (c) if the borrowed security was disposed of by the borrower to a third party:

- (i) the borrower is to be treated as if the borrower had acquired the borrowed security from the lender for a consideration equal to the market value of the borrowed security at the time of its acquisition; and
 - (ii) the borrower is to be treated as if the borrower had disposed of the replacement security to the lender for a consideration equal to the market value of the borrowed security at the time of its acquisition from the lender; or
 - (d) in any other case—the borrower is to be treated as if neither of the transactions referred to in paragraph (3)(a) had been entered into.
- (6) Any capital gain or capital loss from the disposal of the borrowed security by the lender is disregarded.
- (6A) If the lender acquired the borrowed security before 20 September 1985, the lender is taken (for the purposes of Parts 3-1 and 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) to have acquired the replacement security before that day.
- (6B) If the lender acquired the borrowed security on or after 20 September 1985, the first element of the cost base of the replacement security is the cost base of the borrowed security just before the acquisition of the replacement security. The reduced cost base of the replacement security is worked out similarly.
- (7) If:
- (a) the borrowed security was acquired on or after 20 September 1985; and
 - (b) a CGT event (other than one involving a transaction covered by subsection (3)) happens in relation to the replacement security at least 12 months after the lender acquired a paired security in relation to the replacement security (otherwise than under a transaction covered by subsection (3));
- section 114-10 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (about the requirement for 12 months ownership) does not apply to the CGT event.
- (8) For the purposes of subsection (7):
- (a) if CGT event A1 happens (involving a transaction covered by subsection (3)) by the lender disposing of an eligible security to the borrower, that security is a paired security in relation to the replacement security subsequently acquired or re-acquired by the lender; and

- (b) a security is a paired security in relation to a second security if the first security is a paired security in relation to a third security that is a paired security in relation to the second security (including a pairing with the second security by another application or other applications of this paragraph).
- (9) For the purpose of applying Parts 3-1 and 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to the borrower:
- (a) if the borrower disposes of the borrowed security to a third party:
 - (i) the first element of the cost base and reduced cost base of the borrowed security (in the hands of the borrower) is taken to be its market value when the borrower acquired it; and
 - (ii) when the borrower disposes of a replacement security to the lender, the capital proceeds from that CGT event are taken to be that market value; and
 - (b) if no third party is involved—the transactions referred to in paragraph (3)(a) are ignored.
- (9A) For the purpose of applying Parts 3-1 and 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to the borrower, the incidental costs to the borrower of the acquisition of an eligible security covered by subparagraph (3)(a)(ii)(B) include a compensatory payment incurred by the borrower (to the extent that the borrower has not deducted and cannot deduct it).
- (9B) For the purposes of the application of Parts 3-1 and 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to a right or option received by the lender as mentioned in subparagraph (3)(c)(v), the borrower and lender are to be treated as if the eligible security in respect of which the right or option was issued had been held by the lender at the time of the acquisition of the right or option.
- (9C) For the purposes of the application of Parts 3-1 and 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to a share, unit, bond, debenture or financial instrument received by the lender as mentioned in subparagraph (3)(c)(vi), the borrower and the lender are to be treated as if:

 - (b) the borrowed security had been held by the lender at the time of the exercise; and
 - (c) the lender had exercised the borrowed security; and
 - (d) the lender had exercised the borrowed security at the time the direction concerned was given; and
 - (e) the amount of the contribution (if any) made by the lender to the borrower in respect of the carrying out of the direction were an amount paid as consideration by the lender in respect of the exercise.
- (9D) If a distribution covered by subparagraph (3)(c)(i) consists of one or more shares issued by a company to the borrower or to a third party in the circumstances mentioned in subsection 6BA(1), then, for the purposes of the application of Parts 3-1 and 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to a share (in this subsection called the notional bonus share) received by the lender in relation to the distribution in the circumstances mentioned in sub-subparagraph (3)(c)(iv)(A) or (B), the borrower and the lender are to be treated as if:
- (a) the company had issued the notional bonus share to the lender instead of the borrower or the third party, as the case requires; and
 - (b) the notional bonus share had been issued in the circumstances mentioned in subsection 6BA(1); and
 - (c) the notional bonus share had been issued in respect of the borrowed security; and
 - (d) the lender had held the borrowed security at the time the notional bonus share was issued.
- (9E) If a distribution covered by subparagraph (3)(c)(i) consists of one or more units issued by the trustee of a unit trust to the borrower or to a third party in the circumstances covered by section 130-20 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, then, for the purposes of the application of Parts 3-1 and 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to a unit (in this subsection called the notional bonus unit) received by the lender in relation to the distribution in the circumstances mentioned in sub-subparagraph (3)(c)(iv)(A) or (B), the borrower and the lender are to be treated as if:

- (a) the trustee had issued the notional bonus unit to the lender instead of the borrower or the third party, as the case requires; and
 - (b) the notional bonus unit had been issued in the circumstances covered by section 130-20 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997; and
 - (c) the notional bonus unit had been issued in respect of the borrowed security; and
 - (d) the lender had held the borrowed security at the time the notional bonus unit was issued.
- (9F) If the lender receives a compensatory payment covered by subparagraph (3)(c)(v)(C), then, for the purposes of the application of Parts 3-1 and 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to the lender, the lender is to be treated as if:
- (a) the lender had held the borrowed security at all relevant times during the borrowing period; and
 - (b) the right or option had been issued directly to the lender in respect of the borrowed security; and
 - (c) the lender had disposed of the right or option immediately after its issue and had received capital proceeds of an amount equal to the compensatory payment.
- (9G) If the lender receives a compensatory payment covered by subparagraph (3)(c)(vi)(C), then, for the purposes of the application of Parts 3-1 and 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to the lender, the lender is to be treated as if:
- (a) the lender had held the right or option at all relevant times during the borrowing period; and
 - (b) the lender had exercised the right or option; and
 - (c) the lender had immediately disposed of the shares, units, bonds, debentures or financial instruments that resulted from exercising the right or option and had received capital proceeds of an amount equal to the compensatory payment.
- (11A) If:
- (a) the lender receives from the borrower a distribution or identical property covered by subparagraph (3)(c)(iv); and
 - (b) assuming that the borrowed security had continued to be held by the lender, an amount (in this subsection called the otherwise assessable amount) would have been included in the lender's assessable income of a year of income in respect of the distribution concerned;

the lender's assessable income of the year of income includes an amount equal to the otherwise assessable amount.

(11B) If:

- (a) the lender receives from the borrower a compensatory payment covered by sub-subparagraph (3)(c)(iv)(C); and the lender's assessable income of the year of income includes an amount equal to the otherwise assessable amount.
- (b) assuming that the borrowed security had continued to be held by the lender, an amount (in this subsection called the otherwise assessable amount) would have been included in the lender's assessable income of a year of income in respect of the distribution concerned;

(12) Where:

- (a) a taxpayer has entered into a transaction of a kind referred to in subparagraph (3)(a)(i); and
- (b) at the time of making an assessment in respect of income of the taxpayer of the year of income in which the transaction occurred, the Commissioner is of the opinion that, at a later time, circumstances will exist because of which this section will apply in connection with that transaction;

the Commissioner may apply the provisions of this section as if those circumstances existed at the time of making the assessment.

(13) Where:

- (a) in the making of an assessment, this section has been applied on the basis that a circumstance that did not exist at the time of making the assessment would exist at a later time; and
- (b) after the making of the assessment, the Commissioner becomes satisfied that the circumstance will not exist;

then, in spite of anything in section 170, the Commissioner may amend the assessment at any time for the purpose of ensuring that this section is to be taken always to have applied on the basis that the circumstance did not exist.

This Subdivision has effect subject to the provisions of Division 216 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (which describes cum dividend sales in which a distribution to a member of a corporate tax entity is treated as having been made to someone else).

43B Application of Subdivision to non-share dividends

- (1) This Subdivision:
- (a) applies to a non-share equity interest in the same way as it applies to a share; and
 - (b) applies to an equity holder in the same way as it applies to a shareholder; and
 - (c) applies to a non-share dividend in the same way as it applies to a dividend.
- (2) Subsection (1) does not apply to section 47A.

- (3) Paragraph (1)(c) does not apply to subsection 44(1).
- (4) Subsection (1) has effect subject to the special provision that is made for non-share dividends in subsection 44(1).

44 Dividends

 - (a) if the shareholder is a resident:
 - (i) dividends (other than non-share dividends) that are paid to the shareholder by the company out of profits derived by it from any source; and
 - (ii) all non-share dividends paid to the shareholder by the company; and
 - (b) if the shareholder is a non-resident:
 - (i) dividends (other than non-share dividends) paid to the shareholder by the company to the extent to which they are paid out of profits derived by it from sources in Australia; and
 - (ii) non-share dividends paid to the shareholder by the company to the extent to which they are derived from sources in Australia; and
 - (c) if the shareholder is a non-resident carrying on business in Australia at or through a permanent establishment of the shareholder in Australia, and the company is a resident:

 - (ii) non-share dividends that are paid to the shareholder by the company and are attributable to the permanent establishment, to the extent to which they are derived from sources outside Australia.

This subsection does not apply to a dividend (or non-share dividend) to the extent to which another provision of this Act that expressly deals with dividends includes some or all of the dividend (or non-share dividend) in, or excludes some or all of the dividend (or non-share dividend) from, the shareholder's assessable income.

Note 1: Some of the other provisions of this Act that expressly deal with dividends are sections 23AJ, 23AI, 23AK and 128D.

the dividend shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to have been paid by the company out of profits derived by it.

(2) Subsections (3) and (4) apply to a demerger dividend unless the head entity elects in writing, within one month after it decides which of its shareholders will receive ownership interests in the demerged entity under the demerger, that those subsections do not apply to the total demerger dividend for all shareholders.

(3) This section applies to the demerger dividend as if it had not been paid out of profits.

(4) A demerger dividend is not assessable income or exempt income.

(5) However, subsections (3) and (4) do not apply to a demerger dividend unless, just after the demerger, CGT assets owned by the demerged entity or a demerger subsidiary representing at least 50% by market value of all the CGT assets (or a reasonable approximation of market value) owned by the demerged entity and its demerger subsidiaries are used, directly or indirectly, in one or more businesses carried on by one or more of those entities.

 - (b) some or all of the shareholders who do not receive the shares receive or will receive minimally franked dividends.
- (2) The value of the share at the time that the shareholder is provided with the share is taken, for the purposes of this Act, to be a dividend that is unfrankable (within the meaning of subsection 995-1(1) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) and that is paid by the company, out of profits of the company, to the shareholder at that time.
- (3) A dividend is minimally franked if it is not franked, or is franked to less than 10%, in accordance with section 202-5 or 208-60 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

45A Streaming of dividends and capital benefits

Application of section

- (1) This section applies in respect of a company that, whether in the same year of income or in different years of income, streams the provision of capital benefits and the payment of dividends to its shareholders in such a way that:
 - (a) the capital benefits are, or apart from this section would be, received by shareholders (the advantaged shareholders) who would, in the year of income in which the capital benefits are provided, derive a greater benefit from the capital benefits than other shareholders; and

- (b) it is reasonable to assume that the other shareholders (the disadvantaged shareholders) have received, or will receive, dividends.

However, it does not apply if section 45 applies in relation to the streaming or in the circumstances set out in subsection (5).

Commissioner to determine that section 45C applies

- (2) The Commissioner may make, in writing, a determination that section 45C applies in relation to the whole, or a part, of the capital benefits. A determination does not form part of an assessment.

Note: Subsection (6) limits the determination to a part of the capital benefit in certain cases.

Meaning of provision of capital benefit

- (3) A reference to the provision of a capital benefit to a shareholder in a company is a reference to any of the following:
 - (a) the provision to the shareholder of shares in the company;
 - (b) the distribution to the shareholder of share capital or share premium;
 - (c) something that is done in relation to a share that has the effect of increasing the value of a share (which may or may not be the same share) held by the shareholder.
- (3A) For the purposes of this section, a non-share distribution to an equity holder is taken to be the distribution to the equity holder of share capital to the extent to which it is a non-share capital return.

Meaning of greater benefit from capital benefits

- (4) The circumstances in which a shareholder would, in a year of income, derive a greater benefit from capital benefits than another shareholder include, but are not limited to, any of the following circumstances existing in relation to the first shareholder and not in relation to the other shareholder:
 - (a) some or all of the shares in the company held by the shareholder were acquired, or are taken to have been acquired, before 20 September 1985;
 - (b) the shareholder is a non-resident;

Section 45B

- (c) the cost base (for the purposes of Part IIIA) of the relevant share is not substantially less than the value of the applicable capital benefit;
- (d) the shareholder has a net capital loss for the year of income in which this capital benefit is provided;
- (e) the shareholder is a private company who would not have been entitled to a rebate under former section 46F if the shareholder had received the dividend that was paid to the disadvantaged shareholder;
- (f) the shareholder has income tax losses.

Certain capital benefits not covered

- (5) This section does not apply where the capital benefit provided to the advantaged shareholders is the provision of shares and it is reasonable to assume that the disadvantaged shareholders have received, or will receive, fully franked dividends.

Determination limited in certain cases

- (6) If the capital benefit provided to the advantaged shareholders is the provision of shares and it is reasonable to assume that the disadvantaged shareholders have received, or will receive, partly franked dividends, the Commissioner may only make a determination under subsection (2) in relation to so much of the capital benefit as the Commissioner considers relates to the unfranked part of the dividend.

45B Schemes to provide certain benefits

Purpose of section

- (1) The purpose of this section is to ensure that relevant amounts are treated as dividends for taxation purposes if:
 - (a) components of a demerger allocation as between capital and profit do not reflect the circumstances of a demerger; or
 - (b) certain payments, allocations and distributions are made in substitution for dividends.

Application of section

- (2) This section applies if:

- (a) there is a scheme under which a person is provided with a demerger benefit or a capital benefit by a company; and
- (b) under the scheme, a taxpayer (the relevant taxpayer), who may or may not be the person provided with the demerger benefit or the capital benefit, obtains a tax benefit; and
- (c) having regard to the relevant circumstances of the scheme, it would be concluded that the person, or one of the persons, who entered into or carried out the scheme or any part of the scheme did so for a purpose (whether or not the dominant purpose but not including an incidental purpose) of enabling a taxpayer (the relevant taxpayer) to obtain a tax benefit.

Commissioner to determine that section 45BA or 45C applies

- (3) The Commissioner may make, in writing, a determination that:
 - (a) section 45BA applies in relation to the whole, or a part, of the demerger benefit; or
 - (b) section 45C applies in relation to the whole, or a part, of the capital benefit.

A determination does not form part of an assessment.

Note: If section 45BA applies in relation to the whole, or a part, of a demerger benefit, this benefit may be a capital benefit.

Meaning of provided with a demerger benefit

- (4) A person is provided with a demerger benefit if in relation to a demerger:
 - (a) a company provides the person with ownership interests in that or another company; or
 - (b) something is done in relation to an ownership interest owned by the person that has the effect of increasing the value of an ownership interest (which may or may not be the same ownership interest) owned by the person.

Meaning of provided with a capital benefit

- (5) A reference to a person being provided with a capital benefit is a reference to any of the following:
 - (a) the provision of ownership interests in a company to the person;
 - (b) the distribution to the person of share capital or share premium;

Section 45B

- (c) something that is done in relation to an ownership interest that has the effect of increasing the value of an ownership interest (which may or may not be the same interest) that is held by the person.
- (6) However, a person is not provided with a capital benefit to the extent that the provision of interests, the distribution or the thing done referred to in subsection (5) involves the person receiving a demerger dividend.
- (7) For the purposes of this section, a non-share distribution to an equity holder is taken to be the distribution to the equity holder of share capital to the extent to which it is a non-share capital return.

Meaning of relevant circumstances of scheme

- (8) The relevant circumstances of a scheme include:
 - (a) the extent to which the demerger benefit or capital benefit is attributable to capital or the extent to which the demerger benefit or capital benefit is attributable to profits (realised and unrealised) of the company or of an associate (within the meaning in section 318) of the company;
 - (b) the pattern of distributions of dividends, bonus shares and returns of capital or share premium by the company or by an associate (within the meaning in section 318) of the company;
 - (c) whether the relevant taxpayer has capital losses that, apart from the scheme, would be carried forward to a later year of income;
 - (d) whether some or all of the ownership interests in the company or in an associate (within the meaning in section 318) of the company held by the relevant taxpayer were acquired, or are taken to have been acquired, by the relevant taxpayer before 20 September 1985;
 - (e) whether the relevant taxpayer is a non-resident;
 - (f) whether the cost base (for the purposes of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) of the relevant ownership interest is not substantially less than the value of the applicable demerger benefit or capital benefit;
 - (h) if the scheme involves the distribution of share capital or share premium—whether the interest held by the relevant taxpayer after the distribution is the same as the interest

- would have been if an equivalent dividend had been paid instead of the distribution of share capital or share premium;
- (i) if the scheme involves the provision of ownership interests and the later disposal of those interests, or an increase in the value of ownership interests and the later disposal of those interests:
 - (i) the period for which the ownership interests are held by the holder of the interests; and
 - (ii) when the arrangement for the disposal of the ownership interests was entered into;
 - (j) for a demerger only:
 - (i) whether the profits of the demerging entity and demerged entity are attributable to transactions between the entity and an associate (within the meaning in section 318) of the entity; and
 - (ii) whether the assets of the demerging entity and demerged entity were acquired under transactions between the entity and an associate (within the meaning in section 318) of the entity;
 - (k) any of the matters referred to in subparagraphs 177D(b)(i) to (viii).

*Meaning of obtaining a tax benefit

- (9) A relevant taxpayer obtains a tax benefit if an amount of tax payable, or any other amount payable under this Act, by the relevant taxpayer would, apart from this section, be less than the amount that would have been payable, or would be payable at a later time than it would have been payable, if the demerger benefit had been an assessable dividend or the capital benefit had been a dividend.

Expressions to have same meanings as in Part IIIAA

- (10) Expressions used in this section that are defined in Part IIIAA have the same meanings as in that Part.

45BA Effect of determinations under section 45B for demerger benefits

- (1) If the Commissioner makes a determination under subsection 45B(3), the amount of the demerger benefit, or the part of the benefit, is taken not to be a demerger dividend for the purposes of this Act for the owner of the ownership interest or the relevant taxpayer at the time when the owner or relevant taxpayer is provided with the demerger benefit.

- (2) The amount of the demerger benefit is:
- (a) if the benefit is the provision of an ownership interest—the market value of the interest at the time that it is provided; or
 - (b) if the benefit is an increase in the value of an ownership interest—the increase in the market value of the interest as a result of the change; or
 - (c) if the benefit is a distribution to the shareholder of share capital or share premium—the amount debited to the share capital account or share premium account of the company in connection with the provision of the benefit.

45C Effect of determinations under sections 45A and 45B for capital benefits

- (1) If the Commissioner makes a determination under subsection 45A(2) or 45B(3), the amount of the capital benefit, or the part of the benefit, is taken, for the purposes of this Act, to be an unfranked dividend that is paid by the company to the shareholder or relevant taxpayer at the time that the shareholder or relevant taxpayer is provided with the capital benefit.
- (2) The dividend is taken to have been paid out of profits of the company.
- (3) If the Commissioner has made a determination under section 45B in respect of the whole or a part of a capital benefit and the Commissioner makes a further written determination that the capital benefit, or the part of the capital benefit, was paid under a scheme for which a purpose, other than an incidental purpose, was to avoid franking debits arising in relation to the distribution from the company:
- (a) on the day on which notice of the determination is served in writing on the company, a class C franking debit of the company arises in respect of the capital benefit; and
 - (b) the amount of the franking debit is the amount that, if the company had paid a dividend of an amount equal to the amount of the capital benefit, or the part of the capital benefit, at the time when it was provided and had fully franked the dividend, would have been the franked amount of the dividend.

- (4) The amount of the capital benefit is:
- (a) if the benefit is the provision of an ownership interest—the market value of the interest at the time that it is provided; or
 - (b) if the benefit is an increase in the market value of an ownership interest—the increase in the market value of the interest as a result of the change; or
 - (c) if the benefit is a distribution to the shareholder of share capital or share premium—the amount debited to the share capital account or share premium account of the company in connection with the provision of the benefit.
- (4A) For the purposes of this section:
- (a) a non-share distribution to an equity holder is taken to be the distribution to the equity holder of share capital to the extent to which it is a non-share capital return; and
 - (b) the debit to the company's non-share capital account, in respect of the non-share distribution, is taken to be a debit to the company's share capital account.

Franking debit to be reduced by any franking debit under former section 160AQCB, 160AQCNA or 160AQCNB

- (5) If:
- (a) a franking debit of the company arises under paragraph (3)(b) in respect of a capital benefit; and
 - (b) a franking debit of the company arises under former section 160AQCB, 160AQCNA or 160AQCNB in respect of the same capital benefit;
- the amount of the franking debit arising under paragraph (3)(b) is reduced by the amount of the franking debit arising under that former section.

Expressions to have same meanings as in Part IIIAA

- (6) Expressions used in this section that are defined in Part IIIAA have the same meanings as in that Part.

45D Determinations under sections 45A, 45B and 45C

Notice by Commissioner of determination

- (1) If the Commissioner makes a determination under section 45A, 45B or 45C, the Commissioner must give a copy of the determination to the company concerned (which, in the case of a demerger benefit referred to in section 45B, is the head entity of the demerger group). The notice may be included in a notice of assessment.

Notice by company of determination

- (1A) That company must, in the case of a determination under section 45A or 45B, give a copy of the notice to:
- (a) the advantaged shareholder referred to in section 45A; or
 - (b) the relevant taxpayer referred to in section 45B.

Publication in national newspaper of determination in relation to listed public company

- (2) If the Commissioner makes a determination referred to in paragraph (1)(b), in respect of a dividend paid by a listed public company within the meaning of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, the Commissioner is taken to have served notice in writing of the determination on the advantaged shareholder if the Commissioner causes the notice to be published in a daily newspaper that circulates generally in each State, the Australian Capital Territory and the Northern Territory. The notice is taken to have been served on the day on which the publication takes place.

Evidence of determination

- (3) The production of:
- (a) a notice of a determination; or
 - (b) a document signed by the Commissioner, a Second Commissioner or a Deputy Commissioner purporting to be a copy of a determination;
- is conclusive evidence of:
- (c) the due making of the determination; and

- (d) except in proceedings under Part IVC of the Taxation Administration Act 1953 on an appeal or review relating to the determination, that the determination is correct.

Objections

- (4) If a taxpayer to whom a determination relates is dissatisfied with the determination, the taxpayer may object against it in the manner set out in Part IVC of the Taxation Administration Act 1953.

46FA Deduction for dividends on-paid to non-resident owner

Allowable deduction

- (1) An amount is allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of a company (the resident company) if:
- (a) the resident company is paid a dividend (the original dividend) that:
 - (i) is paid by a company that is a resident; and
 - (ii) is a non-portfolio dividend; and
 - (iii) is not a fully-franked dividend; and
 - (b) the resident company is not a group company in relation to the company that paid the original dividend in relation to the year of income in which the dividend is paid; and
 - (ba) neither the resident company, nor the company that pays the dividend, is a prescribed dual resident; and
 - (c) ignoring the amendments made by Schedule 1 to the Tax Laws Amendment (Repeal of Inoperative Provisions) Act 2006, but for subsection 46AB(1) or 46AC(2) or subparagraph 46F(2)(a)(i) of this Act as in force just before the commencement of those amendments, the resident company would have been entitled to a rebate under section 46 of this Act as so in force in respect of the unfranked amount of the original dividend; and
 - (d) the resident company pays a dividend (the flow-on dividend) to a company that is not a resident (the non-resident company); and
 - (e) the flow-on dividend is not a fully-franked dividend; and
 - (f) the resident company declares that the unfranked amount of the flow-on dividend is an on-payment of the unfranked amount of the original dividend to the extent of a specified percentage (not exceeding 100%); and

- (g) when the original dividend is paid, when the declaration is made and when the flow-on dividend is paid, the resident company is:
- (i) a resident; and
 - (ii) wholly owned by the non-resident company.

The deduction is from assessable income of the year of income in which the flow-on dividend is paid. The amount of the deduction is equal to the flow-on amount worked out using subsection (2).

- (2) The flow-on amount is:

$$\text{Percentage specified under paragraph (1)(f)} \times \text{Unfranked amount of the flow-on dividend}$$

Flow-on declarations

- (3) The declaration under paragraph (1)(f) (the flow-on declaration) must be made:
- (a) in writing; and
 - (b) before the flow-on dividend is paid.

The declaration cannot be revoked or varied.

- (4) The flow-on declaration is effective only to the extent to which the flow-on amount does not exceed the surplus in the resident company's unfranked non-portfolio dividend account immediately before the declaration is made.

Note: See section 46FB for the unfranked non-portfolio dividend account.

Unfranked amount of flow-on dividend unfrankable

- (5) Part 3-6 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (the imputation system) applies to the unfranked amount of the flow-on dividend as if it were an unfrankable distribution within the meaning of section 202-45 of that Act if a deduction is allowed to the resident company in relation to the flow-on dividend.

Wholly owned by non-resident company

- (6) The resident company is wholly owned by the non-resident company if all the shares in the resident company are held by and beneficially owned by the non-resident company.

- (7) However, the company is not wholly owned by the non-resident company if a person is in a position to affect rights, in relation to the resident company, of the non-resident company.
- (8) The resident company is also not wholly owned by the non-resident company if at some future time a person will be in a position to affect rights as described in subsection (7).

A person in a position to affect rights

- (9) A person is in a position to affect rights of a company in relation to another company if the person has a right, power or option:
 - (a) to acquire those rights from one or other of those companies;
or
 - (b) to do something that would prevent one or other of those companies from exercising its rights for its own benefit, or from receiving any benefit arising from having those rights.
- (10) It does not matter whether the person has the right, power or option because of the constitution of one or other of those companies, any agreement or otherwise.

47 Distributions by liquidator

- (1) Distributions to shareholders of a company by a liquidator in the course of winding-up the company, to the extent to which they represent income derived by the company (whether before or during liquidation) other than income which has been properly applied to replace a loss of paid-up share capital, shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be dividends paid to the shareholders by the company out of profits derived by it.
- (1A) A reference in subsection (1) to income derived by a company includes a reference to:
- (a) an amount (except a net capital gain) included in the company's assessable income for a year of income; or
 - (b) a net capital gain that would be included in the company's assessable income for a year of income if the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 required a net capital gain to be worked out as follows:

Method statement

- Step 1. Work out each capital gain (except a capital gain that is disregarded) that the company made during that year of income. Do so without indexing any amount used to work out the cost base of a CGT asset.
- Step 2. Total the capital gain or gains worked out under Step 1. The result is the net capital gain for that year of income.

- (2) Those distributions shall, to the extent to which they are made out of any profits or income, be deemed to have been paid wholly and exclusively out of those profits or that income.

(2A) Where:

- (a) the business of a company has been, or is in the course of being, discontinued otherwise than in the course of a winding up of the company under any law relating to companies;

the distribution shall, subject to subsection (2B), be deemed to be, for the purposes of this section, a distribution to the shareholders by a liquidator in the course of winding up the company.

(2B) Where:

- (a) subsection (2A) would, but for this subsection, apply in relation to any moneys or other property of a company distributed to shareholders of the company; and
- (b) the company does not cease to exist within a period of 3 years after the distribution, or within such further period as the Commissioner allows;

subsection (2A) shall not apply, and shall be deemed never to have applied, in relation to those moneys or that other property, and those moneys or that other property so distributed shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be dividends paid by the company to the shareholders out of profits derived by it.

- (3) For the purposes of this section, paid-up share capital includes capital which has been paid up in money or by other valuable consideration and which has been cancelled and has not been repaid by the company to the shareholders.

 - (d) the first company is a resident of an unlisted country at the distribution time;

- (e) to the recipient of the benefit as a shareholder in the first company; and
 - (f) out of profits derived by the first company; and
 - (g) at the distribution time.

 - (i) the taxpayer's return of income for the year of income was not prepared on the basis that the distribution payment had the consequence specified in subsection (1);

- (ii) the taxpayer has not notified the Commissioner, in writing, within 12 months after the end of the year of income, that the distribution payment had the consequence specified in subsection (1);

that subsection has effect in relation to the taxpayer and in relation to that distribution payment as if the reference in that subsection to the purposes of this Act were a reference to the purposes of this Act (other than section 365 of this Act and Division 770 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997).

- (4) Where the first company entered into an undertaking to make one or more arrangement transfers, the time of the arrangement transfers is the time the undertaking was entered into.
- (5) Where, at a particular time, an entity (in this subsection called the provider) waives or releases the obligation of another entity (in this subsection called the recipient) to pay or repay to the provider an amount:
 - (a) the waiver or release is taken to constitute an eligible benefit provided at that time by the provider to the recipient; and

 - (i) if the eligible benefit was provided by the first company—the time of the provision of the eligible benefit; or
 - (ii) in any other case—the time, or each of the times, of the arrangement transfers concerned;
- (c) if the eligible benefit is a distribution benefit in relation to the first company—the distribution payment in relation to the distribution time is:

 - (i) if the benefit was provided by the first company—the time of the provision of the benefit; or
 - (ii) in any other case—the time, or each of the times, of the arrangement transfers concerned;
 - (f) if the eligible benefit is a distribution benefit in relation to the first company—the distribution payment in relation to the distribution time is:
 - (i) if the benefit was provided by the first company—the amount of the loan; or
 - (ii) in any other case—so much of the amount or market value of the arrangement transfer as is attributable to the provision of the eligible benefit.
- (8) Where, at a particular time:
- (a) an entity (in this subsection called the provider) acquires from a company (in this subsection called the recipient):
 - (i) a share in the recipient;
 - (ii) a right to acquire a share in the recipient;

- (a) the period for which the taxpayer owned the property before the repairs were commenced and any part of that period during which this section applies or applied to the property in relation to the taxpayer; and it for use, for the purpose of producing assessable income, or in carrying on a business for that purpose.

 - (b) a deduction was taken into account in calculating that net income or partnership loss;
 - (c) the deduction or a part of the deduction (which deduction or part of the deduction, as the case may be, is referred to in this subsection as the relevant deduction) would not have been taken into account for the purpose of that calculation if this section applied in relation to particular property acquired or constructed by the partnership;

- (d) this section does not apply in relation to the property by reason only that the property was acquired by the partnership under a contract entered into at or before the prescribed time or was constructed by the partnership, construction having commenced at or before that time; and
- (e) the taxpayer became a partner in the partnership under a contract entered into by the taxpayer after the prescribed time;

there shall be included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of the relevant year of income an amount that bears to the amount of the relevant deduction the same proportion as the individual interest of the taxpayer in that net income bears to that net income or, as the case requires, as the individual interest of the taxpayer in that partnership loss bears to that partnership loss.

(20) Where:

- (a) the individual interest of a taxpayer in the net income of a partnership has been or is to be included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of a year of income (in this subsection referred to as the relevant year of income), or the individual interest of a taxpayer in a partnership loss has been allowed or is allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the taxpayer of a year of income (in this subsection also referred to as the relevant year of income);

- (c) the deduction or a part of the deduction (which deduction or part of the deduction, as the case may be, is referred to in this subsection as the relevant deduction) would not have been taken into account for the purpose of that calculation if this section applied in relation to particular property acquired or constructed by the partnership;

- (g) by reason of making or agreeing to make the additional contribution, the individual interest of the taxpayer in that net income or partnership loss, being that individual interest expressed as a fraction of the aggregate of the individual interests of the partners in that net income or partnership loss, is greater than it would otherwise have been;

there shall be included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of the relevant year of income an amount ascertained in accordance with the formula $A(B - C)$, where:

A is the amount of the relevant deduction.

B is the individual interest of the taxpayer in that net income or partnership loss, being that individual interest expressed as a fraction of the aggregate of the individual interests of the partners in that net income or partnership loss; and

C is the fraction that would be B if another partner, and not the taxpayer, had made or agreed to make the additional contribution.

- (b) no other deduction under any provision of this Act is allowable to the taxpayer for the expense.
- (2) The register percentage is the percentage worked out using the formula:

where:

Total deductions for register meal entertainment means the total of deductions that would (but for this section and section 51AEA) be allowable to the taxpayer for expenses incurred by the taxpayer in providing meal entertainment in the 12 week period covered by the register kept by the employer under Subdivision C of Division 9A of the Fringe Benefits Tax Assessment Act 1986.

- (e) it would be concluded that, in calculating the amount of the recipients interest, or the amount of the recipients contribution, as the case may be, the provider or the employer made an allowance for a particular level of application or use of the benefit in producing assessable income of the taxpayer; and
- (f) it would be concluded that the amount of the recipients interest, or the amount of the recipients contribution, as the case may be, would have been greater if it had been calculated without making that allowance;

the following provisions have effect:

- (a) a loss is incurred by a taxpayer upon the sale of property (in this subsection referred to as the relevant property); and
 - (b) the taxpayer is deemed to have acquired the relevant property for the purpose of profit-making by sale by virtue of the application of subsection 25A(6) in accordance with subparagraph (b)(ii) of that subsection;
- the deduction that would, but for this subsection, be allowable to the taxpayer under subsection (1) in respect of the loss shall be reduced by such amount (if any) as the Commissioner considers reasonable having regard to the extent to which the relevant property is attributable to the interest in property that was acquired by the taxpayer for the purpose of profit-making by sale as mentioned in that subparagraph.
- (5) A deduction is not allowable to a taxpayer under subsection (1) in respect of a loss incurred by the taxpayer upon the sale of property if:

- (b) the Commissioner considers that it would be unreasonable that the whole of that expenditure be taken into account for those purposes;

that expenditure shall be taken into account for those purposes to the extent only that the Commissioner considers that it is reasonable in the circumstances that the expenditure be taken into account for those purposes.

(2A) Where:

- (a) prescribed property that was acquired by a taxpayer after 24 September 1978 and before the commencement of this subsection or is acquired after the commencement of this subsection was or is treated or used by the taxpayer as an asset of a business carried on by the taxpayer;
- (b) but for this subsection, a deduction would be allowable to the taxpayer in respect of the value of that property; and
- (c) the Commissioner considers that it would be unreasonable that a deduction be allowable to the taxpayer in respect of the value of the property to the extent to which, but for this subsection, a deduction would be allowable to the taxpayer in respect of the value of the property;

a deduction shall be allowable to the taxpayer in respect of the value of the property to the extent only that the Commissioner considers that it is reasonable in the circumstances that a deduction be allowable to the taxpayer in respect of that value.

(2B) Where:

(a) the value of any prescribed property that:

- (i) was acquired by a taxpayer after 24 September 1978 and before the commencement of this subsection or is acquired after the commencement of this subsection; and
- (ii) was or is used by the taxpayer in the carrying on or carrying out of any profit-making undertaking or scheme;

would, but for this subsection, be taken into account for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not any profit arose, or any loss was incurred, from the carrying on or the carrying out of the undertaking or scheme and for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of any such profit or loss; and

(b) the Commissioner considers that it would be unreasonable that the value of the property be taken into account for those purposes to the extent to which the value would, but for this subsection, be taken into account for those purposes;

the value of the property shall be taken into account for those purposes to the extent only that the Commissioner considers that it is reasonable in the circumstances that that value be taken into account for those purposes.

(3) In forming an opinion for the purposes of subsection (1) or (2A) as to the extent to which it is reasonable that a deduction be allowable to a taxpayer in respect of expenditure incurred in the purchase or acquisition of prescribed property or in respect of the value of prescribed property, as the case may be, or in forming an opinion for the purposes of subsection (2) or (2B) as to the extent to which it is reasonable that expenditure incurred by a taxpayer in the purchase or acquisition of prescribed property should be taken into account for the purposes referred to in subsection (2) or that the value of prescribed property should be taken into account for the purposes referred to in subsection (2B), as the case may be:

(a) if the taxpayer expended moneys in purchasing or acquiring the prescribed property—the Commissioner shall have regard to the circumstances in which, and the person or persons from whom, the taxpayer obtained moneys:

- (i) that were expended by the taxpayer in purchasing or acquiring the prescribed property; or
 - (ii) that, in the opinion of the Commissioner, were obtained by, or paid to, the taxpayer to enable the taxpayer to expend moneys in purchasing or acquiring the prescribed property;
- (b) if the taxpayer borrowed from another person (in this paragraph referred to as the lender) moneys that were expended by the taxpayer in purchasing or acquiring the prescribed property or moneys that, in the opinion of the Commissioner, were obtained by, or paid to, the taxpayer to enable the taxpayer to expend moneys in purchasing or acquiring the prescribed property—the Commissioner shall have regard to:
- (i) the circumstances in which, and the terms and conditions on which, the taxpayer borrowed those moneys from the lender; and
 - (ii) whether, in the opinion of the Commissioner, the taxpayer and the lender were dealing with each other at arm's length in connexion with the borrowing of those moneys by the taxpayer;
- (c) if, either before or after the purchase or acquisition of the prescribed property by the taxpayer, an agreement or arrangement (whether or not enforceable by legal proceedings and whether or not intended to be so enforceable) was entered into, or an understanding was reached, as a result of which there has been, or there could reasonably be expected to be, a substantial reduction in the value of the prescribed property—the Commissioner shall have regard to that agreement, arrangement or understanding;
- (d) if the purchase or acquisition of the prescribed property by the taxpayer arose out of, or was made in the course of, a transaction, operation, undertaking, scheme or arrangement that was entered into or carried out for the purpose, or for purposes that included the purpose, of securing that a person who, if the transaction, operation, undertaking, scheme or arrangement, had not been entered into or carried out, would have been liable to pay income tax in respect of a year of income would not be liable to pay income tax in respect of that year of income or would be liable to pay less income tax in respect of that year of income than that person would have been liable to pay if the transaction, operation, undertaking, scheme or arrangement had not been entered into or carried out—the Commissioner shall have regard to that transaction, operation, undertaking, scheme or arrangement;

- (e) if the purchase or acquisition of the prescribed property by the taxpayer arose out of, or was made in the course of, a transaction, operation, undertaking, scheme or arrangement that the Commissioner is satisfied was by way of dividend stripping or was similar to a transaction, operation, undertaking, scheme or arrangement by way of dividend stripping—the Commissioner shall have regard to that transaction, operation, undertaking, scheme or arrangement;
- (f) if:
 - (i) the purchase or acquisition of the prescribed property by the taxpayer arose out of, or was made in the course of, a transaction, operation, undertaking, scheme or arrangement under which, or in the course of which, money was to be paid, or other property was to be transferred or made available by a person other than the taxpayer, whether before or after the purchase or acquisition of the prescribed property, to the taxpayer, to the taxpayer and a person or persons other than the taxpayer or to a person or persons other than the taxpayer;
 - (ii) the Commissioner is satisfied that the amount of money so to be paid, or the value of the property so to be transferred or made available, as the case may be, was to be not less than, or not substantially less than, the amount expended by the taxpayer in the purchase or acquisition of the prescribed property;

the Commissioner shall have regard to the fact that the purchase or acquisition of the prescribed property by the taxpayer arose out of, or was made in the course of such a transaction, operation, undertaking, scheme or arrangement;

- (g) if the purchase or acquisition of the prescribed property by the taxpayer arose out of, or was made in the course of, a transaction, operation, undertaking, scheme or arrangement under which, or in the course of which, other prescribed property was to be issued or allotted by a company (whether to the taxpayer or any other person or persons) and it could reasonably be expected that, as a result of the issue or allotment of that other prescribed property, the value of the prescribed property purchased or acquired by the taxpayer would be substantially reduced—the Commissioner shall have regard to that transaction, operation, undertaking, scheme or arrangement;

- (h) if the purchase or acquisition of the prescribed property by the taxpayer arose out of, or was made in the course of, a transaction, operation, undertaking, scheme or arrangement under which, or in the course of which, rights in respect of the prescribed property or in respect of other prescribed property (whether that other prescribed property had been issued or allotted before the time of the purchase or acquisition by the taxpayer of the first-mentioned prescribed property or was to be issued or allotted at a later time) were to be withdrawn or varied and it could reasonably be expected that, as a result of a withdrawal or variation of those rights, the value of the prescribed property purchased or acquired by the taxpayer would be substantially reduced—the Commissioner shall have regard to that transaction, operation, undertaking, scheme or arrangement; and
- (j) the Commissioner shall have regard to any other matters that he considers relevant.

(4) In this section, prescribed property means any chose in action.

(4A) In the preceding provisions of this section, references to the value of any prescribed property shall, unless the contrary intention appears, be read as including references to part of the value of that prescribed property.

(5) For the purposes of this section:

- (a) a person to whom prescribed property is issued or allotted by a company shall be taken to have acquired that prescribed property;
- (b) a person upon whom prescribed property devolves by reason of the death of a person shall be taken to have acquired that prescribed property; and
- (c) a person in whom prescribed property vests by the operation of any trust or the exercise of any power under a trust shall be taken to have acquired that prescribed property.

- (6) The reference in paragraph (3)(b) to terms and conditions shall be read as including a reference to implied terms and conditions and to terms and conditions that are not enforceable by legal proceedings whether or not they were intended to be so enforceable.
- (7) Where, by virtue of the application of the preceding provisions of this section, the amount (in this subsection referred to as the relevant amount) of the deduction that is allowable to a taxpayer in respect of losses or outgoings incurred by the taxpayer in the purchase or acquisition of prescribed property is less than the amount of those losses and outgoings, the cost of that prescribed property shall, for the purposes of the application of Divisions 70 (Trading stock) and 385 (Primary production) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in relation to that property in relation to the taxpayer, be taken to be an amount that is the same as the relevant amount.
- (8) References in this section to expenditure incurred by a taxpayer in the purchase or acquisition of any prescribed property shall, in the case of prescribed property being a share or stock in the capital of a company, be read as including references to any payment made or other consideration given by the taxpayer to the company in respect of the prescribed property, whether as a payment of unpaid capital in respect of the prescribed property or otherwise and whether on application for or allotment of the prescribed property, to meet calls or otherwise.
- (9) Subsection (8) applies to a non-share equity interest in the same way as it applies to a share.

63 Bad debts

Where a debt in respect of the whole or a part of a payment that has, or will, become liable to be made under a qualifying security within the meaning of Division 16E is written off as a bad debt by a taxpayer during a year of income, then, for the purposes of paragraph 25-35(1)(a) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, there is taken to have been included in the taxpayer's assessable income of a year of income so much of the debt as equals the amount (if any) ascertained in accordance with the formula $A - B$, where:

A is the amount (if any) or the sum of the amounts (if any) included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of any year or years of income under section 159GQ that is or are attributable to the payment or to the part of the payment, as the case requires; and

B is the amount (if any) or the sum of the amounts (if any) allowable as a deduction or deductions from the assessable income of the taxpayer of any year or years of income under section 159GQ that is or are attributable to the payment or to the part of the payment, as the case requires.

63D Bad debts etc. of money-lenders not allowable deductions where attributable to listed country or unlisted country branches

- (1) Subject to section 63F, if:
- (a) apart from this section and section 63F, a deduction would be allowable to a taxpayer:
 - (i) under section 8-1 or 25-35 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in respect of the writing off of a debt as bad; or
 - (ii) under section 63E of this Act in respect of a debt/equity swap in relation to a debt; and
 - (b) the debt was created or acquired in the ordinary course of a money-lending business of the taxpayer who carries on that business; and
 - (c) during any part or parts (the foreign country branch period) of the period since the debt was so created or acquired (the debt holding period), it is the case that, if income had been derived by the taxpayer in respect of the debt, the income would not, because of section 23AH of this Act, have been included in the assessable income of the taxpayer;

then only a proportion of the deduction is allowable, being the proportion calculated using the formula:

$$\frac{\text{Debt holding period} - \text{Foreign country branch period}}{\text{Eligible debt term}}$$

where:

eligible debt term means:

- (a) where the debt was acquired from a person other than an associate, within the meaning of section 318 of this Act—the number of days in the debt holding period; or foreign country branch period means the number of days in the foreign country branch period.
- (b) in any other case—the number of days in the period beginning on the day on which the debt was created (whether by the taxpayer or another person) and ending at the end of the day on which it was written off.

- (2) Where a debt that is written off, or in respect of which there is a debt/equity swap (within the meaning of section 63E), was acquired from another person, the creation, and any previous acquisition, of the debt is to be disregarded for the purposes of applying subsection (1), other than paragraph (b) of the definition of eligible debt term in subsection (1).
- (3) Where a part of a debt is written off as bad, this section applies as if the part were an entire debt that is written off as bad.

63E Debt/equity swaps

Meaning of debt/equity swap

- (1) For the purposes of this section, a debt/equity swap occurs if:
 - (a) under an arrangement (defined in subsection (6)), a taxpayer discharges, releases or otherwise extinguishes the whole or part of a debt owed to the taxpayer in return for the issue by the debtor to the taxpayer of shares (other than redeemable preference shares), or units, in the debtor; and
 - (b) the debtor is:
 - (i) a company; or
 - (ii) a trading trust (within the meaning of section 102N), or a public unit trust (within the meaning of section 102P), in relation to the year of income in which the units are issued; and
 - (c) the debt either:
 - (i) has been brought to account by the taxpayer as assessable income of any year of income; or

Section 63E

- (ii) is in respect of money lent in the ordinary course of the business of the lending of money by the taxpayer who carries on that business.

Meaning of equity value and swap loss

- (2) For the purposes of this section:
 - (a) the equity value of the shares or units is the greater of:
 - (i) their market value at the time of their issue to the taxpayer; and
 - (ii) their value shown in the accounts of the taxpayer as at the time of their issue to the taxpayer; and
 - (b) a swap loss occurs if the amount of the whole or the part of the debt that is extinguished is greater than the equity value of the shares or units.

Swap loss is deductible etc.

- (3) If a debt/equity swap occurs:
 - (a) subject to section 63F, any swap loss is allowable as a deduction from the taxpayer's assessable income of the year of income in which the shares or units are issued; and
 - (b) no amount is allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the taxpayer of any year of income under section 8-1 or 25-35 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in respect of the writing off of the whole or part of the debt as bad in connection with the debt/equity swap; and
 - (c) for the purposes of any application of Subdivision 20-A of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in relation to the issue of the shares or units to the taxpayer, the amount received in respect of the issue is taken to be the same as the equity value of the shares or units.

Effect of debt/equity swap on later equity disposal etc.

- (4) If a debt/equity swap occurs and the taxpayer later disposes of any of the shares or units or they are cancelled or redeemed:
 - (a) except in accordance with paragraph (b), no amount is included in, or allowable as a deduction from, the taxpayer's assessable income of any year of income under this Act in respect of the later disposal, cancellation or redemption; and

- (b) if the consideration received or receivable by the taxpayer in respect of the disposal, cancellation or redemption is different from the equity value of the shares or units:
 - (i) if the consideration is greater—the difference is included in the taxpayer's assessable income of the year of income in which the disposal, cancellation or redemption occurs; or
 - (ii) if it is less—the difference is allowable as a deduction from that assessable income.

Consideration of a nil amount

- (5) For the purposes of subsection (4), if no consideration is received or receivable by the taxpayer in respect of the disposal, cancellation or redemption, then consideration of a nil amount is taken to have been so received or receivable.
- (5A) Subdivisions 165-C, 166-C and 175-C of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 apply to an allowable deduction under this section in respect of the whole or part of a debt that is extinguished, in the same way as they apply to a debt (or part of a debt) that is written off as bad.

Meaning of arrangement

- (6) In this section:
arrangement means any agreement, arrangement, understanding, promise, undertaking or scheme, whether express or implied, and whether or not enforceable, or intended to be enforceable, by legal proceedings.

63F Limit on deductions where debt write offs and debt/equity swaps occur

Situations where limit is to be applied

- (1) If:
 - (a) apart from this section, a deduction (the current deduction) would be allowable to a taxpayer:
 - (i) under section 8-1 or 25-35 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in respect of the writing off of the whole or part of a debt as bad; or

- (ii) under section 63E of this Act in respect of a debt/equity swap relating to the whole or part of a debt; and
- (b) a deduction (a previous deduction) was allowed or allowable to the taxpayer under any of those sections, under former section 51 of this Act or under section 63 in respect of any number of occurrences of either or both of the following:
 - (i) a previous writing off as bad of the whole or part of a debt (a previous debt) that was the same as, or included, the debt mentioned in subparagraph (a)(i) or (ii);
 - (ii) a previous debt/equity swap relating to a part of a debt (a previous debt) that was the same as, or included, the debt mentioned in subparagraph (a)(i) or (ii); and
- (c) the current deduction or at least one previous deduction is a deduction allowable under section 63E of this Act in respect of a debt/equity swap;

then the current deduction is only allowable to the extent that it does not exceed the limit worked out under subsection (2).

Calculation of limit

(2) The limit is worked out as follows:

- Step 1:* Take the amount of the previous debt in respect of the earliest or only writing off or debt/equity swap to which paragraph (1)(b) applies.
- Step 2:* Reduce the amount by the previous deduction in respect of that writing off or debt/equity swap.
- Step 3:* If one or more of the following events occur after the writing off or debt/equity swap, progressively reduce the balance of the amount in the way set out below and in the order in which the events occur:

Event	How balance reduced
A writing off or debt/equity swap in respect of which there is a previous deduction.	Reduce the balance by the amount of that previous deduction. If the reduced balance is higher than the level of the debt owing after the event, further reduce the balance to that lower level.

Any other event (e.g. a repayment) that reduces the amount of debt owing, being an event that occurs before the writing off or debt/equity swap in respect of the current deduction.

If the balance at the time of the event is higher than the level of the debt owing after the event occurs, reduce the balance to that lower level

The limit is the resulting balance.

63G Bad debts etc. of trust not allowable in certain circumstances

If:

- (a) a deduction is allowable from a trust's assessable income of any year of income:
 - (i) under former section 51 of this Act, under section 63 of this Act or under section 8-1 or 25-35 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in respect of the writing off of the whole or part of a debt as bad; or
 - (ii) under subsection 63E(3) or (4) in respect of the extinguishment of the whole or part of a debt; and
- (b) the debt was incurred as well as written off or extinguished on the last day of the year of income;

the deduction is not allowable.

Schedule 2F may also prevent a taxpayer deducting an amount in respect of a debt in other circumstances.

65 Payments to associated persons and relatives

- (1B) Where, by virtue of section 26-35 (Reduction of deduction for amounts paid to related entities) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, an amount is not allowable as a deduction in calculating in accordance with section 90 of this Act the net income, or a partnership loss, of a partnership in which a company, being a private company in relation to the year of income of the company to which the individual interest of the company in the net income of the partnership or in the partnership loss relates, is a partner:
 - (a) the company shall, for the purposes of this Act other than Division 11A, be deemed to have paid, on the last day of that year of income, a dividend of an amount ascertained in accordance with subsection (1C); and

- (b) subsection 26-35(4) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 does not apply in relation to so much of the amount that is not so allowable as a deduction as is equal to the amount of the dividend that the company is to be so deemed to have paid.
- (1C) For the purposes of subsection (1B), the amount of the dividend that the company is to be deemed to have paid is:
- (a) where the effect of the disallowance of the deduction has been to increase the net income of the partnership—an amount equal to the difference between the amount of the individual interest of the company in the net income of the partnership and the amount that would have been the individual interest of the company in the net income of the partnership if the deduction had been allowed;
 - (b) where the effect of the disallowance of the deduction has been to reduce the partnership loss—an amount equal to the difference between the amount of the individual interest of the company in the partnership loss and the amount that would have been the individual interest of the company in the partnership loss if the deduction had been allowed;
 - (c) where there is net income of the partnership and the amount of the deduction that was disallowed is equal to that net income—an amount equal to the individual interest of the company in the net income of the partnership;
 - (d) where there is net income of the partnership and, but for the disallowance of the deduction, there would have been a partnership loss—an amount equal to the sum of the amount of the individual interest of the company in the net income of the partnership and the amount that would have been the individual interest of the company in the partnership loss if the deduction had been allowed; and
 - (e) where there is no net income of the partnership and, but for the disallowance of the deduction, there would have been a partnership loss—an amount equal to the amount that would have been the individual interest of the company in the partnership loss if the deduction had been allowed.

70B Deduction for loss on disposal or redemption of traditional securities

- (1) Expressions used in this section that are also used in section 26BB have the same meanings in this section as in section 26BB.
- (2) Where a taxpayer disposes of a traditional security or a traditional security of a taxpayer is redeemed, the amount of any loss on the disposal or redemption is allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income in which the disposal or redemption takes place.
 - (2A) A deduction is not allowable under subsection (2) for a loss on the disposal or redemption of traditional securities that are:
 - (a) segregated exempt assets (for the purposes of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) of a life assurance company; or
 - (b) segregated current pension assets (as defined in the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) of a complying superannuation fund.
 - (2B) A deduction is not allowable under subsection (2) for a loss on the disposal or redemption of a traditional security if:
 - (a) the disposal or redemption occurs because the traditional security is converted into ordinary shares in a company that is:
 - (i) the issuer of the traditional security; or
 - (ii) a connected entity of the issuer of the traditional security; and
 - (b) the traditional security was issued on the basis that it will or may convert into ordinary shares in:
 - (i) the issuer of the traditional security; or
 - (ii) the connected entity.
 - (2C) A deduction is not allowable under subsection (2) for a loss on the disposal or redemption of a traditional security if:
 - (a) the disposal or redemption is in exchange for ordinary shares in a company that is neither:
 - (i) the issuer of the traditional security; nor
 - (ii) a connected entity of the issuer of the traditional security; and

Section 70B

- (b) in the case of a disposal—the disposal is to:
 - (i) the issuer of the traditional security; or
 - (ii) a connected entity of the issuer of the traditional security; and
 - (c) the traditional security was issued on the basis that it will or may be:
 - (i) disposed of to the issuer of the traditional security or to the connected entity; or
 - (ii) redeemed;in exchange for ordinary shares in the company.
- (3) Where the Commissioner, having regard to any connection between the parties to the transaction by which the taxpayer disposed of the traditional security or by which it was redeemed, or by which the taxpayer acquired the traditional security, is satisfied that the parties were not dealing with each other at arm's length in relation to the transaction, then, for the purposes of determining under subsection (2) the amount of any loss on the disposal or redemption, the consideration for the transaction shall be taken to be:
- (a) the amount that might reasonably be expected for the transaction if the parties were independent parties dealing at arm's length with each other; or
 - (b) where, for any reason it is not possible or practicable for the Commissioner to ascertain that amount—such amount as the Commissioner determines.
- (4) If:
- (a) a taxpayer disposes of a traditional security or a traditional security of a taxpayer is redeemed; and
 - (b) there is a loss on the disposal or redemption; and
 - (c) in the case of a disposal or redemption of a marketable security:
 - (i) the taxpayer did not acquire the security in the ordinary course of trading on a securities market; and
 - (ii) at the time the taxpayer acquired the security, it was not open to the taxpayer to acquire an identical security in the ordinary course of trading on a securities market; and

- (d) in the case of a disposal of a marketable security—the disposal did not take place in the ordinary course of trading on a securities market; and
 - (e) having regard to:
 - (i) the financial position of the issuer of the security; and
 - (ii) perceptions of the financial position of the issuer of the security; and
 - (iii) other relevant matters;it would be concluded that the disposal or redemption took place for the reason, or for reasons that included the reason, that there was an apprehension or belief that the issuer was, or would be likely to be, unable or unwilling to discharge all liability to pay amounts under the security;
- a deduction is not allowable to the taxpayer under this section in respect of so much of the amount of the loss as is a loss of capital or a loss of a capital nature.
- (5) A reference in this section to the disposal by a taxpayer of a security, or to the redemption of a security of a taxpayer, does not include a reference to the waiver or release by the taxpayer of:
 - (a) the whole or a part of the debt the subject of the security; or
 - (b) any other right of the taxpayer under the security.
 - (6) Subsection (5) does not, by implication, affect the meaning of an expression used in:
 - (a) a provision of this Act other than this section; or
 - (b) any other law of the Commonwealth.
 - (7) In this section:

issuer, in relation to a security at a particular time, means the person who, if the amount or amounts payable under the security were due and payable at that time, would be liable to pay the amount or amounts.

marketable security means a traditional security that is covered by paragraph (a) of the definition of security in subsection 159GP(1).

securities market means a market, exchange or other place at which, or a facility by means of which, offers to sell, purchase or exchange marketable securities are regularly made or accepted.

73A Expenditure on scientific research

- (1A) This section has effect subject to Division 245 of Schedule 2C.
- (1) The following payments made, and expenditure incurred, during the year of income (other than any amount which is allowable as a deduction under any other section of this Act) by a person carrying on a business for the purpose of gaining or producing assessable income shall be allowable deductions:
- (a) Payments to:
 - (i) an approved research institute for scientific research related to that business; or
 - (ii) an approved research institute, the object of which is the undertaking of scientific research related to the class of business to which that business belongs; and
 - (b) Expenditure of a capital nature on scientific research related to that business (except to the extent that it is expenditure on plant, machinery, land or buildings or on alterations, additions or extensions to buildings or in the acquisition of rights in or arising out of scientific research).
- (2) Where, on or after the first day of the year of income ending on 30 June 1946, a taxpayer carrying on a business for the purpose of gaining or producing assessable income incurs expenditure of a capital nature in the construction or acquisition of a building, or part of a building, or in making any alteration or addition to a building, in which scientific research related to that business is to be carried on by him or on his behalf, and the building, part of a building, alteration or addition, as the case may be, is of use for scientific research purposes only, an amount equal to one-third of that expenditure shall be an allowable deduction:
- (a) from the assessable income of the year of income in which the building, part of a building, alteration or addition is first used by or on behalf of the taxpayer for such scientific research; and
 - (b) from the assessable income of each of the 2 years of income next succeeding that year of income, if he continues to carry on that business during the year in which that assessable income was derived.
- (2A) Subsection (2) does not apply to expenditure incurred by a taxpayer in the construction of a building or part of a building, in the making of an alteration or addition to a building or in the acquisition of a building or part of a building unless:

- (a) either of the following subparagraphs applies:
 - (i) that construction or making commenced, or that acquisition occurred, before 21 November 1987;
 - (ii) any contract in respect of that construction, making or acquisition was entered into before 21 November 1987; and
 - (b) if the expenditure was incurred after 20 November 1987—the taxpayer intended, on 20 November 1987, that:
 - (i) scientific research, being research related to a business carried on by the taxpayer for the purpose of gaining or producing assessable income, would be carried on by or on behalf of the taxpayer in the building; and
 - (ii) the building, part of the building, alteration or addition, as the case may be, would be of use for scientific research purposes only.
- (3) Where any expenditure or payment to which this section refers is incurred or made outside Australia and the business in relation to which it is so incurred or made is carried on partly in and partly out of Australia, the deduction allowable under this section shall be such part of the amount which would otherwise be allowable as the Commissioner considers reasonable in the circumstances.
- (4) Where any expenditure has been allowed or is allowable as a deduction under subsection (2) and:
- (a) the taxpayer sells, transfers or otherwise disposes of the building or any part thereof; or
 - (b) the building or any part thereof is destroyed;
- the termination value of the building or part shall, to the extent of the expenditure so allowed or allowable as a deduction, be included in the assessable income of the year of income in which the disposal or destruction occurs:
- Provided that where the Commissioner is of opinion that part only, or no part, of that termination value relates to the disposal or destruction of any property which was acquired or created by that expenditure, that part only, or no part, as the case may be, of the termination value shall be taken into account for the purposes of this subsection.

(4A) If:

- (a) a person has purchased from another person a building, or part of a building, where the vendor had incurred capital expenditure of a kind in respect of which deductions are or have been allowable under subsection (2); and
- (b) it would be concluded that, having regard to any connection between the vendor and the purchaser or to any other relevant circumstances, those persons were not dealing with each other at arm's length; and
- (c) the purchase price is greater or lesser than the market value of the building, or the part of the building, at the time of the purchase;

the purchase price is, for all purposes of the application of this Act in relation to the vendor, taken to have been the amount of the market value of the property at the time of the purchase.

(5) If the purchase of the building is a creditable acquisition by the vendor, references in subsection (4A) to the purchase price are taken to be references to that price reduced by the amount of the net input tax credit to which the purchaser is entitled for the acquisition.

(6) In this section:

an approved research institute means the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization, or any university, college, institute, association or organization which is approved in writing for the purposes of this section by that Organization, by the Chief Executive Officer of the NHMRC or by the Research Secretary, as an institution, association or organization for undertaking scientific research which is or may prove to be of value to Australia.

- (e) any expenditure that a partner is to be so taken to have incurred, and any recoupment or grant that a partner is to be so taken to have received or become entitled to receive, is not to be taken into account in determining the net income of the partnership or any partnership loss, as the case may be, of the year of income; and
- (f) subject to paragraphs (c), (d), (da) and (e), this section, sections 73C and 73CA of this Act, and Subdivision 20-A of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, apply in relation to each such partner that is an eligible company as if that partner, and not the partnership, were, or had been, carrying on the relevant project and activities, but so apply with such modifications to those sections as are appropriate having regard to the partner's interest in the partnership.

- (3B) In determining whether a relationship between persons for the purpose of engaging in research and development activities constitutes a partnership for the purposes of this Act, the engaging by those persons in those activities is to be taken to constitute carrying on a business with a view to profit.

Definition of qualifying plant expenditure

- (4) Subject to subsection (5), if, during a year of income:
- (a) an eligible company commences to use a unit of plant exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the company of research and development activities; and
 - (b) the eligible company has incurred an amount of plant expenditure in respect of the unit;

that amount is, in relation to the unit, taken to be an amount of qualifying plant expenditure in relation to the company in relation to the year of income and each of the 2 succeeding years of income.

Definitions of written-down value

- (4A) The written-down value of a unit of plant other than post-23 July 1996 pilot plant:
- (a) that is owned by a company; and
 - (b) in relation to which a deduction has been allowed under this section from the company's assessable income;

is the amount worked out using the formula:

cost means the cost of the unit.

number of deductible years means the number of years of income in respect of which a deduction has been allowed from the company's assessable income under this section in relation to the unit.

- (4B) The written-down value of a unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant:
- (a) that is owned by a company; and
 - (b) in relation to which a deduction has been allowed under this section from the company's assessable income;

is the amount worked out using the formula:

Qualifying expenditure – Notional deductions

where:

qualifying expenditure means the amount of the qualifying pilot plant expenditure in relation to the company in respect of the unit.

notional deductions means the total amount of the deductions (if any) that would have been allowed or allowable under this section from the company's assessable income of any year of income in respect of the unit if, in calculating the amount of any such deduction, any provision for an amount to be multiplied by a number greater than one had not been included.

Definition of qualifying pilot plant expenditure

- (4C) If:
- (a) an eligible company incurs expenditure in the acquisition, or the construction, under a contract entered into after 5 pm, by legal time in the Australian Capital Territory, on 23 July 1996, of a unit of pilot plant; and
 - (b) the unit of pilot plant was acquired or constructed for use by the company exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the company of research and development activities;

the expenditure is qualifying pilot plant expenditure in relation to the company in respect of the unit of pilot plant.

Deductible amount of qualifying expenditure on post-23 July 1996 pilot plant

- (4D) If the amount that, apart from paragraph (ba) of the definition of aggregate research and development amount in subsection 73B(1), would be the aggregate research and development amount in relation to an eligible company in relation to a year of income does not exceed $20,000, the deductible amount of qualifying expenditure in relation to the company in respect of a unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant in respect of the year of income is the annual deduction percentage of the qualifying pilot plant expenditure in relation to the company in respect of the unit of pilot plant.

(4E) If the amount that, apart from paragraph (ba) of the definition of aggregate research and development amount in subsection 73B(1), would be the aggregate research and development amount in relation to an eligible company in relation to a year of income exceeds $20,000, the deductible amount of qualifying expenditure in relation to the company in respect of a unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant in respect of the year of income is the annual deduction percentage of the qualifying pilot plant expenditure in relation to the company in respect of the unit of pilot plant, multiplied by 1.25.

(4F) The annual deduction percentage for a unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant is worked out in relation to a company under subsection (4G) or (4H), as the case requires.

(4G) If:

- (a) the qualifying pilot plant expenditure in relation to an eligible company in respect of a unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant does not exceed $300 or such higher amount as is prescribed; or
- (b) the useful life of the unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant is less than 3 years;

the annual deduction percentage for the unit is 100%.

(4H) If subsection (4G) does not apply in respect of a unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant, the annual deduction percentage for the unit is two-thirds of the percentage worked out using the following table:

Table of percentages
Item	Years in useful life	Percentage
1	3 to fewer than 5	60%
2	5 to fewer than $6\frac{2}{3}$	40%
3	$6\frac{2}{3}$ to fewer than 10	30%

Section 73B

Table of percentages
Item	Years in useful life	Percentage
4	10 to fewer than 13	25%
5	13 to fewer than 30	20%
6	30 or more	10%

- (4J) The useful life of a unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant owned by an eligible company (the relevant unit) is the period that would be the effective life of the relevant unit under Subdivision 40-B of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 if:
- (a) the company could deduct amounts for the decline in value of the relevant unit under Division 40 of that Act; and
 - (b) any reference in Division 40 of that Act to using an asset for a taxable purpose included a reference to the use of the relevant unit by or on behalf of the company exclusively for carrying on research and development activities.

Limit on qualifying plant expenditure

- (5) If:
- (a) apart from this subsection, there would be an amount of qualifying plant expenditure in relation to a unit of plant owned by an eligible company in relation to a year of income; and
 - (b) at any time during the year of income, the company ceases to use that unit of plant exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the company of research and development activities;

there is no amount of qualifying plant expenditure in relation to that unit of plant in relation to the year of income or any succeeding year of income.

- (5AA) Subject to subsection (5AB), an eligible company is not to be taken for the purposes of paragraph (5)(b) to have ceased during a year of income to use a unit of plant exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the company of research and development activities merely because on or after 21 November 1987 and during the whole or a part of the year of income another person (whether or not an eligible company) used the unit of plant, with the consent of the company, exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of that other person of research and development activities (whether or not the same as the activities for which the unit of plant has been used by the company).

- (5AB) Subsection (5AA) does not apply in relation to a unit of plant owned by an eligible company in relation to a year of income unless the only reason for any failure of the company to use the unit of plant during the whole or a part of the year of income for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the company of research and development activities was the use made of the unit of plant during the year of income by another person as mentioned in that subsection.

Expenditure on building does not count for this section

- (5A) This section does not apply to expenditure incurred by an eligible company in the acquisition or construction of a building or of an extension, alteration or improvement to a building.

Cost of plant before 19 August 1992

- (6) If:
- (a) the cost of a unit of pilot plant to an eligible company exceeds $10 million; and
 - (b) any of the following applies:
 - (i) the unit was acquired by the eligible company under a contract entered into before 19 August 1992;
 - (ii) the construction of the unit commenced before 19 August 1992;
 - (iii) a contract for the construction of the unit was entered into before 19 August 1992;

the cost of the unit of plant is taken, for the purposes of this section, to be $10 million.

No deduction for expenditure on activities for another person

- (9) A deduction is not allowable under this section (except subsection (14C)) in respect of expenditure incurred by an eligible company for the purpose of carrying on research and development activities on behalf of any other person, and expenditure of that kind shall be disregarded for the purposes of the application of this section (except subsections (14C) and (14D)) to the company.

Section 73B

- (9A) Subsection (9) does not apply in relation to expenditure incurred on or after 21 November 1987 on behalf of a partnership by a partner in the partnership in that partner's capacity as such a partner.

No deduction for unregistered company

- (10) A deduction is not allowable under this section to an eligible company for a year of income in respect of expenditure in relation to research and development activities unless:
- (a) the company is registered, in relation to the year of income and in relation to those activities, under section 39J of the Industry Research and Development Act 1986; or
 - (b) the company is registered, in relation to the year of income and in relation to a project comprising or including those activities, under section 39P of that Act.

Advance R and D expenditure

- (11) For the purposes of this section:
- (a) subject to paragraph (b), advance R and D expenditure of an eligible company shall be taken to be incurred in equal proportions throughout its eligible service period; and
 - (b) where advance R and D expenditure of an eligible company is accelerated expenditure and its eligible service period occurs in 2 or more years of income—any part of that expenditure that would otherwise be taken by paragraph (a) to be incurred in the second or a later year of income shall instead be taken to be incurred in equal proportions throughout the part of the eligible service period occurring in the year of income preceding that second or later year of income.

Deductions for core technology expenditure

- (12) Subject to this section, where an eligible company incurs core technology expenditure during a year of income under a contract entered into before 5 pm, by legal time in the Australian Capital Territory, on 23 July 1996, the amount of that expenditure is allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the company of the year of income.

(12A) Subject to this section, if:

- (a) an eligible company has, before or during the year of income, incurred core technology expenditure in respect of particular core technology (the relevant core technology) under a contract entered into at or after the time referred to in subsection (12); and
- (b) during the year of income the company incurs research and development expenditure that is related to the relevant core technology;

there is allowable as a deduction from the company's assessable income of the year of income so much of the amount worked out using the formula in subsection (12B) in respect of that core technology expenditure as does not exceed one-third of the amount of that related research and development expenditure.

(12B) The formula for the purposes of subsection (12A) is:

Undeducted past expenditure $-$ Current year core technology adjustment amount

where:

undeducted expenditure means so much of the core technology expenditure incurred by the company during the current year or previous years of income in relation to the relevant core technology under contracts entered into at or after the time referred to in subsection (12) as has not been allowed as a deduction from the company's assessable income of any of those previous years of income.

current year core technology adjustment amount, in relation to a company in relation to a year of income in which:

- (a) an amount or amounts are included in the company's assessable income under subsection (27A) because the company received or was entitled to receive an amount or amounts from the disposal of the relevant core technology; or
- (b) an amount or amounts would be so included apart from the operation of paragraph 73B(27C)(c);

means:

- (c) the core technology adjustment amount in relation to the company in relation to that year of income in respect of the relevant core technology; or

Section 73B

(d) the amount or the sum of the amounts referred to in paragraph (b); whichever is the less.

- (12C) A deduction in respect of core technology expenditure is not allowable from a taxpayer's assessable income of any year of income under any provision of this Act other than this section.

Deduction for contracted expenditure

- (13) Subject to this section, where an eligible company incurs contracted expenditure during a year of income, the amount of that expenditure multiplied by 1.25 is an allowable deduction to the company for the year of income.

Deduction for research and development expenditure

- (14) Subject to this section, where:
- (a) an eligible company incurs research and development expenditure (other than contracted expenditure) during a year of income; and
 - (b) the aggregate research and development amount in relation to the company in relation to the year of income is greater than $20,000;

the amount of that expenditure multiplied by 1.25 is allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the company of the year of income.

Reduced rate of deduction under subsection (13) or (14)

- (14AA) A part of an eligible company's deduction for a year of income under subsection (13) or (14) in respect of a particular amount of research and development expenditure (the R&D amount) is worked out by multiplying the R&D amount by 1 rather than 1.25 if subsection (14AB) applies to the R&D amount.
- (14AB) This subsection applies to an R&D amount of an eligible company for a year of income if:
- (a) any other person (within the meaning of section 73H) incurred expenditure during that year of income or an earlier one in respect of all or a part of the things for which the R&D amount was for; and

- (b) the other person was grouped with the eligible company as mentioned in section 73L at the time the expenditure was incurred by the other person.
- (14AC) The part of the eligible company's R&D amount for the year of income that is multiplied by 1.25 under subsection (13) or (14) is: R&D amount – Total group markup
where:

total group markup is:

- (a) the sum of the amounts derived by persons during the year of income for goods or services in respect of all or a part of the things for which the R&D amount was for while those persons were grouped with the eligible company as mentioned in section 73L; less
- (b) the actual cost to those persons of providing those goods or services.
- (14AD) The part of the eligible company's R&D amount for the year of income that is multiplied by 1 rather than 1.25 is the part of the R&D amount representing the total group markup.

Deduction for interest expenditure

- (14A) Subject to this section, if an eligible company incurs interest expenditure during a year of income, the amount of that expenditure is allowable as a deduction from the company's assessable income of the year of income.

Deduction for residual feedstock expenditure

- (14B) Subject to this section, if an eligible company has any residual feedstock expenditure in respect of a year of income in relation to related research and development activities, the amount of that expenditure is allowable as a deduction from the company's assessable income of the year of income.

Deduction for expenditure on foreign owned R&D

- (14C) An eligible company may deduct for a year of income the amount (the expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company for the year of income) worked out under subsection (14D) if:

Section 73B

- (a) the eligible company incurs expenditure in the year of income at a time when the eligible company is grouped under section 73L with a foreign company; and
- (b) the expenditure is for the purpose of the carrying on of Australian-centred research and development activities; and
- (c) the activities are, are to be or were carried on wholly or primarily on behalf of the foreign company; and
- (d) the activities are, are to be or were carried on directly or indirectly under a written agreement between the eligible company and the foreign company and no other parties for the activities to be performed:
 - (i) by the eligible company; or
 - (ii) by another person directly or indirectly under another agreement to which the eligible company is, or will become, a party; and
- (e) the expenditure is not incurred in connection with an agreement that:
 - (i) is between the eligible company and another eligible company that is grouped under section 73L with the eligible company when the expenditure is incurred; and
 - (ii) is an agreement for the activities to be performed either by the eligible company or by a person who is not a party to the agreement and is to perform the activities directly or indirectly under another agreement to which the eligible company is, or will become, a party; and
- (f) the expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company for the year of income is greater than $20,000; and
- (g) the eligible company, and each other eligible company (if any) that is grouped under section 73L with that company at any time in the year of income, is registered under section 39J of the Industry Research and Development Act 1986 in relation to the year of income and all activities that meet both the following conditions:
 - (i) the activities are ones that, if subsection (2BA) had not been enacted, would be Australian-centred research and development activities carried on wholly or primarily on behalf of a foreign company (whether or not the activities would be such Australian-centred research and development activities taking account of that subsection);

- (ii) the activities are ones in relation to which the eligible company or the other eligible company (as appropriate) incurred expenditure during the year of income.

Note 1: An example of the carrying on or performance of activities indirectly under an agreement that is a contract is the carrying on or performance of the activities under a subcontract, or one of a chain of subcontracts, under the agreement.

Note 2: One effect of paragraph (14C)(e) is that, even if the eligible company has an agreement with the foreign company for the carrying on of Australian-centred research and development activities wholly or primarily on behalf of the foreign company, the eligible company cannot deduct its expenditure:

- (a) for performing the activities as a subcontractor under a subcontract with another eligible company grouped under section 73L with the eligible company; or
- (b) if the eligible company is a subcontractor to another eligible company grouped under section 73L with the eligible company, for further subcontracting the performance of the activities.

Note 3: The eligible company may get an extra deduction under section 73QB if its expenditure on foreign owned R&D for the year of income is greater than the average of the amounts that would be the expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company for the 3 previous years of income if subsection (2BA) of this section had not been enacted.

(14D) The expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company for the year of income is the amount that would be the eligible company's incremental expenditure under section 73P for the year of income if:

- (a) the Australian-centred research and development activities covered by subsection (14C) (ignoring paragraphs (14C)(f) and (g)) of this section were carried on on behalf of the eligible company (and not on behalf of the foreign company mentioned in paragraph (14C)(c)); and
- (b) the only expenditure incurred by the eligible company in the year of income in relation to research and development activities had been the expenditure covered by subsection (14C) (ignoring paragraphs (14C)(f) and (g)) of this section; and
- (c) the total group markup (if any) of the eligible company for the year of income were the amount (if any) that would be worked out under subsection (14AC) of this section if the company were working out the amount of a deduction under subsection (13) or (14) of this section on the basis described in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection.

Note 1: Paragraphs (14D)(a) and (b) affect what would be the eligible company's incremental expenditure by affecting expenditure described in definitions of terms (e.g. contracted expenditure and salary expenditure) used in the definition of research and development expenditure, on which incremental expenditure is based.

Note 2: Subsection 73P(5) excludes a company's total group markup (worked out under subsection (14AC) of this section) from the company's incremental expenditure. The markup is worked out to affect a deduction by the company under subsection (13) or (14) of this section for an amount of research and development expenditure to which subsection (14AB) of this section applies.

Deduction for qualifying plant expenditure

(15) Subject to this section, where, in the year of income during which an eligible company commences to use a unit of plant exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the company of research and development activities or in either of the 2 succeeding years of income, there is an amount of qualifying plant expenditure in relation to the company in relation to the unit of plant:

- (a) in a case where the aggregate research and development amount in relation to the company in relation to the year of income is greater than $20,000—one-third of the amount of that qualifying plant expenditure multiplied by 1.25; or
- (b) in any other case—one-third of the amount of that qualifying plant expenditure; is allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the company of the year of income.

(15AAA) Subsection (15) does not apply to a unit of plant:

- (a) acquired, or constructed, under a contract entered into by the company after 12 pm, by legal time in the Australian Capital Territory, on 29 January 2001; or
- (b) that the company commenced to construct after 12 pm, by legal time in the Australian Capital Territory, on 29 January 2001.

Deduction for qualifying expenditure on post-23 July 1996 pilot plant

- (15AA) Subject to this section, if in a year of income an eligible company uses a unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the company of research and development activities, the deductible amount of qualifying expenditure in relation to the company in respect of the unit is an allowable deduction from the company's assessable income of the year of income.

Note: If Division 250 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 applies to you and an asset:

- (a) if section 250-150 of that Act applies—you are taken to have qualifying expenditure in relation to the use of the asset to the extent specified in a determination made under subsection 250-150(3) of that Act; or
- (b) otherwise—you are taken not to have such expenditure.

- (15AAAA) Subsection (15AA) does not apply to a unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant:

- (a) acquired, or constructed, under a contract entered into by the company after 12 pm, by legal time in the Australian Capital Territory, on 29 January 2001; or
- (b) that the company commenced to construct after 12 pm, by legal time in the Australian Capital Territory, on 29 January 2001.

- (15AB) The sum of the deductions that, apart from this subsection, would be allowable to a company under subsection (15AA) in respect of a unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant must not exceed the qualifying pilot plant expenditure in relation to the company in respect of the unit multiplied by 1.25.

Reduction of deduction under subsection (15)

- (15A) Where an eligible company has, whether before or after the commencement of this subsection, received, or become entitled to receive, any consideration in respect of the use, by another person, as mentioned in subsection (5AA), of a unit of plant, one-half of the total amount or value of that consideration shall be applied in the reduction of any deduction or deductions that has or have been allowed, or would but for this subsection be allowable, under subsection (15) from the assessable income of the company of any year of income in respect of that unit of plant.

Limit on deduction for expenditure on overseas research and development activities

- (17A) An amount is not allowable as a deduction under subsection (12), (13), (14) or (15) from a company's assessable income of a year of income in respect of expenditure on overseas research and development activities unless the expenditure is certified expenditure.

Choice that this section not apply to plant

- (18) An eligible company may elect that this section shall not apply in relation to a unit of plant to which this section would otherwise apply and, where an election is so made, this section does not apply in relation to that unit of plant in relation to the company.

Limit on double deductions

- (20) Subject to subsections (21), (21A) and (22), where the whole or a part of an amount of expenditure incurred by an eligible company has been allowed or is or may become allowable as a deduction under this section, that expenditure shall not be an allowable deduction, and shall not be taken into account in ascertaining the amount of an allowable deduction, from the assessable income of the company of any year of income under any other provision of this Act.
- (20A) To avoid doubt, subsection (20) applies despite subsection 290-10(1) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.
- (21) Subsection (20) does not prevent a deduction for depreciation being allowed to an eligible company in respect of a unit of plant (other than post-23 July 1996 pilot plant) where the company has, before the end of the second year of income (in this subsection referred to as the relevant year of income) after the year of income in which the company first used the unit of plant exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the company of research and development activities, ceased to use the unit of plant exclusively for that purpose, and where, by reason of the subsequent use of the unit of plant for another purpose, such a deduction becomes allowable, the unit of plant shall be deemed to have been acquired by the company:

- (a) at a cost equal to the written-down value of the unit of plant; and
 - (b) on:
 - (i) in a case where the unit of plant was used by the company exclusively for that first-mentioned purpose on the first day of the relevant year of income—that day; or
 - (ii) in any other case—the day on which the unit of plant was first used by the company for that first-mentioned purpose.
- (21A) Subsection (20) does not prevent a deduction for depreciation being allowed to an eligible company in respect of a unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant if the company has ceased to use the unit of plant exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the company of research and development activities, and if, because of a later use of the unit for another purpose, such a deduction becomes allowable, the unit is taken to have been acquired by the company:
- (a) at a cost equal to the written-down value of the unit; and
 - (b) on the day on which the unit was first used by the company for the other purpose.
- (22) Where deductions have been allowed to an eligible company under subsection (15) in respect of expenditure incurred by the company in the acquisition or construction of a unit of plant to which subsection (6) applies in respect of 3 years of income, subsection (20) does not prevent a deduction for depreciation being allowed to the company in respect of the unit of plant in respect of a later year of income, and where such a deduction becomes allowable, the unit shall be deemed to have been acquired by the company immediately after the end of the last year of income in respect of which a deduction was allowed to the company under this section in respect of that expenditure at a cost equal to the written-down value of the unit of plant.

Balancing adjustments

(23) Where:

- (a) a deduction has been allowed or is allowable to an eligible company under subsection (15) in respect of expenditure incurred in the acquisition or construction of a unit of plant (other than a unit of pilot plant to which subsection (6) applies);
- (b) during a year of income, the unit of plant is disposed of, lost or destroyed;
- (c) the company had used the unit of plant before it was disposed of, lost or destroyed exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the company of research and development activities; and
- (d) no deduction has been allowed or is allowable to the company under former section 54 of this Act or the former Division 42 (Depreciation) or Subdivision 40-B (Capital allowances) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in respect of the unit of plant;

then:

- (e) in a case where the consideration receivable in respect of the disposal, loss or destruction is less than the written-down value of the unit of plant:
 - (i) if the aggregate research and development amount in relation to the company in relation to the year of income is greater than $20,000—the amount ascertained by multiplying the amount by which that written-down value exceeds that consideration receivable by 1.25; or
 - (ii) if the aggregate research and development amount in relation to the company in relation to the year of income is less than or equal to $20,000—the amount by which that written-down value exceeds that consideration receivable;

is allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the company of the year of income; or

- (f) in a case where the consideration receivable in respect of the disposal, loss or destruction is greater than the written-down value of the unit of plant—so much of the excess as does not exceed the difference between the cost of the unit of plant and the written-down value of the unit of plant shall be included in the assessable income of the company of the year of income.

Note: This subsection does not apply to an asset whose tax cost is set under Division 701 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997: see section 73BAG of this Act.

(24) Where:

- (a) a deduction has been allowed or is allowable to an eligible company under subsection (15) in respect of expenditure incurred in the acquisition or construction of a unit of pilot plant to which subsection (6) applies;
- (b) during a year of income, the unit of plant is disposed of, lost or destroyed;
- (c) the company had used the unit of plant before it was disposed of, lost or destroyed exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the company of research and development activities; and
- (d) no deduction has been allowed or is allowable to the company under former section 54 of this Act or the former Division 42 (Depreciation) or Subdivision 40-B (Capital allowances) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in respect of the unit of plant;

then:

- (e) in a case where the consideration receivable in respect of the disposal, loss or destruction is less than the written-down value of the unit of plant but greater than the ineligible pilot plant amount in relation to the unit of plant—the amount ascertained by multiplying the amount by which that written-down value exceeds that consideration receivable by 1.5 is allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the company of the year of income;
- (f) in a case where the consideration receivable in respect of the disposal, loss or destruction is less than the ineligible pilot plant amount in relation to the unit of plant—the amount ascertained in accordance with the formula $$5,000,000 A + B$, where:
 - A is 3 reduced by the number of years of income in respect of which a deduction has been allowed under this section to the company in respect of the unit of plant; and
 - B is the amount by which that ineligible pilot plant amount exceeds that consideration receivable;

Section 73B

is allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the company of the year of income; or

- (g) in a case where the consideration receivable in respect of the disposal, loss or destruction is greater than the written-down value of the unit of plant—so much of the excess as does not exceed the difference between the amount that would, apart from the operation of subsection (6), be the cost of the unit of plant and that written-down value shall be included in the assessable income of the company of the year of income.

(24A) For the purposes of paragraph (23)(c) or (24)(c), a company is not to be taken not to have used a unit of plant before it was disposed of, lost or destroyed exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the company of research and development activities merely because of either or both of the following:

- (a) another person used the unit of plant as mentioned in subsection (5AA);
- (b) the company failed to use the unit of plant for the reason mentioned in subsection (5AB).

(24B) Where:

- (a) a deduction has been allowed or is allowable to an eligible company under subsection (15AA) in respect of expenditure incurred in the acquisition or construction of a unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant; and
- (b) during a year of income, the unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant is disposed of, lost or destroyed; and
- (c) the company had used the unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant before it was disposed of, lost or destroyed exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the company of research and development activities; and
- (d) no deduction has been allowed or is allowable to the company under former section 54 in respect of the unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant;

then:

- (e) in a case where the consideration receivable in respect of the disposal, loss or destruction is less than the written-down value of the unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant:
 - (i) if the aggregate research and development amount in relation to the company in relation to the year of income is greater than $20,000—the amount ascertained by multiplying the amount by which that written-down value exceeds that consideration receivable by 1.25; or

- (ii) if the aggregate research and development amount in relation to the company in relation to the year of income is less than or equal to $20,000—the amount by which that written-down value exceeds that consideration receivable;

is allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the company of the year of income; or

- (f) in a case where the consideration receivable in respect of the disposal, loss or destruction is greater than the written-down value of the unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant—so much of the excess as does not exceed the difference between the cost of the unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant and the written-down value of the unit of post-23 July 1996 pilot plant shall be included in the assessable income of the company of the year of income.

Note: This subsection does not apply to an asset whose tax cost is set under Division 701 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997: see section 73BAG of this Act.

(c) the company receiving or being entitled to receive an amount from the disposal of, or of an interest in, or from the grant of a right to occupy or use, a building where, as a result of the disposal or grant, another person has acquired a right of access to, or a right to use, any of those results; and

(d) the company receiving or being entitled to receive an amount from the disposal of core technology;

- (b) the Commissioner is satisfied that:

 - (ii) the amount of that expenditure would have been less if the company and that other person had dealt with each other at arm's length in relation to the incurring of that expenditure;
- so much only of that expenditure as the Commissioner considers reasonable having regard to:
- (c) the connection between the company and that other person;

- (33C) If a certificate referred to in subsection (33), (33A), (33B) or (33BA) is revoked, this section applies, and shall be deemed to have applied, as if the certificate had not been given.

Certificates from Board bind Commissioner

- (34) If the Board gives to the Commissioner:
- (a) a certificate that:
 - (i) is given under section 39L of the Industry Research and Development Act 1986; and

 - (ii) states whether particular activities were Australian-centred research and development activities; and
 - (iii) relates to activities in relation to which an eligible company incurred expenditure;

the certificate is binding on the Commissioner for the purpose of making an assessment of the eligible company's taxable income of any year of income in which those activities were carried on.

- (34AA) If the Board gives to the Commissioner a certificate that:
- (a) is given under section 39LAAB of the Industry Research and Development Act 1986; and

- (35) If the Board gives to the Commissioner a certificate stating whether particular technology that a specified eligible company has acquired, or has acquired the right to use, for the purpose of particular research and development activities that have been or are being carried on by or on behalf of the company is core technology in relation to those activities, that certificate is binding on the Commissioner for the purpose of making an assessment of the company's taxable income of any year of income in which the company incurred expenditure in acquiring that technology or the right to use that technology.

Apportioning insurance receipts etc.

- (36) Where:
 - (a) an amount is receivable by a company under a policy of insurance or otherwise in respect of the destruction of property; and
 - (b) it is required to be determined for the purposes of this section how much of the amount receivable is receivable in respect of part of the property referred to in paragraph (a);

Section 73BAA

so much of the amount referred to in paragraph (a) as, in the opinion of the Commissioner, relates to the part of the property referred to in paragraph (b) shall be taken to be receivable by the company in respect of the part of the property referred to in paragraph (b).

73BAA Effect of consolidation

The purpose of sections 73BAB to 73BAF is to ensure that the research and development concession interacts properly with the consolidation regime in Part 3-90 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

73BAB Head company treated as registered

Sections 73B to 73Z (inclusive) of this Act apply to the head company of a consolidated group or MEC group as if the head company:

- (a) were an eligible company; and
- (b) were registered under section 39J of the Industry Research and Development Act 1986 in relation to particular activities in respect of a year of income;

during any period that a subsidiary member of the group is an eligible company and registered under section 39J of that Act in relation to those activities in respect of that year of income.

73BABA History for purposes of eligibility for tax offset: joining entity

If:

- (a) a company becomes a subsidiary member of a consolidated group or MEC group; and
- (b) things happening in relation to the company before it became a subsidiary member are, because of section 701-5 (the entry history rule) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, taken into account as things happening in relation to the head company of the group in applying paragraph 73J(1)(c) or (d) of this Act to determine for the head company core purposes whether the head company is eligible to choose a tax offset; the things happening are not taken into account as mentioned in paragraph (b).

73BAC Expenditure history for purposes of sections 73P to 73Z:
joining entity

- (1) For the purposes of sections 73P to 73Z (inclusive), where a company (the joining company) becomes a member of a consolidated group or MEC group, those provisions have effect after the joining company became a member as if:
 - (a) any expenditure incurred by the joining company before it became a member had been incurred by the head company of the group; and
 - (b) any amounts the joining company has deducted or can deduct for that expenditure had been deducted by the head company; and
 - (c) the head company of the group had received any recoupments of, or grants in respect of, that expenditure that the joining company or a person grouped with it under section 73L received, or became entitled to receive, before the joining company became a member of the group.
- (2) Subsection (1) has effect after any application of subsection 73R(3) or (4) (exceptions to R&D membership period rules).

Note: This provision overrides section 701-5 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (the consolidation entry history rule) for the purposes of sections 73P to 73Z (inclusive) of this Act.

73BACA History for purposes of eligibility for tax offset: leaving entity

If:

- (a) a company ceases to be a subsidiary member of a consolidated group or MEC group; and
- (b) while the company was a subsidiary member, things happened in relation to an entity with which, if section 701-1 (the single entity rule) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 were disregarded, the company would have been grouped (within the meaning of section 73L of this Act); and
- (c) those things would, if section 701-1 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 were disregarded, have been taken into account in applying paragraph 73J(1)(c) or (d) of this Act to determine whether the company is eligible to choose a tax offset; and

- (d) the things are not also things that, because of section 701-40 (the exit history rule) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, are taken into account as things happening in relation to an eligible asset etc. (within the meaning of that section) of the company in applying paragraph 73J(1)(c) or (d) of this Act to determine for the entity core purposes whether the company is eligible to choose a tax offset;
- the things are taken into account in applying paragraph 73J(1)(c) or (d) of this Act to determine whether the company is eligible to choose a tax offset.

73BAD Expenditure for purposes of sections 73P to 73Z history: leaving entity

- (1) For the purposes of sections 73P to 73Z (inclusive), where a company (the leaving company) ceases to be a member of a consolidated group or MEC group, those provisions have effect after the leaving company ceased to be a member as if:
- (a) any expenditure actually incurred by the leaving company while it was a member of the group had been incurred by it rather than by any other member of the group; and
 - (b) any amounts the head company of the group has deducted or can deduct for that expenditure had been deducted by the leaving company.
- (2) Subsection (1) has effect before any application of subsection 73R(3) or (4) (exceptions to R&D membership period rules).

Note: This provision overrides section 701-40 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (the consolidation exit history rule) for the purposes of sections 73P to 73Z (inclusive) of this Act.

73BAE Recoupment where entity leaves group

- (1) All or part of an amount that would, apart from this subsection, be allowable as a deduction to the head company of a consolidated group or MEC group under section 73B or 73BA for a year of income is not allowable as such a deduction if:
- (a) the expenditure that would have given rise to the deduction was incurred by another company that was a subsidiary member of the group; and
 - (b) the other company ceased, during or after that year of income, to be a subsidiary member of the group; and

- (c) the other company would have been denied a deduction for all or that part of the amount for that year of income because it received a recoupment or grant to which section 73C would apply if the other company had never been a subsidiary member of the group.
- (2) The other company must, within 60 days after the end of the financial year in which it received or became entitled to receive the recoupment or grant, give the head company details in the approved form of the part of the initial clawback amount for the recoupment or grant (see section 73C) to be applied by the head company in determining the reduction in the amount referred to in subsection (1).

73BAF Preventing double deductions

- (1) This section applies to the head company of a consolidated group or MEC group if, after the tax cost is set for a depreciating asset, the company can deduct an amount (the reduction amount) for expenditure in relation to the asset under section 73B for a year of income.
- (2) The company's deduction for the decline in value of the asset under Division 40 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, and its notional Division 40 deduction under section 73BC of this Act, for the year of income are reduced (but not below nil) by the reduction amount.
- (3) Any part of the reduction amount remaining after that reduction is applied to reduce the company's deductions for the decline in value of the asset under Division 40 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, and its notional Division 40 deduction under section 73BC of this Act, for later years of income.

73BAG Balancing adjustments for certain assets of consolidated groups

- (1) Subsections 73B(23) and (24B) do not apply to an asset held by the head company of a consolidated group or MEC group where the tax cost of the asset is set under Division 701 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997. Instead, any balancing adjustment for the asset is worked out under section 73BF of this Act or section 40-292 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

Section 73BA

- (2) In working out the amount of a balancing adjustment under section 73BF of this Act or section 40-292 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 for the asset, the asset's adjustable value (see section 40-85 of that Act) is reduced by so much of a reduction amount (see section 73BAF of this Act) for the asset that has not been applied in reducing a notional Division 40 deduction for the head company.

73BA Deduction for certain assets etc. used for the purpose of carrying on research and development activities

Object

- (1) The object of this section is to provide a tax incentive, in the form of a deduction, to make eligible companies more internationally competitive by:
- (a) encouraging the development by eligible companies of innovative products, processes and services; and
 - (b) increasing investment by eligible companies in defined research and development activities; and
 - (c) promoting the technological advancement of eligible companies through a focus on innovation and high technical risk in defined research and development activities; and
 - (d) encouraging the use by eligible companies of strategic research and development planning; and
 - (e) creating an environment that is conducive to increased commercialisation of new processes and product technologies developed by eligible companies.

The benefits of the tax incentive are targeted by being limited to particular expenditure on certain defined activities.

Entitlement to deduction

- (2) If an eligible company has a notional Division 40 deduction for a section 73BA depreciating asset for a year of income, the company is entitled to a deduction under this section for the asset for the year of income.

Amount of deduction

- (3) If the eligible company's aggregate research and development amount for the year of income is more than $20,000, the deduction is equal to the notional Division 40 deduction multiplied by 1.25. If not, it equals the notional Division 40 deduction.

No deduction if earlier small business or Division 40 low-value pool deductions allowable

- (4) An eligible company is not entitled to a deduction under this section for a section 73BA depreciating asset for any period if the company was entitled to:
- (a) a deduction for the asset for any earlier period under Subdivision 328-D (about small business entities) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997; or
 - (b) a deduction for the asset for any earlier period under Division 40 of that Act, in a case to which section 40-440 (about low-value pools) of that Act applied.

Expenditure deductible etc. under this section not deductible under other provisions

- (7) If the whole or a part of an amount of expenditure incurred by an eligible company:
- (a) has been allowed or is or may become allowable as a deduction under this section; or
 - (b) would have been so allowed or become so allowable if the company had not chosen a tax offset under section 73I;
- that whole or part is not an allowable deduction, and is not to be taken into account in working out the amount of an allowable deduction, from the assessable income of the company of any year of income under any other provision of this Act.

Definitions

- (8) In this section:

aggregate research and development amount has the same meaning as in section 73B.

notional Division 40 deduction has the meaning given by section 73BC.

research and development activities has the same meaning as in section 73B.

section 73BA depreciating asset has the meaning given by section 73BB.

73BB Meaning of section 73BA depreciating asset

- (1) A section 73BA depreciating asset of an eligible company is an asset for which the eligible company could (ignoring section 73BA) deduct an amount under section 40-25 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 if the following assumptions were made:
 - (b) contrary to paragraph 40-30(1)(c) and subsection 40-30(2) of that Act, all intangible assets were excluded from the definition of depreciating asset in section 40-30 of that Act;
 - (c) subsection 40-45(2) of that Act did not, except in the case of buildings, prevent that Division from applying to capital works to which Division 43 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 applies, or to which that Division would apply but for expenditure being incurred, or capital works being started, before a particular day;
 - (d) the eligible company satisfied any relevant requirement for deductibility under that Division.
- (2) In this section:

eligible company has the same meaning as in section 73B.

73BC Meaning of notional Division 40 deduction

- (1) An eligible company has a notional Division 40 deduction for a section 73BA depreciating asset for a year of income if it would be entitled to a deduction under section 40-25 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 for the asset for the year of income assuming the changes set out in this section were made.

First change: replacement of references to use or installation ready for use for purpose of producing assessable income or for taxable purpose

- (2) The first change is that references in Division 40 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (other than for the purposes of sections 40-100, 40-105 and 40-110) to using the asset, or having it installed ready for use:

- (a) for the purpose of producing assessable income; or
- (b) for a taxable purpose;

are instead references to using the asset for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the eligible company of research and development activities.

Note 1: Section 73BG modifies sections 40-100, 40-105 and 40-110 (about effective life) so that a reference to the research and development purpose is added to the existing references, rather than replacing them.

Note 2: If Division 250 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 applies to you and an asset:

- (a) if section 250-150 of that Act applies—the asset is taken to be used, or installed ready for use, for the purpose of carrying on, by or on behalf of an eligible company, research or development activities to the extent specified in a determination made under subsection 250-150(3) of that Act; or
- (b) otherwise—the asset is taken not to be used, or installed ready for use, for such a purpose.

Second change: method for working out decline in value where previous Division 40 deduction

- (3) The second change is that, if the eligible company was actually entitled to a deduction under Division 40 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 for the section 73BA depreciating asset for any period before the start of the first period for which the company will be entitled to a deduction for the asset under this subsection, the same method for working out the decline in value as the company was using for the asset for the earlier period is used.

Third change: treatment of expenditure to which section 73BD or 73BE applies

- (4) The third change is that, in working out the cost of the section 73BA depreciating asset, any amount of expenditure (section 73BA depreciating asset expenditure) that would otherwise form part of that cost is to be ignored or treated in some other way if section 73BD or 73BE so provides for the purposes of this section.

Section 73BD

Fourth change: certain provisions to be ignored

- (5) The fourth change is that Division 40 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 applies as if section 73BA of this Act, and section 40-425 and Subdivision 328-D of that Act, had not been enacted.

- (6) In this section:

eligible company has the same meaning as in section 73B.

research and development activities has the same meaning as in section 73B.

section 73BA depreciating asset has the meaning given by section 73BB.

73BD Treatment of certain expenditure for the purposes of section 73BC etc.

Requirement for registration under Industry Research and Development Act

- (1) Section 73BA depreciating asset expenditure incurred by an eligible company in a year of income in relation to research and development activities is ignored for the purposes of section 73BC unless:
- (a) the company is registered, in relation to the year of income and in relation to those activities, under section 39J of the Industry Research and Development Act 1986; or
 - (b) the company is registered, in relation to the year of income and in relation to a project comprising or including those activities, under section 39P of that Act.

Non-arm's length expenditure

- (2) If:
- (a) an eligible company has incurred an amount of section 73BA depreciating asset expenditure; and
 - (b) the Commissioner is satisfied that:
 - (i) having regard to any connection between the company and the person to whom the expenditure was incurred and to any other relevant circumstances, the company and that other person were not dealing with each other at arm's length in relation to the incurring of that expenditure; and

- (ii) the amount of that expenditure would have been less if the company and that other person had dealt with each other at arm's length in relation to the incurring of that expenditure;

so much only of that expenditure is to be taken into account for the purposes of section 73BC as the Commissioner considers reasonable having regard to:

- (c) the connection between the company and that other person; and
- (d) the amount of the expenditure that would, in the opinion of the Commissioner, have been incurred by the company if the company and that other person had dealt with each other at arm's length in relation to the incurring of that expenditure; and
- (e) such other matters as the Commissioner considers relevant.

Effect of certificate under section 39M or 39MA of Industry Research and Development Act 73BE Treatment of certain partnership expenditure for the purposes of section 73BC etc.

When section applies

- (1) If section 73BA depreciating asset expenditure has been incurred by a partnership in which, when the expenditure was incurred:
 - (a) at least one partner was an eligible company; and
 - (b) either:
 - (i) each other partner was an eligible company or was a body corporate that was, or is taken to have been, registered under section 39F of the Industry Research and Development Act 1986 as a research agency in respect of the class of research and development activities on which the expenditure was incurred; or

Section 73BE

(ii) the partnership was designated as a Co-operative Research Centre under the program known as the Co-operative Research Centres Program;
the following provisions have effect.

Contributions by partners

- (2) Each partner is taken, for the purposes of sections 73BC, 73C and 73CA of this Act, and Subdivision 20-A of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, to have incurred so much (if any) of the expenditure as was incurred out of money contributed by the partner (otherwise than by way of loan), whether in the year of income in which the expenditure was incurred or a previous year of income.

Recoupments or grants

- (3) If the partnership has, whether before or after the commencement of this subsection, received, or become entitled to receive, a recoupment of, or a grant in respect of, the whole or any part of the expenditure, each partner is to be taken, for the purposes of sections 73BC, 73C and 73CA of this Act, and Subdivision 20-A of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, to have received, or become entitled to receive, so much (if any) of the recoupment or grant as is worked out in accordance with the formula:

$$\frac{\text{Amount of recoupment or grant} \times \text{Partner's contribution}}{\text{Total contributions}}$$

where:

partner's contribution means the total contribution made (otherwise than by way of loan) by the partner to the funds of the partnership as at the time when the recoupment or grant was received or the entitlement to the recoupment or grant arose, as the case may be.

total contribution means the total of the contributions made (otherwise than by way of loan) by all the partners to the funds of the partnership as at the time when the recoupment or grant was received or the entitlement to the recoupment or grant arose, as the case may be.

Exception to subsections (2) and (3)

- (4) If the partnership is not designated as a Co-operative Research Centre under the program known as the Co-operative Research Centres Program, subsection 73C(2A) does not apply in relation to the expenditure that a partner is taken to have incurred by subsection (2) or (3) of this section.

Effect on net income and partnership loss calculation

- (5) Any expenditure that a partner is taken to have incurred by subsection (2) or (3) of this subsection, and any recoupment or grant that a partner is taken to have received or become entitled to receive, is not to be taken into account in determining the net income of the partnership or any partnership loss, as the case may be, of the year of income.

Provisions to apply to each partner, not partnership

- (6) Subject to subsections (2) to (5) of this section, sections 73BC, 73C and 73CA of this Act, and Subdivision 20-A of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, apply in relation to each such partner that is an eligible company as if that partner, and not the partnership, were, or had been, carrying on the relevant project and activities, but so apply with such modifications to those sections as are appropriate having regard to the partner's interest in the partnership.

Board means Innovation Australia, established by the Industry Research and Development Act 1986.

eligible company has the same meaning as in section 73B.

research and development activities has the same meaning as in section 73B.

section 73BA depreciating asset has the meaning given by section 73BB.

section 73BA depreciating asset expenditure has the meaning given by subsection 73BC(4).

73BF Balancing adjustments: section 73BA depreciating assets

(1) If:

- (a) a balancing adjustment event (within the meaning of section 40-295 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) happens in relation to a section 73BA depreciating asset of an eligible company; and
- (b) one or more deductions have been allowed or are allowable to the eligible company under section 73BA or 73BH for the asset for a year or years of income, or would have been so allowed or allowable if:
 - (i) the company had not chosen a tax offset under section 73I; or
 - (ii) section 73BAF had not been enacted; and
- (c) no deduction:
 - (i) is allowable to the eligible company under section 40-25 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 for the asset for any year of income; or
 - (ii) was allowable to the eligible company under section 42-15 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, as in force before its repeal by the New Business Tax System (Capital Allowances) Act 2001, for the asset for any year of income; and
- (d) a deduction would be allowable to the eligible company, or an amount would be included in the eligible company's assessable income, in respect of the balancing adjustment event under Subdivision 40-D of that Act if:
 - (i) the changes set out in section 73BC were made; and
 - (ii) section 40-292 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 and this section (other than this paragraph) had not been enacted;

then the deduction mentioned in paragraph (d) is allowable to the eligible company, or the amount mentioned in paragraph (d) is included in the eligible company's assessable income, under this section for the year of income in which the balancing adjustment event occurs.

Note 1: If deductions have been allowed etc. under both section 73BA or 73BH of this Act and section 40-25 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 for a section 73BA depreciating asset, the balancing adjustment provisions of Division 40 of that Act apply in a modified way: see section 40-292 of that Act.

Note 2: An asset whose tax cost is set under Division 701 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 may have its adjustable value reduced in applying this section: see section 73BAG of this Act.

Increase in deduction or assessable amount where section 73BA deductions allowable at 1.25 rate

- (2) However, if at least one of the deductions mentioned in paragraph (1)(b) was worked out by multiplying a notional Division 40 deduction or a notional Division 42 deduction by 1.25 (or would have been so worked out had section 73BAF not been enacted), subsection (3) applies.
- (3) Any amount (the subsection (1) amount) allowable as a deduction to, or included in the assessable income of, the eligible company under subsection (1) of this section for the section 73BA depreciating asset is increased by the amount worked out using the formula:

$$\frac{\text{Sum of all 1.25 rate notional Division 40/42 deductions}}{\text{Total decline in value}} \times \frac{\text{Adjusted subsection (1) amount}}{\text{amount}} \times 0.25$$

where:

adjusted subsection (1) amount means:

- (a) if the subsection (1) amount is a deduction—the amount of the deduction; or
- (b) if the subsection (1) amount is an amount included in the eligible company's assessable income—so much of the subsection (1) amount as does not exceed the formula component total decline in value.

sum of all 1.25 rate notional Division 40/42 deductions means the sum of all notional Division 40 deductions or notional Division 42 deductions that were multiplied by 1.25 in working out the deductions mentioned in paragraph (1)(b) for the section 73BA depreciating asset.

total decline in value means the cost of the section 73BA depreciating asset, less its adjustable value, just before the balancing adjustment event, where that cost and adjustable value are the amounts taken into account in applying Subdivision 40-D of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in accordance with paragraph (1)(d) for the purpose of working out the subsection (1) amount.

(3A) Subsection (3B) has effect if:

- (a) the head company of a consolidated group or MEC group can deduct an amount under subsection (1) for a section 73BA depreciating asset for a year of income; and
- (b) the head company's aggregate research and development amount for the year of income exceeds $20,000; and
- (c) the asset was used exclusively for research and development activities since its tax cost was set under Division 701 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

(3B) The numerator in the formula in subsection (3) is increased by any expenditure on the asset that the head company can deduct under section 73B after the asset's tax cost was set.

Assessability of amounts received in respect of results etc. of research and development activities

(4) Subject to subsections (5) and (6), if:

- (a) an eligible company has incurred any expenditure in respect of which:
 - (i) a deduction under section 73BA or 73BH has been allowed or is allowable to the company, or would have been so allowed or allowable if the company had not chosen a tax offset under section 73I; or
 - (ii) in the case of a company whose income was exempt from tax when the expenditure was incurred—a deduction under section 73BA or 73BH would have been allowable if the company's income had not been so exempt from tax; and
- (b) the eligible company receives or is entitled to receive:
 - (i) an amount in respect of the results of any of the research and development activities in relation to which the expenditure was incurred; or
 - (ii) an amount attributable to the company having incurred the expenditure, including an amount that it is entitled to receive irrespective of the results of the activities;

that amount is included in the company's assessable income of the year of income in which the company received or became entitled to receive it.

- (5) The reference in subsection (4) to a company receiving or being entitled to receive an amount in respect of the results of any research and development activities includes a reference to:
- (a) the company receiving or being entitled to receive an amount from the grant of access to, or the grant of a right to use, any of those results; and
 - (b) the company receiving or being entitled to receive an amount from the disposal of, or of an interest in, any section 73BA depreciating asset or from the grant of a right to use any section 73BA depreciating asset where, as a result of the disposal or grant, another person has acquired a right of access to, or a right to use, any of those results;
- but does not include a reference to the company receiving or being entitled to receive an amount in consequence of the use by the company of any of those results.
- (6) If a company receives or is entitled to receive an amount as mentioned in paragraph (5)(b), the amount to be included in the company's assessable income under subsection (4) is only so much (if any) of the amount mentioned in that paragraph as exceeds the cost to the company of acquiring or constructing the section 73BA depreciating asset concerned.

73BG Effective life calculation under Division 40 of Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to take into account use for purpose of carrying on research and development activities

- (1) This section has effect for the purposes of working out, under sections 40-100, 40-105 and 40-110 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (whether in their application for the purposes of section 73BA of this Act or otherwise), the effective life of a depreciating asset of an eligible company.
- (2) If, at the time at which the effective life is worked out, it is reasonably likely that the depreciating asset will be used at some time by any eligible company for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the eligible company of research and development activities:
 - (a) the references in:
 - (i) item 1.1 of the table in section 40-10 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to the period the asset can be used to produce income; and

 - (b) in applying paragraph 40-100(4)(c) and subsection 40-105(2) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, it is to be concluded that no eligible company that can use the asset for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the eligible company of research and development activities will scrap the asset, will sell it for scrap value or less or will abandon it, for reasons attributable to technical risk in the carrying on of those activities.

73BH Deduction for plant etc. used for purpose of carrying on research and development activities

Entitlement to deduction

- (1) If an eligible company has a notional Division 42 deduction for a unit of section 73BH plant for a year of income, the company is entitled to a deduction under this section for the plant for the year of income.

Amount of deduction

- (2) If the eligible company's aggregate research and development amount for the year of income is more than $20,000, the deduction is equal to the notional Division 42 deduction multiplied by 1.25. If not, it equals the notional Division 42 deduction.

No deduction if earlier Division 42 pooling or low-value pool deductions allowable

- (3) An eligible company is not entitled to a deduction under this section for a unit of section 73BH plant for any period if the company was entitled to a deduction for the unit for any earlier period under Division 42 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, in a case to which Subdivision 42-L or 42-M (about pooling and low-value pools) of that Division applied.

Expenditure deductible under this section not deductible under other provisions

- (6) If the whole or a part of an amount of expenditure incurred by an eligible company has been allowed or is or may become allowable as a deduction under this section, that whole or part is not an allowable deduction, and is not to be taken into account in working out the amount of an allowable deduction, from the assessable income of the company of any year of income under any other provision of this Act.

Section 73BI

Definitions

(7) In this section:

aggregate research and development amount has the same meaning as in section 73B.

eligible company has the same meaning as in section 73B.

notional Division 42 deduction has the meaning given by section 73BJ.

section 73BH plant has the meaning given by section 73BI.

73BI Meaning of section 73BH plant

(1) A unit of section 73BH plant of an eligible company is a thing for which the eligible company could (ignoring section 73BH) deduct an amount under section 42-15 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 if the following assumptions were made:

- (b) the definition of plant in section 42-18 of that Act included capital works (other than buildings) to which Division 43 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 applies, or to which that Division would apply but for expenditure being incurred, or capital works being started, before a particular day;
- (c) the eligible company satisfied any relevant requirement for deductibility under that Division.

(2) However, subsection (1) does not apply to a thing:

- (a) acquired, or constructed, under a contract entered into by the company at or before 12 pm, by legal time in the Australian Capital Territory, on 29 January 2001; or
- (b) that the company commenced to construct at or before 12 pm, by legal time in the Australian Capital Territory, on 29 January 2001.

(3) In this section:

eligible company has the same meaning as in section 73B.

73BJ Meaning of notional Division 42 deduction

Notional Division 42 deduction

- (1) An eligible company has a notional Division 42 deduction for a year of income for a unit of section 73BH plant if it would be entitled to a deduction for the plant under section 42-15 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 for the year of income assuming the changes set out in this section were made.

First change: replacement of references to use or installation ready for use for purpose of producing assessable income

- (2) The first change is that references in Division 42 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to using the unit, or having it installed ready for use, for the purpose of producing assessable income are instead references to using the unit for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the eligible company of research and development activities.

Second change: method for calculating deduction where previous Division 42 deduction

- (3) The second change is that, if the eligible company was actually entitled to a deduction under Division 42 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 for the unit of section 73BH plant for any period before the start of the first period for which the company will be entitled to a deduction for the plant under this subsection, the same method for calculating the deduction as the company was using for the unit for the earlier period is used.

Third change: treatment of expenditure to which section 73BK or 73BL applies

- (4) The third change is that, in working out the cost of the unit of section 73BH plant, any amount of expenditure (section 73BH plant expenditure) that would otherwise form part of that cost is to be ignored or treated in some other way if section 73BK or 73BL so provides for the purposes of this section.

Section 73BK

Fourth change: certain provisions to be ignored

- (5) The fourth change is that Division 42 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 applies as if section 73BH of this Act and Subdivisions 42-L and 42-M of that Act had not been enacted.

Definition

- (6) In this section:

 - (ii) the amount of that expenditure would have been less if the company and that other person had dealt with each other at arm's length in relation to the incurring of that expenditure;

so much only of that expenditure is to be taken into account for the purposes of section 73BJ as the Commissioner considers reasonable having regard to:

- (c) the connection between the company and that other person; and
- (d) the amount of the expenditure that would, in the opinion of the Commissioner, have been incurred by the company if the company and that other person had dealt with each other at arm's length in relation to the incurring of that expenditure; and
- (e) such other matters as the Commissioner considers relevant.

- (6) Subject to subsections (7) and (8), if the Board gives to the Commissioner a certificate in relation to a company or companies under subsection 39PB(6) of the Industry Research and Development Act 1986, section 73BH plant expenditure in relation to research and development activities referred to in the certificate that is incurred by that company or any of those companies after the day stated in the certificate is ignored for the purposes of section 73BJ.
- (7) Subsection (6) of this section does not apply to section 73BH plant expenditure in relation to research and development activities in respect of which a company is registered under section 39J of the Industry Research and Development Act 1986.

- (8) If a certificate mentioned in subsection (3), (4), (5) or (6) is revoked, this section applies, and is taken to have applied, as if the certificate had not been given.

Expenditure on overseas research and development activities

- (9) Section 73BH plant expenditure incurred by an eligible company on overseas research and development activities is ignored for the purposes of section 73BJ unless the Board gave a provisional certificate in respect of the expenditure under section 39ED of the Industry Research and Development Act 1986 before the expenditure was incurred.

Expenditure incurred on behalf of another person

- (a) a balancing adjustment event (within the meaning of subsection 42-30(3) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) happens in relation to a unit of section 73BH plant of an eligible company; and
- (b) one or more deductions have been allowed or are allowable to the eligible company under section 73BH for the unit for a year or years of income; and
- (c) no deduction was allowable to the eligible company under section 42-15 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 for the unit for any year of income; and
- (d) a deduction would be allowable to the eligible company, or an amount would be included in the eligible company's assessable income, in respect of the balancing adjustment event under Subdivision 42-F of that Act as so in force, if:
 - (i) the changes set out in section 73BJ were made; and
 - (ii) section 42-220A of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 and this section (other than this paragraph) had not been enacted;

then the deduction mentioned in paragraph (d) is allowable to the eligible company, or the amount mentioned in paragraph (d) is included in the eligible company's assessable income, under this section for the year of income in which the balancing adjustment event occurs.

Note: If deductions have been allowable under both section 73BH of this Act and section 42-15 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 for a unit of section 73BH plant, the balancing adjustment provisions of Division 42 of that Act apply in a modified way: see section 42-220A of that Act.

Increase in deduction or assessable amount where section 73BH deductions allowable at 1.25 rate

- (2) However, if at least one of the deductions mentioned in paragraph (1)(b) was worked out by multiplying a notional Division 42 deduction by 1.25, subsection (3) applies.

- (3) Any amount (the eligible subsection (1) amount):
- (a) allowable as a deduction to the eligible company under subsection (1) of this section for the unit of section 73BH plant; or
 - (b) included in the assessable income of the eligible company under subsection (1) of this section for the unit of section 73BH plant, where that amount is so included as a result of the application of section 42-190 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in accordance with paragraph (1)(d) of this section; is increased by the amount worked out using the formula:

$$\frac{\text{Sum of all 1.25 rate notional Division 42 deductions}}{\text{Total decline in value}} \times \frac{\text{Eligible subsection (1) amount}}{\text{amount}} \times 0.25$$

where:

total decline in value means the cost of the unit of section 73BH plant, less its undeducted cost, just before the balancing adjustment event, where that cost and undeducted cost are the amounts taken into account in applying Subdivision 42-F of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in accordance with paragraph (1)(d) for the purpose of working out the deduction allowable to the eligible company, or the amount included in the eligible company's assessable income, under subsection (1) for the unit.

Assessability of amounts received in respect of results etc. of research and development activities

- (4) Subject to subsections (5) and (6), if:
- (a) an eligible company has incurred any expenditure in respect of which:
 - (i) a deduction under section 73BH has been allowed or is allowable to the company; or
 - (ii) in the case of a company whose income was exempt from tax when the expenditure was incurred—a deduction under section 73BH would have been

allowable if the company's income had not been so exempt from tax; and

(b) the eligible company receives or is entitled to receive:

- (i) an amount in respect of the results of any of the research and development activities in relation to which the expenditure was incurred; or
- (ii) an amount attributable to the company having incurred the expenditure, including an amount that it is entitled to receive irrespective of the results of the activities;

that amount is included in the company's assessable income of the year of income in which the company received or became entitled to receive it.

(5) The reference in subsection (4) to a company receiving or being entitled to receive an amount in respect of the results of any research and development activities includes a reference to:

- (a) the company receiving or being entitled to receive an amount from the grant of access to, or the grant of a right to use, any of those results; and
- (b) the company receiving or being entitled to receive an amount from the disposal of, or of an interest in, any section 73BH plant or from the grant of a right to use any section 73BH plant where, as a result of the disposal or grant, another person has acquired a right of access to, or a right to use, any of those results;

but does not include a reference to the company receiving or being entitled to receive an amount in consequence of the use by the company of any of those results.

(6) If a company receives or is entitled to receive an amount as mentioned in paragraph (5)(b), the amount to be included in the company's assessable income under subsection (4) is only so much (if any) of the amount mentioned in that paragraph as exceeds the cost to the company of acquiring or constructing the section 73BH plant concerned.

plant has the same meaning as in Division 42 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

73C Recouped expenditure on research and development activities

(1) For the purposes of interpretation, this section is to be read and construed as if it were part of section 73B.

(2) This section applies where:

(a) an eligible company has, at any time on or after 1 July 1985, incurred expenditure (in this section called the relevant expenditure) on research and development activities that formed or form part of a particular project carried on by or on behalf of the company; and

(b) the company has, whether before or after the commencement of this section, received, or become entitled to receive, a recoupment of, or a grant in respect of, the whole or any part of the relevant expenditure by or from the Commonwealth, a State or a Territory, an STB (within the meaning of Division 1AB) or an authority constituted by or under a law of the Commonwealth, of a State or of a Territory, or another person has received or become entitled to receive such a recoupment or grant where the other person is, at the time of receipt or entitlement, grouped with the first-mentioned company as mentioned in section 73L.

(2A) A reference in this section to a recoupment of, or a grant in respect of, the whole or any part of expenditure incurred by an eligible company on research and development activities that formed or form part of a particular project carried on by or on behalf of the company does not include a reference to a recoupment or grant where the recoupment or grant is made:

(a) by or from the Commonwealth; and

(b) under the program known as the Co-operative Research Centres Program.

- (3) Where this section applies to a company in respect of relevant expenditure in relation to a particular project:
- (a) the relevant expenditure is subject to the application of clawback in accordance with this section; and
 - (b) for the purposes of this section the initial clawback amount in relation to the relevant expenditure is an amount equal to twice the amount, or twice the total of the amounts, as the case may be, that the company or the grouped person (see paragraph (2)(b)) has received, or become entitled to receive, as a recoupment of, or as a grant in respect of, any of the relevant expenditure as mentioned in paragraph (2)(b).
- (4) A deduction is not allowable, and is to be taken never to have been allowable, under section 73B in respect of any relevant expenditure that was incurred before 21 November 1987 and in respect of which this section applies to the company, and that expenditure is, subject to the provisions of this section relating to clawback, to be disregarded for the purposes of the application of section 73B to the company.
- (5) The following subsections apply only if the relevant expenditure includes, or consists wholly of, expenditure incurred on or after 21 November 1987.
- (6) Where the relevant expenditure includes both expenditure incurred before 21 November 1987 and expenditure incurred on or after that date:
- (a) if the initial clawback amount is equal to or less than the relevant expenditure that was incurred before that date, clawback applies to so much of the relevant expenditure that was incurred before that date as does not exceed the initial clawback amount; or
 - (b) if the initial clawback amount exceeds the relevant expenditure that was incurred before that date, the following provisions have effect:
 - (i) clawback applies to so much of the relevant expenditure as was incurred before that date;
 - (ii) if the excess (in the following subparagraphs called the excess clawback amount) is equal to or greater than so much of the relevant expenditure as was or is incurred on or after that date (in this subsection called the

- deductible relevant expenditure*)—clawback applies to the whole of the deductible relevant expenditure;
- (iii) if the excess clawback amount is less than the deductible relevant expenditure—clawback applies to so much of the deductible relevant expenditure as does not exceed the excess clawback amount;
 - (iv) for the purpose of applying clawback to deductible relevant expenditure as mentioned in subparagraph (iii):
 - (A) regard is to be had first to the earliest year of income of the company in which any deductible relevant expenditure was incurred and then, if necessary, in chronological order to each later year of income; and
 - (B) to the extent that clawback is applied to deductible relevant expenditure incurred in a year of income of the company, the excess clawback amount to be applied to such expenditure incurred in a later year of income is reduced accordingly; and
 - (C) if the part of the excess clawback amount that is applicable to deductible relevant expenditure incurred in a year of income is less than that expenditure and that expenditure comprises 2 or more kinds of expenditure—that part of the excess clawback amount is to be apportioned among those kinds of expenditure in such manner as the Commissioner determines, being an apportionment that will minimise any reduction in the deduction allowable to the company under section 73B, 73BA or 73BH in respect of that expenditure.
- (7) Where the relevant expenditure consists wholly of expenditure incurred on or after 21 November 1987 the following provisions have effect:
- (a) if the initial clawback amount is equal to or greater than the relevant expenditure—clawback applies to the whole of that expenditure;
 - (b) if the initial clawback amount is less than the relevant expenditure—clawback applies to so much of the relevant expenditure as does not exceed the initial clawback amount;

- (c) for the purpose of applying clawback to relevant expenditure as mentioned in paragraph (b):
- (i) subject to subparagraph (ii), regard is to be had to the years of income of the company in the following order:
 - (A) the year of income, or, in chronological order, each year of income, in which the company or the grouped person (see paragraph (2)(b)) received, or became entitled to receive, an amount that is taken into account in ascertaining the initial clawback amount;
 - (B) in reverse chronological order, each year of income before the year, or the earliest year, of income referred to in sub-subparagraph (A);
 - (C) in chronological order, each year of income to which regard has not been had under sub-subparagraph (A) or (B); and
 - (ii) if the company or the grouped person did not receive, or become entitled to receive, any part of the initial clawback amount until after the last year of income in which any of the relevant expenditure was incurred, regard is to be had first to the latest year of income in respect of which a deduction was allowed, or is allowable, under section 73B, 73BA or 73BH in respect of any of that expenditure or would have been allowable under that section if the company or the grouped person had not chosen a tax offset under section 73I and then, in reverse chronological order, to each of the earlier years of income; and
 - (iii) to the extent that clawback is applied to relevant expenditure incurred in a year of income of the company, the initial clawback amount to be applied to such expenditure incurred in another year of income is reduced accordingly; and
 - (iv) if the part of the initial clawback amount that is applicable to relevant expenditure incurred in a year of income is less than that expenditure and that expenditure comprises 2 or more kinds of expenditure—that part of the initial clawback amount is to be apportioned among those kinds of expenditure in such manner as the Commissioner determines, being an apportionment that will minimise any reduction in the deduction allowable to the company under section 73B, 73BA or 73BH in respect of that expenditure.

- (8) Where clawback applies to contracted expenditure incurred on or after 21 November 1987, subsection 73B(13) has effect in relation to that expenditure as if there were omitted from that subsection multiplied by 1.25.
- (9) If clawback applies to expenditure (other than contracted expenditure) incurred on or after 21 November 1987, subsections 73B(4E) and (14), paragraph 73B(15)(a), paragraph 73B(15)(a) and subsections 73BA(3) and 73BH(2) have effect as if multiplied by 1.25 were omitted from those subsections and that paragraph.
- (10) Except as provided by subsections (8) and (9), the application of clawback to any expenditure does not have any effect for the purposes of section 73B, 73BA or 73BH.

73CA Guaranteed returns to investors

- (1) For the purposes of interpretation, this section is to be read and construed as if it were part of section 73B.
- (2) Where:
 - (a) an amount or amounts would, but for this section, be allowable as a deduction or deductions under section 73B, 73BA or 73BH, as affected by section 73C to an eligible company in respect of expenditure incurred in a year of income; and
 - (b) that amount or the sum of those amounts exceeds the amount of the expenditure; and
 - (c) the Commissioner is satisfied that, when the expenditure was incurred, the company was not at risk in respect of the whole or a part of the expenditure;the following provisions of this section have effect.
- (3) If the Commissioner is so satisfied in respect of the whole of the expenditure, the amount, or the sum of the amounts, referred to in paragraph (2)(a) is taken to be reduced by the amount of the excess referred to in paragraph (2)(b).
- (4) If the Commissioner is so satisfied in respect of part of the expenditure, the amount, or the sum of the amounts, referred to in paragraph (2)(a) is taken to be reduced by an amount ascertained in accordance with the formula:

$$\text{Excess} \times \frac{\text{Part of expenditure not at risk}}{\text{The amount of the expenditure}}$$

where:

Excess means the amount of the excess referred to in paragraph (2)(b).

Part of expenditure not at risk means the part of the expenditure in respect of which the Commissioner is satisfied that the company was not at risk when the expenditure was incurred.

- (5) For the purposes of the application of this section in relation to any expenditure incurred by a company, the company is taken to have not been at risk at the time when the expenditure was incurred in respect of so much of the expenditure as does not exceed any consideration that, in the opinion of the Commissioner, because of:
- (a) any act that occurred, transaction or agreement that was entered into, or circumstance that existed, before or at that time; or
 - (b) any act that was likely to occur, any transaction or agreement that was likely to be entered into, or any circumstance that was likely to exist, after that time;

- (2) For the purposes of this section:
- (a) a body is taken to be an authority of the Commonwealth if:
 - (i) the Commonwealth has a controlling interest in the body; or
 - (ii) the Commonwealth has an interest in the body and the only other persons having an interest in the body are Australian governments or Australian governmental authorities; and
 - (b) a body is taken to be an authority of a State if:

 - (ii) the State has an interest in the body and the only other persons having an interest in the body are Australian governments or Australian governmental authorities; and
 - (c) a body is taken to be an authority of a Territory if:
 - (i) the Territory has a controlling interest in the body; or
 - (ii) the Territory has an interest in the body and the only other persons having an interest in the body are Australian governments or Australian governmental authorities.
- (3) For the purposes of this section, but without limiting the meaning of the expression “associate”:
- (a) the Commonwealth is taken to be an associate of each authority of the Commonwealth; and
 - (b) an authority of the Commonwealth is taken to be an associate of each other authority of the Commonwealth; and

- (b) any act that was likely to occur, any transaction or agreement that was likely to be entered into, or any circumstance that was likely to exist, after that time.

73E Section 73B roll-over relief on disposal of unit of plant to another member of same wholly-owned group

- (1A) This section does not apply in respect of a disposal in respect of which Subdivision 170-D of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 applies.

Roll-over relief where CGT roll-over relief allowed

- (1) This section applies to the disposal of a unit of plant by an eligible company (in this section called the transferor) to another eligible company (in this section called the transferee) if:
 - (a) the disposal involves a CGT event for which there is a roll-over under Subdivision 126-B of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, as in force before the amendments made to that Subdivision by the New Business Tax System (Consolidation) Act (No. 1) 2002 (or would be, disregarding the exemption in section 118-5 of that Act, so far as it relates to a car, motor cycle or similar vehicle, or to an interest in one); and
 - (b) subject to subsection (11), a deduction or deductions have been allowed or are allowable under subsection 73B(15) to the transferor in respect of the unit; and
 - (c) no deduction has been allowed or is allowable under the former section 54 of this Act or the former Division 42 (Depreciation) or Subdivision 40-B (Capital allowances) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to the transferor in respect of the unit.

No balancing charges

- (2) Subsection 73B(23) or (24), as the case requires, does not apply in respect of the disposal of the unit by the transferor.

No deduction for decline in value for transferor in year of disposal

- (3) A deduction under the former Division 42 (Depreciation) or Subdivision 40-B (Capital allowances) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 is not allowable to the transferor in respect of the unit in relation to the year of income in which the disposal took place.

Subsection 73B(4) definition of qualifying plant expenditure not applicable to transferee

- (4) Subsection 73B(4) does not apply to the transferee in relation to the unit.

Transferee to inherit transferor's qualifying plant expenditure

- (5) If:
- (a) immediately after the disposal took place, the transferee commences to use the unit exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the transferee of research and development activities; and
 - (b) apart from the disposal, there would have been an amount of qualifying plant expenditure in relation to the transferor in relation to:
 - (i) the year of income of the transferor in which the disposal took place; or
 - (ii) the first subsequent year of income of the transferor;

then:

- (c) subject to subsection 73B(5), section 73B and this section have effect as if an amount equal to that amount were taken:
 - (i) to have been incurred by the transferee in the acquisition of the unit; and
 - (ii) to be an amount of qualifying plant expenditure in relation to the transferee in relation to:
 - (A) if subparagraph (b)(i) applies—the year of income of the transferee in which the disposal took place; and
 - (B) if subparagraph (b)(ii) applies—the first subsequent year of income of the transferee; and
- (d) a reference in subsection 73B(21) to the end of the second year of income after the year of income in which the transferee first used the unit exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the transferee of research and development activities is to be read as a reference to the end of the 3-year period commencing at the beginning of:

Section 73E

- (i) the year of income in which the transferor first used the unit exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the transferor of research and development activities; or
 - (ii) if there have been 2 or more prior successive applications of this section—the earliest year of income in which a prior successive transferor first used the unit exclusively for the purpose of the carrying on by or on behalf of the prior successive transferor of research and development activities; and
- (e) the reference in subsection 73B(22) to deductions having been allowed to the transferee under subsection 73B(15) in relation to the unit in respect of 3 years of income is to be read as a reference to deductions having been allowed to the transferee under subsection 73B(15) in relation to the unit in respect of 3 years of income, reduced by one year for each year of income for which a deduction was allowed or allowable under subsection 73B(15) to:
- (i) the transferor in respect of the unit; or
 - (ii) if there have been 2 or more prior successive applications of this section—any of the prior successive transferors in respect of the unit.

Modification of capital allowance provisions applicable to transferee

- (6) If a deduction is or becomes allowable to the transferee for the decline in value of the unit, the provisions of Division 40 (Capital allowances) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 apply as if:
- (a) the transferee had acquired the unit for a cost equal to the modified written-down value of the unit; and
 - (b) subsections 73B(21) and (22) had effect as if a reference in those subsections to the written-down value of the unit were a reference to the modified written-down value of the unit; and
 - (c) in relation to the year of income of the transferee in which the disposal took place, the component “days held” in the formula in section 40-70 or 40-75 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 included the number of days in that year when the transferor both:

- (i) held the unit within the meaning of Division 40 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997; and
- (ii) used it for a taxable purpose within the meaning of that Division or had it installed ready for use for that purpose.

Disposal by transferee where no roll-over relief—inheritance of transferor's cost and deductions

(7) If:

- (a) after the disposal of the unit to the transferee, the unit is lost or destroyed or the transferee disposes of the unit; and
- (b) in the case of a disposal by the transferee—this section does not apply to the disposal;

then, for the purposes of the application of subsection 73B(23) or (24), as the case may be, in relation to the loss, destruction or disposal, those subsections have effect as if:

- (c) a reference in those subsections to the written-down value of the unit were a reference to the modified written-down value of the unit; and
- (d) a reference in those subsections, and in the definition of ineligible pilot plant amount in subsection 73B(1), to the cost of the unit were a reference to:
 - (i) the cost of the unit to the transferor (worked out as if subsection 73B(6) had not been enacted); or
 - (ii) if there have been 2 or more prior successive applications of this section—the cost of the unit to the earliest prior successive transferor (worked out as if subsection 73B(6) had not been enacted); and
- (e) a reference in paragraph 73B(24)(f) to a year of income in respect of which a deduction has been allowed under section 73B to the transferee in respect of the unit were worked out on the basis that whichever of the following is applicable:
 - (i) the deductions allowed or allowable to the transferor under section 73B in respect of one or more years of income in relation to the unit;
 - (ii) if there have been 2 or more prior successive applications of this section—the deductions allowed or allowable to the prior successive transferors under section 73B in respect of one or more years of income in relation to the unit;

had been deductions allowed or allowable to the transferee under section 73B in respect of the years of income in relation to the unit.

Meaning of modified written-down value

(8) For the purposes of the application of subsections (6) and (7) to the transferee, the modified written-down value of the unit is the amount that would have been the written-down value if:

(a) whichever of the following is applicable:

- (i) the deductions allowed or allowable to the transferor under section 73B in respect of one or more years of income in relation to the unit;
- (ii) if there have been 2 or more prior successive applications of this section—the deductions allowed or allowable to the prior successive transferors under section 73B in respect of one or more years of income in relation to the unit;

had been deductions allowed or allowable to the transferee under section 73B in respect of the years of income in relation to the unit; and

(b) whichever of the following is applicable:

- (i) the cost of the unit to the transferor (worked out as if subsection 73B(6) had not been enacted);
- (ii) if there have been 2 or more prior successive applications of this section—the cost of the unit to the earliest prior successive transferor (worked out as if subsection 73B(6) had not been enacted);

had been the cost of the unit to the transferee.

Pilot plant covered by subsection 73B(6)

(9) If subsection 73B(6) applied to the unit in relation to the transferor, section 73B and this section have effect as if subsection 73B(6) applies to the unit in relation to the transferee.

Recoupment of expenditure—consequential amendment of assessments

- (10) Section 170 does not prevent the amendment at any time of an assessment of the transferee where section 73C or 73CB has applied to:
- (a) the transferor in respect of the unit; or
 - (b) if there have been 2 or more prior successive applications of this section—any of the prior successive transferors in respect of the unit.

Second or subsequent application of section—paragraph (1)(b) does not apply

- (11) If, apart from this subsection, this section has applied to the disposal of the unit to the transferee, then, in working out whether this section applies to a subsequent disposal of the unit by:
- (a) the transferee; or
 - (b) one or more subsequent successive transferees;
- this section has effect as if paragraph (1)(b) (which deals with deductions) had not been enacted.

Interpretation

- (13) For the purposes of interpretation, this section is to be construed as if it were part of section 73B.

Definition

- (14) In this section:
- modified written-down value* has the meaning given by subsection (8).

Note: The effects of paragraph (b) of the definition of incremental expenditure include preventing a company from counting as incremental expenditure:

- (a) expenditure that the company is required by subsection 73B(9) to disregard because it was incurred by the company for the purpose of carrying on research and development activities on behalf of another person; and
- (b) expenditure on overseas research and development activities that is not certified expenditure and so is expenditure for which subsection 73B(17A) denies a deduction under subsection 73B(13) or (14).

R&D spend of an eligible company and its group members for a year of income means the sum of:

Section 73QA

- (3) For the purposes of the definition of incremental expenditure in subsection (2), where expenditure under a contract is both for the acquisition of plant and for the provision of services, the expenditure must be apportioned on a reasonable basis between them.
- (4) None of the expenditure referred to in subsection (3) can be incremental expenditure if a reasonable apportionment is not possible.
- (5) A company's incremental expenditure for a year of income excludes the total group markup of the company for that expenditure (as worked out under subsection 73B(14AC)).
- (6) In this section and in sections 73QA, 73QB, 73R, 73RA, 73RB, 73T and 73V, particular years of income are identified by the letter "Y" with a further identifier. Under that system:

 - (b) at no time in the nil expenditure year or the 10 immediately preceding years of income did any of the following carry on business in Australia:
 - (i) a foreign company that was grouped under section 73L with the eligible company at any time in the Y₀, Y₋₁, Y₋₂ or Y₋₃ year of income;
 - (ii) a foreign company that was grouped under section 73L with another group member (under section 73R) of the eligible company at any time during the other group member's group membership period (under section 73R);

Section 73QB

- (iii) a person who was grouped under section 73L with a foreign company described in subparagraph (i) or (ii) at any time in the nil expenditure year or the 10 immediately preceding years of income.

Note: Section 73R provides for:

- (a) primary group members to be determined on the basis of the relationship between companies at the end of the Y₀ year of income; and
- (b) secondary group members to be determined on the basis of the relationship between a company and a primary group member during the primary group member's group membership period (which ends at the end of the Y₀ year of income and starts at or after the start of the Y₋₃ year of income).

Amount of deduction

- (3) The eligible company may deduct an amount for the Y₀ year of income equal to 75% of the eligible company's share of the foreign owned part of the adjusted increase in expenditure on R&D by the group.
- (4) The eligible company's share of the foreign owned part of the adjusted increase in expenditure on R&D by the group is the amount worked out using the formula:

where:

adjusted increase in expenditure on R&D by the group means the amount worked out under section 73RE.

increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company means the amount worked out under subsection 73RB(1).

net increase in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the group means the amount worked out under section 73RC.

net increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the group means the amount worked out under section 73RD.

total increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible companies in the group means the amount worked out under subsection 73RB(2).

Note: The amount worked out using the formula will not be more than zero if at least one of the following is zero:

- (a) the increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company;
- (b) the net increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the group;
- (c) the adjusted increase in expenditure on R&D by the group.

Solitary company may be able to deduct under subsection (1)

- (5) To avoid doubt, an eligible company for which there are no other group members may be able to deduct an amount under subsection (1).

Note: For an eligible company for which there are no other group members, the values of the following components of the formula in subsection (4) will all be the same:

- (a) the increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company;
- (b) the total increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible companies in the group;
- (c) the net increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the group.

73R Group members

- (1) This section sets out rules for determining which eligible companies that have deducted or can deduct an amount under subsection 73B(13), (14) or (14C), or that received a start grant or commercial ready grant, are group members. In applying this section, use section 73L to determine whether companies are grouped.

- (2) Work out the group members of the eligible company and their group membership periods in this way:

Method statement

Step 1. Work out, as at the last day of the Y_0 year of income, which companies are grouped with the eligible company. The eligible company and these grouped companies are the primary group members.

Step 2. Work out the day before the last day of the Y_0 year of income, or the first day of the Y_{-3} year of income, whichever is the later, when a company that is a primary group member:

- (a) was controlled, as mentioned in section 73L, by a person other than a person who controlled it as at the last day of the Y_0 year of income; or
- (b) acted, or could be expected to act, in accordance with the directions or wishes of a person other than a person in accordance with whose directions or wishes it acted, or could be expected to act, as at the last day of the Y_0 year of income.

The period between this day and the last day of the Y_0 year of income is that company's group membership period.

Step 3. Any other company that was grouped with a primary group member at a time during the member's group membership period is a secondary group member.

Step 4. Work out the day before the last day of the Y_0 year of income when a secondary group member became grouped with the primary group member as mentioned in step 3, or the first day of the Y_{-3} year of income, whichever is the later.

Step 5. Work out the day before the last day of the Y_0 year of income when the secondary group member was not so grouped with the primary group member. The period between that day and the day worked out under step 4 is the secondary group member's group membership period.

Exception: secondary member leaving with a viable business

- (3) The period that would be a secondary group member's group membership period is treated as never having existed if, at the end of that period when the secondary group member stops being grouped with a primary group member, the secondary group member has a viable business.

Exception: extending group membership period

- (4) The group membership period of a group member of a particular group (the current group) is extended to include its history period with its former group (see subsection (5)) if, when the company became a group member of the current group, it did so with a viable business.

Viable business

- (5) A company stops being or starts being a group member of a group with a viable business if:
- (a) sufficient assets (including assets that have been used in carrying on research and development activities) are transferred under the transactions involved in the change of control to allow the continued operation of a business; and
 - (b) the person or persons that disposed of control of the company agree in writing with the person or persons that gain control that this subsection should apply; and
 - (c) the person or persons that disposed of control of the company provide written details of the following needed to enable the making of calculations required by sections 73QA, 73QB, 73RA, 73RB, 73RC, 73RD, 73RE, 73T and 73V:
 - (i) expenditure incurred by the company during the period (its history period) it was a group member of its former group;

Section 73RA

- (ii) receipts of grants and recouplements relating to that expenditure;
- (iii) entitlements to receive grants and recouplements relating to that expenditure.

Note: The definition of person includes trusts, partnerships and other entities as well as companies: see section 73H.

- (6) The written agreement referred to in paragraph (5)(b) must be made, and the written details referred to in paragraph (5)(c) must be provided:
 - (a) for a change of control occurring before 1 July 2002—by 30 June 2002; or
 - (b) otherwise—by the end of the year of income in which the change of control occurs; or
 - (c) within a further time allowed by the Commissioner.

73RA Increases in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by eligible companies

- (1) For the purposes of section 73QA, work out the increase in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company as follows:

Method statement

Step 1. For each of the Y_0 , Y_{-1} , Y_{-2} and Y_{-3} years of income, work out the eligible company's incremental expenditure incurred in its group membership period.

Step 2. For each of the Y_0 , Y_{-1} , Y_{-2} and Y_{-3} years of income, work out how much (if any) of the initial clawback amount (if any) under section 73C relating to expenditure incurred by the eligible company is attributable to incremental expenditure incurred in the eligible company's group membership period.

Step 3. For each of those years of income, reduce (but not below zero) the result of step 1 for the year of income by the result of step 2 for the year of income. The result is the reduced expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the year of income.

Step 4. Add up:

- (a) the reduced expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the Y_{-1} year of income; and
- (b) the reduced expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the Y_{-2} year of income; and
- (c) the reduced expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the Y_{-3} year of income.

Step 5. Divide the result of step 4 by 3.

Step 6. Subtract the result of step 5 from the reduced expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the Y_0 year of income (see step 3). The result is the change in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company.

Note: The change in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company may be a positive or negative number or zero.

Step 7. The increase in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company is:

- (a) the change in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company; or
- (b) zero, if the change in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company is a negative number.

Section 73RB

- (2) For the purposes of section 73QA, work out the total increase in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible companies in the group as follows:

Method statement

Step 1. For each group member that is an eligible company, work out the increase in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company under subsection (1) of this section.

Step 2. Total the results of step 1.

73RB Increases in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by eligible companies

- (1) For the purposes of section 73QB, work out the increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company as follows:

Method statement

Step 1. For the Y_0 year of income, work out the amount of the expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company for the year of income (see subsections 73B(14C) and (14D)) that was incurred by the company in its group membership period. The result is the expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the year of income.

Step 2. For the Y_0 year of income, work out how much (if any) of the initial clawback amount (if any) under section 73C relating to expenditure incurred by the eligible company is attributable to the expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the year of income.

Step 3. Reduce (but not below zero) the result of step 1 for the year of income by the result of step 2 for the year of income. The result is the reduced expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the Y_0 year of income.

Step 4. For each of the Y_{-1} , Y_{-2} and Y_{-3} years of income, work out the amount (the notional expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the year of income) of expenditure that:

- (a) was incurred by the company in its group membership period; and
- (b) would have been expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company for the year of income (see subsections 73B(14C) and (14D)) if subsection 73B(2BA) had not been enacted.

Note 1: This requires counting of expenditure relating to all activities that would have been research and development activities had they been carried on in accordance with a plan described in subsection 73B(2BA) (whether or not they were carried on in that way).

Note 2: If all relevant activities were carried on in accordance with such a plan, and the eligible company's group membership period includes the whole of the year of income, the notional expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the year of income is the same as the expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the company for the year of income.

Step 5. For each of the Y_{-1} , Y_{-2} and Y_{-3} years of income, work out what would have been the amount of the eligible company's initial clawback amount (if any) under section 73C attributable to the notional expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the year of income if subsection 73B(2BA) had not been enacted.

Note: This requires counting of grants and recoupments described in section 73C relating to expenditure on projects involving activities that would have been research and development activities had they been carried on in accordance with a plan described in subsection 73B(2BA) (whether or not they were carried on in that way).

Step 6. For each of the Y_{-1} , Y_{-2} and Y_{-3} years of income, reduce (but not below zero) the result of step 4 for the year of income by the result of step 5 for the year of income. The result is the reduced notional expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the year of income.

Step 7. Add up:

- (a) the reduced notional expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the Y_{-1} year of income; and
- (b) the reduced notional expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the Y_{-2} year of income; and
- (c) the reduced notional expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for the Y_{-3} year of income.

Step 8. Divide the result of step 7 by 3.

Step 9. Subtract the result of step 8 from the reduced expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company for the Y_0 year of income (see step 3). The result is the change in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company.

Note: The change in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company may be a positive or negative number or zero.

Step 10. The increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company is:

- (a) the change in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company; or
- (b) zero, if the change in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company is a negative number.

- (2) For the purposes of section 73QB, work out the total increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible companies in the group as follows:

Method statement

Step 1. For each group member that is an eligible company, work out the increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company under subsection (1) of this section.

Step 2. Total the results of step 1.

73RC Net increase in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the group

For the purposes of sections 73QA and 73QB, work out the net increase in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the group as follows:

Method statement

Step 1. For each eligible company that was a group member, work out under steps 1 to 6 (inclusive) of the method statement in subsection 73RA(1) the change in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company.

Step 2. Total the results of step 1. If the result is a negative number, the net increase in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the group is zero instead.

73RD Net increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the group

For the purposes of sections 73QA and 73QB, work out the net increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the group as follows:

Method statement

Step 1. For each eligible company that was a group member, work out under steps 1 to 9 (inclusive) of the method statement in subsection 73RB(1) the change in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company.

Step 2. Total the results of step 1. If the result is a negative number, the net increase in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the group is zero instead.

73RE Adjusted increase in expenditure on R&D by the group

Work out the adjusted increase in expenditure on R&D by the group as follows:

Method statement

Step 1. For each eligible company that was a group member, work out under steps 1 to 6 (inclusive) of the method statement in subsection 73RA(1) the change in expenditure on Australian owned R&D by the eligible company.

Step 2. For each eligible company that was a group member, work out under steps 1 to 9 (inclusive) of the method statement in subsection 73RB(1) the change in expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company.

Step 3. Add up all the results of steps 1 and 2.

Note: If the sum is a negative number, the adjusted increase in expenditure on R&D by the group will be zero.

Step 4. Subtract the adjustment balance worked out under section 73V from the result of step 3. If the result is a negative number, the adjusted increase in expenditure on R&D by the group is zero instead.

73S Calculating the amounts relevant to the additional deduction

If a negative result is obtained from a calculation in section 73T or 73V, that result is taken to be zero.

73T Adjustment amounts

- (1) The adjustment amount for an eligible company and its group members for the Y_0 year of income is:

$$[\text{R\&D spend for } Y_{-2} \text{ year} \times 80\%] - \text{R\&D spend for } Y_{-1} \text{ year}$$

- (2) The adjustment amount for an eligible company and its group members for the Y_{-1} year of income is:

$$[\text{R\&D spend for } Y_{-3} \text{ year} \times 80\%] - \text{R\&D spend for } Y_{-2} \text{ year}$$

Exceptions

- (3) AA_0 is zero if:
- the eligible company or any of its group members could deduct an amount under section 73QA or 73QB for the Y_{-1} year of income; and
 - there has been no change in the control of the eligible company or any of its group members for the Y_0 year of income resulting in:
 - a company entering or leaving the group with a viable business; and

Section 73V

- (ii) a change to the R&D spend of the eligible company for the Y_{-1} , Y_{-2} or Y_{-3} year of income.
- (4) AA_{-j} is zero if:
- (a) the eligible company or any of its group members could deduct an amount under section 73QA or 73QB for the Y_{-2} year of income; and
 - (b) there has been no change in the control of the eligible company or any of its group members for the Y_0 or Y_{-1} year of income resulting in:
 - (i) a company entering or leaving the group with a viable business; and
 - (ii) a change to the R&D spend of the eligible company for the Y_{-1} , Y_{-2} or Y_{-3} year of income.

73V Adjustment balance

- (1) The adjustment balance is, if the R&D spend of the eligible company for the Y_{-1} year of income is less than or equal to RA_{-1} :
 $AA_0 + AA_{-1}$
- (2) Otherwise, the adjustment balance is:
 $RA_{-1} + AA_0 + AA_{-1}$ reduced by the R&D spend of the eligible company for the Y_{-1} year of income.
- (3) The adjustment balance is zero if:
- (a) the eligible company or any of its group members met the conditions either in paragraphs 73QA(1)(a) and (b) or in paragraphs 73QB(1)(a) and (b) for the Y_{-1} year of income; and
 - (b) there has been no change in the control of the eligible company or any of its group members for the Y_0 year of income resulting in:
 - (i) a company entering or leaving the group with a viable business; and
 - (ii) a change to the R&D spend of the eligible company for the Y_{-1} , Y_{-2} or Y_{-3} year of income.

73Z Anti-avoidance

- (1) This section applies to a company if:
 - (a) the company requests an amendment to an assessment for a year of income to reduce the amount of its research and development expenditure for a year of income; and
 - (b) the Commissioner is of the opinion that the purpose of the proposed amendment is to increase the company's entitlement to a deduction under section 73QA or 73QB for any year of income.
- (2) The amount of that reduction is ignored in working out the company's incremental expenditure for any year of income or the notional expenditure on foreign owned R&D by the eligible company in its group membership period for any year of income (see step 4 of the method statement in subsection 73RB(1)).

78A Certain gifts not to be allowable deductions

- (1) In this section:

agreement includes any agreement, arrangement or understanding, whether formal or informal or express or implied, and whether or not enforceable by legal proceedings (whether or not the agreement, arrangement or understanding was intended to be so enforceable).

 - (iv) a trustee of a trust estate where the donor or a person who is an associate of the donor by virtue of subparagraph (i), (ii), (iii) or (v) benefits or is capable (whether by the exercise of a power of appointment or otherwise) of benefiting under the trust, either directly or through any interposed companies, partnerships or trusts; or

- (v) a company where:

 - (B) the donor is, the persons who are associates of the donor by virtue of subparagraphs (i), (ii), (iii) and (iv) are, or the donor and the persons who are associates of the donor by virtue of those paragraphs are, in a position to cast, or control the casting of, more than 50% of the maximum number of votes that might be cast at a general meeting of the company; or
- (b) in the case of a donor being a company:
 - (i) a partner of the donor company;
 - (ii) if a partner of the donor company is a natural person—the spouse of that partner;
 - (iii) another person where:
 - (A) the donor company is, or its directors are, accustomed or under an obligation, whether formal or informal, to act in accordance with the directions, instructions or wishes of that person, whether those directions, instructions or wishes are communicated directly to the donor company or its directors, or through any interposed companies; or
 - (B) that person is, or that person and the persons who, if that person were the donor, would be associates of that person by virtue of paragraph (a) or by virtue of another subparagraph of this paragraph are, in a position to cast, or control the casting of, more than 50% of the maximum number of votes that might be cast at a general meeting of the donor company;

- (iv) a trustee of a trust estate where the donor company or a person who is an associate of the donor company by virtue of subparagraph (i), (ii), (iii), (v) or (vi) benefits, or is capable (whether by the exercise of a power of appointment or otherwise) of benefiting under the trust, either directly or through any interposed companies, partnerships or trusts;
 - (v) another company where:
 - (A) the other company is, or its directors are, accustomed or under an obligation, whether formal or informal, to act in accordance with the directions, instructions or wishes of the donor company, of a person who is an associate of the donor company by virtue of subparagraph (i), (ii), (iii), (iv) or (vi) or of a company that is an associate of the donor company by virtue of another application of this subparagraph; or
 - (B) the donor company is, the persons who are associates of the donor company by virtue of subparagraphs (i), (ii), (iii), (iv) and (vi) are, or the donor company and the persons who are associates of the donor company by virtue of those subparagraphs are, in a position to cast, or control the casting of, more than 50% of the maximum number of votes that might be cast at a general meeting of the other company; or
 - (vi) another person who, if a third person who is an associate of the donor company by virtue of subparagraph (iii) were the donor, would be an associate of that third person by virtue of paragraph (a) or by virtue of another subparagraph of this paragraph.
- (2) Subject to this section, a gift of money, or of property other than money, made by a person (in this section referred to as the donor) to a fund, authority, institution or person is not an allowable deduction under Division 30 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 where:
- (a) by reason of any act, transaction or circumstance that has occurred, will occur, or may reasonably be expected to occur, being an act, transaction or circumstance occurring as part of, in connexion with or as a result of:

- (i) the making or receipt of the gift; or
- (ii) any agreement or scheme entered into in association with the making or receipt of the gift;

the amount or value of the benefit derived by the fund, authority, institution or person as a consequence of the gift is, will be, or may reasonably be expected to be, less than the amount or value at the time when the gift was made of the property comprising the gift;

- (b) by reason of any act, transaction or circumstance of a kind referred to in paragraph (a), any fund, authority, institution or person other than the fund, authority, institution or person to which the gift was made, makes, becomes liable to make, or may reasonably be expected to make or to become liable to make, a payment, or transfers, becomes liable to transfer, or may reasonably be expected to transfer or to become liable to transfer, any property, to any person or incurs, becomes liable to incur, or may reasonably be expected to incur or to become liable to incur, any other detriment, disadvantage, liability or obligation;
 - (c) by reason of any act, transaction or circumstance of a kind referred to in paragraph (a), the donor or an associate of the donor has obtained, will obtain or may reasonably be expected to obtain any benefit, advantage, right or privilege other than the benefit of any deduction that, but for this section, would be allowable from the assessable income of the donor under Division 30 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997; or
 - (d) by reason of any agreement or scheme entered into as part of or in association with the making of the gift, any property, other than property comprising the gift, has been acquired or will be acquired, whether directly or indirectly, from the donor or an associate of the donor by that fund, authority, institution or person or by another fund, authority, institution or person.
- (3) Without limiting the application of subsection (2), where the terms and conditions on which a gift of property other than money is made are such that the fund, authority, institution or person to which the gift is made does not receive immediate custody and control of the property, does not have the unconditional right to retain custody and control of the property in perpetuity to the exclusion of the donor or an associate of the donor or does not obtain an immediate, indefeasible and unencumbered legal and equitable title to the property, paragraph (2)(c) shall be deemed to apply in relation to that gift.

- (4) Paragraph (2)(a) does not prevent a deduction under Division 30 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 from being allowed from the assessable income of the donor where the amount or value of the benefit derived by the fund, authority, institution or person as a consequence of the gift is, will be, or may reasonably be expected to be, less than the amount or value at the time when the gift was made of the property comprising the gift by reason only that the fund, authority, institution or person has incurred, will incur, or may reasonably be expected to incur, expenses for the purpose of obtaining or soliciting the gift, being expenses that, in the opinion of the Commissioner, are reasonable in relation to the value of the gift.
- (5) This section does not prevent a deduction under section 30-15 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (because of item 4, 5 or 6 of the table in that section) from being allowed from the assessable income of the donor in respect of a gift of property other than money by reason only that the terms and conditions on which the gift was made are such, or the effect of any arrangement (within the meaning of that Act) entered into in association with the making or receipt of the gift is such, that the value of the gift may be reduced in accordance with section 30-220 of that Act.

- (1AD) A reference in this Subdivision to a tax benefit being allowed or allowable or not being allowed or allowable in respect of relevant expenditure incurred by a taxpayer shall be read as a reference to:
- (a) in a case where the relevant expenditure is relevant expenditure to which paragraph (h), (n) or (v) of the definition of relevant expenditure in subsection (1) applies—a deduction being allowed or allowable or not being allowed or allowable, as the case may be, to the taxpayer under section 124M or 124N in respect of the residual value of a unit of industrial property where that residual value would be calculated by reference to the relevant expenditure; and
 - (b) if paragraph (ka), (oa) or (wa) of the definition of relevant expenditure in subsection (1) covers the expenditure—the taxpayer deducting or being able to deduct, or not deducting or not being able to deduct, as appropriate, an amount under Division 40 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 for an item of intellectual property for a year of income because the taxpayer's adjustable value of the item would be calculated under that Division by reference to the relevant expenditure; and

- (d) in any other case—a deduction being allowed or allowable or not being allowed or allowable, as the case may be, to the taxpayer in respect of the relevant expenditure.
- (1B) For the purposes of the application of the definition of expected tax saving in subsection (1) in relation to an amount of eligible relevant expenditure incurred by a taxpayer:
- (a) where:
- (i) if a tax benefit were not allowable in respect of any part of that eligible relevant expenditure, a person (whether the taxpayer or another person and whether in the capacity of a trustee of a trust estate or otherwise) would be liable to pay income tax in respect of a year of income; and
 - (ii) if a tax benefit or tax benefits were allowable under this Act in respect of that eligible relevant expenditure, that person would be liable to pay a lesser amount of income tax in respect of that year of income;
- the amount by which the amount of the tax referred to in subparagraph (i) exceeds the amount of the tax referred to in subparagraph (ii) is a tax saving amount; and
- (b) where:
- (i) if a tax benefit were not allowable in respect of any part of that eligible relevant expenditure, a person (whether the taxpayer or another person and whether in the capacity of a trustee of a trust estate or otherwise) would be liable to pay income tax in respect of a year of income; and
 - (ii) if a tax benefit or tax benefits were allowable under this Act in respect of that eligible relevant expenditure, that person would not be liable to pay income tax in respect of that year of income;
- the amount of the tax referred to in subparagraph (i) is a tax saving amount.
- (1BA) In the application of subsection (1B) in determining whether there is a tax saving amount in relation to an amount of eligible relevant expenditure incurred by a taxpayer in a case where, if a tax benefit or tax benefits were allowable in respect of that eligible relevant expenditure, a person (whether the taxpayer or another person and whether in the capacity of a trustee of a trust estate or otherwise) would:

- (a) have a tax loss for a year of income that the person would not have; or
- (b) have a greater tax loss for a year of income than the person would have;

if a tax benefit were not allowable in respect of any part of that eligible relevant expenditure, apply Division 36 and Subdivision 375-G of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 as if the amount were relevant expenditure but not eligible relevant expenditure.

- (1D) Subject to subsection (1E), where, in respect of any 2 or more amounts of eligible relevant expenditure (whether incurred by one taxpayer or by 2 or more taxpayers and whether incurred in one year of income or in 2 or more years of income), the following conditions are satisfied, namely:
 - (a) if subsection (1B) were applied in relation to one of those amounts of eligible relevant expenditure in relation to a person (whether or not that person is the person or one of the persons who incurred the eligible relevant expenditure) in relation to a year of income on the assumption that no tax benefit is or was allowable in respect of any part of the other amount of eligible relevant expenditure, or in respect of any part of any of the other amounts of eligible relevant expenditure, as the case may be, the tax saving amount determined in accordance with that subsection would be greater than the tax saving amount that would be determined in accordance with that subsection in relation to that amount of eligible relevant expenditure in relation to that person in relation to that year of income if that subsection were applied on the assumption that a tax benefit or tax benefits were allowable under this Act in respect of the other amount of eligible relevant expenditure, or in respect of each of the other amounts of eligible relevant expenditure, as the case may be; and
 - (b) if paragraph (a) of this subsection were applied in relation to that person in relation to that year of income in relation to the other amount of eligible relevant expenditure, or in relation to each of the other amounts of eligible relevant expenditure, as the case may be, the condition specified in that paragraph would be satisfied in relation to that other amount or in relation to each of those other amounts, as the case may be; then, in the application of subsection (1B) in calculating the tax saving amount in relation to that person in relation to the year of income in relation to any one of the amounts of eligible relevant expenditure first referred to in this subsection, it shall be assumed that no tax benefit is or was allowable in respect of any part of the other of those amounts or in respect of any part of any of the other of those amounts, as the case may be.

- (a) but for this subsection, subsection (1D) would apply to require it to be assumed, for the purposes of the application of subsection (1B) in relation to an amount of eligible relevant expenditure, that no tax benefit is or was allowable in respect of any part of another amount of eligible relevant expenditure (in this subsection referred to as the allowable relevant expenditure); and
- (b) section 82KL does not and will not operate to deem a tax benefit not to be allowable and never to have been allowable in respect of any part of the allowable relevant expenditure; subsection (1D) shall not apply and shall be taken never to have applied so as to require it to be assumed, in the application of subsection (1B) in relation to an amount of eligible relevant expenditure other than the allowable relevant expenditure, that no tax benefit is or was allowable in respect of any part of the allowable relevant expenditure.

(1F) For the purposes of this Subdivision, an amount of relevant expenditure incurred by a taxpayer shall be taken to be an amount of eligible relevant expenditure if:

- (a) that amount of relevant expenditure was incurred after 24 September 1978 by reason of, as a result of or as part of a tax avoidance agreement entered into after that date;
- (b) by reason of, as a result of or as part of the tax avoidance agreement the taxpayer has obtained, in relation to that relevant expenditure being incurred, a benefit or benefits in addition to:
 - (i) in a case to which subparagraph (ii) does not apply:
 - (A) the benefit in respect of which the relevant expenditure was incurred; and

Section 82KH

- (B) any benefit that resulted directly or indirectly from the benefit in respect of which the relevant expenditure was incurred and is a benefit that, in the opinion of the Commissioner, might reasonably be expected to have resulted if the benefit in respect of which the relevant expenditure was incurred had been obtained otherwise than by reason of, as a result of or as part of a tax avoidance agreement; or
 - (ii) in a case where the relevant expenditure is relevant expenditure to which paragraph (w) of the definition of relevant expenditure in subsection (1) applies—any benefit that resulted directly or indirectly from the incurring of the relevant expenditure and is a benefit that, in the opinion of the Commissioner, might reasonably be expected to have resulted if the relevant expenditure had been incurred otherwise than by reason of, as a result of or as part of a tax avoidance agreement; and
 - (c) in a case where the relevant expenditure is relevant expenditure to which paragraph (s), (v) or (w) of the definition of relevant expenditure in subsection (1) applies—that amount of relevant expenditure was incurred by reason of, as a result of or as part of a tax avoidance agreement entered into before 28 May 1981.
- (1FA) For the purposes of the application of subsection (1F) in relation to an amount of relevant expenditure to which paragraph (f) of the definition of relevant expenditure in subsection (1) applies, any benefit obtained by the taxpayer in relation to the making of the loan in respect of which the bad debt is incurred shall be taken to be a benefit obtained by the taxpayer in relation to that relevant expenditure being incurred.
- (1G) The reference in subsection (1F) to the benefit in respect of which relevant expenditure was incurred by a taxpayer shall be read as a reference to:
 - (a) in a case where the relevant expenditure is expenditure incurred by the taxpayer in borrowing money, being expenditure in respect of which a deduction would, apart from section 82KL, be allowable to the taxpayer under section 25-25 (Borrowing expenses) of the Income Tax

 - (ii) the whole or a part of the amount of the loss or outgoing would not be included in the assessable income of the person to whom the loss or outgoing was incurred until a subsequent year of income;
- that loss or outgoing shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to have been incurred by the taxpayer in the year of income in which, or in the years of income in which, goods to which the loss or outgoing relates are supplied or services to which the loss or outgoing relates are provided.
- (4) Where, by virtue of subsection (3), a loss or outgoing incurred by a taxpayer in respect of the supply of goods or the provision of services is deemed to have been incurred by the taxpayer in each of 2 or more years of income, there shall be allowable as a deduction to the taxpayer in each such year of income so much only of the amount that, apart from this section, would be allowable as a deduction in respect of the loss or outgoing as the Commissioner considers reasonable having regard to the extent to which the goods in respect of which the loss or outgoing was incurred were supplied or the services in respect of which the loss or outgoing was incurred were provided, in each of those years of income.
- (5) In determining whether paragraph (2)(b) or (3)(b) applies in relation to a loss or outgoing, no regard shall be had to a purpose that is a merely incidental purpose.

82KL Tax benefit not allowable in respect of certain recouped expenditure

- (1) Where the sum of the amount or value of the additional benefit in relation to an amount of eligible relevant expenditure incurred by a taxpayer and the expected tax saving in relation to that amount of eligible relevant expenditure is equal to or greater than the amount of the eligible relevant expenditure, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act but subject to this section, a tax benefit is not and shall be deemed never to have been, allowable in respect of any part of that amount of eligible relevant expenditure.
- (2) Where, at any time, the Commissioner is of the opinion that, apart from this subsection, subsection (1) might reasonably be expected, at a later time, to operate to deem a tax benefit not to be allowable and never to have been allowable in respect of expenditure or a loss or outgoing incurred by a taxpayer then, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act but subject to this section, a tax benefit is not allowable and shall be deemed never to have been allowable in respect of that expenditure or that loss or outgoing, as the case may be.
- (3) Where, in the making of an assessment, subsection (2) has been applied by reason that the Commissioner was of the opinion that a particular circumstance would exist and the Commissioner later becomes satisfied that that circumstance will not exist, then, notwithstanding anything contained in section 170, the Commissioner may amend the assessment at any time for the purposes of ensuring that this Subdivision shall be taken always to have applied on the basis that that circumstance did not, and would not, exist.
- (4) Where:
 - (a) an amount of eligible relevant expenditure is incurred by a partnership;
 - (b) apart from this subsection, this section would not operate to deem a tax benefit not to be allowable and never to have been allowable in respect of any part of that amount of eligible relevant expenditure; and
 - (c) the Commissioner is satisfied that any partner in the partnership became a partner in the partnership by reason of or as a result of an agreement (whether or not that agreement was the agreement by virtue of which the partner became a partner in the partnership) that was entered into by any of the parties to the agreement for the purpose, or primarily for the purpose, of ensuring that this section would not operate to deem a tax benefit not to be allowable and never to have been allowable in respect of any part of the amount of the eligible relevant expenditure;

then, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, a tax benefit is not allowable and shall be deemed never to have been allowable in respect of any part of that amount of eligible relevant expenditure.

(5) Where:

- (a) in the making of an assessment, this section has been applied on the basis that a taxpayer was to be taken to have obtained a benefit by reason that it was reasonable to expect that a person to whom a debt was owed by the taxpayer or an associate of the taxpayer would release, abandon or fail to demand repayment of the debt or of a part of the debt; and
- (b) the whole or a part of that debt or of that part of the debt is repaid;

then, notwithstanding anything contained in section 170, the Commissioner may amend the assessment at any time for the purposes of ensuring that this Subdivision shall be taken never to have applied on the basis that it was reasonable to expect that the person to whom the debt was owed would release, abandon or fail to demand repayment of the amount that was repaid.

- (6) Where subsection (1), (2) or (4) deems a tax benefit not to be and never to have been allowable in respect of a loss or outgoing incurred by a taxpayer in the purchase of property that, for the purposes of the application of this Act and the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in relation to the taxpayer is or was trading stock, then, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act or that Act, the cost or cost price of that property, for the purposes of the application of (Primary production) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 Subdivision B of Division 2 of Part III of this Act or Division 70 (Trading stock) or 385 in relation to that property in relation to the taxpayer, shall be taken to be, and at all times to have been, nil.

Section 82KZL

- (7) Where, at any time after the making of an assessment in relation to a taxpayer, the taxpayer considers that the Commissioner ought to amend the assessment in accordance with subsection (3) or (5), the taxpayer may post to or lodge with the Commissioner a request in writing for an amendment of the assessment in accordance with subsection (3) or (5) or in accordance with subsections (3) and (5).
- (8) The Commissioner shall consider the request and shall serve on the taxpayer, by post or otherwise, a written notice of his decision on the request.
- (9) If the taxpayer is dissatisfied with the Commissioner's decision on the request, the taxpayer may object against it in the manner set out in Part IVC of the Taxation Administration Act 1953.

then, for the purposes of this Act, instead of the deduction being allowable as mentioned in paragraph (c), a proportion of the deduction is allowable from the assessable income of the taxpayer of each year of income during which the whole or part of the eligible service period in relation to the expenditure occurs, being a proportion ascertained in accordance with the formula:

$$\frac{\text{Period in year}}{\text{Eligible service period}}$$

Period in year is the number of days in the whole or the part of the eligible service period that occurs in the year of income.

Section 82KZMA

$$\text{Expenditure} \times \frac{\text{Number of days of eligible service period in the year of income}}{\text{Total number of days of eligible service period}}$$

Note: This section does not apply to expenditure incurred by a small business entity unless the small business entity chooses to apply this section to the expenditure: see paragraph 82KZMA(2)(b).

82KZME Expenditure under some agreements

- (1) Section 82KZMF applies to set the amount and timing of deductions for expenditure that a taxpayer incurs in a year of income (the expenditure year) if:
- (a) apart from section 82KZMF, the taxpayer could deduct the expenditure under section 73B, 73BA, 73BH, 73QA, 73QB or former section 73Y of this Act or section 8-1 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 for the expenditure year; and

- (a) after 1 pm (by legal time in the Australian Capital Territory) on 11 November 1999 under an agreement; and
 - (b) in return for the doing of a thing under the agreement that is not to be wholly done within the expenditure year.

Requirements for agreement

- (3) There are these requirements for the agreement:

 - (c) at least one of these must be satisfied:
 - (i) there is more than one participant in the agreement in the same capacity as the taxpayer;
 - (ii) the person who manages, arranges or promotes the agreement, or an associate of that person, manages, arranges or promotes similar agreements for other taxpayers.

Exception 1: certain negatively geared investments

- (5) The expenditure must not be:
- (a) a premium for building insurance, contents insurance or rent protection insurance; or
 - (b) interest on money borrowed to acquire:

82KZMF Proportional deduction

- (1) If this section applies to expenditure incurred by a taxpayer in a year of income:
- (a) the taxpayer cannot deduct all of the expenditure for the expenditure year; and
 - (b) instead, the taxpayer can deduct, for each year of income during which part of the eligible service period for the expenditure occurs, an amount worked out using this formula:

$$\text{Expenditure} \times \frac{\text{Number of days of eligible service period in the year of income}}{\text{Total number of days of eligible service period}}$$

- (2) This section has effect:
- (a) despite section 73B, 73BA, 73BH, 73QA, 73QB or former section 73Y of this Act or section 8-1 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997; and
 - (b) subject to Division 245 of Schedule 2C to this Act.

82KZMG Deductions for certain forestry expenditure

- (1) Sections 82KZMD and 82KZMF do not affect the timing of a deduction for expenditure incurred by a taxpayer in a year of income (the expenditure year) to the extent that the requirements of this section are met.

Example: Examples of seasonally dependent agronomic activities include:

 - (b) the day when any fertiliser, herbicide or pesticide is applied to the seedlings in conjunction with that planting.

82KZMGA Deductions for certain forestry expenditure

- (1) A taxpayer cannot deduct expenditure in relation to which the requirements in section 82KZMG are met if:

- (a) a taxpayer holds an interest in an agreement mentioned in section 82KZMG as an initial participant in the agreement; and
 - (b) at least one of these conditions is satisfied:
 - (i) the taxpayer can deduct or has deducted an amount for a year of income in relation to the interest;
 - (ii) the condition in subparagraph (i) would be satisfied if section 82KZMGA were disregarded; and
 - (c) subsection 82KZMG(1) applies to the timing of the deduction (or would apply if section 82KZMGA were disregarded); and
 - (d) a CGT event happens in relation to the interest, other than a CGT event that happens in respect of thinning.

- (2) The taxpayer's assessable income for the year of income in which the CGT event happens includes:
 - (a) if, as a result of the CGT event, the taxpayer no longer holds the interest—the market value of the interest (worked out as at the time of the event); or
 - (b) otherwise—the decrease (if any) in the market value of the interest as a result of the CGT event.
- (3) Any amount that the taxpayer actually receives because of the CGT event is not included in the taxpayer's assessable income (nor is it exempt income).

- (d) if the recipient taxpayer incurs expenditure in return for the transfer—the recipient taxpayer shall be taken to have

Section 82KZO

Where:

- (a) under an agreement entered into after 25 May 1988, a person (in this section called the original person), or the partners in a partnership (in this section called the original partnership), incurs or incur expenditure in return for the doing of a thing during a period after the incurring of the expenditure;

- (c) the whole or part of a deduction under former section 51 of this Act or section 8-1 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in respect of the expenditure (which whole or part is in this section called a spread deduction) is, because of the application of this Subdivision, allowable from the assessable income of the original person or the original partnership of the year of income in which the partnership change happens or a subsequent year of income;

the following provisions have effect:

- (d) if a spread deduction is allowable in relation to the year of income in which the partnership change occurs—the entitlement to the deduction shall, for the purposes of this Act but subject to any later application of this section, be apportioned between the original person or original partnership and the later person or later partnership according to the portions of the eligible service period in the year of income (or, if the case requires, of so much of the period as occurs after a partnership change resulting from a previous application of this section) that occur before and after the partnership change;
- (e) if a spread deduction relates to a subsequent year of income—the later person or later partnership, instead of the original person or original partnership, shall, for the purposes of this Act but subject to any later application of this section, be entitled to the deduction;
- (f) for the purposes of any later application of this section or section 82KZN, the later person or later partnership, instead of the original person or original partnership, shall be taken to have incurred the expenditure under the agreement.

Section 82SA

- other right in relation to the note, at a later rather than at an earlier time after the issue of the note;
- (viii) the rights of the holder or owner of the convertible note with respect to the amount payable on repayment, redemption or satisfaction of the loan do not vary according to whether or not he exercises the option to convert;
 - (ix) the shares to be allotted or transferred upon the exercise of the option to convert:
 - (A) are to be allotted or transferred within 2 months after the exercise of the option;
 - (B) in the case of shares to be allotted, are, upon payment of the amount payable in respect of the allotment, to be fully paid shares or, in the case of shares to be transferred, are, at the time of transfer, to be fully paid shares; and
 - (C) are to be shares of the same class as shares in the capital of the company that, not later than 6 weeks before the date that is the date of offer in relation to the loan, had been allotted and were fully paid;
 - (x) the shares to be allotted or transferred upon the exercise of the option to convert are to be shares with respect to which no provision is made (whether by the memorandum, or memorandum and articles, of the company, or other instrument constituting or defining the constitution of the company, or otherwise) for changing or converting them into shares of another class, except for the purpose of enabling, in accordance with any law relating to companies, the consolidation and division of all or any of the share capital of the company or of another company or the sub-division of all or any of the shares in the capital of the company or of another company; and
 - (xi) the amount payable in respect of the allotment or transfer of a share in pursuance of the exercise of the option to convert is to be paid not later than 1 month after the allotment or transfer, and is to be not less than 90% of the amount that, in accordance with section 82T, is the value as at the valuation date of a fully paid share included in the class of shares in which the share to be allotted or transferred will be, or is, included.

- (2) Where subsection (1) ceases to have effect in relation to a convertible note by reason of a change in the terms applicable to the note (not being a change resulting from a compromise or arrangement approved by a court), subsection (1) shall be deemed never to have had effect in relation to the note.
- (3) Where a note is a convertible note in relation to which subsection (1) has effect and the right to exercise the option to convert relating to the note becomes exercisable by a person other than the holder or owner of the note by reason of an assignment of that right, the assignment shall, for the purposes of this section, be disregarded.
- (4) Where, in relation to a convertible note issued by a company, the company or a director of the company does any act or thing for the purpose of, or purposes that include the purpose of, and having the effect of, causing the amount that, for the purposes of subsection (1), is the minimum amount applicable to a share to be allotted or transferred in pursuance of the exercise of the option to convert relating to the note, to be less than it would otherwise have been, subsection (1) does not have effect in relation to the note.
- (5) Where, under the terms applicable to a convertible note, the rate of interest payable in respect of the loan to which the note applies is to be varied from time to time (otherwise than with retrospective effect) in accordance with changes, or changes exceeding a specified percentage, in the rate of interest prevailing from time to time:
 - (a) where the loan is a foreign loan, at a specified place outside Australia in respect of a specified class of transactions; or
 - (b) where the loan is not a foreign loan, in respect of a specified class of Commonwealth securities;the term shall, for the purposes of subparagraph (1)(d)(vi), be deemed not to be a term providing for a variation in the rate of interest payable in respect of the loan.
- (6) For the purposes of subparagraph (1)(d)(vii), the obligations and rights of the holder or owner of a convertible note shall not be deemed to vary in a manner referred to in that subparagraph by reason only that any dividend payable in respect of a share in the capital of a company to be allotted upon the exercise of the option to convert relating to the note, being a dividend payable during the period of 1 year after the allotment of the share, will or may vary according to the time when, in relation to the period to which the dividend relates, the option to convert is exercised.

82T Value of shares

(1) For the purposes of section 82SA, the value of a fully paid share as at the valuation date is:

(a) where:

(i) the share is included in a class of shares that, during the whole of the relevant valuation period, was listed for quotation in the official list of a stock exchange that was a prescribed stock exchange during the whole of that period, or in the official lists of 2 or more stock exchanges each of which was a prescribed stock exchange during the whole of that period; and

(ii) fully paid shares included in that class of shares were recorded by that stock exchange, or by one or more of those stock exchanges, as the case may be, as having been sold during that period;

an amount ascertained by dividing the total consideration paid or payable in respect of those sales by the total number of shares so recorded as having been sold; and

(b) in any other case—the amount that a person who is a qualified person in relation to the valuing of the share certifies that, on a true and fair view of the state of the company's affairs, would, in respect of a sale at the end of the relevant valuation period between a willing but not anxious seller and a willing but not anxious buyer, be expected to be the consideration paid for the share, on the assumption, in a case where the class of shares in which that share is included was not, at the end of the relevant valuation period, listed for quotation in the official list of a stock exchange that, at that time, was a prescribed stock exchange, that the memorandum, or memorandum and articles, of the company, or other instrument constituting or defining the constitution of the company, satisfied, at that time, such of the requirements of a stock exchange that, at that time, was a prescribed stock exchange as it would have been necessary to satisfy to enable that class of shares to be listed for quotation in the official list of that stock exchange.

Division 5—Partnerships

90 Interpretation

In this Division:

exempt income, in relation to a partnership, means the exempt income of the partnership calculated as if the partnership were a taxpayer who was a resident.

net income, in relation to a partnership, means the assessable income of the partnership, calculated as if the partnership were a taxpayer who was a resident, less all allowable deductions except deductions allowable under section 290-150 or Division 36 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

non-assessable non-exempt income, in relation to a partnership, means the non-assessable non-exempt income of the partnership calculated as if the partnership were a taxpayer who was a resident.

partnership loss, in relation to a partnership, means the excess (if any) of the allowable deductions, other than deductions allowable under section 290-150 or Division 36 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, over the assessable income of the partnership calculated as if the partnership were a taxpayer who was a resident.

91 Liability of partnerships

A partnership shall furnish a return of the income of the partnership, but shall not be liable to pay tax thereon.

92 Income and deductions of partner

- (1) The assessable income of a partner in a partnership shall include:
 - (a) so much of the individual interest of the partner in the net income of the partnership of the year of income as is attributable to a period when the partner was a resident; and
 - (b) so much of the individual interest of the partner in the net income of the partnership of the year of income as is attributable to a period when the partner was not a resident and is also attributable to sources in Australia.

- (2) Subject to section 830-45 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, if a partnership loss is incurred by a partnership in a year of income, there shall be allowable as a deduction to a partner in the partnership:
- (a) so much of the individual interest of the partner in the partnership loss as is attributable to a period when the partner was a resident; and
 - (b) so much of the individual interest of the partner in the partnership loss as is attributable to a period when the partner was not a resident and is also attributable to sources in Australia.

(2AA) However, if:

- (a) the partner is a limited partner in a partnership; and
- (b) the partnership is a VCLP, an ESVCLP, an AFOF or a VCMP during the year of income;

the amount allowable under subsection (2), in respect of the year of income, as a deduction must not exceed the amount worked out as follows:

Method statement

- Step 1. Work out the sum of the amounts that the partner has contributed (the partner's contribution) to the partnership.
- Step 2. Subtract the sum of all the amounts (if any) of the partner's contribution that are repaid to the partner.
- Step 3. Subtract the sum of all deductions allowed to the partner for losses of the partnership in previous years of income.
- Step 4. Subtract the sum of the amounts of all the debt interests issued by the partner to the extent that they are secured by the partner's interest in the partnership.

Example: A limited partner contributes $100,000 to a VCLP, having borrowed $80,000. Because the lender values the partner's interest in the partnership at $70,000, the partner also provides, as additional security, other assets valued at $10,000.

If none of the partner's contribution has been repaid and the partner has not been allowed deductions for partnership losses in previous years of income, the amount allowable to the partner for a partnership loss cannot exceed $30,000.

- (2A) Subsection (2) does not apply to a partnership loss if the partner's interest in the partnership at the end of the year of income is:
- (a) a segregated exempt asset (as defined in the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) of a life assurance company; or
 - (b) a segregated current pension asset (as defined in the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) of a complying superannuation fund.
- (3) The exempt income of a partner in a partnership shall include:
- (a) so much of the individual interest of the partner in the exempt income of the partnership of the year of income as is attributable to a period when the partner was a resident; and
 - (b) so much of the individual interest of the partner in the exempt income of the partnership of the year of income as is attributable to a period when the partner was not a resident and is also attributable to sources in Australia.
- (4) The non-assessable non-exempt income of a partner in a partnership shall include:
- (a) so much of the individual interest of the partner in the non-assessable non-exempt income of the partnership of the year of income as is attributable to a period when the partner was a resident; and
 - (b) so much of the individual interest of the partner in the non-assessable non-exempt income of the partnership of the year of income as is attributable to a period when the partner was not a resident and is also attributable to sources in Australia.

92A Deductions in respect of outstanding subsection 92(2AA) amounts

- (1) If:
- (a) the partner is a limited partner in a partnership; and
 - (b) the partnership is a VCLP, an ESVCLP, an AFOF or a VCMP during the year of income; and
 - (c) the amount allowable under subsection 92(2) as a deduction to the partner for partnership losses incurred by the partnership in the year of income is not reduced because of subsection 92(2AA); and

Section 92A

- (d) the partner has an outstanding subsection 92(2AA) amount for the year of income;

there is allowable as a deduction to the partnership an amount worked out as follows:

Method statement

- Step 1. Subtract the amount allowable under subsection 92(2) as a deduction to the partner for partnership losses incurred by the partnership in the year of income from the amount worked out using the method statement in subsection 92(2AA).
- Step 2. If the amount worked out under step 1 is greater than or equal to the outstanding subsection 92(2AA) amount for the year of income, the amount of the deduction allowable under this section is the outstanding subsection 92(2AA) amount.
- Step 3. If the amount worked out under step 1 is less than the outstanding subsection 92(2AA) amount for the year of income, the amount of the deduction allowable under this section is the amount worked out under step 1.

- (2) The partner has an outstanding subsection 92(2AA) amount for a year of income if:
- (a) an amount allowable under subsection 92(2) as a deduction to the partner for partnership losses incurred by the partnership in a previous year of income was reduced because of subsection 92(2AA); and
- (b) the difference between:
- (i) the sum of all reductions made under subsection 92(2AA) to amounts allowable under subsection 92(2) as deductions to the partner for partnership losses incurred by the partnership in previous years of income; and
- (ii) the sum of all amounts allowable under this section, in respect of previous years of income, as deductions to the partner in relation to those reductions;

Section 94

is greater than zero.

The amount of that difference is the partner's outstanding subsection 92(2AA) amount for the year of income.

- (3) To avoid doubt, a partner's outstanding subsection 92(2AA) amount for a year of income cannot form part of a tax loss for the purposes of Division 36 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

94 Partner not having control and disposal of share in partnership income

- (1) Subject to this section, where:

(a) a share in the net income of a partnership of a year of income is included in the assessable income of a partner in the partnership, not being:

- (i) a company;
(ii) a person in the capacity of a trustee; or
(iii) a person who was under the age of 18 years on the last day of the year of income of the person that corresponds with the year of income of the partnership; and

(b) the partnership is so constituted or controlled, or its operations are so conducted, that the partner has not the real and effective control and disposal of that share or of a part of that share; this section applies to that share or that part of that share, as the case may be.

- (2) Subject to the succeeding provisions of this section, where:

(a) a partnership is so constituted or controlled, or its operations are so conducted, that a partner in the partnership, being a trustee of a trust estate, has not the real and effective control and disposal of his share in the net income of the partnership of a year of income or of a part of that share (which share or part of a share, as the case may be, is in this subsection referred to as uncontrolled partnership income); and

(b) in calculating in accordance with section 95 the net income of that trust estate or of any other trust estate, there is included in the assessable income of the trust estate any uncontrolled partnership income;

then:

(c) if:

- (i) a beneficiary, not being a company or a person who was under the age of 18 years on the last day of the year of income of the person that corresponds with the year of income of the partnership, is presently entitled to the whole of the income of the trust estate otherwise than in the capacity of a trustee; or
- (ii) there is no part of the net income of the trust estate that is included in the assessable income of a beneficiary in pursuance of section 97 or in respect of which the trustee is assessed and liable to pay tax in pursuance of section 98;

this section applies to the portion of the net income of the trust estate that was derived from uncontrolled partnership income;

- (d) if a beneficiary, not being a company or a person who was under the age of 18 years on the last day of the year of income of the person that corresponds with the year of income of the partnership, is presently entitled to a share of the income of the trust estate otherwise than in the capacity of a trustee, this section applies to so much of that share of the net income of the trust estate as bears to that share the same proportion as the portion of the net income of the trust estate that was derived from uncontrolled partnership income bears to the net income of the trust estate; and
- (e) if there is a part of the net income of the trust estate that is not included in the assessable income of a beneficiary in pursuance of section 97 and in respect of which the trustee is not assessed and is not liable to pay tax in pursuance of section 98, this section applies to so much of that part of the net income of the trust estate as bears to that part the same proportion as the portion of the net income of the trust estate that was derived from uncontrolled partnership income bears to the net income of the trust estate.

(5) For the purposes of this section:

(a) where:

- (i) the assessable income of a trust estate includes the net income or a share of the net income of another trust estate; and

Section 94

- (ii) the assessable income of the other trust estate by reference to which that net income is calculated included income of a particular class (including an amount that is to be deemed by an application or applications of this paragraph to be income of a particular class);

the assessable income of the first-mentioned trust estate shall be deemed to include income of that class of an amount equal to so much of the net income or share of the net income of the other trust estate that is included in the assessable income of the first-mentioned trust estate as bears to that net income or share of that net income the same proportion as the portion of the net income of the other trust estate that was derived from income of that class bears to the net income of the other trust estate; and

- (b) the portion of the net income of a trust estate that is derived from income of a particular class that is included in the assessable income of the trust estate is the amount remaining after deducting from the income of that class that is included in the assessable income of the trust estate:
 - (i) any prescribed deductions that relate exclusively to that income of that class;
 - (ii) so much of any other prescribed deductions (other than apportionable deductions) as, in the opinion of the Commissioner, may appropriately be related to that income of that class; and
 - (iii) the amount that bears to the prescribed deductions (being apportionable deductions) the same proportion as the amount that, but for this subparagraph, would be the portion of the net income of the trust estate that is derived from that income of that class bears to the sum of the net income of the trust estate and those last-mentioned prescribed deductions.

- (6) Where the assessable income of a trust estate includes, or, by virtue of paragraph (5)(a), is to be deemed to include, income of a particular class but the Commissioner is of the opinion that it would be unreasonable to treat each part or share of the net income of the trust estate that is included in the assessable income of a beneficiary, or on or in respect of which the trustee is assessed and liable to pay tax, as including a proportionate part of the portion of the net income of the trust estate that is derived from income of that class, the amount:

- (a) that is the amount of a part or share of the net income of the trust estate to which this section applies by virtue of paragraph (2)(d) or (e); or
- (b) that is, by virtue of paragraph (5)(a), the amount of the income of that class that is to be deemed to be included in the assessable income of another trust estate;

is, in lieu of the amount that, but for this subsection, would be the amount of that part or share of that net income or the amount of that income of that class, as the case may be, such amount as the Commissioner considers reasonable in the circumstances.

- (8) Where the Commissioner is of the opinion that, by reason of special circumstances, it would be unreasonable that this section should apply to any income, this section does not apply to that income.
- (8A) In forming an opinion for the purposes of subsection (8) as to whether it is unreasonable that this section should apply in relation to any of the net income of a trust estate, the Commissioner shall take into consideration the extent (if any) to which that net income represents income to which a beneficiary is presently entitled that is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was not a resident and is also attributable to sources out of Australia.
- (9) Where the assessable income of a taxpayer, other than a taxpayer in the capacity of a trustee, includes income to which this section applies, the taxpayer shall be assessed and is liable to pay further tax, in accordance with subsection (10A) or (10B), upon the portion (in this section referred to as the eligible portion) of his taxable income that is derived from income to which this section applies.
- (10) For the purposes of subsection (9), the portion of the taxable income of a taxpayer that is derived from income to which this section applies is the amount remaining after deducting from the income to which this section applies that is included in his assessable income:
 - (a) any deductions allowed or allowable in his assessment that relate exclusively to the income to which this section applies that is included in his assessable income;

Section 94

- (b) so much of any other deductions allowed or allowable in his assessment (other than apportionable deductions) as, in the opinion of the Commissioner, may appropriately be related to the income to which this section applies that is included in his assessable income; and
 - (c) the amount that bears to the apportionable deductions allowed or allowable in his assessment the same proportion as the amount that, but for this paragraph, would be the portion of his taxable income that is derived from income to which this section applies bears to the sum of his taxable income and those apportionable deductions.
- (10A) Where Division 392 (Long-term averaging of primary producers' tax liability) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 does not apply in relation to the income of a taxpayer of the year of income, the taxpayer is liable to pay further tax upon the eligible portion of his taxable income at the rate declared by the Parliament to be the rate of further tax payable in pursuance of subsection (9) in respect of the relevant part of the taxable income.
- (10B) Where Division 392 (Long-term averaging of primary producers' tax liability) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 applies in relation to the income of a taxpayer of the year of income, the taxpayer is liable to pay further tax upon the relevant part of the eligible portion of his taxable income at the rate declared by the Parliament to be the rate of further tax payable in pursuance of subsection (9) in respect of the relevant part of the taxable income and is, in addition, liable to pay further tax upon the prescribed part of the eligible portion of his taxable income at the rate declared by the Parliament to be the rate of further tax payable in pursuance of subsection (9) in respect of the prescribed part of the taxable income.
- (10C) For the purposes of subsections (10A) and (10B):
- (a) the prescribed part of the eligible portion of the taxable income of a taxpayer of a year of income is:
 - (i) in a case to which subparagraph (ii) does not apply—the sum of:
 - (A) the amount ascertained by deducting from so much of the assessable primary production income of the taxpayer as is also income to which this section applies so much of the deductions allowable in his assessment as constitutes primary production deductions and is also deductible in accordance with subsection (10) from income to which this section applies; and

- (B) the amount (if any) ascertained in accordance with the formula $\frac{A B}{C}$, where:

A is the amount shown in the following table:

Value of A for formula
Item	Taxpayer's taxable non-primary production income	Value of A

2	Not more than $5,000 (but more than nil)	Difference between basic taxable income and taxable primary production income
3	Between $5,000 and $10,000	$10,000 taxable non-primary production income
4	At least $10,000	Nil

B is the number of whole dollars in the amount ascertained by deducting from the eligible portion the amount calculated in accordance with sub-subparagraph (A); and

C is the number of whole dollars in the amount ascertained by deducting from the taxable income of the taxpayer of the year of income the taxable primary production income of the taxpayer of the year of income; and

- (ii) in a case where the taxpayer's primary production deductions for the year of income exceed the taxpayer's assessable primary production income for that year—the

(11) Where:

- (a) section 98 applies in relation to the net income of a trust estate or a share of that net income; and
- (b) this section applies to a portion (in this subsection referred to as the relevant portion) of that net income or of that share of that net income, as the case may be;

(12A) Where Division 16 does not apply in respect of the net income of a trust estate of which the eligible trust portion is a portion, the trustee is liable to pay further tax upon the eligible trust portion at the rate declared by the Parliament to be the rate of further tax payable in pursuance of subsection (11) or (12) in respect of the relevant part of the net income of a trust estate.

(12B) Where Division 16 applies in respect of the net income of a trust estate of which the eligible trust portion is a portion, the trustee is liable to pay further tax upon the relevant part of the eligible trust portion at the rate declared by the Parliament to be the rate of further tax payable in pursuance of subsection (11) or (12) in respect of the relevant part of the net income of a trust estate and is, in addition, liable to pay further tax upon the prescribed part of the eligible trust portion at the rate declared by the Parliament to be the rate of further tax payable in pursuance of subsection (11) or (12) in respect of the prescribed part of the net income of a trust estate.

Division 5A—Income of certain limited partnerships

Subdivision A—Preliminary

94A Object

The object of this Division is to provide for certain limited partnerships to be treated as companies for tax purposes.

94B Interpretation

In this Division:

corporate limited partnership has the meaning given by section 94D.

income tax law means:

- (a) this Act (other than this Division and Division 830 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997); and
- (b) an Act that imposes any tax payable under this Act; and
- (c) the Income Tax Rates Act 1986; and

- (f) regulations under an Act covered by any of the preceding paragraphs.

year of income means (except in paragraph 94L(b)) the year of income in which 19 August 1992 occurred or a later year of income.

94C Continuity of limited partnership not affected by changes in composition

For the purposes of this Division, a change in the composition of a limited partnership does not affect the continuity of the partnership.

Subdivision B—Corporate limited partnerships

94D Corporate limited partnerships

- (1) For the purposes of this Division, a limited partnership is a corporate limited partnership in relation to a year of income of the partnership if:
- (a) the year of income is the 1995-96 year of income or a later year of income; or
 - (b) the partnership was formed on or after 19 August 1992; or
 - (c) both:
 - (i) the partnership was formed before 19 August 1992; and
 - (ii) the partnership does not pass the continuity of business test set out in section 94E; or
 - (d) all of the following apply:
 - (i) the partnership was formed before 19 August 1992;
 - (ii) a change in the composition of the partnership occurs during the period:
 - (A) beginning on 19 August 1992; and
 - (B) ending at the end of the year of income;
 - (iii) the partners do not elect, in accordance with section 94F, that the partnership is not to be treated as a corporate limited partnership in relation to the year of income.
- (2) However, a partnership that is a VCLP, an ESVCLP, an AFOF or a venture capital management partnership cannot be a corporate limited partnership.

Note 1: This subsection can apply without the partnership meeting the applicable registration requirements under the Venture Capital Act 2002. It must be registered under that Act in order to be a VCLP, an ESVCLP or an AFOF, but it is possible for it to remain registered while the requirements are not met.

Note 2: VCLPs, ESVCLPs, AFOFs and VCMPs are taxed as ordinary partnerships under Division 5.

Note 3: If the partnership's registration as a VCLP, ESVCLP or AFOF is unconditional, some partners' share in capital gains and losses from CGT events relating to some investments may be disregarded: see Subdivision 118-F of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

Section 94E

- (3) A venture capital management partnership is a limited partnership that:
- (a) is a general partner of one or more of the following:
 - (i) one or more VCLPs;
 - (ia) one or more ESVCLPs;
 - (ii) one or more AFOFs; and
 - (b) only carries on activities that are related to being such a general partner.

A limited partnership ceases to be a venture capital management partnership if it ceases to meet the requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b).

Note: In this Act, the term “venture capital management partnership” is usually abbreviated to “VCMP”.

- (4) The place of residence of a VCMP is the place at which the partnership has its central management and control.
- (5) A limited partnership that is a foreign hybrid limited partnership in relation to a year of income because of subsection 830-10(1) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 is not a corporate limited partnership in relation to the year of income.

Note: As result, both the normal partnership provisions and special provisions relating to foreign hybrid limited partnerships will apply to the entity.

- (6) If, for the purpose of applying this Act and the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in relation to a partner’s interest in a limited partnership, the partnership is a foreign hybrid limited partnership in relation to a year of income because of subsection 830-10(2) of that Act, the partnership is not a corporate limited partnership in relation to the partner’s interest in relation to the year of income.

Note: As result, both the normal partnership provisions and special provisions relating to foreign hybrid limited partnerships will apply to the entity, but only in relation to the partner’s interest.

94E Continuity of business test

In determining whether a limited partnership is a corporate limited partnership in relation to a year of income, the partnership passes the continuity of business test if, and only if:

- (a) at all times during the period:
 - (i) beginning on 19 August 1992; and

- (ii) ending at the end of the year of income;
the partnership carried on the same business as it carried on immediately before the beginning of that period; and
- (b) the partnership did not, at any time during that period, derive income from a business of a kind that it did not carry on, or from a transaction of a kind that it had not entered into in the course of its business operations, before that period.

94F Change in composition of limited partnership—election that partnership not be treated as an eligible limited partnership

- (b) the election is made:
 - (i) within 6 months after the end of the later of the following years of income:
 - (A) the year of income to which the election relates;
 - (B) the year of income in which the Taxation Laws Amendment Act (No. 6) 1992 received the Royal Assent; or
 - (ii) within such further period as the Commissioner allows.

94G Continuity of ownership test

In determining whether a limited partnership is a corporate limited partnership in relation to a year of income, the partnership passes the continuity of ownership test if, and only if:

- (a) at all times during the period:
 - (i) beginning on 19 August 1992; and
 - (ii) ending at the end of the year of income;more than 50% of the interests in the partnership were held by persons who, immediately before that period, held more than 50% of the interests in the partnership; or
- (b) the condition set out in paragraph (a) is not satisfied only because of the acquisition during so much of that period as occurred before 1 July 1993 of interests in the partnership, where the acquisitions are in response to, and in accordance with the terms of:

- (i) a prospectus, offer or invitation issued before 19 August 1992; or
- (ii) if that prospectus, offer or invitation was varied before 19 August 1992—that prospectus, offer or invitation as so varied.

Subdivision C—Corporate tax modifications applicable to corporate limited partnerships

 - (a) against the profits or anticipated profits of the partnership; or
 - (b) otherwise in anticipation of the profits of the partnership;(whether or not the amount of the profits or anticipated profits is ascertainable), the amount paid or credited is taken, for the purposes of the income tax law, to be a dividend paid by the partnership to the partner out of profits derived by the partnership.
- (2) If the partnership makes a subsequent distribution, the Commissioner must take such steps (if any) as are necessary to ensure that the partner is not subject to double taxation.

94N Private company does not include corporate limited partnership

- (a) a resident; and
- (b) a resident within the meaning of section 6; and

- (a) in the place where it was formed; and
- (b) under a law in force in that place.

94V Obligations and offences

94X Modification of loss provisions

Subdivisions 165-A and 165-B of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 apply in relation to the partnership as if the provisions relating to voting power had not been enacted.

Division 6—Trust income

95 Interpretation

- (1) In this Division:

exempt income, in relation to a trust estate, means the exempt income of the trust estate calculated as if the trustee were a taxpayer who was a resident.

Note: See also Division 54 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (in particular, the provisions in section 54-70 about trusts), which provides a tax exemption for certain payments under structured settlements and structured orders.

net income, in relation to a trust estate, means the total assessable income of the trust estate calculated under this Act as if the trustee were a taxpayer in respect of that income and were a resident, less all allowable deductions, except deductions under Schedule 2G and except also, in respect of any beneficiary who has no beneficial interest in the corpus of the trust estate, or in respect of any life tenant, the deductions allowable under Division 36 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in respect of such of the tax losses of previous years as are required to be met out of corpus.

A trust may be required to work out its net income in a special way by Division 266 or 267 of Schedule 2F.

non-assessable non-exempt income, in relation to a trust estate, means the non-assessable non-exempt income of the trust estate calculated as if the trustee were a taxpayer who was a resident.

- (2) For the purposes of this Division, a trust estate shall be taken to be a resident trust estate in relation to a year of income if:
- (a) a trustee of the trust estate was a resident at any time during the year of income; or
 - (b) the central management and control of the trust estate was in Australia at any time during the year of income.
- (3) In this Division, a trust estate that is not a resident trust estate in relation to a year of income is referred to as a non-resident trust estate in relation to that year of income.

95AA Division does not apply in relation to FHSA trust

This Division does not apply in relation to a trust estate that is an FHSA trust.

95A Special provisions relating to present entitlement

- (1) For the purposes of this Act, where a beneficiary of a trust estate is presently entitled to any income of the trust estate, the beneficiary shall be taken to continue to be presently entitled to that income notwithstanding that the income is paid to, or applied for the benefit of, the beneficiary.
- (2) For the purposes of this Act, where a beneficiary has a vested and indefeasible interest in any of the income of a trust estate but is not presently entitled to that income, the beneficiary shall be deemed to be presently entitled to that income of the trust estate.

95B Certain beneficiaries deemed not to be under legal disability

For the purposes of this Act, a beneficiary of a trust estate who is presently entitled to a share of the income of the trust estate in the capacity of a trustee of another trust estate shall, in respect of his present entitlement to that share, be deemed not to be under a legal disability.

96 Trustees

Except as provided in this Act, a trustee shall not be liable as trustee to pay income tax upon the income of the trust estate.

96A Application of Division in respect of interests in non-resident trust estates to which Part XI applies

- (1) An amount is not to be included under section 97 in the assessable income of a year of income of a beneficiary of a trust estate if:
 - (a) the beneficiary is a resident; and
 - (b) the trust estate is a non-resident trust estate in relation to that year of income; and
 - (c) section 529 applies, or but for Division 8 or 11A of Part XI would have applied, to the beneficiary in relation to each notional accounting period of the relevant trust that ended or began in that year of income.

(1A) An amount, other than an amount relating to an interest in a FIF to which Division 8 of Part XI applies, that, because of subsection (1), is not included under section 97 in assessable income is nevertheless taken to have been so included for the purposes of applying sections 99, 99A and 102AAU.

(2) If:

(a) the assessable income of the trust estate of a resident public unit trust of a year of income includes any foreign investment fund income; and

(b) the sum of:

(i) the values of all the interests of a beneficiary of the trust estate who is a natural person (otherwise than in the capacity of a trustee), and any associates of that beneficiary, in FIFs and resident public unit trusts; and

(ii) the values of all FLPs in which that beneficiary and any associates of that beneficiary had interests; at the end of the year of income did not exceed $50,000;

then:

(c) in calculating the beneficiary's share of the net income of the trust estate of the year of income, that net income is taken to be the amount that would have been that net income if that foreign investment fund income had not been included in that assessable income; and

(d) in calculating the beneficiary's share of the net income of any subsequent year of income, that net income is taken to be the amount that would have been that net income if section 23AK or section 613 applied as if no FIF attribution account credit arose for the relevant trust for the year of income mentioned in paragraph (c); and

(e) in determining under sections 99 and 99A the extent (if any) to which the trustee is to be assessed and liable to pay tax on the whole or part of the net income of the trust estate of the year of income or any later year of income, paragraphs (c) and (d) of this subsection are to be disregarded.

- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2), the value at the end of the year of income of a person's interest in a FIF or in a resident public unit trust, or of a FLP in which a person has an interest, is taken to be:
- (a) the cost incurred by the person in acquiring the interest in the FIF, resident public unit trust or FLP, as the case may be; or
 - (b) the market value of the interest in the FIF or resident public unit trust, or of the FLP, as the case may be, at the end of the year of income;
- whichever is the greater amount.

(3A) If:

- (a) under section 529, the assessable income of a year of income of a CFT includes an amount of foreign investment fund income that, under Part XI, accrued to the CFT from a FIF in respect of a notional accounting period of the FIF; and
- (b) a statutory accounting period of a CFC coincides with that notional accounting period of the FIF; and
- (c) section 456 applies at the end of the statutory accounting period of the CFC to a taxpayer who is a beneficiary in the CFT; and
- (d) the FIF is the same entity as the CFC;

then the beneficiary's share of the net income of the CFT of the year of income is to be calculated as if the amount of foreign investment fund income had not been included in the CFT's assessable income.

(3B) If:

- (a) under section 529, the assessable income of a year of income of a CFT includes an amount of foreign investment fund income that, under Part XI, accrued to the CFT from a FIF in respect of a notional accounting period of the FIF; and
- (b) each of 2 or more statutory accounting periods of a CFC occurs partly within that notional accounting period of the FIF; and
- (c) section 456 applies at the end of each of these statutory accounting periods of the CFC to a taxpayer who is a beneficiary in the CFT; and
- (d) the FIF is the same entity as the CFC;

then the beneficiary's share of the net income of the CFT of the year of income is to be calculated as if the amount of foreign investment fund income had not been included in the CFT's assessable income.

- (4) For the purposes of this section, a unit trust is a resident public unit trust in relation to a year of income if:
- (a) it is a public unit trust for the purposes of Division 6AAA at all times during the year of income; and
 - (b) either of the following conditions was satisfied at any time during the year of income:
 - (i) the central management and control of the unit trust was in Australia;
 - (ii) a person who was a resident or persons who were residents held more than 50% of:
 - (A) the beneficial interests in the income of the unit trust; or
 - (B) the beneficial interests in the property of the unit trust.

- (5) In this section:

CFC has the same meaning as in Part X.

CFT has the same meaning as in Part X.

interest, in relation to a resident public unit trust, means a unit in the trust or an entitlement to acquire such a unit.

statutory accounting period has the same meaning as in Part X.

- (6) Expressions used in this section that are also used in Part XI have, unless the contrary intention appears, the same meanings as in that Part.

96B Beneficiary of non-resident trust estate

- (1) If at any time during the 1992-93 year of income or a later year of income a taxpayer had an interest (including an interest that is to arise at a future time or is contingent on the happening of an event) in a non-resident trust estate in relation to the year of income, this section has effect for the purposes of the application of this Division to the taxpayer in relation to the trust estate in relation to the year of income.

- (2) The taxpayer is taken to be a beneficiary of the trust estate who is presently entitled to a share of the income of the trust estate of the year of income and who is not under a legal disability.
- (3) The taxpayer's share of the net income of the trust estate of the year of income is the amount calculated in accordance with section 96C.

96C Calculation of beneficiary's share of net income of non-resident trust estate

- (1) If all of the income, profits or gains derived by a non-resident trust estate during the year of income consisted of either or both of the following:
 - (a) income, profits or gains to which beneficiaries of the trust estate were presently entitled;
 - (b) income, profits or gains to which beneficiaries of the trust estate were not presently entitled but which were distributed to beneficiaries of the trust estate during the year of income or within 2 months after the end of the year of income;

the share of a taxpayer referred to in section 96B of the net income of the trust estate of the year of income is the amount worked out using the formula:

Net income \times Attribution percentage

In the formula:

Net income means the net income of the trust estate of the year of income.

Attribution percentage means the percentage of the total income, profits and gains derived by the trust estate during the year of income to which the taxpayer was presently entitled or to which the taxpayer was not presently entitled but which was distributed to the taxpayer during the year of income or within 2 months after the end of the year of income.

- (2) If subsection (1) does not apply in respect of a non-resident trust estate of the year of income, the share of a taxpayer referred to in section 96B of the net income of the trust estate of the year of income is the amount determined by calculating:
 - (a) the part of the taxpayer's share of the net income that is attributable to any interest or interests in the trust estate that the taxpayer had in the trust estate throughout the whole of the year of income; and

- (b) the part or parts of the taxpayer's share of the net income that is or are attributable to any interest or interests in the trust estate that the taxpayer had throughout a particular part or particular parts of the year of income; and adding up the amounts so calculated.

- (3) The part of the taxpayer's share of the net income that is attributable to an interest or interests that the taxpayer had throughout the whole of the year of income is the amount worked out using the formula:

Net income \times Attribution percentage

- (4) The part of the taxpayer's share of the net income that is attributable to an interest that the taxpayer had throughout a particular part of the year of income is the amount worked out using the formula:

Net income \times Attribution percentage \times $\frac{\text{Number of days held}}{\text{Total number of days}}$

- (5) For the purposes of the formulas in subsections (3) and (4):

Net income means the net income of the trust estate of the year of income.

Note: See subsection (5A).

Attribution percentage means:

- (a) the percentage of the income of the trust estate represented by the share of the income to which the taxpayer was entitled, or was entitled to acquire, at the test time because of:
- (i) the taxpayer's interest or interests in the trust estate; and
 - (ii) any interest or interests in the trust estate that the taxpayer was entitled to acquire; or
- (b) the percentage of the corpus of the trust estate represented by the share of the corpus to which the taxpayer was entitled, or was entitled to acquire, at the test time because of:
- (i) the taxpayer's interest or interests in the trust estate; and
 - (ii) any interest or interests in the trust estate that the taxpayer was entitled to acquire;

or, if those percentages differ, the greater of those percentages.

Number of days held means the number of days in the part of the year of income throughout which the taxpayer had the interest.

Total number of days means the number of days in the year of income.

the test time means:

- (a) if the taxpayer had an interest or interests in the trust estate at the end of the year of income—the end of the year of income; or
 - (b) if the taxpayer ceased during the year of income to have any interest in the trust estate—the time immediately before the taxpayer ceased to have such an interest.
- (5A) In calculating the net income of the trust estate of the year of income for the purposes of subsections (3), (4) and (5), disregard:
- (a) Division 974 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997; and
 - (b) the operation of any provision of this Act to the extent to which that operation depends on an expression whose meaning is given by that Division.

- (6) If, apart from this subsection, the sum of the attribution percentages at a particular time in relation to a non-resident trust estate of all taxpayers who are residents would exceed 100%, the attribution percentage of each of those taxpayers is the percentage worked out using the formula:

$$\frac{\text{Individual percentage}}{\text{Total percentage}} \times 100$$

where:

Individual percentage means the percentage that, apart from this subsection, would be the attribution percentage of the taxpayer concerned.

Total percentage means the sum of the percentages that, apart from this subsection, would be the attribution percentages of all taxpayers that are residents.

Note: A temporary resident is taken not to be a resident for the purposes of this subsection: see section 768-975 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

Section 97

- (7) For the purposes of subsection (5):
- (a) the percentage of the income of the trust estate represented by the share of the income to which the taxpayer was entitled, or was entitled to acquire, at the test time because of the interest or interests referred to in subparagraph (a)(i) or (ii) of the definition of attribution percentage in that subsection; or
 - (b) the percentage of the corpus of the trust estate represented by the share of the corpus to which the taxpayer was entitled, or was entitled to acquire, at the test time because of the interest or interests referred to in subparagraph (b)(i) or (ii) of the definition of attribution percentage in that subsection;
- is to be worked out by:
- (c) ascertaining whichever of the following is applicable:
 - (i) the income of the trust estate for the year of income;
 - (ii) the corpus of the trust estate as at the end of the year of income; and
 - (d) assuming that the share to which the taxpayer was entitled, or became entitled to acquire, at the test time because of the interest or interests was the same at all other times during the year of income; and
 - (e) ascertaining the percentage concerned:
 - (i) if the test time is a time other than the end of the year of income—at the end of the year of income instead of at the test time; and
 - (ii) on that assumption.
- (8) In this section:
- entitled to acquire* has the same meaning as in Part XI.
- (9) A reference in this section to income, profits or gains having been distributed to a beneficiary of a trust estate is a reference to an amount included in such income, profits or gains having been paid or credited to, or applied for the benefit of, such a beneficiary.

- (c) the non-assessable non-exempt income of the beneficiary shall include:
 - (i) so much of the individual interest of the beneficiary in the non-assessable non-exempt income of the trust estate as is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was a resident; and

Note: If the trust estate's net income includes a net capital gain, Subdivision 115-C of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 also affects the assessment of the beneficiary.

- (2) A reference in this section to income of a trust estate to which a beneficiary is presently entitled shall be read as not including a reference to income of a trust estate:
 - (a) to which a beneficiary is deemed to be presently entitled by virtue of the operation of subsection 95A(2) where the beneficiary:

 - (b) the beneficiary is a non-resident at the end of the year of income; and
 - (c) the beneficiary is:
 - (i) a body, association, fund or organization the income of which is exempt from tax by virtue of the operation of Subdivision 50-A or section 51-5, 51-10 or 51-30 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997; or
 - (ii) an organization the income of which is exempt from tax by virtue of a regulation in force under the International Organisations (Privileges and Immunities) Act 1963;
- that beneficiary is, for the purposes of the application of this Division in relation to that beneficiary in relation to that year of income, a beneficiary to whom this subsection applies.

this Division applies in relation to the beneficiary in relation to the year of income as if the beneficiary were not under any legal disability.

- (1A) Where a beneficiary who is deemed by subsection 95A(2) to be presently entitled to any income of a trust estate derived during a year of income of the beneficiary:
- (a) is not under a legal disability;

the beneficiary is, for the purposes of the application of this Division in relation to that beneficiary in relation to that year of income, a beneficiary to whom this subsection applies.

- (2) In this section:

primary producer and owner of a farm management deposit have the same meanings as in Schedule 2G.

98 Liability of trustee

- (1) Where a beneficiary of a trust estate who is under a legal disability is presently entitled to a share of the income of the trust estate, the trustee of the trust estate shall be assessed and liable to pay tax in respect of:
- (a) so much of that share of the net income of the trust estate as is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was a resident; and
 - (b) so much of that share of the net income of the trust estate as is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was not a resident and is also attributable to sources in Australia;
- as if it were the income of an individual and were not subject to any deduction.
- (2) Where a beneficiary of a trust estate:
- (a) is deemed to be presently entitled to a share of the income of the trust estate of a year of income by virtue of the operation of subsection 95A(2);

Section 98

- (aa) is a natural person and is not, in respect of that share of the income of the trust estate, a beneficiary in the capacity of a trustee of another trust estate;
- (b) is not a beneficiary to whom subsection 97A(1) or (1A) applies in relation to the year of income; and
- (c) is not under a legal disability;

the trustee of the trust estate shall be assessed and liable to pay tax in respect of:

- (d) so much of that share of the net income of the trust estate as is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was a resident; and
- (e) so much of that share of the net income of the trust estate as is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was not a resident and is also attributable to sources in Australia;

as if it were the income of an individual and were not subject to any deduction.

(2A) If:

- (a) a beneficiary of a trust estate who is presently entitled to a share of the income of the trust estate:
 - (i) is a non-resident at the end of the year of income; and
 - (ii) is not, in respect of that share of the income of the trust estate, a beneficiary in the capacity of a trustee of another trust estate; and
 - (iii) is not a beneficiary to whom section 97A applies in relation to the year of income; and
 - (iv) is not a beneficiary to whom subsection 97(3) applies; and
- (b) the trustee of the trust estate is not assessed and is not liable to pay tax under subsection (1) or (2) in respect of any part of that share of the net income of the trust estate;

subsection (3) applies to the trustee in respect of:

- (c) so much of that share of the net income of the trust estate as is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was a resident; and
- (d) so much of that share of the net income of the trust estate as is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was not a resident and is also attributable to sources in Australia.

- (3) A trustee to whom this subsection applies in respect of an amount of net income is to be assessed and is liable to pay tax:
- (a) if the beneficiary is not a company—in respect of the amount of net income as if it were the income of an individual and were not subject to any deduction; or
 - (b) if the beneficiary is a company—in respect of the amount of net income at the rate declared by the Parliament for the purposes of this paragraph.

Note: If the trust estate's net income includes a net capital gain, and the beneficiary is a company, Subdivision 115-C of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 affects the assessment of the trustee.

- (4) If:
- (a) a beneficiary of a trust estate (the first trust estate) who is presently entitled to a share of the income of the first trust estate:
 - (i) is, in respect of that share of the income of the first trust estate, a beneficiary in the capacity of a trustee of another trust estate; and
 - (ii) is not a beneficiary to whom subsection 97(3) applies; and
 - (b) a trustee of the other trust estate is a non-resident at the end of the year of income;

the trustee of the first trust estate is to be assessed and is liable to pay tax in respect of so much of that share of the net income of the first trust estate as is attributable to sources in Australia at the rate declared by the Parliament for the purposes of this subsection.

Note: If the trust estate's net income includes a net capital gain, Subdivision 115-C of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 affects the assessment of the trustee.

98A Non-resident beneficiaries assessable in respect of certain income

- (1) Where the trustee of a trust estate is assessed and is liable to pay tax in respect of the whole or a part of a share of the net income of a trust estate of a year of income in pursuance of subsection 98(3), the assessable income of the beneficiary who is presently entitled to that share of the income of the trust estate shall include:

Section 98A

- (a) so much of the individual interest of the beneficiary in the net income of the trust estate as is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was a resident; and
- (b) so much of the individual interest of the beneficiary in the net income of the trust estate as is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was not a resident and is also attributable to sources in Australia.

Note: If the trust estate's net income includes a net capital gain, Subdivision 115-C of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 also affects the assessment of the beneficiary.

- (2) Where subsection (1) applies in relation to a beneficiary in relation to a year of income:

- (a) there shall be deducted from the income tax assessed against the beneficiary the amount (in this subsection referred to as the relevant amount) of the tax paid by the trustee in respect of the beneficiary's interest in the net income of the trust estate (including, for a beneficiary that is a company, any tax paid in respect of that interest because of section 115-220 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997); and
- (b) if the relevant amount is greater than the amount of the income tax assessed against the beneficiary—the Commissioner shall pay to the beneficiary an amount equal to the difference between those 2 amounts.

Note: See Division 3A of Part IIB of, and section 105-65 in Schedule 1 to, the Taxation Administration Act 1953 for the rules about how the Commissioner must pay the entity. Division 3 of Part IIB allows the Commissioner to apply the amount owing as a credit against tax debts that the entity owes to the Commonwealth.

- (3) If a beneficiary of a trust estate who is presently entitled to a share of the income of the trust estate:

- (a) is not, in respect of that share of the income of the trust estate, a beneficiary in the capacity of a trustee of another trust estate; and

- (b) is a non-resident at the end of the year of income;

the assessable income of the beneficiary includes so much of the individual interest of the beneficiary in the net income of the trust estate as is reasonably attributable to a part of the net income of another trust estate in respect of which the trustee of the other trust estate is assessed and is liable to pay tax under subsection 98(4).

Note: If the trust estate's net income includes a net capital gain, Subdivision 115-C of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 also affects the assessment of the beneficiary.

- (4) To the extent that subsection (3) includes an amount in the assessable income of a beneficiary of a trust estate, the amount is not included by subsection (1) or section 100.

98B Deduction from beneficiary's tax

- (1) This section applies to a beneficiary of a trust estate for a year of income if the assessable income of the beneficiary of the year of income includes an amount covered by subsection (2).
- (2) This subsection covers an amount (the assessable amount) if:
- (a) the amount is included in the assessable income of the beneficiary under one of the following:
 - (i) section 97;
 - (ii) subsection 98A(3);
 - (iii) section 100; and
 - (b) the amount does not represent income of the trust estate to which the beneficiary is presently entitled in the capacity of a trustee of another trust estate; and
 - (c) the amount is reasonably attributable to an amount (the taxed net income) in respect of which the trustee of another trust estate is assessed and liable to pay tax (the subsection 98(4) tax) under subsection 98(4) (including any tax paid under subsection 98(4) in respect of the taxed net income because of section 115-222 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997).
- (3) A proportion of the subsection 98(4) tax is to be deducted from the income tax assessed against the beneficiary of the year of income. That proportion is the same as the proportion of the taxed net income that gave rise to the assessable amount.

Note: To work out the proportion of the taxed net income that gives rise to assessable income for a beneficiary of another trust estate, you would have regard to the share of the income of each interposed trust estate to which a beneficiary (including a beneficiary in the capacity of a trustee) is presently entitled.

Example: The P Trust has two non-resident trustee beneficiaries, the trustees of the S Trust and the H Trust. Each trustee is presently entitled to a 1/2 share of the income of the P Trust. The net income of the P Trust is $100,000. The trustee of the P Trust pays tax of $22,500 under subsection 98(4) in respect of the trustee of the S Trust's interest and $22,500 under subsection 98(4) in respect of the trustee of the H Trust's interest.

The S Trust has a non-resident beneficiary, G, who is presently entitled to a 1/3 share of the income of the S Trust. The net income of the S Trust is $30,000. Subsection 98A(3) includes $10,000 in G's assessable income.

The taxed net income of the P trust is $50,000. The proportion of that taxed net income that gave rise to the $10,000 being included in G's assessable income is 1/3. This is because G had a 1/3 share of the income of the S Trust. $7,500 (1/3 x $22,500) is deducted from the income tax assessed against G.

If section 97, subsection 98A(3) or section 100 also includes amounts in the assessable income of any beneficiaries of the H Trust, each of those beneficiaries also works out the amount of the deduction against the income tax assessed against them in the same way.

- (4) If the amount to be deducted under subsection (3) is greater than the amount of the income tax assessed against the beneficiary, the Commissioner must pay to the beneficiary an amount equal to the difference between those 2 amounts.

Note: See Division 3A of Part IIB of, and section 105-65 in Schedule 1 to, the Taxation Administration Act 1953 for the rules about how the Commissioner must pay the entity. Division 3A of Part IIB allows the Commissioner to apply the amount owing as a credit against tax debts that the entity owes to the Commonwealth.

99 Certain trust income to be taxed as income of an individual

- (1) This section applies in relation to a trust estate in relation to a year of income only if section 99A does not apply in relation to that trust estate in relation to that year of income.
- (2) Where there is no part of the net income of a resident trust estate:
- (a) that is included in the assessable income of a beneficiary of the trust estate in pursuance of section 97;
 - (b) in respect of which the trustee of the trust estate is assessed and liable to pay tax in pursuance of section 98; or
 - (c) that represents income to which a beneficiary is presently entitled that is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was not a resident and is also attributable to sources out of Australia;

the trustee shall be assessed and is liable to pay tax on the net income of the trust estate as if it were the income of an individual who was a resident and were not subject to any deduction.

- (3) Where there is a part of the net income of a resident trust estate:
- (a) that is not included in the assessable income of a beneficiary of the trust estate in pursuance of section 97;
 - (b) in respect of which the trustee is not assessed and is not liable to pay tax in pursuance of section 98; and
 - (c) that does not represent income to which a beneficiary is presently entitled that is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was not a resident and is also attributable to sources out of Australia;

the trustee shall be assessed and is liable to pay tax on that part of the net income of the trust estate as if it were the income of an individual who was a resident and were not subject to any deduction.

- (4) Where there is no part of the net income of a trust estate that is not a resident trust estate:
- (a) that is included in the assessable income of a beneficiary of the trust estate in pursuance of section 97;
 - (b) in respect of which the trustee of the trust estate is assessed and liable to pay tax in pursuance of section 98; or
 - (c) that is attributable to sources out of Australia;

- (5) Where there is a part of the net income of a trust estate that is not a resident trust estate:
- (a) that is attributable to sources in Australia;
 - (b) that is not included in the assessable income of a beneficiary of the trust estate in pursuance of section 97; and
 - (c) in respect of which the trustee of the trust estate is not assessed and is not liable to pay tax in pursuance of section 98;

the trustee shall be assessed and is liable to pay tax on that part of the net income of the trust estate as if it were the income of an individual and were not subject to any deduction.

99A Certain trust income to be taxed at special rate

- (2) This section does not apply in relation to a trust estate in relation to a year of income, being a trust estate:

Section 99A

- (a) that resulted from:
 - (i) a will, a codicil or an order of a court that varied or modified the provisions of a will or a codicil; or
 - (ii) an intestacy or an order of a court that varied or modified the application, in relation to the estate of a deceased person, of the provisions of the law relating to the distribution of the estates of persons who die intestate;
- (b) that consists of the property of a person who has become bankrupt, being property that has vested in The Official Receiver in Bankruptcy, or in a registered trustee, under the Bankruptcy Act 1966;
- (c) that is administered under Part XI of the Bankruptcy Act 1966; or
- (d) that consists of property of a kind referred to in paragraph 102AG(2)(c);

if the Commissioner is of the opinion that it would be unreasonable that this section should apply in relation to that trust estate in relation to that year of income.

- (3) In forming an opinion for the purposes of subsection (2):
 - (a) the Commissioner shall have regard to the circumstances in which and the conditions, if any, upon which, at any time, property (including money) was acquired by or lent to the trust estate, income was derived by the trust estate, benefits were conferred on the trust estate or special rights or privileges were conferred on or attached to property of the trust estate, whether or not the rights or privileges have been exercised;
 - (b) if a person who has, at any time, directly or indirectly:
 - (i) transferred or lent any property (including money) to, or conferred any benefits on, the trust estate; or
 - (ii) conferred or attached any special right or privilege, or done any act or thing, either alone or together with another person or persons, that has resulted in the conferring or attaching of any special right or privilege, on or to property of the trust estate whether or not the right or privilege has been exercised;
- has not, at any time, directly or indirectly:

- (iii) transferred or lent any property (including money) to, or conferred any benefits on, another trust estate; or
 - (iv) conferred or attached any special right or privilege, or done any act or thing, either alone or together with another person or persons, that has resulted in the conferring or attaching of any special right or privilege, on or to property of another trust estate, whether or not the right or privilege has been exercised;
- the Commissioner shall have regard to that fact; and
- (c) the Commissioner shall have regard to such other matters, if any, as he thinks fit.
- (3A) For the purposes of the application of paragraph (3)(a) in relation to a trust estate of the kind referred to in paragraph (2)(a), a reference in that first-mentioned paragraph to the trust estate shall be read as including a reference to the person as a result of whose death the trust estate arose.
- (4) Where there is no part of the net income of a resident trust estate:
- (a) that is included in the assessable income of a beneficiary of the trust estate in pursuance of section 97;
 - (b) in respect of which the trustee of the trust estate is assessed and liable to pay tax in pursuance of section 98; or
 - (c) that represents income to which a beneficiary is presently entitled that is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was not a resident and is also attributable to sources out of Australia;
- the trustee shall be assessed and is liable to pay tax on the net income of the trust estate at the rate declared by the Parliament for the purposes of this section.
- Note: If the trust estate's net income includes a net capital gain, Subdivision 115-C of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 affects the assessment of the trustee.
- (4A) Where there is a part of the net income of a resident trust estate:
- (a) that is not included in the assessable income of a beneficiary of the trust estate in pursuance of section 97;
 - (b) in respect of which the trustee is not assessed and is not liable to pay tax in pursuance of section 98; and
 - (c) that does not represent income to which a beneficiary is presently entitled that is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was not a resident and is also attributable to sources out of Australia;

the trustee shall be assessed and is liable to pay tax on that part of the net income of the trust estate at the rate declared by the Parliament for the purposes of this section.

Note: If the trust estate's net income includes a net capital gain, Subdivision 115-C of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 affects the assessment of the trustee.

(4B) Where there is no part of the net income of a trust estate that is not a resident trust estate:

- (a) that is included in the assessable income of a beneficiary of the trust estate in pursuance of section 97;
- (b) in respect of which the trustee of the trust estate is assessed and liable to pay tax in pursuance of section 98; or
- (c) that is attributable to sources out of Australia;

the trustee shall be assessed and is liable to pay tax on the net income of the trust estate at the rate declared by the Parliament for the purposes of this section.

Note: If the trust estate's net income includes a net capital gain, Subdivision 115-C of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 affects the assessment of the trustee.

- (2) Without limiting the generality of subsection (1), an amount shall be taken, for the purposes of section 99B, to have been applied for the benefit of a beneficiary if:

(1) Where:

- (a) a trustee of a trust estate has been assessed and was liable to pay tax in pursuance of subsection 99(2) or (3) or subsection 99A(4) or (4A) in respect of the net income or a part of the net income of the trust estate of a year of income (in this subsection referred to as the relevant year of income), being the year of income that commenced on 1 July 1978 or a subsequent year of income;
- (b) the amount (in this subsection referred to as the relevant tax amount) of the tax so assessed in respect of that net income or that part of that net income has been paid;

 - (iii) is not income that, by the operation of section 100A, is deemed not to have been paid to or applied for the benefit of the beneficiary or to be income to which the beneficiary is not presently entitled;

the Commissioner shall, subject to subsection (2), refund to the beneficiary so much (if any) of the relevant tax amount as is attributable to the non-Australian distributed amount, reduced by so much of any refund or credit to which the trustee is or was entitled in respect of the relevant tax amount as is attributable to the non-Australian distributed amount.

- (2) The Commissioner may refuse to make a refund of tax in relation to an amount paid to a beneficiary of a trust estate if the Commissioner considers that the whole or a part of that amount was paid to the beneficiary by the trustee for the purpose or for purposes that included the purpose of enabling the beneficiary to become entitled to a refund of tax under this section in relation to that amount.

99E Later trust not taxed on income already taxed under subsection 98(4)

Sections 98, 99 and 99A do not apply to so much of the net income of a trust estate of a year of income as is reasonably attributable to a part of the net income of another trust estate in respect of which the trustee of the other trust estate is assessed and is liable to pay tax under subsection 98(4).

99G Amounts covered by withholding requirement

Subsection 98(4) does not apply to so much of the net income of a trust estate as represents income to which a beneficiary is presently entitled and gives rise to an amount from which an entity is required to withhold an amount under Subdivision 12-H in Schedule 1 to the Taxation Administration Act 1953.

99H Late payments

- (1) This section applies if:
 - (a) a beneficiary of a trust estate that is a managed investment trust is presently entitled to a share of the income of the trust estate of a year of income; and
 - (b) the beneficiary is a non-resident at the end of the year of income; and
 - (c) all or part of that share of the net income of the trust estate (the late amount) has not been paid to the beneficiary by the end of the period applicable under subsection 12-400(4) in Schedule 1 to the Taxation Administration Act 1953; and

Note: That subsection requires payments to be made before the end of 3 months after the end of the relevant year of income or within a longer period allowed by the Commissioner.

- (d) if the late amount had been paid to the beneficiary within that period, the payment would have been a fund payment made by the trustee of the managed investment trust.
- (2) This Division applies as if that portion of the beneficiary's income that represents the late amount were income to which no beneficiary was presently entitled.
- (3) In working out the net income of the trust estate for the year of income for the purposes of subsection (1), disregard these amounts (excluded amounts):
 - (a) a dividend (as defined in Division 11A of Part III) that is subject to, or exempted from, a requirement to withhold under Subdivision 12-F in Schedule 1 to the Taxation Administration Act 1953;

 - (c) so much of the individual interest of the beneficiary in the net income of the trust estate or of each of the trust estates as is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was a resident; and

Section 100

Note 2: An amount is not included in assessable income under this section to the extent that subsection 98A(3) already includes it: see subsection 98A(4).

(1A) If:

- (a) a beneficiary in a trust estate is under a legal disability or is deemed to be presently entitled to any of the income of the trust estate by virtue of the operation of subsection 95A(2); and
- (b) the beneficiary is not a beneficiary in any other trust estate and does not derive income from any other source; and
- (c) the beneficiary would receive a refund of tax offsets under Division 67 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 for a particular year of income if the following amounts were included in the assessable income of the beneficiary for that year:
 - (i) so much of the individual interest of the beneficiary in the net income of the trust estate for that year as is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was a resident;
 - (ii) so much of the individual interest of the beneficiary in the net income of the trust estate for that year as is attributable to a period when the beneficiary was not a resident and is also attributable to sources in Australia;

the assessable income of the beneficiary includes so much of the individual interest of the beneficiary in the net income of the trust estate as is reasonably attributable to a part of the net income of another trust estate in respect of which the trustee of the other trust estate is assessed and is liable to pay tax under subsection 98(4).

Note 1: If the trust estate's net income includes a net capital gain, Subdivision 115-C of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 also affects the assessment of the beneficiary.

Note 2: A credit is available under section 98B for an appropriate part of the subsection 98(4) tax.

Note 3: An amount is not included in assessable income under this section to the extent that subsection 98A(3) already includes it: see subsection 98A(4).

(3) However, an amount of tax is not to be deducted under subsection (2) from the income tax assessed against a beneficiary to the extent that the amount is deducted under section 98B from the income tax assessed against the beneficiary.

amount (in this subsection referred to as the original amount) of the income of the trust estate to which the beneficiary would have been, or could reasonably be expected to have been, presently entitled if the reimbursement agreement had not been entered into or if an act, transaction or circumstance that occurred in connection with, or as a result of, the reimbursement agreement had not occurred;

- (8) A reference in subsection (7) to an agreement shall be read as not including a reference to an agreement that was not entered into for the purpose, or for purposes that included the purpose, of securing that a person who, if the agreement had not been entered into, would have been liable to pay income tax in respect of a year of income would not be liable to pay income tax in respect of that year of income or would be liable to pay less income tax in respect of that year of income than that person would have been liable to pay if the agreement had not been entered into.
- (9) For the purposes of subsection (8), an agreement shall be taken to have been entered into for a particular purpose, or for purposes that included a particular purpose, if any of the parties to the agreement entered into the agreement for that purpose, or for purposes that included that purpose, as the case may be.

- (7) For the purposes of this section, the extent to which an amount (in this subsection called the section 99B amount) included in the assessable income of a taxpayer of a year of income under section 99B in relation to a trust estate is attributable to an amount (in this subsection called the trust amount) covered by subparagraph (1)(b)(i) or (ii) is to be determined in accordance with the following paragraphs:
- (a) in all cases—distributions of income and profits of the trust estate are to be taken to have been made in the following order:
 - (i) first, from income and profits of the earliest non-resident year of income;
 - (ii) then, successively from income and profits of successive subsequent years of income;
 - (b) if subparagraph (1)(b)(i) applies—the extent to which the amount (in this paragraph called the adjusted section 99B amount), being so much of the section 99B amount as is attributable to the income and profits of the trust estate of the non-resident trust's year of income, represents eligible designated concession income in relation to any listed country in relation to the non-resident trust's year of income is calculated using the formula:

$$\frac{\text{Adjusted section 99B amount}}{\text{Total income}} \times \frac{\text{Untaxed income}}{\text{Total income}}$$

where:

Adjusted section 99B amount means the adjusted section 99B amount.

Untaxed income means the number of dollars in the amount, being so much of the income and profits of the trust estate of the non-resident trust's year of income as is not subject to tax in any listed country in a tax accounting period mentioned in that subparagraph.

Total income means the number of dollars in the income and profits of the trust estate of the non-resident trust's year of income.

- (9) Where, apart from this subsection, the amount of interest that would be payable under this section by a taxpayer in respect of the distributed amount of a non-resident trust's year of income, or in respect of the taxpayer's portion of the distributed amount of a non-resident trust's year of income, is less than 50 cents, interest is not payable by the taxpayer under this section.
- (10) For the purposes of this section, the applicable rate of tax in relation to a taxpayer is:

Part III Liability to taxation

 - (d) the assessment is taken to have been made on the day on which the return is lodged; and the following provisions have effect:

- (d) subsection (1) has effect as if paragraph (1)(b) had applied;
- (e) section 170 does not prevent the amendment of an assessment at any time for the purposes of giving effect to this subsection.

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 6AAA Special provisions relating to non-resident trust estates etc.

Section 102AAU

- (6) For the purposes of this section, the extent to which an amount referred to in subparagraph (1)(c)(i) or (ii) (in this subsection called the taxed amount) represents the amount covered by paragraph (1)(b) (in this subsection called the listed country trust amount) is calculated using the formula:

where:

Listed country trust amount means the number of dollars in the listed country trust amount.

Taxed amount means the taxed amount.

Net income means the number of dollars in the net income of the non-resident trust estate concerned of the year of income concerned.

- (7) For the purposes of subparagraph (1)(c)(ix), if:

- then the amount of foreign investment fund income is an excluded foreign investment fund income amount for the purpose of calculating the attributable income in relation to the attributable taxpayer.
- (8) For the purposes of subparagraph (1)(c)(ix), if:
- (a) the non-resident trust estate concerned is a CFT; and
 - (b) under section 529, the assessable income of a year of income of a CFT includes an amount of foreign investment fund

- (d) wholly or partly because of the holding of an attribution tracing interest in the CFT, section 456 applies at the end of each of these statutory accounting periods of the CFC to the attributable taxpayer in relation to whom the attributable income is being calculated; and
- (e) the FIF is the same entity as the CFC;

then the amount of foreign investment fund income is an excluded foreign investment fund income amount for the purpose of calculating the attributable income in relation to the attributable taxpayer.

- (9) In subsections (7) and (8):

attribution tracing interest has the same meaning as in Part X.

CFT has the same meaning as in Part X.

102AAZ Modified application of depreciation provisions

- (1) For the purpose of determining the attributable income of a trust estate of a year of income (in this section called the attributable year of income), where property has been held by the trustee of the trust estate in a non-attributable year of income before the attributable year of income, then, in relation to the application of a depreciation provision to the property, subsection (2) applies.

- (a) disregarding the assumption in paragraph 102AAZB(b), at any time (in this section called the residence-change time) during the attributable income year or an earlier year of income, the trust estate ceased to be a resident trust for CGT purposes and became a non-resident trust estate; and
- (b) the trust estate owned a CGT asset at the residence-change time; and

Division 6A—Alienation of income

102A Interpretation

- (1) In this Division:

interest, in relation to property, means any legal or equitable estate or interest in the property.

property means any property whether real or personal.

right to receive income from property means a right to have income that will or may be derived from property paid to, or applied or accumulated for the benefit of, the person owning the right.

the prescribed date, in relation to a person who transfers to another person a right to receive income from property, means the day preceding the seventh anniversary of the date on which income from the property is first paid to, or applied or accumulated for the benefit of, the other person by reason of the transfer.

- (2) A reference in this Division to a transfer of an interest in property or of a right to receive income from property shall be read as a reference to any such transfer, whether made for valuable consideration or not.
- (3) For the purposes of this Division, any income that will or may be derived by a trust estate from a business carried on by the trustee of the trust estate shall be deemed to be income that will or may be derived from property.
- (4) For the purposes of this Division:
- (a) where a person:
 - (i) declares that he holds a right to receive income from property upon trust for another person; or
 - (ii) transfers such a right to a trustee to be held upon trust for another person;

the right shall be deemed to be transferred to that other person; and

(b) where a person:

(i) declares that he holds a right to receive income from property upon trust for 2 or more other persons in succession; or

(ii) transfers such a right to, or to a trustee to be held upon trust for, 2 or more other persons in succession;

the right shall be deemed to be separately transferred to each of those other persons for the respective periods for which the right is held upon trust for, or transferred to, those persons.

(5) Where an interest in property or a right to receive income from property is transferred by 2 or more persons jointly, each of those persons shall, for the purposes of this Division, be deemed to have transferred an interest in that property or a right to receive income from that property, as the case may be.

(6) In this Division, unless the contrary intention appears:

(a) a reference to the arm's length consideration in respect of a transfer of a right to receive income from property is a reference to the consideration that might reasonably be expected to have been received or receivable in respect of the transfer if the right had been transferred under an agreement between independent parties dealing at arm's length with each other in relation to the agreement and transfer; and

(b) a reference to the amount of consideration is, in a case where consideration is paid or given otherwise than in cash, a reference to the money value of the consideration.

102B Certain income transferred for short periods to be included in assessable income of transferor

(1) Subject to this section, where a right to receive income from property is transferred, otherwise than by a will or codicil, by a person (in this subsection referred to as the transferor) to an associate of the transferor for a period that will, or may for any reason other than the death of any person or the associate becoming under a legal disability, terminate before the prescribed date, any income that:

Section 102B

- (a) is derived from the property;
 - (b) is paid to, or applied or accumulated for the benefit of:
 - (i) the associate; or
 - (ii) any other associate of the transferor to whom a right to receive income from the property has been transferred (whether by the first-mentioned associate or any other person) after the first-mentioned transfer; and
 - (c) would, if the first-mentioned transfer had not been made, have been included in the assessable income of the transferor;
- shall be treated for the purposes of this Act as if the first-mentioned transfer had not been made.
- (2) Subsection (1) (other than subparagraph (1)(b)(ii)) does not apply in relation to a transfer of a right to receive income from property where:
 - (a) the right was not a right that arose from the ownership by the transferor of an interest in the property;
 - (b) the right arose from the ownership by the transferor of an interest in the property and, before or at the time of the first-mentioned transfer, the transferor transferred that interest to the transferee or another person; or
 - (c) consideration has been received or is receivable in respect of the transfer and the amount of that consideration is not less than the arm's length consideration in respect of the transfer.
 - (3) Where, on a particular day, a person who has transferred to another person a right to receive income from property:
 - (a) in any case—transfers to the other person or to a third person an interest in the property, being the interest from the ownership of which by the transferor the right arose;
 - (b) in the case of a natural person—dies; or
 - (c) in the case of a company—ceases to exist;subsection (1) (other than subparagraph (1)(b)(ii)) does not apply, in relation to the transfer of the right to receive income, in relation to income that is derived from the property after that day.
 - (4) Subsection (1) does not apply in relation to income derived by a person in pursuance of a transfer to that person of a right to receive income from property where, by reason of subsection 51-50(3) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, the income so derived by the person is not exempt from tax under section 51-30 of that Act.

(4A) Where:

- (a) subsection (1) (other than subparagraph (1)(b)(ii)) applies in relation to a transfer by a person of a right to receive income from property; and
- (b) consideration has been received or is receivable in respect of the transfer;

then, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act (other than a provision of Part IVA), the amount of the consideration shall not be included in the assessable income of the person of a year of income.

- (5) Nothing in any other provision of this Act prevents the amendment of an assessment at any time for the purpose of excluding from the assessable income of a person income that is, by virtue of subsection (1), to be included in the assessable income of another person.
- (6) Where there is excluded from the assessable income of a person an amount that, in pursuance of subsection (1) was previously treated as assessable income of that person, nothing in any other provision of this Act prevents the amendment of any assessment at any time to give effect to the inclusion in the assessable income of another person of an amount that, in pursuance of that subsection, was treated as not being so included for the purposes of the assessment.

102C Effect of certain transfers of rights to receive income from property

Where:

- (a) any income is paid to, or applied or accumulated for the benefit of, a person (in this section referred to as the transferee) by reason of the transfer to the person of a right to receive income from property; and then:

Section 102CA

 - (i) shall be deemed to have been paid by the transferor to the transferee at the time at which the income was paid to, or applied or accumulated for the benefit of, the transferee; and
 - (ii) shall be deemed to have been so paid for the purpose for which the right was transferred; and
- (d) where, if the right had not been transferred, but the transferor had paid to the transferee, at the time at which the income was so paid to, or applied or accumulated for the benefit of, the transferee and for the purpose for which the right was transferred, an amount (in this paragraph referred to as the notional amount) equal to the amount of the income so paid, applied or accumulated, the notional amount or a part of the notional amount would have been included in the assessable income of the transferee—there shall be included in that assessable income an amount equal to the notional amount or that part of the notional amount, as the case may be.

102CA Consideration in respect of transfer to be included in assessable income of transferor in certain cases

 - (c) immediately after the transfer, subsection 102B(1) (other than subparagraph 102B(1)(b)(ii)) does not apply in relation to the transfer;the assessable income of the transferor of the year of income in which the right is transferred shall include the amount of the consideration.
- (2) Subsection (1) does not apply in relation to a transfer of a right to receive income from property where:
 - (a) the right was not a right that arose from the ownership by the transferor of an interest in the property; or

Section 102CA

- (b) the right arose from the ownership by the transferor of an interest in the property and, before or at the time of the first-mentioned transfer, the transferor transferred that interest to the transferee.
- (3) Where, by reason of subsection 51-50(3) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, income derived by a person pursuant to a transfer to the person of a right to receive income from property is not exempt from tax under section 51-30 of that Act, subsection (1) does not apply in relation to the transfer.

Division 6D—Provisions relating to certain closely held trusts

Subdivision A—Overview

102UA What this Division is about

- (1) The main purpose of this Division is to ensure that the trustee of a closely held trust with one or more trustee beneficiaries that are presently entitled to a share of the income or of a tax-preferred amount of the trust advises the Commissioner soon after the end of the year of income of certain details about those trustee beneficiaries. This will allow the Commissioner to check whether the assessable income of the trustee beneficiaries includes the correct share of net income, and whether the net assets of the trustee beneficiaries reflect the receipt of the tax-preferred amounts.
- (2) To achieve this purpose, the Division:
 - (a) provides for the trustee to correctly identify the trustee beneficiaries within a specified period after the end of the year of income; and
 - (b) if the trustee fails to do so, provides for taxation at a penalty rate (in the case of net income) or offences under the Taxation Administration Act 1953 (in the case of tax-preferred amounts).
- (3) This Division also provides that, where the trustee of the closely held trust becomes presently entitled to an amount that is reasonably attributable to the whole or a part of the share of the net income of the closely held trust, there will also be taxation at a penalty rate.

- (b) rights or powers of the public body in connexion with the company were exercised during the year of income otherwise than for the benefit of the public body or were not exercised in circumstances where it might reasonably have been expected that they would have been exercised;
 - (c) any shares in the company that were held by the public body on the last day of the year of income were acquired by the public body for no consideration or for a consideration that, in the ordinary course of commercial dealing, would be considered inadequate;
 - (d) in pursuance of any agreement entered into before the end of the year of income, the public body agreed to dispose of all or any of the shares in the company that were held by the public body on the last day of the year of income, being a disposal that was to take place at any time after the last day of the year of income;
 - (e) a dividend was paid by the company at a time during the year of income when the public body had a controlling interest in the company, and less than one-half of the amount of that dividend was paid to the public body; or
 - (f) a dividend was not paid by the company at a time during the year of income when the public body had a controlling interest in the company but the Commissioner is of the opinion that, if a dividend had been paid by the company at such a time, less than one-half of the amount of the dividend would have been paid to the public body.
- (3B) Subsection (3A) does not apply in relation to a company in relation to a year of income if the Commissioner is satisfied that no shares in the company that were held by the public body referred to in that subsection on the last day of the year of income were allotted or transferred to the public body for the purpose, or for purposes that included the purpose, of enabling the company to be treated as a public company in relation to the year of income for the purposes of subsection (1), or in pursuance of an agreement entered into, or a course of conduct engaged in, for the purpose, or for purposes that included the purpose, of enabling the company to be so treated.
- (3C) Paragraph (3A)(c) does not apply to an acquisition that is taken by section 70-30 or 70-110 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to have occurred.

Section 103A

 - (c) at no time during the year of income was a person or were 2 or more persons in a position to affect rights of the relevant holding company or holding companies in connexion with the first-mentioned company so as to prevent the relevant holding company or holding companies from exercising for its or their own benefit the whole of the voting power in the first-mentioned company or from receiving for its or their own benefit the whole of any dividends that might be paid by the first-mentioned company or of any distribution that might be made of capital of the first-mentioned company; and
 - (d) no agreement was entered into before or during the year of income by virtue of which a person or 2 or more persons would be in a position after the year of income so to affect rights of the relevant holding company or holding companies in connexion with the first-mentioned company.
- (4A) For the purposes of paragraphs 4(c) and (d), a person shall be taken to have been, or to be, in a position at a particular time to affect any rights of the relevant holding company or holding companies in connexion with the company first-mentioned in subsection (4) (in this subsection referred to as the first-mentioned company) if at that time that person had or has a right, power or option (whether by virtue of any provision in the constituent document of the first-mentioned company or by virtue of any agreement or instrument or otherwise) to acquire those rights or to do an act or thing that would prevent the relevant holding company or holding companies from exercising those rights for its or their own benefit or receiving any benefits accruing by reason of those rights.

- (4B) Subject to subsection (4D), a company that is not, by virtue of subsection (4), a subsidiary of a public company for the purposes of this section in relation to the year of income is, for the purposes of this section, a subsidiary of a public company in relation to the year of income if:

 - (b) at all times during the year of income a listed company or listed companies had a right to receive, either directly or through one or more companies, trustees or partnerships interposed between the first-mentioned company and the listed company or listed companies, more than one-half of any dividends that might be paid by the first-mentioned company and more than one-half of any distribution that might be made of capital of the first-mentioned company;
 - (c) at no time during the year of income was a person or were 2 or more persons in a position to affect rights of the listed company or listed companies in connexion with the first-mentioned company so as to prevent the listed company or listed companies from exercising for its or their own benefit control of the voting power in the first-mentioned company or from receiving for its or their own benefit more than one-half of any dividends that might be paid by the first-mentioned company or of any distribution that might be made of capital of the first-mentioned company; and
 - (d) no agreement was entered into before or during the year of income by virtue of which a person or 2 or more persons would be in a position after the year of income so to affect rights of the listed company or listed companies in connexion with the first-mentioned company.

- (4C) For the purposes of paragraphs (4B)(c) and (d), a person shall be taken to have been, or to be, in a position at a particular time to affect any rights of a listed company or listed companies in connexion with another company if at that time that person had, or has, a right, power or option (whether by virtue of any provision in the constituent document of the other company or of any company interposed between the listed company or listed companies and the other company or by virtue of any agreement or instrument or otherwise) to acquire those rights or to do an act or thing that would prevent the listed company or listed companies from exercising those rights for its or their own benefit or receiving any benefits accruing by reason of those rights.
- (4D) A company (in this subsection and subsection (4E) referred to as the company concerned) that would, apart from this subsection, be a subsidiary of a public company for the purposes of this section in relation to the year of income shall be deemed, for the purposes of this section, not to be a subsidiary of a public company in relation to the year of income if the Commissioner is satisfied that:
- (a) where the company concerned would, apart from this subsection, be such a subsidiary in relation to the year of income by virtue of subsection (4)—the affairs of the company concerned were managed or conducted in the year of income in the interests of persons other than the relevant holding company or holding companies; or
 - (b) where the company concerned would, apart from this subsection, be such a subsidiary in relation to the year of income by virtue of subsection (4B)—the affairs of the company concerned were managed or conducted in the year of income without proper regard to the interests of the relevant holding company or holding companies.
- (4E) In considering whether the affairs of the company concerned were managed or conducted in the year of income as mentioned in subsection (4D), the Commissioner shall have regard to:
- (a) the circumstances in which the relevant holding company or holding companies acquired a direct or indirect beneficial interest or interests in shares in the company concerned (whether the interest was, or the interests were, acquired before or during the year of income) and, in particular, whether those circumstances were capable of explanation by reference to ordinary commercial dealing;

- (b) the provisions of the constituent document of the company concerned as in force during the year of income that related to the management or conduct of the affairs of that company, including the provisions of the constituent document that related to the appointment or removal of directors, the issue, allotment or redemption of shares, the grant, withdrawal or variation of rights in respect of shares, the payment of dividends and the investment or other application of moneys of that company;

- (d) whether rights of the relevant holding company or holding companies in connexion with the company concerned were exercised during the year of income otherwise than for the benefit of the relevant holding company or holding companies or were not exercised in circumstances where it might reasonably have been expected that they would have been exercised;
- (e) the nature and source of the income derived by the company concerned during the year of income and whether the derivation by that company of that income was capable of explanation by reference to ordinary commercial dealing;
- (f) the manner in which the moneys of the company concerned were applied during the year of income and, in particular, whether they were lent to, or invested or otherwise made available for the use or benefit of, a person or persons other than the relevant holding company or holding companies and, if any such moneys were so lent, invested or made available:
 - (i) the terms and conditions upon which the moneys were so lent, invested or made available;
 - (ii) whether the lending, investment or making available of those moneys was capable of explanation by reference to ordinary commercial dealing; and

Section 103A

- (iii) the connexion (if any) between that person or those persons, the directors of the company concerned and the directors of, or the beneficial owners of the shares in, the company from which the company concerned received dividends before or during the year of income;
 - (g) the respective amounts of any dividends in respect of shares in the company concerned that were paid during the year of income or might reasonably be expected to be paid after that year by that company and the circumstances in which those dividends were, or might be expected to be, paid; and
 - (h) any other relevant matters.
- (5) Where a company would not, under the preceding provisions of this section, be a public company for the purposes of subsection (1) in relation to the year of income but the Commissioner is of the opinion that, having regard to:
 - (a) the number of persons who were, at any time during the year of income, capable of controlling the company and whether any of those persons was a public company;
 - (b) the market value of the shares issued by the company before the end of the year of income;
 - (c) the number of persons who beneficially owned shares in the company at the end of the year of income; and
 - (d) any other matters that he thinks relevant;it is reasonable that the company should be treated as a public company for the purposes of subsection (1) in relation to the year of income, the company shall be deemed to be a public company for those purposes in relation to the year of income.
- (5A) The Commissioner may, under subsection (5), form an opinion that it is reasonable that a company should be treated as a public company for the purposes of subsection (1) in relation to a year of income notwithstanding that the forming of such an opinion by the Commissioner would impose on the company a liability to pay a greater amount of income tax than the company would otherwise be liable to pay.
- (6) Notwithstanding anything in the preceding provisions of this section, the Commissioner may treat a company as not being, by virtue of paragraph (2)(a) or (b), a public company for the purposes of subsection (1) in relation to the year of income if the Commissioner is of the opinion that, by reason of:

Section 103A

- (a) any provisions in the company's constituent document, or in any contract, agreement or instrument, authorizing the variation or abrogation of the voting rights or rights to dividends in respect of any shares in the company or relating to the conversion, exchange or redemption of any such shares;
- (b) any contract, agreement, option or instrument under which a person has power to acquire shares in the company; or
- (c) any power or authority in a person in relation to the voting rights or rights to dividends in respect of any shares in the company;

the voting rights or rights to dividends in respect of any shares in the company were, at any time during the year of income, capable of being varied or abrogated in such a manner (notwithstanding that they were not in fact varied or abrogated in that manner) that:

- (d) not less than three-quarters of the voting power in the company would have been capable of being exercised by one person or by persons not more than 20 in number;
- (e) not less than three-quarters of:
 - (i) the amount of any dividend paid by the company during the year of income; or
 - (ii) if more than one dividend was paid by the company during the year of income—the total amount of all the dividends paid by the company during the year of income;would have been paid to one person or to persons not more than 20 in number; or
- (f) in the case where the company did not pay a dividend during the year of income—if a dividend had been paid by the company at any time during the year of income, not less than three-quarters of the amount of that dividend would have been paid to one person or to persons not more than 20 in number.

- (7) For the purposes of this section:
 - (a) a person, whether or not he holds shares in the company concerned;
 - (b) his relatives; and

Section 109

- (c) in relation to any shares in respect of which they are such nominees, his nominees and the nominees of any of his relatives;
- shall be deemed to be one person.

109 Excessive payments to shareholders, directors and associates deemed to be dividends

- (1) If a private company pays or credits to an associated person an amount (in this subsection called the excessive amount) that is, or purports to be:
 - (a) remuneration for services rendered by the associated person; or
 - (b) an allowance, gratuity or compensation in consequence of the retirement of the associated person from an office or employment held by the associated person in the company, or upon the termination of any such office or employment;so much (if any) of the excessive amount as exceeds an amount that, in the opinion of the Commissioner, is reasonable:
 - (c) is not an allowable deduction; and
 - (d) shall, for the purposes of this Act other than Division 11A of Part III, be deemed to be a dividend paid by the company:
 - (i) to the associated person as a shareholder in the company;
 - (ii) out of profits derived by the company; and
 - (iii) on the last day of the year of income of the company in which the excessive payment or credit is made.
- (2) For the purposes of this section:
 - (a) a transfer of property shall be deemed to be the payment of an amount equal to the value of the property; and
 - (b) a reference to an associated person, in relation to a company, is a reference to:
 - (i) a person who is, or has been, a shareholder in, or director of, the company; or
 - (ii) a person who is an associate, within the meaning of section 318, of a person who is, or has been, a shareholder in, or director of, the company.

Division 7A—Distributions to entities connected with a private company

Subdivision A—Overview of this Division

109B Simplified outline of this Division

The following is a simplified outline of this Division:

This Division treats 3 kinds of amounts as dividends paid by a private company:

- amounts paid by the company to a shareholder or shareholder's associate (see section 109C);
- amounts lent by the company to a shareholder or shareholder's associate (see sections 109D and 109E);
- amounts of debts owed by a shareholder or shareholder's associate to the company that the company forgives (see section 109F).

This treatment makes the amounts assessable income of the shareholder or associate (under section 44).

However, some payments, loans and forgiven debts are not treated as dividends. (See Subdivisions C and D.) Also, this Division does not apply to demerger dividends. (See Subdivision DA.)

An amount may be treated as a dividend even if it is paid or lent by the company to the shareholder or associate through one or more interposed entities. (See Subdivision E.)

If the total of the amounts is more than the company's distributable surplus, only the part of the total equal to the distributable surplus is treated as dividends. (See section 109Y.)

This Division applies to non-share equity interests and non-share dividends in the same way it applies to shares and dividends.

Section 109BA

Subdivision AA—Application of Division to non-share equity interests

109BA Application of Division to non-share dividends

This Division:

- (a) applies to a non-share equity interest in the same way as it applies to a share; and
- (b) applies to an equity holder in the same way as it applies to a shareholder; and
- (c) applies to a non-share dividend in the same way as it applies to a dividend.

Subdivision B—Private company payments, loans and debt forgiveness are treated as dividends

109C Payments treated as dividends

When private company is taken to pay a dividend

- (1) A private company is taken to pay a dividend to an entity at the end of the private company's year of income if the private company pays an amount to the entity during the year and either:
 - (a) the payment is made when the entity is a shareholder in the private company or an associate of such a shareholder; or
 - (b) a reasonable person would conclude (having regard to all the circumstances) that the payment is made because the entity has been such a shareholder or associate at some time.

Note 1: Some payments do not give rise to dividends. See Subdivision D.

Note 2: A private company is treated as making a payment to a shareholder or shareholder's associate if an interposed entity makes a payment to the shareholder or associate. See Subdivision E.

Amount of dividend

- (2) The dividend is taken to equal the amount paid, subject to section 109Y.

Note: Section 109Y limits the total amount of dividends taken to have been paid by a private company under this Division to the company's distributable surplus.

What is a payment to an entity?

- (3) In this Division, payment to an entity means:
- (a) a payment to the extent that it is to the entity, on behalf of the entity or for the benefit of the entity; and
 - (b) a credit of an amount to the extent that it is:
 - (i) to the entity; or
 - (ii) on behalf of the entity; or
 - (iii) for the benefit of the entity; and
 - (c) a transfer of property to the entity.

Loans are not payments

- (3A) However, a loan to an entity is not a payment to the entity.

Note: Payments converted to loans before the private company's lodgment day are treated as loans (see subsection 109D(4A)).

Value of payment by transfer of property

- (4) The amount of a payment consisting of a transfer of property is the amount that would have been paid for the transfer by parties dealing at arm's length less any consideration given by the transferee for the transfer. (The amount of a payment is nil if the consideration given by the transferee equals or exceeds the amount that would have been paid at arm's length for the transfer.)

109D Loans treated as dividends

Loans treated as dividends in year of making

- (1) A private company is taken to pay a dividend to an entity at the end of one of the private company's years of income (the current year) if:
- (a) the private company makes a loan to the entity during the current year; and
 - (b) the loan is not fully repaid before the lodgment day for the current year; and
 - (c) Subdivision D does not prevent the private company from being taken to pay a dividend because of the loan at the end of the current year; and
 - (d) either:

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 7A Distributions to entities connected with a private company

Section 109D

- (i) the entity is a shareholder in the private company, or an associate of such a shareholder, when the loan is made; or
- (ii) a reasonable person would conclude (having regard to all the circumstances) that the loan is made because the entity has been such a shareholder or associate at some time.

Note 1: Some repayments cannot be counted for the purpose of this subsection. See section 109R.

Note 2: A private company is treated as making a loan to a shareholder or shareholder's associate if an interposed entity makes a loan to the shareholder or associate. See Subdivision E.

Amount of dividend

- (1AA) The amount of the dividend taken under subsection (1) to have been paid is the amount of the loan that has not been repaid before the lodgment day for the current year, subject to section 109Y.

Note: Section 109Y limits the total amount of dividends taken to have been paid by a private company under this Division to the company's distributable surplus.

Loans treated as dividends in year following that of making

- (1A) A private company is taken to pay a dividend to an entity at the end of the private company's year of income (the current year) if:
- (a) the private company made a loan to the entity during the previous year of income; and
 - (b) it made the loan in the course of a winding-up of the private company by a liquidator; and
 - (c) the loan is not fully repaid by the end of the current year; and
 - (d) either:
 - (i) the entity is a shareholder in the private company, or an associate of such a shareholder, when the loan is made; or
 - (ii) a reasonable person would conclude (having regard to all the circumstances) that the loan is made because the entity has been such a shareholder or associate at some time.

Subdivision D (other than section 109R) does not apply to loans covered by this subsection.

Amount of dividend

- (2) The amount of the dividend taken under subsection (1A) to have been paid is the amount of the loan that has not been repaid at the end of the current year, subject to section 109Y.

Note: Section 109Y limits the total amount of dividends taken to have been paid by a private company under this Division to the company's distributable surplus.

What is a loan?

- (3) In this Division, loan includes:
- (a) an advance of money; and
 - (b) a provision of credit or any other form of financial accommodation; and
 - (c) a payment of an amount for, on account of, on behalf of or at the request of, an entity, if there is an express or implied obligation to repay the amount; and
 - (d) a transaction (whatever its terms or form) which in substance effects a loan of money.

In which year of income is a loan made?

- (4) For the purposes of this Division, a loan is made to an entity at the time the amount of the loan is paid to the entity by way of loan or anything described in subsection (3) is done in relation to the entity.

Payment converted to loan before lodgment day

- (4A) If:
- (a) a private company makes a payment to an entity at a time in a year of income; and
 - (b) the payment is converted to a loan before the end of the private company's lodgment day for the year of income;
- for the purposes of this Division, treat the events mentioned in paragraphs (a) and (b) as the private company making a loan to the entity at the time mentioned in paragraph (a).

Loans made before 4 December 1997

- (5) If the terms of a loan made before 4 December 1997 are varied on or after that day by extending the term of the loan or increasing its amount, this Division applies to the loan as if it were made on the new terms when the variation occurred.

When is the lodgment day?

- (6) In this Division, the lodgment day for a private company's year of income is the earlier of:
- (a) the due date for lodgment of the private company's return of income for the year of income; and
 - (b) the date of lodgment of the private company's return of income for the year of income.

109E Amalgamated loan from a previous year treated as dividend if minimum repayment not made

Amalgamated loan treated as dividend in first year in which payment is less than minimum yearly repayment

- (1) A private company is taken to pay a dividend to an entity at the end of one of the private company's years of income (the current year) if:
- (a) the private company made an amalgamated loan to the entity in an earlier year of income; and
 - (b) the amalgamated loan is not repaid at the end of the current year; and
 - (c) the amount (if any) paid to the private company during the current year in relation to the amalgamated loan falls short of the minimum yearly repayment of the amalgamated loan worked out under subsection (5) for the current year; and
 - (d) section 109Q does not apply in relation to the current year.

Note: The amalgamated loan does not give rise to a dividend for that year if the minimum yearly repayment is not made and the entity satisfies the Commissioner that treating the loan as a dividend would cause hardship. See section 109Q.

Amount of dividend

- (2) The amount of the dividend is taken to be the amount of the shortfall mentioned in paragraph (1)(c), subject to section 109Y.

Note: Section 109Y limits the total amount of dividends taken to have been paid by a private company under this Division to the company's distributable surplus.

What is an amalgamated loan?

- (3) For the purposes of this Division, a private company is taken to make a loan (the amalgamated loan) to a single entity during a year of income if the private company makes one or more loans (constituent loans) to the entity during the year, each of which:
- (a) is not fully repaid before the lodgment day for the year; and
 - (b) would cause the company to be taken under section 109D to pay a dividend to the entity at the end of the year, apart from section 109N; and
 - (c) has the same maximum term for the purposes of that section.
- The amount of the amalgamated loan is the sum of the amounts of the constituent loans that have not been repaid before the lodgment day for the year of income in which the amalgamated loan is made.
- (3A) Subsection (3B) applies if:
- (a) a private company is taken to have made an amalgamated loan (the old amalgamated loan) during a year of income (the original year of income); and
 - (b) the maximum term of the old amalgamated loan under subsection 109N(3) was 7 years; and
 - (c) in a later year of income (the later year of income):
 - (i) a constituent loan taken account of by the old amalgamated loan becomes secured by a mortgage over real property; and
 - (ii) the term of the constituent loan is extended; and
 - (d) as a result of the mortgage, the maximum term of the constituent loan under subsection 109N(3) is 25 years; and
 - (e) the term of the constituent loan after the extension (including the period before the extension during which the constituent loan was in existence) does not exceed 25 years.
- (3B) For the purposes of this Division in relation to the later year of income and subsequent years of income:
- (a) treat the constituent loan as a new amalgamated loan that takes account of that constituent loan; and
 - (b) treat the new amalgamated loan as having been made just before the start of the later year of income; and
 - (c) treat the amount of the new amalgamated loan just before the start of the later year of income as the amount of the constituent loan that had not been repaid at that time; and

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 7A Distributions to entities connected with a private company

Section 109E

- (d) unless paragraph (e) applies—reduce the amount of the old amalgamated loan just before the start of the later year of income by the amount of the new amalgamated loan at that time; and
- (e) if the constituent loan was the only constituent loan taken account of by the old amalgamated loan—disregard the old amalgamated loan.

Payments in relation to constituent loans treated as payments in relation to amalgamated loan

- (4) For the purposes of this Division, a payment to the private company in relation to a constituent loan in a year of income after the one in which the constituent loan was made is taken to be a payment in relation to the amalgamated loan that takes account of the constituent loan.

Minimum yearly repayment

- (5) The minimum yearly repayment of an amalgamated loan for a year of income is the amount worked out using the formula in subsection (6). However, the minimum yearly repayment of an amalgamated loan for a year of income is the amount worked out under the regulations, if they provide for working it out.

Formula for minimum yearly repayment

- (6) The formula for the minimum yearly repayment for a year of income is:

Amount of the loan not repaid by the end of the previous year of income \times Current year's benchmark interest rate

$$1 - \left(\frac{1}{1 + \frac{\text{Current year's benchmark interest rate}}{1}} \right)^{\text{Remaining term}}$$

where:

current year's benchmark interest rate is the benchmark interest rate for the year of income for which the minimum yearly repayment is being worked out.

remaining term is the difference between:

- (a) the number of years in the longest term of any of the constituent loans that the amalgamated loan takes account of; and
- (b) the number of years between the end of the private company's year of income in which the loan was made and the end of the private company's year of income before the year of income for which the minimum yearly repayment is being worked out;

rounded up to the next higher whole number if the difference is not already a whole number.

Note: Section 109R provides that certain payments relating to a loan are not to be taken into account for the purposes of working out the minimum yearly repayment.

Benchmark interest rate used to work out how much of a payment relating to amalgamated loan is a repayment

- (7) Work out the amount of an amalgamated loan repaid by the end of a year of income on the basis that interest is payable on the balance of the loan from time to time in a year of income at a rate equal to the benchmark interest rate for the year of income.

109F Forgiven debts treated as dividends

Forgiven debt treated as dividend

- (1) A private company is taken to pay a dividend to an entity at the end of the private company's year of income if all or part of a debt the entity owed the private company is forgiven in that year and either:
 - (a) the amount is forgiven when the entity is a shareholder in the private company, or an associate of such a shareholder; or
 - (b) a reasonable person would conclude (having regard to all the circumstances) that the amount is forgiven because the entity has been such a shareholder or associate at some time.

Note: In some cases forgiving a debt does not give rise to a dividend. See section 109G.

Amount of dividend

- (2) The amount of the dividend equals the amount of debt forgiven, subject to section 109Y.

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 7A Distributions to entities connected with a private company

Section 109F

Note: Section 109Y limits the total amount of dividends taken to have been paid by a private company under this Division to the company's distributable surplus.

When is a debt forgiven?

- (3) An amount of a debt is forgiven for the purposes of this Division if and when the amount would be forgiven under section 245-35 (except subsection 245-35(4)) of Schedule 2C, assuming the amount were a commercial debt for the purposes of Division 245 of that Schedule.

Note: Division 245 of Schedule 2C applies to forgiveness of certain commercial debts.

Discharge of debt by transfer of property is not forgiveness

- (4) Despite subsection (3), an amount of debt is not forgiven for the purposes of this Division if the obligation to pay the amount is discharged by a payment to the creditor consisting of a transfer of property.

Note: Subsection 109C(4) explains how to work out the value of a payment consisting of a transfer of property.

Debt forgiveness by debt parking

- (5) An amount of debt an entity (the debtor) owes a private company is also forgiven for the purposes of this Division if:
- (a) the private company assigns the right to receive payment of the amount to another entity (the new creditor) who is either:
 - (i) an associate of the debtor; or
 - (ii) a party to an arrangement with the debtor about the assignment; and
 - (b) a reasonable person would conclude (having regard to all the circumstances) that the new creditor will not exercise the assigned right.

Debt forgiveness by failure to rely on obligation to pay

- (6) An amount of debt an entity (the debtor) owes a private company is also forgiven for the purposes of this Division if a reasonable person would conclude (having regard to all the circumstances) that the private company will not insist on the entity paying the amount or rely on the entity's obligation to pay the amount. (The amount is forgiven when a reasonable person would first reach that conclusion.)

Forgiveness of amalgamated loan debt

- (7) If a private company forgives an amount of debt resulting from a constituent loan taken into account in working out the amount of an amalgamated loan under subsection 109E(3), the private company is taken to forgive the same amount of the debt resulting from the amalgamated loan.

This section operates on only the earliest debt forgiveness

- (8) If the same debt is forgiven for the purposes of this Division at different times under different provisions of this section, this section operates on the first forgiveness only.

Example: Subsection (3) of this section provides that a debt is forgiven if it has not been paid by the time a statute of limitations prevents recovery of the debt. (It does this by applying subsection 245-35(2) of Schedule 2C.) The debt might already have been forgiven under subsection (6) of this section (because a reasonable person would have concluded earlier that the private company was not going to insist on payment). This section would apply to the forgiveness under subsection (6) but not the forgiveness under subsection (3).

Subdivision C—Forgiven debts that are not treated as dividends

109G Debt forgiveness that does not give rise to a dividend

Forgiveness of debt owed by company generally not treated as dividend

- (1) A private company is not taken under this Division to pay a dividend because a debt owed to it by another company is forgiven.

Note: This does not apply to a debt owed by a company as trustee. (See section 109ZE.)

Forgiveness of debts under Bankruptcy Act not treated as dividends

- (2) A private company is not taken under this Division to pay a dividend because a debt is forgiven because the debtor becomes a bankrupt or because of Part X of the Bankruptcy Act 1966.

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 7A Distributions to entities connected with a private company

Section 109G

Forgiveness of loan debt does not give rise to dividend if loan gives rise to dividend under section 109D

- (3) A private company is not taken under section 109F to pay a dividend at the end of a year of income because of the forgiveness of an amount of a debt resulting from a loan if, because of the loan, the private company is taken:
- (a) under section 109D to pay a dividend at the end of that year or an earlier one; or
 - (b) under former subsection 108(1) to pay a dividend on the last day of that year or an earlier one.

Reduced dividend for forgiveness of loan debt if loan causes dividend under section 109E

- (3A) Subsection (3B) applies if:
- (a) a private company is taken under section 109F to pay a dividend at the end of a year of income because of the forgiveness of an amount of a debt resulting from a loan; and
 - (b) the private company is taken under section 109E to pay a dividend at the end of an earlier year of income in relation to the loan.
- (3B) The amount of the dividend mentioned in paragraph (3A)(a) is reduced by the amount of the dividend mentioned in paragraph (3A)(b) (but not below zero).

Note: There may be more than one reduction under this subsection if the private company has been taken under section 109E to pay more than one dividend in relation to the loan.

Commissioner may treat forgiveness as not giving rise to dividend

- (4) A private company is not taken under this Division to pay a dividend because of the forgiveness of a debt owed by an entity if the Commissioner is satisfied that:
- (a) the debt was forgiven because payment of the debt would have caused the entity undue hardship; and
 - (b) when the entity incurred the debt, the entity had the capacity to pay the debt; and
 - (c) the entity lost the ability to pay the debt in the foreseeable future as a result of circumstances beyond the entity's control.

Subdivision D—Payments and loans that are not treated as dividends

109H Simplified outline of this Subdivision

The following is a simplified outline of this Subdivision:

This Subdivision sets out rules about payments and loans that are not treated as dividends.

The following sorts of payments are not treated as dividends:

- payments of genuine debts (section 109J);
- payments to other companies (section 109K);
- payments that are otherwise assessable or that are specifically excluded from assessable income (section 109L).

The following sorts of loans are not treated as dividends:

- loans to other companies (section 109K);
- loans that are otherwise assessable (section 109L);
- loans made in the ordinary course of business on ordinary commercial terms (section 109M);
- loans that meet criteria for minimum interest rate and maximum term (section 109N);
- certain loans and distributions by liquidators (section 109NA);
- loans that are for the purpose of funding the purchase of certain shares, rights or stapled securities under an employee share scheme (section 109NB).

Section 109J

An amalgamated loan may not be treated as a dividend if the Commissioner is satisfied that doing so would cause undue hardship. (See section 109Q.)

This Subdivision also provides for some loan repayments and interest payments to private companies to be disregarded if they are made with the intention of borrowing a similar amount from a private company later. (See section 109R.)

109J Payments discharging pecuniary obligations not treated as dividends

A private company is not taken under section 109C to pay a dividend because of the payment of an amount, to the extent that the payment:

- (a) discharges an obligation of the private company to pay money to the entity; and
- (b) is not more than would have been required to discharge the obligation had the private company and entity been dealing with each other at arm's length.

109K Inter-company payments and loans not treated as dividends

A private company is not taken under section 109C or 109D to pay a dividend because of a payment or loan the private company makes to another company.

Note: This does not apply to a payment or loan to a company in its capacity as trustee. (See section 109ZE.)

109L Certain payments and loans not treated as dividends

- (1) A private company is not taken under section 109C or 109D to pay a dividend because of a payment or loan the private company makes to an entity, to the extent that the payment or loan would be included in the entity's assessable income apart from this Division (as it operates in conjunction with section 44).
- (2) In addition, a private company is not taken under section 109C or 109D to pay a dividend because of a payment or loan that the private company made to an entity to the extent that a provision of this Act (other than this Division) has the effect that the payment or loan is not included in the entity's assessable income even though it would otherwise be included.

109M Loans made in the ordinary course of business on arm's length terms not treated as dividends

A private company is not taken under section 109D to pay a dividend because of a loan made:

- (a) in the ordinary course of the private company's business; and
- (b) on the usual terms on which the private company makes similar loans to parties at arm's length.

109N Loans meeting criteria for minimum interest rate and maximum term not treated as dividends

Criteria

- (1) A private company that makes a loan to an entity in one of the private company's years of income is not taken under section 109D to pay a dividend at the end of the year of income because of the loan if, before the lodgment day for the year of income:
 - (a) the agreement that the loan was made under is in writing; and
 - (b) the rate of interest payable on the loan for years of income after the year in which the loan is made equals or exceeds the benchmark interest rate for the year; and
 - (c) the term of the loan does not exceed the term (the maximum term) for that kind of loan worked out under subsection (3).

Benchmark interest rate

- (2) The benchmark interest rate for the year of income is the Indicator Lending Rates—Bank variable housing loans interest rate last published by the Reserve Bank of Australia before the start of the year of income. However, the benchmark interest rate is the rate worked out under the regulations, if they provide for working it out.

Maximum term

- (3) The maximum term is:
 - (a) 25 years for a loan if:

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 7A Distributions to entities connected with a private company

Section 109N

- (i) 100% of the value of the loan is secured by a mortgage over real property that has been registered in accordance with a law of a State or Territory; and
 - (ii) when the loan is first made, the market value of that real property (less the amounts of any other liabilities secured over that property in priority to the loan) is at least 110% of the amount of the loan; and
- (b) 7 years for any other loan.

However, the maximum term for a loan is the period worked out under the regulations, if they provide for working out the maximum term for that kind of loan.

- (3A) Reduce the maximum term under paragraph (3)(a) for a loan (the new loan) in accordance with subsection (3B) if:
- (a) the new loan results from the refinancing of another loan (the old loan); and
 - (b) the maximum term of the old loan under subsection (3) was 7 years; and
 - (c) the maximum term of the new loan under subsection (3) is 25 years (disregarding this subsection).
- (3B) The amount of the reduction is equal to the length of the period:
- (a) starting when the old loan was made; and
 - (b) ending when the old loan was refinanced.
- (3C) Reduce the maximum term under paragraph (3)(b) for a loan (the new loan) in accordance with subsection (3D) if:
- (a) the new loan results from the refinancing of another loan (the old loan); and
 - (b) the maximum term of the old loan under subsection (3) was 25 years; and
 - (c) the maximum term of the new loan under subsection (3) is 7 years (disregarding this subsection); and
 - (d) the length of the period:
 - (i) starting when the old loan was made; and
 - (ii) ending when the old loan was refinanced; exceeds 18 years.
- (3D) The amount of the reduction is the excess mentioned in paragraph (3C)(d).

Regulations may adopt rate as published from time to time

- (4) Regulations made for the purposes of subsection (2) may apply, adopt or incorporate a rate published in an instrument after they are made or take effect, or a rate contained in an instrument from time to time despite any other Act.

109NA Certain liquidator's distributions and loans not treated as dividends

A private company is not taken under section 109C or subsection 109D(1) to pay a dividend because of a distribution or loan made in the course of the winding-up of the company by a liquidator.

Note: However, if such a loan is not fully repaid by the end of the following year of income, the company will be taken to have paid a dividend under subsection 109D(1A).

109NB Loans to purchase shares under employee share schemes not treated as dividends

- (1) A private company is not taken under section 109D to pay a dividend because of a loan made solely for the purpose of enabling the shareholder or an associate of the shareholder to acquire:
- (a) qualifying shares or qualifying rights under an employee share scheme; or
 - (b) a stapled security or right to acquire a stapled security that is treated as a qualifying share or qualifying right because of Subdivision DB of Division 13A.
- (2) Expressions used in this section that are defined in Division 13A have the same meaning as in that Division.

109P Amalgamated loans not treated as dividends in the year they are made

A private company is not taken under section 109D to pay a dividend because of an amalgamated loan it makes.

Note: A shortfall in a minimum yearly repayment of an amalgamated loan may be treated as a dividend under section 109E.

Section 109Q

109Q Commissioner may allow amalgamated loan not to be treated as dividend

- (1) A private company is not taken under section 109E to pay a dividend at the end of one of its years of income (the current year) because of an amalgamated loan to an entity if:
 - (a) the amount paid to the private company by the entity in the current year in relation to the loan is less than the minimum yearly repayment of the loan for the current year worked out under subsection 109E(5); and
 - (b) the entity satisfies the Commissioner that:
 - (i) that amount was less than the minimum yearly repayment because of circumstances beyond the entity's control; and
 - (ii) the entity would suffer undue hardship if the private company were taken under section 109E to pay a dividend to the entity at the end of the current year because of the loan.
- (2) In deciding whether he or she is satisfied, the Commissioner must consider:
 - (a) the entity's capacity, at the end of the year of income in which the amalgamated loan was made, to repay the loan; and
 - (b) any circumstances that have reduced the entity's capacity to repay the loan; and
 - (c) whether the entity took all reasonable steps to make payments relating to the amalgamated loan during the current year equal to the minimum yearly repayment of the loan for the current year; and
 - (d) whether the entity has made payments relating to the loan as soon as possible after the current year equalling the difference between:
 - (i) the minimum yearly repayment for the current year; and
 - (ii) the amount of payments made during the current year relating to the loan.

109R Some payments relating to loans not taken into account

- (1) This section provides for some payments to a private company in relation to a loan the private company made to an entity not to be taken into account for the purpose of working out:
 - (a) how much of the loan has been repaid for the purposes of sections 109D and 109E (which treat amounts of loans that have not been repaid as dividends); or
 - (b) the minimum yearly repayment for the loan under subsection 109E(5).
- (2) A payment must not be taken into account if a reasonable person would conclude (having regard to all the circumstances) that when the payment was made the entity intended to obtain a loan from the private company of an amount similar to or larger than the payment.
- (3) Subsection (2) does not apply to a payment made by setting off against an amount payable in relation to the loan:
 - (a) a dividend payable by the private company to the entity; or
 - (b) work and income support related withholding payments and benefits payable by the private company to the entity; or
 - (ba) payments covered by section 12-55 in Schedule 1 to the Taxation Administration Act 1953; or
 - (c) if the entity has transferred property to the private company—an amount equalling the difference between:
 - (i) the amount that a party at arm's length from the entity would have paid for the transfer of the property to the party; and
 - (ii) the amount that the private company has already paid the entity (by way of set-off or otherwise) for the transfer.
- (4) Nor does subsection (2) apply to a payment made on behalf of the entity (the borrower) by another entity paying to the private company an amount that:
 - (a) is payable by the other entity to the borrower; and
 - (b) is assessable income of the borrower for the year of income in which the payment was made or an earlier year of income.
- (5) Subsection (2) does not apply to a payment if:

Section 109R

- (a) the payment is made to refinance the loan mentioned in subsection (1) (the old loan); and
 - (b) the entity to which the old loan was made has another loan (the primary loan) from another entity; and
 - (c) the old loan becomes subordinated to the primary loan; and
 - (d) the refinancing of the old loan mentioned in paragraph (a) took place in connection with that subordination; and
 - (e) that subordination arose as a result of circumstances beyond the control of the entity to which the old loan was made; and
 - (f) the entity to which the old loan was made and the other entity dealt with each other at arm's length in relation to that subordination; and
 - (g) the private company and the other entity dealt with each other at arm's length in relation to that subordination.
- (6) Subsection (2) does not apply to a payment if:
- (a) the payment is made to refinance the loan mentioned in subsection (1) (the old loan); and
 - (b) the refinancing results in another loan (the new loan); and
 - (c) the maximum term of the old loan under subsection 109N(3) was 7 years; and
 - (d) the maximum term of the new loan under subsection 109N(3) is 25 years (reduced in accordance with subsection 109N(3B)).
- (7) Subsection (2) does not apply to a payment if:
- (a) the payment is made to refinance the loan mentioned in subsection (1) (the old loan); and
 - (b) the refinancing results in another loan (the new loan); and
 - (c) the maximum term of the old loan under subsection 109N(3) was 25 years; and
 - (d) the maximum term of the new loan under subsection 109N(3) is:
 - (i) unless subparagraph (ii) applies—7 years; or
 - (ii) if subsection 109N(3D) applies—7 years reduced in accordance with that subsection.

Subdivision DA—Demerger dividends not treated as dividends

109RA Demerger dividends not treated as dividends

This Division does not apply to a demerger dividend to which section 45B does not apply.

Subdivision DB—Other exceptions

109RB Commissioner may disregard operation of Division or allow dividend to be franked

- (1) The Commissioner may make a decision under subsection (2) if:
 - (a) this Division (disregarding this section) operates with the result that:
 - (i) a private company is taken to pay a particular dividend to a particular entity (the recipient) under this Division; or
 - (ii) a particular amount is included, as if it were a dividend, in the assessable income of a particular entity (also the recipient) in relation to a private company under Subdivision EA; and
 - (b) the result mentioned in paragraph (a) arises because of an honest mistake or inadvertent omission by any of the following entities:
 - (i) the recipient;
 - (ii) the private company;
 - (iii) any other entity whose conduct contributed to that result.
- (2) The Commissioner may decide in writing that:
 - (a) the result mentioned in paragraph (1)(a) should be disregarded (see subsection (4)); or
 - (b) the dividend mentioned in subparagraph (1)(a)(i) may be franked in accordance with Part 3-6 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (see subsection (6)).
- (3) In making a decision under subsection (2) (or refusing to make such a decision), the Commissioner must have regard to the following:

Section 109RB

- (a) the circumstances that led to the mistake or omission mentioned in paragraph (1)(b);
 - (b) the extent to which any of the entities mentioned in paragraph (1)(b) have taken action to try to correct the mistake or omission and if so, how quickly that action was taken;
 - (c) whether this Division has operated previously in relation to any of the entities mentioned in paragraph (1)(b), and if so, the circumstances in which this occurred;
 - (d) any other matters that the Commissioner considers relevant.
- (4) The Commissioner may make a decision under subsection (2) subject to any of the following kinds of condition:
- (a) a condition that the recipient or another entity must make specified payments to the private company or another entity within a specified time;
 - (b) a condition that a specified requirement in this Division must be met within a specified time.
- (5) This Division is taken not to operate with the result mentioned in paragraph (1)(a) if:
- (a) the Commissioner makes a decision under paragraph (2)(a); and
 - (b) if the Commissioner makes the decision subject to a condition under subsection (4)—the condition is satisfied.
- (6) If the Commissioner makes a decision under paragraph (2)(b), subparagraph 202-45(g)(i) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 does not make the dividend mentioned in subparagraph (1)(a)(i) unfrankable.
- (7) Despite subsection 33(3A) of the Acts Interpretation Act 1901, each decision made under subsection (2) must relate only to one amount that would (disregarding this section):
- (a) be taken to be a dividend paid by the private company; or
 - (b) be included, as if it were a dividend, in the assessable income of an entity.

109RC Dividend may be franked if taken to be paid because of family law obligation

- (1) This section applies if a dividend is taken to be paid under this Division because of a family law obligation.
- (2) Subparagraph 202-45(g)(i) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 does not make the amount of the dividend unfrankable.
- (3) The dividend can be franked in accordance with Part 3-6 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 only if:
 - (a) the dividend is franked at the private company's benchmark franking percentage for the franking period in which the dividend is taken to be paid; or
 - (b) if the private company does not have a benchmark franking percentage for the period—the dividend is franked at a franking percentage of 100%.
- (4) For the purposes of subsection (3), if the recipient of the dividend is not a member of the private company for the purposes of Part 3-6 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, treat that recipient as such a member.

109RD Commissioner may extend period for repayments of amalgamated loan

- (1) The Commissioner may make a decision under subsection (2) if:
 - (a) section 109E operates with the result that a private company is taken to pay a particular dividend to a particular entity (the recipient); and
 - (b) the shortfall mentioned in paragraph 109E(1)(c) arises because the recipient is unable to pay the private company the minimum yearly repayment mentioned in that paragraph because of circumstances beyond the recipient's control.
- (2) The Commissioner may decide in writing that the result mentioned in paragraph (1)(a) should be disregarded (see subsection (4)) if the recipient pays the private company the amount of the shortfall within a specified time.
- (3) In making a decision under subsection (2) (or refusing to make such a decision), the Commissioner must have regard to the following:

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 7A Distributions to entities connected with a private company

Section 109S

- (a) the nature of the circumstances mentioned in paragraph (1)(b);
 - (b) any other matters that the Commissioner considers relevant.
- (4) This Division is taken not to operate with the result mentioned in paragraph (1)(a) if:
- (a) the Commissioner makes a decision under subsection (2); and
 - (b) the recipient pays the private company the amount of the shortfall within the specified time.
- (5) Despite subsection 33(3A) of the Acts Interpretation Act 1901, each decision made under subsection (2) must relate only to one amount that would be taken to be a dividend paid by the private company (disregarding this section).

Subdivision E—Payments and loans through interposed entities

109S Simplified outline of this Subdivision

The following is a simplified outline of this Subdivision:

This Subdivision allows a private company to be taken under Subdivision B to pay a dividend to an entity (the target entity) if an entity interposed between the private company and the target entity makes a payment or loan to the target entity under an arrangement involving the private company.

This result is achieved by treating the private company as making a payment or loan of an amount determined by the Commissioner to the target entity (according to whether the interposed entity made a payment or loan to the target entity). (See sections 109V (for payments) and 109W (for loans).)

The arrangement must involve the private company and one or more interposed entities in making payments or loans or giving loan guarantees for the purpose of the target entity receiving a payment or loan from an interposed entity. (See sections 109T, 109U and 109UA.)

If the target entity repays a fraction of the loan made by the interposed entity, the target entity is treated as repaying the same fraction of the loan taken to have been made by the private company. (See subsection 109W(3).)

Some provisions that prevent payments or loans from giving rise to dividends do not apply to payments or loans this Subdivision treats a private company as making. (See section 109X.)

109T Payments and loans by a private company to an entity through one or more interposed entities

- (1) This Division operates as if a private company makes a payment or loan to an entity (the target entity) as described in section 109V or 109W if:
 - (a) the private company makes a payment or loan to another entity (the first interposed entity) that is interposed between the private company and the target entity; and
 - (b) a reasonable person would conclude (having regard to all the circumstances) that the private company made the payment or loan solely or mainly as part of an arrangement involving a payment or loan to the target entity; and
 - (c) either:
 - (i) the first interposed entity makes a payment or loan to the target entity; or
 - (ii) another entity interposed between the private company and the target entity makes a payment or loan to the target entity.

This section operates regardless of certain factors

- (2) For the purposes of this section, it does not matter:

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 7A Distributions to entities connected with a private company

Section 109U

- (a) whether the interposed entity made the payment or loan to the target entity before, after or at the same time as the first interposed entity received the payment or loan from the private company; or
- (b) whether or not the interposed entity paid or lent the target entity the same amount as the private company paid or lent the first interposed entity.

This section does not operate if the payment or loan to the first interposed entity is treated as a dividend

- (3) This Division does not operate as described in subsection (1) (and sections 109V and 109W) if the private company is taken under Subdivision B (as it applies apart from this Subdivision) to pay a dividend as a result of the payment or loan to the first interposed entity.

109U Payments and loans through interposed entities relying on guarantees

- (1) This Division operates as if a private company makes a payment to an entity (the target entity) as described in section 109V if:
 - (a) during a year of income the private company guarantees a loan made by another entity (the first interposed entity); and
 - (b) a reasonable person would conclude (having regard to all the circumstances) that the private company gave the guarantee solely or mainly as part of an arrangement involving a payment or loan to the target entity; and
 - (c) either:
 - (i) the first interposed entity that is a private company makes a loan to the target entity; or
 - (ii) another entity that is a private company interposed between the private company and the target entity makes a payment or loan to the target entity; and
 - (d) the amount of the payment or the loan is greater than the amount worked out using the formula:

Distributable surplus – Subsection 109Y(3) amount
- (2) The amount of the payment from the private company to the target entity (as worked out under section 109V) is to be reduced by the amount worked out using the formula:

Distributable surplus – Subsection 109Y(3) amount

- (3) In the formulas in paragraph (1)(d) and subsection (2):

distributable surplus means the distributable surplus (worked out under subsection 109Y(2)) for the interposed entity that made the payment or loan to the target entity for the year of income.

subsection 109Y(3) amount means the total of any amounts calculated under subsection 109Y(3) in relation to that interposed entity for the year of income (apart from as a result of the operation of this section).

This section operates regardless of certain factors

- (4) For the purposes of this section, it does not matter:
- (a) whether the interposed entity made the payment or loan to the target entity before, after or at the same time as the first interposed entity received the guarantee from the private company; or
 - (b) whether or not the interposed entity paid or lent the target entity the same amount as the private company guaranteed.

109UA Certain liabilities under guarantees treated as payments

- (1) Section 109T operates as if one entity (the first entity) makes a payment to a second entity if the first entity guarantees a loan the second entity makes to a third entity (the target entity) and, as a result of the guarantee, the first entity has a liability (other than a contingent liability) to make a payment to the second entity.

Example: A private company guarantees a loan that a bank makes to a shareholder in the private company and the shareholder defaults on the loan. As a result, the company has a presently existing liability to make a payment to the bank. Section 109T operates as if the private company had made a payment to the bank, so the company is treated by section 109V as making a payment to the shareholder (because the bank is interposed between company and shareholder).

- (2) The amount of the payment (as worked out under section 109V) is to be reduced by any amount treated as a dividend as a result of the operation of section 109U in relation to the payment or loan made by the interposed entity to the target entity.

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 7A Distributions to entities connected with a private company

Section 109V

- (3) A private company is not taken under this Division to pay a dividend because of the operation of subsection (1) in relation to a guarantee if the Commissioner is satisfied that:
 - (a) the target entity would suffer undue hardship if the private company were taken to pay a dividend to the entity because of the liability; and
 - (b) when the target entity entered into the loan, the entity had the capacity to pay the loan.
- (4) This section does not limit the operation of section 109T.
- (5) Subsection (1) does not apply if:
 - (a) as a result of the first entity's liability mentioned in that subsection, the target entity has a liability (other than a contingent liability) to make a payment to the first entity; and
 - (b) because of section 109N, the liability to make a payment to the first entity is not treated under this Division as giving rise to a dividend paid to the first entity.

109V Amount of private company's payment to target entity through one or more interposed entities

Private company taken to pay if target entity is paid

- (1) If the target entity is paid an amount by the interposed entity, this Division operates as if the private company had paid the amount (if any) determined by the Commissioner to the target entity when the interposed entity paid the target entity.

Determining the amount of the private company's payment

- (2) In determining the amount of the payment the private company is taken to have made, the Commissioner must take account of:
 - (a) the amount the interposed entity paid the target entity; and
 - (b) how much (if any) of that amount the Commissioner believes represented consideration payable to the target entity by the private company or any of the interposed entities for anything (assuming that the consideration payable equals that for similar transactions at arm's length).

109W Private company's loan to target entity through one or more interposed entities

Private company taken to lend if target entity receives loan

- (1) If the target entity is lent an amount by the interposed entity, this Division operates as if the private company had made a loan (the notional loan) of the amount (if any) determined by the Commissioner to the target entity when the interposed entity made the loan to the target entity.

Note: Subsection 109D(4) specifies the time at which a loan is made.

How big is the notional loan?

- (2) In determining the amount of the notional loan, the Commissioner must take account of:
- (a) the amount the interposed entity lent the target entity; and
 - (b) how much (if any) of that amount the Commissioner believes represented consideration payable to the target entity by the private company or any of the interposed entities for anything (assuming that the consideration payable equals that for similar transactions at arm's length).

Notional repayments of notional loan

- (3) When working out whether the private company is taken under section 109D to pay a dividend as a result of the notional loan, and the amount of any such dividend, assume that the target entity repays an amount of the notional loan equal to the amount worked out using the formula:

$$\text{Repayment made by target entity to lender} \times \frac{\text{Amount of notional loan}}{\text{Amount actually lent to target entity}}$$

where:

amount actually lent to target entity is the amount the interposed entity lent to the target entity.

repayment made by target entity to lender is the amount of any repayment made by the target entity of the loan the interposed entity made to the target entity.

Section 109X

109X Operation of Subdivision D in relation to payment or loan

Payment or loan not affected by being made through interposed entity

- (1) Despite sections 109K and 109L, a private company may be taken under section 109C or 109D to pay a dividend as a result of this Subdivision treating the private company as making a payment or loan to an entity (the target entity), even if:
 - (a) the private company is treated that way because it makes a payment or loan to an entity that is a company interposed between the private company and the target entity; or
 - (b) some or all of the amount paid or lent by a private company to an entity interposed between the private company and the target entity is included in the interposed entity's assessable income for a year of income.
- (2) Subsections (3) and (4) apply if a notional loan arises under section 109W because an entity interposed between the private company and the target entity makes a loan (the actual loan) to the target entity.
- (3) For the purposes of section 109N, treat the agreement under which the actual loan was made as the agreement under which the notional loan was made.
- (4) For the purposes of section 109E:
 - (a) treat the notional loan as an amalgamated loan from the private company to the target entity; and
 - (b) treat the amount of the notional loan worked out under subsection 109W(1) as the amount of the amalgamated loan; and
 - (c) treat the agreement under which the actual loan was made as the agreement under which the amalgamated loan was made; and
 - (d) treat repayments by the target entity of the amount of the notional loan worked out under subsection 109W(3) as payments by the target entity to the private company in relation to the amalgamated loan.

Subdivision EA—Unpaid present entitlements

109XA Payments, loans and debt forgiveness by a trustee in favour of a shareholder etc. of a private company with an unpaid present entitlement

Payments

- (1) Section 109XB applies if:
 - (a) a trustee makes a payment to a shareholder or an associate of a shareholder of a private company (except a shareholder or associate that is a company) (the actual transaction); and
 - (b) the payment is a discharge of or a reduction in a present entitlement of the shareholder or associate that is wholly or partly attributable to an amount that is an unrealised gain; and
 - (c) either:
 - (i) the company is presently entitled to an amount from the net income of the trust estate at the time the actual transaction takes place, and the whole of that amount has not been paid to the company before the earlier of the due date for lodgment and the date of lodgment of the trustee's return of income for the trust for the year of income of the trust in which the actual transaction takes place; or
 - (ii) the company becomes presently entitled to an amount from the net income of the trust estate after the actual transaction takes place, but before the earlier of the due date for lodgment and the date of lodgment of the trustee's return of income for the trust for the year of income of the trust in which the actual transaction takes place, and the whole of the amount has not been paid to the company before the earlier of those dates.

Loans

- (2) Section 109XB applies if:
 - (a) a trustee makes a loan to a shareholder or an associate of a shareholder of a private company (except a shareholder or associate that is a company) (the actual transaction); and

Section 109XA

- (b) either:
- (i) the company is presently entitled to an amount from the net income of the trust estate at the time the actual transaction takes place, and the whole of that amount has not been paid to the company before the earlier of the due date for lodgment and the date of lodgment of the trustee's return of income for the trust for the year of income of the trust in which the actual transaction takes place; or
 - (ii) the company becomes presently entitled to an amount from the net income of the trust estate after the actual transaction takes place, but before the earlier of the due date for lodgment and the date of lodgment of the trustee's return of income for the trust for the year of income of the trust in which the actual transaction takes place, and the whole of the amount has not been paid to the company before the earlier of those dates.

Forgiven debts

- (3) Section 109XB applies if:
- (a) all or part of a debt owed to a trustee by a shareholder or an associate of a shareholder of a private company is forgiven (except where the shareholder or associate is a company) (the actual transaction); and
 - (b) either:
 - (i) the company is presently entitled to an amount from the net income of the trust estate at the time the actual transaction takes place, and the whole of that amount has not been paid to the company before the earlier of the due date for lodgment and the date of lodgment of the trustee's return of income for the trust for the year of income of the trust in which the actual transaction takes place; or
 - (ii) the company becomes presently entitled to an amount from the net income of the trust estate after the actual transaction takes place, but before the earlier of the due date for lodgment and the date of lodgment of the trustee's return of income for the trust for the year of income of the trust in which the actual transaction takes place, and the whole of the amount has not been paid to the company before the earlier of those dates.

Amount involved in the actual transaction

- (4) The amount involved in the actual transaction is the lesser of:
- (a) the amount actually involved in the actual transaction; and
 - (b) the amount worked out using the formula:

Unpaid present entitlement – Previous transactions

where:

previous transactions means the sum of:

- (a) the amounts that, because of previous applications of section 109UB (as in force before the commencement of this section) have been taken to be loans; and
- (b) the amounts that, because of previous applications of this Subdivision, have been included in an entity's assessable income;

in relation to the unpaid present entitlement.

unpaid present entitlement means:

- (a) in a case mentioned in subparagraph (1)(c)(i), (2)(b)(i) or (3)(b)(i)—the amount of the present entitlement that remained unpaid on the earlier of the dates mentioned in that subparagraph; and
- (b) in a case mentioned in subparagraph (1)(c)(ii), (2)(b)(ii) or (3)(b)(ii)—the amount of the present entitlement that remained unpaid on the earlier of the dates mentioned in that subparagraph.

The amount of the actual transaction where the entitlement is only partly attributable to an unrealised gain

- (5) For the purposes of subsection (4), where the actual transaction was a payment and that payment was only partly attributable to an amount that is an unrealised gain, the amount of the actual transaction is taken to be the amount of the payment that was attributable to the amount that is the unrealised gain.

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 7A Distributions to entities connected with a private company

Section 109XB

Creation of a present entitlement is not a payment

- (6) The creation of a present entitlement to the capital or income of a trust estate is not, of itself, a payment for the purposes of this Subdivision.

Meaning of unrealised gain

- (7) In this section:

unrealised gain, in relation to a trust estate and an actual payment, means any unrealised gain, whether of a capital or income nature, but does not include an unrealised gain to the extent that it has been or would be included in the assessable income of the trust, apart from this Division, for:

- (a) a year of income before the year in which the actual payment was made; or
- (b) the year of income in which the actual payment was made; or
- (c) the year of income following the year in which the actual payment was made.

109XB Amounts included in assessable income

- (1) An amount is included, as if it were a dividend, in the assessable income of the shareholder or associate referred to in subsection 109XA(1), (2) or (3) if:
- (a) had the actual transaction been done by a private company (the notional company); and
 - (b) had the shareholder or associate been a shareholder of the notional company at the time the actual transaction took place;

an amount (the Division 7A amount) would have been included in the shareholder's or associate's assessable income because of a provision of this Division outside this Subdivision.

- (2) Subject to section 109Y, the amount that is included under subsection (1) is the Division 7A amount.

Note: There are some modifications of this Division for the purposes of working out the Division 7A amount: see section 109XC.

109XC Modifications

Modifications for this Subdivision only

- (1) The modifications in this section have effect for the purposes of the operation of this Subdivision.

General modifications

- (2) This Division (but not this Subdivision) applies to an actual transaction done by a trustee of a trust estate with these modifications:
 - (a) a reference (except in section 109Y) to an amount paid to a private company has effect as a reference to an amount paid to the trustee; and
 - (b) a reference to a year of income of a private company has effect as a reference to the corresponding year of income of the trust estate; and
 - (c) a reference to the ordinary course of a private company's business has effect as a reference to the ordinary course of the trust estate's business.

Modified operation of section 109J

- (4) Section 109J does not apply to a payment to the extent that it is a discharge of or a reduction in a present entitlement.

Modified operation of section 109R

- (6) For the purposes of applying section 109R to an actual transaction:
 - (a) a reference in that section to obtaining a loan from a private company has effect as a reference to obtaining a loan from the trustee; and
 - (b) a reference in that section to property transferred to a private company has effect as a reference to property transferred to the trustee; and
 - (c) a reference in that section to an amount paid by a private company for a transfer of property has effect as a reference to an amount paid by the trustee for a transfer of property.

Modified operation of section 109Y

- (7) Section 109Y applies to the Division 7A amount in this way:

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 7A Distributions to entities connected with a private company

Section 109Y

- (a) assume that the private company referred to in subsection 109XA(1), (2) or (3) had been taken to have paid a dividend to the shareholder or associate referred to in that subsection equal to the Division 7A amount; and
- (b) assume that the dividend was taken to have been paid at the end of the year of income of the company in which the actual transaction took place; and
- (c) a reference in that section to a private company's distributable surplus has effect as a reference to the distributable surplus of the private company referred to in paragraph (a).

Certain provisions do not apply

- (8) Subsection 109D(1A), sections 109K, 109NA and 109NB and paragraphs 109R(3)(a), (b) and (ba) do not apply to an actual transaction.

Subdivision F—General rules applying to all amounts treated as dividends

109Y Proportional reduction of dividends so they do not exceed distributable surplus

Reduction of amounts of dividends

- (1) If, apart from this section, the sum of all the dividends a private company is taken under this Division to pay at the end of the year of income would be more than the company's distributable surplus for that year, the amount of each of those dividends is the amount worked out under subsection (3).

Distributable surplus

- (2) A private company's distributable surplus for its year of income is the amount worked out using the formula:

$$\text{Net assets} - \frac{\text{Non-commercial loans}}{\text{value}} - \frac{\text{Paid-up share}}{\text{value}} - \frac{\text{Repayments of non-commercial loans}}{\text{value}}$$

where:

net assets means the amount (if any), at the end of the company's year of income, by which the company's assets (according to the company's accounting records) exceed the sum of:

- (a) the present legal obligations of the company to persons other than the company; and
- (b) the following provisions (according to the company's accounting records):
 - (i) provisions for depreciation;
 - (ii) provisions for annual leave and long service leave;
 - (iii) provisions for amortisation of intellectual property and trademarks;
 - (iv) other provisions prescribed under regulations made for the purposes of this subparagraph.

If the Commissioner considers that the company's accounting records significantly undervalue or overvalue its assets or undervalue or overvalue its provisions, the Commissioner may substitute a value that the Commissioner considers is appropriate.

non-commercial loans is the total of any amounts the company is taken under former section 108, 109D or 109E to have paid as dividends in earlier years of income as are shown as assets in the company's accounting records at the end of the year of income.

paid-up share value is the paid-up share capital of the company at the end of its year of income.

repayments of non-commercial loans means the total of:

- (a) any repayments to the company of loans or amounts that have been taken by former section 108, or section 109D or 109E to be dividends; and
- (b) amounts set off against loans that have been taken by former section 108, or section 109D or 109E to be dividends, other than such amounts that are set off as a result of:
 - (i) a dividend (being a later dividend for the purposes of section 109ZC or a subsequent dividend for the purposes of former subsection 108(2)) being paid by the company to the extent of the unfranked part of the dividend; or
 - (ii) a loan, or a part of a loan, being forgiven.

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 7A Distributions to entities connected with a private company

Section 109Z

- (3) The amount of a dividend that a private company is taken under this Division to pay is worked out using the formula:

$$\text{Provisional dividend} \times \frac{\text{Distributable surplus for year of income}}{\text{Total of provisional dividends}}$$

where:

provisional dividend is the amount of the dividend that the private company would be taken to pay apart from this section.

total of provisional dividends is the sum of all the dividends the private company is taken under this Division to pay at the end of the year of income apart from this section.

Requirement for private company to provide statement

- (4) If this section sets the amount of a dividend taken under this Division to be paid by a private company to an entity at the end of a year of income, the private company must give the entity a written statement as soon as possible after the end of the year of income.

What the statement must contain

- (5) The statement must set out:
- (a) the private company's distributable surplus for the year of income; and
 - (b) the total amount the company would be taken under this Division to pay as dividends in the year of income apart from this section.

109Z Characteristics of dividends taken to be paid under this Division

If a private company is taken under this Division to have paid a dividend to an entity, the dividend is taken for the purposes of this Act to be paid:

- (a) to the entity as a shareholder in the private company; and
- (b) out of the private company's profits.

109ZA No dividend taken to be paid for withholding tax purposes

If a private company is taken under this Division to have paid a dividend to an entity, disregard the dividend for the purposes of:

- (a) Division 11A of Part III (which deals with withholding tax on dividends paid to non-residents and some other people); and
- (c) Subdivision 12-F in Schedule 1 to the Taxation Administration Act 1953 (which deals with PAYG withholding).

109ZB Amount treated as dividend is not a fringe benefit

- (1) This Division applies to a loan of an amount to an entity by a private company, even if the loan is made:
 - (a) to the entity in its capacity as an employee (as defined in the Fringe Benefits Tax Assessment Act 1986) or an associate of such an employee; or
 - (b) in respect of the employment of an employee (as defined in that Act).

Note: This helps ensure that a loan is not a fringe benefit for the purposes of that Act.

- (2) This Division applies to a private company's forgiveness of a debt owed by an entity to the private company, even if:
 - (a) the entity owed the debt in its capacity as an employee (as defined in the Fringe Benefits Tax Assessment Act 1986) or an associate of such an employee; or
 - (b) the forgiveness occurs in respect of the employment of an employee (as defined in that Act).

Note: This helps ensure that the forgiveness of a debt is not a fringe benefit for the purposes of that Act.

- (3) However, this Division does not apply to a payment made to a shareholder, or an associate of a shareholder, in their capacity as an employee (as defined in the Fringe Benefits Tax Assessment Act 1986) or an associate of such an employee.

Section 109ZC

109ZC Treatment of dividend that is reduced on account of an amount taken under this Division to be a dividend

- (1) This section sets out special rules for dealing with a dividend (the later dividend) distributed by a private company if some or all of the later dividend is set off against some or all of an amount taken under this Division to be a dividend previously paid by the company.

Example: Some or all of a dividend distributed by a private company to a shareholder might be set off to reduce a loan the company had previously made to the shareholder that was treated as a dividend under Subdivision B.

- (1A) This section also sets out special rules for dealing with a dividend (also the later dividend) distributed by a private company if:
- (a) the private company distributes the later dividend to a shareholder in the company; and
 - (b) the shareholder applies the amount of the dividend to repay all or part of a loan:
 - (i) that was obtained from the private company by an associate of the shareholder; and
 - (ii) in relation to which a dividend was previously taken under this Division to have been paid by the private company.

- (2) The amount of the later dividend set off or applied is taken not to be a dividend for the purposes of this Act, except Part 3-6 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (which deals with franking of distributions). However, if the amount set off or applied exceeds the amount of the later dividend that is not either the franked part of that dividend, or the part of that dividend that has been franked with an exempting credit, the excess is still a dividend.

Note: This prevents double taxation by ensuring that the entity's assessable income does not include the amount of the later dividend that is not paid to the entity (except to the extent that that amount is franked).

- (3) An amount that is taken not to be a dividend under subsection (2) is not assessable income and is not exempt income.

119 Sums received to be taxed

- (1) The assessable income of a co-operative company shall include all sums received by it, whether from shareholders or from other persons, for the storage, marketing, packing or processing of commodities, or for the rendering of services, or in payment for commodities or animals or land sold, whether on account of the company or on account of its shareholders.
- (2) For the purposes of subsection (1), if a credit union (within the meaning of section 23G) receives a payment of, or in the nature of, interest, the payment is taken to be for the rendering of services.

120 Deductions allowable to co-operative company

- (1) So much of the assessable income of a co-operative company as:

Division 9AA—Demutualisation of insurance companies and affiliates

Subdivision A—What this Division is about

121AA What this Division is about

Basically, if an insurance company demutualises and its policyholders or members dispose of their listed shares in the company, for tax purposes the acquisition cost of the shares is based on the lesser of:

- (a) the embedded value or net tangible asset value of the company; and
- (b) the value of the company based on the total first trading day price of all shares in the company.

Other tax consequences result from disposals of other interests and from other events in connection with the demutualisation.

- (2) The following diagram shows the main events, where this demutualisation method is used involving an election covered by subparagraph (1)(c)(iv).

Demutualisation method 7

Section 121AM

121AM Embedded value of a mutual life insurance company

- (1) The embedded value of a mutual life insurance company that demutualises using a demutualisation method is, in accordance with this section, the sum of its existing business value and its adjusted net worth on the applicable accounting day (see subsection (3)).

Eligible actuary and Australian actuarial practice

- (2) The sum is to be worked out by an eligible actuary (see subsection 121AO(3)) according to Australian actuarial practice.

Applicable accounting day

- (3) The applicable accounting day is:
- (a) if an accounting period of the company ends on the demutualisation resolution day—that day; or
 - (b) in any other case—the last day of the most recent accounting period of the company ending before the demutualisation resolution day.

Adjustment for changes after applicable accounting day

- (4) In a case covered by paragraph (3)(b), if any significant change in the amount of the existing business value or adjusted net worth occurs between the applicable accounting day and the demutualisation resolution day, the amount is to be adjusted to take account of the change.

- (5) In working out the existing business value or the adjusted net worth, it is to be assumed:
- (a) that after the applicable accounting day the company will continue to conduct its life insurance business and any other activity in the same way as it did before that day, and that it will not conduct any different business or other activity; and
 - (b) that the demutualisation will not occur.

Discount rate assumption

- (6) In working out the existing business value or adjusted net worth, the annual discount rate to be used in respect of each future accounting period is worked out using the formula:

$$\text{10 year Treasury bond rate} + 4.5\% + \frac{\text{Capital reserve adequacy shortfall percentage}}{\text{shortfall percentage}}$$

where:

10 year Treasury bond rate means the Treasury bond rate (see subsection 121AO(1)) for the applicable accounting day in respect of bonds with a 10 year term.

Capital reserve adequacy shortfall percentage means:

- (a) if, for any future accounting period, the capital reserves of the company are projected to fall below the capital reserve adequacy level (see subsection 121AO(2)) by 1% or more at both the beginning and end of the accounting period—the percentage worked out by averaging the percentages worked out under each of the following subparagraphs:
- (i) 0.2% for each 1% by which the capital reserves are projected to fall below the level at the beginning of the period;
 - (ii) 0.2% for each 1% by which the capital reserves are projected to fall below the level at the end of the period;
- or
- (b) in any other case—nil.

Annual inflation rate assumption

- (7) In working out the existing business value, the annual inflation rate to be applied is worked out using the formula:

$$\text{10 year Treasury bond rate} - 4\%$$

(see subsection (6))

Expenditure assumption

- (8) In working out the existing business value, it is to be assumed that expenditure that the company will incur, in conducting its life insurance business, on recurring items after the demutualisation resolution day will be of the same kinds and amounts (increased to take account of any inflation, using the annual inflation rate in subsection (7)) as the company incurred in the accounting period, or part of an accounting period, ending on the demutualisation resolution day.

Section 121AN

Investment return assumption

- (9) In working out the existing business value or the adjusted net worth, it is to be assumed that the annual rate of return on each investment of the company is:
- (a) if the investment is a security with a term less than 2 years or is cash—the Treasury bond rate (see subsection 121AO(1)) for the applicable accounting day in respect of bonds with a 26 week term; or
 - (b) if the investment is any other kind of security—the Treasury bond rate for the applicable accounting day in respect of bonds with a 10 year term; or
 - (c) in any other case—the rate mentioned in paragraph (b), plus 3%.

Future distributable profits assumption

- (10) In working out the existing business value or the adjusted net worth, the future distributable profits are to be determined on the assumption that the company:
- (a) will not distribute its profits so as to cause its capital reserves to fall below the capital reserve adequacy level (see subsection 121AO(2)) applicable to the company; and
 - (b) will distribute all of its profits except to the extent necessary for its capital reserves not to fall below the capital reserve adequacy level.

121AN Net tangible asset value of a general insurance company or mutual affiliate company

- (1) The net tangible asset value of a general insurance company, or a mutual affiliate company, that demutualises using a demutualisation method is, in accordance with this section:
- (a) the amount of its assets on the applicable accounting day (see subsection (4));
- reduced by:
- (b) the amount of its liabilities (including future liabilities) arising from its business conducted before that day.

Australian accounting practice

- (2) The amount of the company's assets and liabilities (other than future liabilities) is to be worked out according to Australian accounting practice.

Eligible actuary and Australian actuarial practice

- (3) The amount of the company's future liabilities is to be worked out by an eligible actuary (see subsection 121AO(3)) according to Australian actuarial practice.

Applicable accounting day

- (4) The applicable accounting day is:
- (a) if an accounting period of the company ends on the demutualisation resolution day—that day; or
 - (b) in any other case—the last day of the most recent accounting period of the company ending before the demutualisation resolution day.

Adjustment for changes after applicable accounting day

- (5) In a case covered by paragraph (4)(b), if any significant change in the amount of the company's assets or liabilities occurs between the applicable accounting day and the demutualisation resolution day, that amount is to be adjusted to take account of the change.

- (6) In working out the net tangible asset value, it is to be assumed:
- (a) that after the applicable accounting day the company will continue to conduct its business and any other activity in the same way as it did before that day, and that it will not conduct any different business or other activity; and
 - (b) that the demutualisation will not occur.

Section 121AO

121AO Treasury bond rate, capital reserve adequacy level, eligible actuary and security

Treasury bond rate

- (1) The Treasury bond rate for the applicable accounting day in respect of bonds with a particular term is:
 - (a) if any Treasury bonds with that term were issued on the applicable accounting day—the annual yield on those bonds; or
 - (b) in any other case—the annual yield on Treasury bonds with that term, as published by the Reserve Bank of Australia and applicable to the accounting day.

Capital reserve adequacy level

- (2) The capital reserve adequacy level for a life insurance company that demutualises is:
 - (a) if, after 1 July 1995 and before the applicable accounting day mentioned in subsection 121AM(3) or 121AN(4), a prudential standard made under section 230B of the Life Insurance Act 1995 in relation to capital adequacy applied to the company—the level of capital reserves required by that standard; or
 - (b) in any other case—the level of capital reserves required to provide adequate capital for the conduct of the life insurance business and other activities of the company.

Eligible actuary

- (3) An eligible actuary is a Fellow or Accredited Member of the Institute of Actuaries of Australia who is not an employee of:
 - (a) the mutual insurance company or, where demutualisation method 7 applies, the mutual insurance company or the mutual affiliate company; or
 - (b) a subsidiary of that company or, where demutualisation method 7 applies, of either company.

- (4) A security is:
- (a) a bond, debenture, certificate of entitlement, bill of exchange or promissory note; or

 - (c) a secured or unsecured loan.

121AP Subsidiary and wholly-owned subsidiary

- (a) the holding company; or
 - (b) a company that is, or 2 or more companies each of which is, a subsidiary of the holding company; or
 - (c) the holding company and a company that is, or 2 or more companies each of which is, a subsidiary of the holding company.

Wholly-owned subsidiary

- (3) A company is a wholly-owned subsidiary of another company if it would, under subsection (1) or (2), be a subsidiary of the other company assuming that the reference in subsection (1) to at least half of the shares were instead a reference to all of the shares.

121B Simplified outline

Scope of section

- (1) The following is a simplified outline of the Division.

- (1) This section sets out certain definitions used in this Division that relate to the assessable income of an OBU of a year of income.

Assessable OB income

- (2) Subject to subsection (3A), the assessable OB income of an OBU is so much of the OBU's assessable income (other than amounts included under Part 3-1 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) of the year of income as is:

- (a) derived from OB activities of the OBU or the part of the OBU to which paragraph 121EB(1)(c) applies; or
- (b) included in the assessable income because of such activities; except to the extent that the money lent, invested or otherwise used in carrying on the activities is non-OB money of the OBU.

Typical example of amount excluded from assessable OB income

- (3) A typical example of an amount covered by the exception in subsection (2) is interest derived from the OB activity of lending money to an offshore person, where the money lent is non-OB money.

Reduction of assessable OB income because of certain investment activities

- (3A) If OB activities of the OBU or the part of the OBU to which paragraph 121EB(1)(c) applies include an investment activity within the meaning of subsection 121D(6A) or (6B), any assessable income derived from the investment activity that would otherwise be taken into account under subsection (2) is reduced by the average Australian asset percentage (within the meaning of subsection 121DA(2)) of the portfolio investment concerned.

Adjusted assessable OB income

- (4) The adjusted assessable OB income of an OBU is the OBU's assessable OB income of the year of income reduced by the sum of the OBU's exclusive OB deductions for interest (including a discount in the nature of interest).

Adjusted total assessable income

- (5) The adjusted total assessable income of an OBU is the OBU's assessable income of the year of income reduced by the sum of the OBU's exclusive OB deductions, and exclusive non-OB deductions, for interest (including a discount in the nature of interest).

121EF Definitions relating to allowable deductions of an OBU

Purpose of section

- (1) This section sets out certain definitions used in this Division relating to allowable deductions of an OBU in relation to a year of income.

Allowable OB deduction

- (2) An allowable OB deduction is any of the following 3 kinds of allowable deduction:
- (a) an exclusive OB deduction;
 - (b) a general OB deduction;
 - (c) an apportionable OB deduction.

Exclusive OB deduction

- (3) An exclusive OB deduction is any deduction (other than a loss deduction) allowable from the OBU's assessable income of the year of income that relates exclusively to assessable OB income.

General OB deduction

- (4) A general OB deduction is so much of any deduction (other than a loss deduction, an apportionable deduction, an exclusive OB deduction or an exclusive non-OB deduction) allowable from the OBU's assessable income of the year of income as is calculated using the formula:

$$\text{Deduction} \times \frac{\text{Adjusted assessable OB income}}{\text{Adjusted total assessable income.}}$$

Apportionable OB deduction

- (5) An apportionable OB deduction is so much of any apportionable deduction allowable from the OBU's assessable income of the year of income as is calculated by multiplying the deduction by the following fraction:

Section 121EG

Exclusive non-OB deduction

- (6) An exclusive non-OB deduction is any deduction (other than a loss deduction) allowable from the OBU's assessable income of the year of income that relates exclusively to assessable income that is not assessable OB income.

Loss deduction

- (7) A loss deduction is any allowable deduction under Division 36 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

Subdivision C—Operative provisions

121EG Reduction of assessable OB income, allowable OB deductions and foreign income tax paid

Only eligible fraction of assessable OB income is assessable

- (1) Subject to section 121EH, the assessable income of an OBU includes only the eligible fraction of each amount of assessable OB income derived by the OBU.

Only eligible fraction of allowable OB deductions is allowable

- (2) Subject to section 121EH, only the eligible fraction of each allowable OB deduction of an OBU is an allowable deduction of the OBU.

Remaining amounts not exempt income etc.

- (3) For the purposes of this Act:
- (a) any amount of assessable OB income of an OBU that, because of subsection (1), is not included in its assessable income is taken not to be exempt income of the OBU; and
 - (b) any part of an allowable OB deduction of an OBU that, because of subsection (2), is not an allowable deduction of the OBU is taken not to be an expense or outgoing incurred in deriving exempt income of the OBU.

Only eligible fraction of foreign income tax is taken to be paid

- (3A) Subject to section 121EH, this Act applies to an OBU as if only the eligible fraction of each amount of foreign income tax (within the meaning of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) the OBU paid in respect of an amount of assessable OB income had been paid in respect of that income.

Meaning of eligible fraction

- (4) In this section:

eligible fraction means 10 divided by the number of percent in the corporate tax rate.

121EH Loss of special treatment where excessive use of non-OB money

If:

- (a) the subsection 121EE(2) exception in respect of the lending, investing or other use of non-OB money of an OBU in carrying on activities did not apply to exclude amounts from its assessable OB income; and
- (b) as a result, more than 10% of what would then be the OBU's assessable OB income of any year of income would be attributable to that lending, investing or other use of non-OB money;

then:

- (c) subsection 121EG(1) (which limits the OBU's assessable income) does not apply to the OBU's assessable OB income of the year of income; and
- (d) subsection 121EG(2) (which limits the OBU's allowable deductions) does not apply to so much of each allowable OB deduction of the OBU for the year of income as is calculated using the formula:

$$\text{Allowable OB deduction} \times \frac{\text{Assessable OB income}}{\text{Sum of allowable OB deductions}}$$

(where each amount is worked out ignoring the assumption in paragraph (a)); and

- (e) subsection 121EG(3A) (which limits the OBU's foreign income tax) does not apply to the OBU in relation to an amount of foreign income tax (within the meaning of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) the OBU paid in respect of an amount of the OBU's assessable OB income of the year of income.

121EJ Source of income derived from OB activities

For the purposes of this Act, income of an OBU that is derived from OB activities of the OBU is taken to be derived from a source in Australia.

121EK Deemed interest on 90% of certain OBU resident-owner money

Deemed interest

- (1) If:
- (a) an owner of an OBU pays an amount of money to the OBU and, because of section 121EC, the amount becomes OBU resident-owner money of the OBU; and
 - (b) the OBU uses, or holds ready for use, the whole or part of the amount (which whole or part is called the OB use amount) in carrying on any of its OB activities during the whole or part of any year of income (which whole or part is called the OB use period);

then the assessable income of the owner of the year of income includes deemed interest as described in subsection (2).

Amount of deemed interest

- (2) The deemed interest is:
- (a) applied to 90% of the OB use amount; and
 - (b) applied on a daily-rests basis for the OB use period at a rate that is 2% above the 90-day bank bill rate from time to time during that period.

Deduction for deemed interest

- (3) A deduction is allowable from the OBU's assessable income, equal to the amount included in the owner's assessable income, for the year of income. The deduction is taken to be an exclusive OB deduction for interest.

121EL Exemption of income etc. of OBU offshore investment trusts

(1) If:

- (a) an OBU is a trustee, or is the central manager and controller, of a trust estate; and
- (b) the only persons who benefit, or are capable (whether by the exercise of a power of appointment or otherwise) of benefiting, under the trust are non-residents; and
- (c) the terms of the trust are to the effect that income, profits or capital gains of the trust estate may only come from investment activities covered by subsection 121D(6) or (6A);

then:

- (d) any income of the trust estate derived from an investment activity covered by subsection 121D(6) is exempt from income tax; and
- (e) any capital gain or capital loss made by the trust estate from a CGT event happening in relation to a CGT asset of the trust estate in the course of, or in connection with, an investment activity covered by subsection 121D(6) is disregarded; and
- (f) any income of the trust estate derived from an investment activity covered by subsection 121D(6A) is exempt from income tax, in so far as the income exceeds the average Australian asset percentage (within the meaning of subsection 121DA(2)) for the portfolio investment concerned; and
- (g) if, apart from this section, the trust estate would make a capital gain or capital loss from a CGT event happening in relation to a CGT asset of the trust estate in the course of, or in connection with, an investment activity covered by subsection 121D(6A)—the trust estate makes only the average Australian asset percentage (for the portfolio investment concerned) of the gain or loss.

(2) If:

- (a) an OBU is a trustee, or is the central manager and controller, of a trust estate; and
- (b) the only person who benefits, or is capable (whether by the exercise of a power of appointment or otherwise) of benefiting, under the trust is an overseas charitable institution; and

Section 121ELA

(c) the terms of the trust are to the effect that income, profits or capital gains of the trust estate may only come from investment activities covered by subsection 121D(6B);

then:

(d) any income of the trust estate derived from an investment activity covered by subsection 121D(6B) is exempt from income tax; and

(e) any capital gain or capital loss made by the trust estate from a CGT event happening in relation to a CGT asset of the trust estate in the course of, or in connection with, an investment activity covered by subsection 121D(6B) is disregarded.

121ELA Exemption of income etc. of overseas charitable institutions

Investment with OBU

(1) Income, derived by an overseas charitable institution, is exempt to the extent that it is:

(a) a payment or outgoing from an OBU as part of the OB activities of the OBU; or

(b) a distribution of income that is exempt under subsection 121EL(2).

Capital gains and losses

(2) If:

(a) an OBU is a trustee, or is the central manager and controller, of a unit trust estate; and

(b) the only person who benefits, or is capable (whether by the exercise of a power of appointment or otherwise) of benefiting, under the trust is an overseas charitable institution; and

(c) the terms of the trust are to the effect that income, profits or capital gains of the trust estate may only come from investment activities covered by subsection 121D(6B); and

(d) the overseas charitable institution disposes of its interest in the trust;

then the overseas charitable institution makes no capital gain or capital loss from a CGT event happening in relation to the disposal.

121ELB Adjustment of capital gains and losses from disposal of units in OBU offshore investment trusts

Trust with subsection 121D(6) investment activities

- (1) If:
- (a) an OBU is a trustee, or is the central manager and controller, of a unit trust estate; and
 - (b) the only persons who benefit, or are capable (whether by the exercise of a power of appointment or otherwise) of benefiting, under the trust are non-residents; and
 - (c) all units in the trust are held by non-residents; and
 - (d) the terms of the trust are to the effect that income, profits or capital gains of the trust estate may only come from investment activities covered by subsection 121D(6); and
 - (e) a non-resident disposes of a unit in the trust;
- then the non-resident makes no capital gain or capital loss from a CGT event happening in relation to the disposal.

Trust with subsection 121D(6A) investment activities

- (2) If:
- (a) an OBU is a trustee, or is the central manager and controller, of a unit trust estate; and
 - (b) the only persons who benefit, or are capable (whether by the exercise of a power of appointment or otherwise) of benefiting, under the trust are non-residents; and
 - (c) all units in the trust are held by non-residents; and
 - (d) the terms of the trust are to the effect that income, profits or capital gains of the trust estate may only come from investment activities covered by subsection 121D(6A); and
 - (e) a non-resident disposes of a unit in the trust; and
 - (f) the average Australian asset percentage for the portfolio investment concerned was 10% or less;
- then if, apart from this section, the non-resident would make a capital gain or capital loss from a CGT event happening in relation to the disposal, the non-resident makes only the average Australian asset percentage of the gain or loss.

- (b) if no deduction were allowable, in calculating that net income, in respect of the relevant losses or outgoings and no relevant exempting provisions were applicable in relation to a taxpayer, an amount would be included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of a year of income by reason that the taxpayer owned an interest in the partnership or a beneficial interest in the trust estate or owned an interest in any other partnership or a beneficial interest in any other trust estate; and then, for the purposes of the application of subsections (2), (3), (5) and (6) in relation to the taxpayer in relation to the tax avoidance agreement, no deduction shall be allowed in respect of the relevant losses or outgoings in calculating the net income of the partnership or trust estate referred to in paragraph (a).

- (10) For the purposes of the application of subsection (8), a reference to a deduction that is allowable in calculating the net income of a partnership does not include a reference to a deduction allowable to the partnership in respect of expenditure taken under sections 70-90 and 70-95 and subsection 70-100(3) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 to have been incurred in the acquisition of trading stock by the partnership.
- (11) In determining for the purposes of this section the amount or value of the consideration that might reasonably be expected to have been provided by a taxpayer in respect of the acquisition of property by the taxpayer if the taxpayer were liable to pay tax in respect of any income derived by the taxpayer from the property at the public company rate applicable for the financial year in which the taxpayer acquired the property, the possibility that the taxpayer would be entitled to a rebate of tax in respect of any of that income shall be disregarded.
- (12) In determining for the purposes of this section whether an amount would, apart from the operation of the relevant exempting provisions, be included in the assessable income of a taxpayer or a trust estate of a year of income, section 128D of this Act and section 802-15 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 shall be disregarded.

- (14) For the purposes of the application of this section in relation to the acquisition of property by a person under a tax avoidance agreement, the Commissioner may be satisfied that consideration provided by the person under or in connection with the tax avoidance agreement was provided by the person in respect of the acquisition of the property notwithstanding, in a case where the person acquired property from another person, that the consideration was not provided to that other person.

- (a) has been, or is to be, made wholly or substantially in Australia or in an external Territory and has, or will have, a significant Australian content; or film has the meaning given by subsection 995-1(1) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.
- (b) has been, or is to be, made in pursuance of an agreement or arrangement entered into between the Government of Australia or an authority of the Government of Australia and the Government of another country or an authority of the Government of another country.

Minister means the Minister administering the Film Licensed Investment Company Act 2005.

Senior Executive Service office has the meaning given by subsection 995-1(1) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

the owner, in relation to a unit of industrial property, means the person who possesses the rights in respect of that unit of industrial property.

unit of industrial property means:

- (a) rights possessed by a person under a law of Australia as:
 - (ii) the owner of a copyright; or
 - (iv) a licensee under such a copyright;and includes equitable rights in respect of such a patent, copyright or design or in respect of a licence under such a patent, copyright or design; or
- (b) rights possessed by a person under a law of a foreign country that are equivalent to the rights referred to in paragraph (a).

Section 124K

- (1A) In considering for the purposes of the definition of Australian film in subsection (1) whether a film has or will have a significant Australian content, the Minister shall have regard to:
- (a) the subject-matter of the film;
 - (b) the place or places where the film was, or is to be, made;
 - (c) the nationalities and places of residence of:
 - (i) the persons who took part, or are to take part, in the making of the film (including authors, composers, actors, scriptwriters, editors, producers, directors and technicians);
 - (ii) the persons who are, or will be, the beneficial owners of the shares or stock in the capital of any company concerned in the making of the film; and
 - (iii) the persons who are, or will be, the beneficial owners of the copyright in the film;
 - (d) the source from which moneys used, or to be used, in the making of the film were, or will be, derived; and
 - (e) any other matters that he considers to be relevant.
- (1B) The Minister may, by writing, delegate to the Secretary to the Minister's Department, or to a person holding or performing the duties of a Senior Executive Service office in the Minister's Department, all or any of the Minister's powers under this section.
- (1C) Applications may be made to the Tribunal for review of a decision:
- (a) to refuse to give a certificate of the kind referred to in the definition of Australian film in subsection (1); or
 - (b) to revoke such a certificate.
- (1D) Where the Minister makes a decision of the kind referred to in subsection (1C) and gives to a person whose interests are affected by the decision notice in writing of the decision, that notice shall:
- (a) in all cases—include a statement to the effect that, subject to the Administrative Appeals Tribunal Act 1975, application may be made to the Administrative Appeals Tribunal, by or on behalf of any person whose interests are affected by the decision, for review of the decision; and
 - (b) except where subsection 28(4) of that Act applies—include a statement to the effect that a request may be made under section 28 of that Act by or on behalf of such a person for a statement setting out the findings on material questions of fact, referring to the evidence or other material on which those findings were based and giving the reasons for the decision.

- (1E) A failure to comply with the requirements of subsection (1D) in relation to a decision does not affect the validity of the decision.
- (2) Subject to subsection (2A), a reference in this Division to expenditure of a capital nature does not include a reference to:
- (a) expenditure in respect of which a deduction has been allowed or is allowable under a provision of this Act, other than a provision of this Division, or which has been or is taken into account in ascertaining the amount of an allowable deduction under such a provision; or
 - (b) the expenditure of moneys by a taxpayer, under a contract entered into on or after 1 October 1980, in producing, or by way of contribution to the cost of producing, a film where:
 - (i) the expenditure of the moneys was expenditure of a capital nature;
 - (ii) at the time when the moneys were expended, the taxpayer was a resident;
 - (iii) at the time when the moneys were expended, a certificate under section 124ZAB or 124ZAC was in force in relation to the film;
 - (iv) the Commissioner is satisfied, in relation to the expenditure of those moneys by the taxpayer, as mentioned in former paragraph 124ZAF(1)(c) or paragraph 124ZAF(1)(c); and
 - (v) the taxpayer has not made an election under section 124ZAE in relation to that film; or
 - (c) expenditure on software (within the meaning of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997).
- (2A) Where a taxpayer has expended moneys as mentioned in paragraph (2)(b) and, by reason of the operation of section 124ZAM, the taxpayer is deemed, for the purposes of Division 10BA, not to have expended those moneys or not to have expended part of those moneys, paragraph (2)(b) does not apply in respect of the expenditure of those moneys or of that part of those moneys, as the case may be.

Section 124KAA

- (3) Where a unit of industrial property is transmitted to a person by operation of law, this Division has effect as if that unit had been disposed of to that person by the last preceding owner of the unit at the time of the transmission.
- (4) In this Division, a reference to the transmission of a unit of industrial property by operation of law includes, without limiting the generality of that expression, a reference to the transmission of a unit of industrial property to a person:
 - (a) as trustee of the estate of the deceased owner of the unit;
 - (b) as a beneficiary under the will or a codicil of the deceased owner of the unit or under an order of a court that varied or modified the provisions or such a will or codicil; or
 - (c) as a beneficiary on the intestacy of the deceased owner of the unit or as a beneficiary under an order of a court that varied or modified the application, in relation to the estate of the deceased owner of the unit, of the provisions of the law relating to the distribution of the estates of persons who die intestate.
- (5) For the purpose of this Division, disregard an acquisition or disposal of property by way of the transfer of the property for the provision or redemption of a security. Consequently this Division applies as if the person who was the owner of the property before the transfer continues to be the owner after the transfer.

124KAA Division subject to Division 245 of Schedule 2C

This Division has effect subject to Division 245 of Schedule 2C.

124KA Application of Division where deduction allowable under former section 124ZAF or section 124ZAFA

- (1) Where:
 - (a) a partnership has expended capital moneys in producing, or by way of contribution to the cost of producing, a film;
 - (b) by virtue of the expenditure of those moneys by the partnership, a deduction has been allowed, or is allowable, under former section 124ZAF or section 124ZAFA to a taxpayer being a partner in the partnership;the following provisions have effect:

- (c) for the purposes of this Division other than this section, the partnership shall not be taken to have incurred any expenditure of a capital nature directly in relation to producing the film; and
- (d) where an amount (in this paragraph referred to as the relevant amount) of moneys expended by the partnership under a contract (in this subsection referred to as the relevant contract):
 - (i) is taken, for the purposes of subsection 124ZAP(2), to have been expended by the partnership in producing, or by way of contribution to the cost of producing, the film; or
 - (ii) would be taken, for the purposes of that subsection, to have been expended by the partnership in producing, or by way of contribution to the cost of producing, the film if that subsection and Subdivision B of Division 10BA extended to the expenditure of moneys under contracts entered into before 1 October 1980;

a taxpayer, being a partner in the partnership, shall, subject to subsection 124K(2), be taken for the purposes of this Division to have expended capital moneys in producing the film of an amount equal to:

- (iii) so much of the relevant amount as the partners have agreed is to be borne by the taxpayer; or
- (iv) if the partners have not agreed as to the part of the relevant amount that is to be borne by the taxpayer—so much of the relevant amount as bears to the relevant amount the same proportion as the individual interest of the taxpayer in the net income of the partnership of the year of income in which the relevant amount was expended by the partnership bears to that net income or, as the case requires, the individual interest of the taxpayer in the partnership loss for that year of income bears to that partnership loss;

and the amount deemed to be expended by the taxpayer shall be deemed to have been expended under a contract entered into at the time when the relevant contract was entered into by the partnership.

Section 124L

- (2) In this section, a reference to the expenditure of capital moneys is a reference to the expenditure of moneys that is expenditure of a capital nature.

124L Application

- (1A) For the purposes of assessments for the 1998-99 year of income and later years of income, this Division applies to the owner of a unit of industrial property only if:
- (a) the unit relates to a copyright in an Australian film; and
 - (b) a claim is not made for a tax offset in respect of the film under Division 376 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (whether in that year of income or another year of income); and
 - (c) an application for a certificate of the kind referred to in the definition of Australian film in subsection 124K(1) in respect of the film is made before the day on which the Tax Laws Amendment (2007 Measures No. 5) Act 2007 receives the Royal Assent; and
 - (d) the owner claims a deduction in respect of the film under this Division in relation to the 2008-09 year of income or an earlier year of income.

Note 1: For other kinds of intellectual property, see Division 40 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

Note 2: Paragraph (d) means that, if a taxpayer claims a deduction in respect of a film under this Division in relation to the 2008-09 year of income, the taxpayer can claim a deduction in respect of the film in relation to the 2009-10 year of income as well.

- (1) This Division applies to the owner of a unit of industrial property who:
- (a) became the owner of the unit by reason of being the first owner of the copyright to which the unit relates and, before the unit came into existence, incurred expenditure of a capital nature directly in relation to producing the work or other subject-matter in which the copyright subsists; or
 - (b) incurred expenditure of a capital nature on the purchase of the unit of industrial property; or
 - (c) acquired the unit of industrial property by virtue of the disposal (other than a disposal by way of transmission by operation of law), in whole or in part and otherwise than for valuable consideration, of a unit of industrial property by the owner of that last-mentioned unit in a case where a deduction under this Division in respect of that unit has been allowed or is allowable in an assessment in respect of income of that last-mentioned owner or would have been so allowable if that unit, or the invention, work or other subject-matter or design to which that unit relates, had been used by that owner for the purpose of producing assessable income; or

- (d) acquired the unit of industrial property by virtue of the transmission, in whole or in part, of a unit of industrial property by operation of law, in a case where a deduction under this Division in respect of that unit has been allowed or is allowable in an assessment in respect of income of the last preceding owner of that unit or would have been so allowable if that unit, or the invention, work or other subject-matter or design to which that unit relates, had been used by that last preceding owner for the purpose of producing assessable income;

and, in the year of income or a previous year of income, has used the unit of industrial property of which he is the owner, or the invention, work or other subject-matter or design to which that unit relates, for the purpose of producing assessable income.

124M Annual deductions

- (1) Where, at any time during the year of income, a taxpayer is the owner of a unit of industrial property to whom this Division applies, an amount equal to the residual value of the unit in relation to the taxpayer as at the end of the year of income divided by a number equal to the number of whole years in the effective life of the unit in relation to the taxpayer as at the commencement of the year of income shall, subject to this Act, be an allowable deduction in respect of the unit.
- (2) Where the deduction allowable under subsection (1) would, but for this subsection, be less than $100, the deduction allowable shall be $100, or the amount of the residual value referred to in subsection (1), whichever is the less.
- (3) Where:
- (a) at any time during the year of income a taxpayer was the owner of a unit of industrial property to whom this Division applies;

Section 124N

- (b) the effective life of the unit in relation to the taxpayer expired before the commencement of the year of income; and
 - (c) there was a residual value of the unit in relation to the taxpayer as at the end of the year of income;
- an amount equal to that residual value shall, subject to this Act, be an allowable deduction in respect of the unit in the assessment of the taxpayer in respect of income of that year of income.
- (4) Subject to subsection (5), where, during a year of income, the owner of a unit of industrial property ceases to be the owner of the unit, a deduction under this section in respect of the unit is not allowable in his assessment in respect of income of that year of income.
 - (5) Subsection (4) extends to the case where the owner of the unit of industrial property ceases to be the owner by reason that the property ceases to exist but does not apply:
 - (a) where the owner ceases to be the owner of the unit of industrial property by virtue of the transmission of the unit by operation of law; or
 - (b) where the unit of industrial property was purchased or otherwise acquired by the owner for a specified period and he ceases to be the owner by reason that the specified period terminates.
 - (6) A reference in subsection (1) or (3) to the residual value of a unit of industrial property as at the end of a year of income in relation to a taxpayer who was the owner of the unit at any time during that year of income shall, in a case where the taxpayer ceased to be the owner of the unit by virtue of the transmission of the unit by operation of law, be read as a reference to the residual value of the unit in relation to the taxpayer immediately before the time of the transmission of the unit.

124N Deductions on the disposal or lapse of a unit of industrial property

- (1) Where, at any time during the year of income, a taxpayer who is the owner of a unit of industrial property to whom this Division applies disposes of the unit in whole and the amount of the consideration receivable in respect of the disposal is less than the residual value of the unit in relation to him at that time, the amount of the residual value, less the amount of the consideration, shall be an allowable deduction.

(2) Where:

- (a) a unit of industrial property owned by a taxpayer who is an owner to whom this Division applies ceases to exist at any time during the year of income by reason of the copyright to which the unit relates ceasing to be in force; or
- (b) a unit of industrial property owned by a taxpayer who is an owner to whom this Division applies and became the owner by reason of the grant, by licence, to him of an interest in a copyright ceases to exist at any time during the year of income by reason of a surrender of the licence in a case where there was no consideration receivable by the taxpayer in respect of the surrender;

and there is a residual value of the unit in relation to the taxpayer as at that time, that residual value shall be an allowable deduction.

124P Amount to be included in assessable income on disposal of a unit of industrial property

(1) Where, at any time during the year of income, a taxpayer who is the owner of a unit of industrial property to whom this Division applies disposes of that unit in whole or in part (whether or not the effective life of that unit in relation to the taxpayer had expired at that time):

- (a) if there is a residual value of that unit in relation to the taxpayer at that time and the amount of the consideration receivable in respect of the disposal exceeds that residual value—the amount of the excess; or
- (b) if there is no residual value of that unit in relation to the taxpayer at that time—the amount of the consideration receivable in respect of the disposal;

shall be included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income.

(3) The amount which, under subsection (1), is required to be included in the assessable income of a taxpayer of a year of income in respect of a unit of industrial property shall not exceed the sum of the deductions which have been allowed or are allowable in respect of the unit under this Division in assessments of income of the taxpayer, less the sum of the amounts, if any, which have, under this section, been included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of a previous year, or previous years, of income in respect of that unit.

124PA Roll-over relief

- (1A) This section does not apply in respect of a disposal in respect of which Subdivision 170-D of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 applies.

(1A) A deduction under subsection (1) is not allowable in relation to the 2009-10 year of income or a later year of income.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), where a deduction has been allowed, or would, but for this subsection, be allowable, from the assessable income of a taxpayer of a year of income under subsection (1) in relation to capital moneys expended by the taxpayer in producing, or by way of contribution to the cost of producing, a film and the following conditions are not satisfied:

(a) before the expiration of the relevant 24 month period:

- (3) Subsection (2) does not apply in relation to a deduction that has been allowed, or is allowable, from the assessable income of a taxpayer of a year of income in relation to capital moneys expended by the taxpayer in producing, or by way of contribution to the cost of producing, a film where:

- (a) the taxpayer dies before the expiration of the relevant 24 month period; and

- (4) Where:

- (a) by reason that the Commissioner is satisfied in accordance with paragraph (3)(b) that subsection (2) would not have applied in relation to a deduction if a taxpayer had not died, subsection (2) would not, but for this subsection, apply in relation to the deduction; and
- (b) the Commissioner later becomes satisfied that subsection (2) would have applied in relation to the deduction if the taxpayer had not died; subsection (2) shall, notwithstanding subsection (3), apply in relation to the deduction.

- (5) In this section:

production contract, in relation to a film, means a contract under which a person has, or persons have, agreed to expend capital moneys in producing, or by way of contribution to the cost of producing, the film, but does not include an underwriting contract.

- (6) For the purposes of this section, a person shall be taken to have conditionally agreed under a contract to expend capital moneys by way of contribution to the cost of producing a film if, under the contract, the person has agreed to expend capital moneys by way of contribution to the cost of producing the film only in the event that the aggregate of the capital moneys expended, or agreed to be expended, in producing, or by way of contribution to the cost of producing, the film is less than an amount specified in, or ascertained in accordance with, the contract.

124ZAG Expenditure of contributions

(1) Where:

- (a) but for this section and sections 124ZAL and 124ZAM, an amount (in this subsection referred to as the relevant amount) would be taken for the purposes of this Division to have been expended by a taxpayer by way of contribution to the cost of producing a film; and
- (b) the whole of the relevant amount is not expended in producing the film;

the following provisions have effect:

- (c) where no part of the relevant amount was expended in producing the film—no part of the relevant amount shall be taken for the purposes of this Division to have been expended by the taxpayer;
- (d) where part only of the relevant amount was not expended in producing the film—the relevant amount shall be reduced by that part of the relevant amount that was not expended in producing the film.

(2) Where:

- (a) but for this section and sections 124ZAL and 124ZAM, an amount (in this subsection referred to as the relevant amount) would be taken for the purposes of this Division to have been expended by a taxpayer by way of contribution to the cost of producing a film; and

- (b) the whole or a part of the relevant amount is included in an amount that was withdrawn from a film account opened in relation to the film and was not, upon withdrawal, dealt with in the prescribed manner;

the following provisions have effect:

- (c) where the whole of the relevant amount was included in the amount withdrawn from the film account—no part of the relevant amount shall be taken for the purposes of this Division to have been expended by the taxpayer;
- (d) where part only of the relevant amount was included in the amount withdrawn from the film account—the relevant amount shall be reduced by that part of the relevant amount that was so included.

124ZAGA Satisfaction of Commissioner as to the future application of certain provisions

(1) Where:

(a) the Commissioner is at any time satisfied that:

- (i) subsection 124ZAF(2) will, at a later time, apply to deem a deduction not to have been, or not to be, allowable to a taxpayer in relation to capital moneys expended in producing, or by way of contribution to the cost of producing, a film; or
- (ii) section 124ZAG will, at a later time, apply in respect of an amount, or part of an amount, that, but for that section and sections 124ZAL and 124ZAM, would be taken for the purposes of this Division to have been expended by a taxpayer by way of contribution to the cost of producing a film; or

(b) at a time after the Commissioner is satisfied in accordance with subparagraph (a)(i) or (ii), the Commissioner is satisfied that subsection 124ZAF(2) will not apply in relation to the deduction, or that section 124ZAG will not apply in relation to the amount or the part of the amount;

the following provisions have effect:

Section 124ZAH

- (c) in a case to which paragraph (a) applies—subsection 124ZAF(2) or section 124ZAG, as the case may be, shall, for the purposes of this Subdivision, be taken to apply, and always to have applied, in relation to the deduction or in relation to the amount or the part of the amount, as the case may be; and
 - (d) in a case to which paragraph (b) applies—subsection 124ZAF(2) or section 124ZAG, as the case may be, shall, for the purposes of this Subdivision, be taken not to apply, and never to have applied, in relation to the deduction, or in relation to the amount or the part of the amount, as the case may be.
- (2) Where, at any time after the making of an assessment in relation to a taxpayer, being an assessment in the making of which subsection 124ZAF(2) or section 124ZAG has been applied by reason that the Commissioner was satisfied in accordance with subparagraph (1)(a)(i) or (ii) of this section, the taxpayer considers that the Commissioner ought to be satisfied in accordance with paragraph (1)(b) of this section that subsection 124ZAF(2) or section 124ZAG, as the case may be, will not apply, the taxpayer may post to, or lodge with, the Commissioner a request in writing for an amendment of the assessment to give effect to subsection (1).
 - (3) The Commissioner shall consider the request and shall serve on the taxpayer, by post or otherwise, a written notice of his decision on the request.
 - (4) If the taxpayer is dissatisfied with the Commissioner's decision on the request, the taxpayer may object against the decision in the manner set out in Part IVC of the Taxation Administration Act 1953.

124ZAH Allocation of contributions expended

- (1) Where:
 - (a) a taxpayer has expended capital moneys by way of contribution to the cost of producing a film; and
 - (b) an amount of moneys has been expended in producing the film out of moneys that include the moneys expended by the taxpayer;

then, for the purposes of this Division, so much of the moneys expended by the taxpayer as the Commissioner determines shall be taken to be included in the amount referred to in paragraph (b) that has been expended in producing the film.

(1A) Where:

- (a) a taxpayer has expended capital moneys by way of contribution to the cost of producing a film;
- (b) an amount of moneys is withdrawn from a film account opened in relation to the film, being a film account into which the moneys expended by the taxpayer have been paid; and
- (c) the amount withdrawn from the film account was not, upon withdrawal, dealt with in the prescribed manner;

then, for the purposes of this Division, so much (if any) of the moneys expended by the taxpayer as the Commissioner determines shall be taken to be included in the amount withdrawn from the film account.

- (2) Sections 124ZAJ and 124ZAK apply, for the purposes of this section, in determining whether, and the extent to which, moneys have been expended in producing a film.

124ZAJ Non-arm's length transactions

(1) Where:

- (a) but for this section and sections 124ZAK, 124ZAL and 124ZAM, an amount expended by a person (in this subsection referred to as the producer) for the supply of goods or the provision of services would be taken, for the purposes of this Division, to be an amount expended in producing a film;
- (b) the Commissioner is satisfied, having regard to any connection between the producer and the person who supplied those goods or provided those services, or to any other relevant circumstances, that the producer and that person were not dealing with each other at arm's length in relation to the transaction; and person supplying those goods or providing those services had dealt with each other at arm's length;

then such part only of the amount of the moneys expended on the supply of those goods or the provision of those services as, in the opinion of the Commissioner, is reasonable shall be taken for the purposes of this Division to have been expended in producing the film.

- (2) A reference in subsection (1) to an amount expended by a person, in producing a film, for the provision of services includes a reference to an amount paid by the person to another person as consideration for the other person producing, or agreeing to produce, a film or a part of a film.

- (c) those assets are subsequently disposed of or are used otherwise than in producing the film;

the amount referred to in paragraph (a) shall be reduced by such amount as the Commissioner considers reasonable.

124ZAM No deduction unless expenditure at risk

- (1) Where:

- (a) but for this section and sections 124ZAG, 124ZAJ, 124ZAK and 124ZAL, a taxpayer or a partnership would be taken, for the purposes of this Division, to have expended capital moneys in producing, or by way of contribution to the cost of producing, a film; and
- (b) but for this section, a taxpayer (in this section referred to as the relevant taxpayer), being the taxpayer referred to in paragraph (a) or a partner in the partnership, would be taken for the purposes of this Division to have expended the whole or a part of the capital moneys referred to in paragraph (a) (which whole or part is in this subsection referred to as the relevant amount) in producing, or by way of contribution to the cost of producing, the film;

then, for the purposes of this Division, the amount of the capital moneys that, by virtue of the expenditure of the moneys referred to in paragraph (a), the relevant taxpayer is to be taken to have expended in producing, or by way of contribution to the cost of producing, the film is:

- (c) if the Commissioner is satisfied that, at the time when the moneys referred to in paragraph (a) were expended, the relevant taxpayer was not at risk in respect of any amount by virtue of the expenditure of the moneys referred to in paragraph (a)—nil;

- (e) if the Commissioner is satisfied that, at the time when the moneys referred to in paragraph (a) were expended, the taxpayer was, by virtue of the expenditure of those moneys, at risk with respect to an amount equal to or greater than the relevant amount—the relevant amount.

- (2) For the purposes of the application of subsection (1) in respect of the relevant taxpayer in relation to the moneys expended in relation to the film as mentioned in paragraph (1)(a), the taxpayer shall be taken to be at risk, by virtue of the expenditure of those moneys, in respect of an amount equal to the amount of the loss that, in the opinion of the Commissioner, would be suffered by the taxpayer by reason of the expenditure of the moneys referred to in paragraph (1)(a) if the relevant taxpayer were not to derive any income, other than excepted income, from the film or from the taxpayer's interest in the copyright of the film.
- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2), income derived by the relevant taxpayer from the film is excepted income if:
 - (a) the income is derived under an agreement under which moneys were to be paid to the taxpayer or another person; and
 - (b) the Commissioner is satisfied that the agreement was entered into for the purpose, or for purposes that included the purpose, of enabling the moneys referred to in paragraph (1)(a) to be expended as mentioned in that paragraph.
- (4) In forming an opinion for the purpose of subsection (2) as to the amount of a loss that would be suffered by the relevant taxpayer, by virtue of the expenditure of the moneys referred to in paragraph (1)(a), if the relevant taxpayer were not to derive any income, other than excepted income, from the film or from the taxpayer's interest in copyright in the film, the Commissioner may have regard to:
 - (a) any act that occurred, any transaction that was entered into or any circumstance that existed before, or at the time when, the moneys referred to in paragraph (1)(a) were expended; and
 - (b) any act that was likely to occur, any transaction that was likely to be entered into or any circumstance that was likely to exist after the time when the moneys referred to in paragraph (1)(a) were expended by reason of any act, transaction or circumstance mentioned in paragraph (a);
being an act, transaction or circumstance that had, or was likely to have, the effect of reducing or eliminating the loss that would be suffered by the relevant taxpayer, by virtue of the expenditure of the moneys referred to in paragraph (1)(a), if the relevant taxpayer were not to derive any income, other than excepted income, from the film or from the taxpayer's interest in copyright in the film.

- (5) In this section:
- (a) a reference to an agreement is a reference to any agreement, arrangement, understanding or scheme, whether formal or informal, whether express or implied, and whether or not enforceable or intended to be enforceable by legal proceedings; and

- then, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the amount of that deduction shall be reduced by the amount of the excess or, as the case requires, the amount of each of those deductions shall be reduced by an amount that bears to the amount of the excess the same proportion as the amount of the deduction bears to the sum of the deductions.

- (3) Sections 124ZAG, 124ZAH, 124ZAJ and 124ZAK apply, for the purposes of subsection (2), in determining whether a partnership has expended capital moneys in producing, or by way of contribution to the cost of producing, a film and in determining the amount of any such moneys.

 - (i) is derived by a non-resident that is a superannuation fund for foreign residents; and

 - (l) income derived by a trustee that, because of paragraph 102UK(2)(b) or 102UM(2)(b), is not included in the assessable income of a trustee beneficiary of the trust estate.

- (a) was attributable to the dividend; and
 - (b) was paid or applied:
 - (i) in respect of an interest in the trust or partnership that was acquired, or was acquired for a period that was extended, at or after the commencing time; or financing arrangement has the meaning given by subsection 995-1(1) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

- (3C) In determining for the purposes of subsection (3A) the extent (if any) to which an amount may reasonably be regarded as equivalent to the payment of interest on a loan, regard is to be had to:
- (a) the way in which the amount was calculated; and
 - (b) the conditions applying to the payment or application of the amount; and
 - (c) any other relevant matters.

- (3D) This section does not apply to a demerger dividend to which section 45B does not apply.

- (3E) This section does not apply to income that consists of a dividend that:
- (a) is paid to a person who is a non-resident carrying on business in Australia at or through a permanent establishment of the person in Australia; and
 - (b) is attributable to the permanent establishment; and
 - (c) is not paid to the person in the person's capacity as trustee.

Note: This subsection not only ensures that this section does not apply to that income to make withholding tax payable on it, but also (as a result) ensures that none of that income is non-assessable non-exempt income under section 128D. Subsection 44(1) makes that income assessable income.

- (3F) In subsection (3E):

permanent establishment of a person:

- (a) has the same meaning as in a double tax agreement (as defined in Part X) that relates to a foreign country and affects the person; or
 - (b) has the meaning given by subsection 6(1), if there is no such agreement.
- (4) A person who derives income to which this section applies that consists of a dividend is liable to pay income tax upon that income at the rate declared by the Parliament in respect of income to which this subsection applies.
- (5) A person who derives income to which this section applies that consists of interest is, subject to subsections (6) and (7), liable to

(6) Where:

(a) income to which this section applies consists of interest and is paid to the person by whom it is derived by a person to whom this section applies; and

(b) the interest is, in part only, an outgoing incurred by that person to whom this section applies in carrying on business in a country outside Australia at or through a permanent establishment of that person to whom this section applies in that country;

income tax is payable under subsection (5) upon so much only of the income as is attributable to so much of the interest as is not an outgoing so incurred.

(7) Where:

(a) income to which this section applies consists of interest and is paid to the person by whom it is derived by a person who, or by persons each of whom, is not a resident; and

(b) the interest is, in part only, an outgoing incurred by the person or persons by whom it is paid in carrying on business in Australia at or through a permanent establishment of that person or those persons in Australia;

income tax is payable under subsection (5) upon so much only of the income as is attributable to so much of the interest as is an outgoing so incurred.

(8) For the purposes of subparagraphs (2)(b)(i) and (2A)(b)(i) and paragraph (6)(b), where:

(a) interest is paid, or has, after 2 July 1973, been paid, to a person by another person, being a person to whom this section applies, carrying on business in a country outside Australia; and

- (ii) is interest incurred by the other person in carrying on business for the purpose of gaining or producing income and is reasonably attributable to income that is derived, or may be derived, by the other person otherwise than in so carrying on business at or through a permanent establishment of the other person in a country outside Australia;

the interest or the part of the interest, as the case may be, is not an outgoing incurred by the other person in carrying on business in a country outside Australia at or through a permanent establishment of the other person in that country.

- (9) For the purposes of subparagraphs (2)(b)(ii) and (2A)(b)(ii) and paragraph (7)(b), where:
 - (a) interest is paid, or has, after 2 July 1973, been paid, to a person by another person or other persons (in this subsection referred to as the borrower), being:
 - (i) another person who is or was carrying on business in Australia and is not or was not a resident; or
 - (ii) other persons who are or were carrying on business in Australia and each of whom is not or was not a resident; and
 - (b) the interest or a part of the interest:
 - (i) is interest incurred by the borrower in gaining or producing income that is derived by the borrower in carrying on business in Australia at or through a permanent establishment of the borrower in Australia or is interest incurred by the borrower for the purpose of gaining or producing income to be so derived; or the interest or the part of the interest, as the case may be, is an outgoing incurred by the borrower in carrying on business in Australia at or through a permanent establishment of the borrower in Australia.

(9A) For the purposes of subparagraphs (2B)(b)(i) and (2C)(b)(i), where:

- (a) a royalty is paid, to a person by another person, being a person to whom this section applies, carrying on business in a country outside Australia; and
- (b) the royalty, or a part of the royalty:
 - (i) is a royalty incurred by the other person in gaining or producing income that is derived by the other person otherwise than in carrying on business in a country outside Australia at or through a permanent establishment of the other person in that country or is a royalty incurred by the other person for the purpose of gaining or producing income to be so derived; or
 - (ii) is a royalty incurred by the other person in carrying on business for the purpose of gaining or producing income and is reasonably attributable to income that is derived, or may be derived, by the other person otherwise than in so carrying on business at or through a permanent establishment of the other person in a country outside Australia;

the royalty or the part of the royalty, as the case may be, is not an outgoing incurred by the other person in carrying on business in a country outside Australia at or through a permanent establishment of the other person in that country.

(9B) For the purposes of subparagraphs (2B)(b)(ii) and (2C)(b)(ii), where:

- (a) a royalty is paid to a person by another person or other persons (the licensee), being:

- (b) the royalty or a part of the royalty:

the royalty or the part of the royalty, as the case may be, is an outgoing incurred by the licensee in carrying on business in Australia at or through a permanent establishment of the licensee in Australia.

(9C) If:

- (a) apart from this subsection, tax would be payable under subsection 126(1) on an amount of interest paid to a person; and
- (b) section 128F would apply to the interest, assuming that paragraph (1)(e) of that section had not been enacted;

then:

- (c) despite anything else in this section, the interest is taken, for the purposes of this Division, to be income derived by the person and to be income to which this section applies; and

Note: As a result of this paragraph, the interest will not be subject to tax under subsection 126(1): see paragraph 126(1)(b).

- (d) in addition to the effect of any credit arising under section 18-30 in Schedule 1 to the Taxation Administration Act 1953 in respect of the interest, the total tax payable by the person, other than under this section, is reduced by the amount of any tax payable under this section on the interest; and
- (e) tax paid under this section on the interest is not an allowable deduction.

Part III Liability to taxation

128C Payment of withholding tax

- (1) Withholding tax is due and payable by the person liable to pay the tax at the expiration of 21 days after the end of the month in which the income to which the tax relates was derived by the person.
- (3) If any of the withholding tax which a person is liable to pay remains unpaid after the time by which it is due to be paid, the person is liable to pay the general interest charge on the unpaid amount for each day in the period that:
 - (a) started at the beginning of the day by which the withholding tax was due to be paid; and
 - (b) finishes at the end of the last day on which, at the end of the day, any of the following remains unpaid:
 - (i) the withholding tax;
 - (ii) general interest charge on any of the withholding tax.

Note: The general interest charge is worked out under Part IIA of the Taxation Administration Act 1953.

(4AA) If:

- (a) a person is liable to pay the general interest charge on an amount of withholding tax which is payable on an amount that, by virtue of the application of section 128AA, is taken to consist of interest paid in relation to the transfer of a qualifying security;
- (b) the Commissioner is satisfied that:
 - (i) before the security was transferred, a notice expressed to be issued under subsection 265B(4) identifying the security was given by the person, in connection with the transfer, to the transferee;

- (ii) one or more of the statements made in the notice is incorrect; and
 - (iii) the person did not know of the circumstance referred to in subparagraph (ii) at the time of transfer of the security; and
 - (c) the proper amount of the withholding tax liability of the person exceeds the amount that would have been the amount of the withholding tax liability if it were determined on the basis that the statements made in the notice were correct;
- the Commissioner shall remit so much of the amount of the general interest charge as bears to that amount the same proportion as the amount of the excess referred to in paragraph (c) bears to the amount of withholding tax.
- (6) The ascertainment of the amount of any withholding tax shall not be deemed to be an assessment within the meaning of any of the provisions of this Act.
 - (7) The Commissioner may serve on a person, by post or otherwise, a notice in which is specified:
 - (a) the amount of any withholding tax that the Commissioner has ascertained is payable by that person; and
 - (b) the date on which that tax became due and payable.
 - (8) The production of a notice served under subsection (7), or of a document under the hand of the Commissioner, a Second Commissioner or a Deputy Commissioner purporting to be a copy of such a notice, is evidence that the amount of withholding tax specified in the notice became due and payable by the person on whom the notice was served on the date so specified.

128D Certain income not assessable

Income other than income to which section 128B applies by virtue of subsection (2A), (2C) or (9C) of that section upon which withholding tax is payable, or upon which withholding tax would, but for paragraph 128B(3)(ga) or (jb), section 128F, section 128FA or section 128GB, be payable, is not assessable income and is not exempt income of a person.

Note: An amount of interest paid to a person by a temporary resident is non-assessable non-exempt income: see section 768-980 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

this section applies to the interest.

Central borrowing authorities

- (5A) This section does not apply in relation to a debenture or debt interest issued in Australia by a company that is covered by subsection (7) or is a central borrowing authority of a State or Territory. A central borrowing authority is a body established for the purpose of raising finance for the State or Territory. The following are examples of central borrowing authorities:
- (a) the Tasmanian Public Finance Corporation;
 - (b) the Queensland Treasury Corporation;
 - (c) the South Australian Government Financing Authority;
 - (d) the Western Australian Treasury Corporation;
 - (e) the New South Wales Treasury Corporation;
 - (f) the Treasury Corporation of Victoria;

(g) the Northern Territory Treasury Corporation.

- (5B) Subsection (5A) does not apply to a bond issued in Australia by a central borrowing authority of a State or Territory. In this subsection bond includes debenture stock and notes.

No exemption for interest paid to certain associates of the issuing company

- (6) This section does not apply to interest paid by the company to a person in respect of the debenture or debt interest if, at the time of the payment, the company knows, or has reasonable grounds to suspect, that:
- (a) the person is an associate of the company; and
 - (b) either:
 - (i) the associate is a non-resident and the payment is not received by the associate in respect of a debenture or debt interest that the associate acquired in carrying on a business in Australia at or through a permanent establishment of the associate in Australia; or
 - (ii) the associate is a resident of Australia and the payment is received by the associate in respect of a debenture or debt interest that the associate acquired in carrying on a business in a country outside Australia at or through a permanent establishment of the associate in that country; and
 - (c) the associate does not receive the payment in the capacity of a clearing house, paying agent, custodian, funds manager or responsible entity of a registered scheme.

Australian public bodies are treated as Australian resident companies

- (7) This section applies in relation to a debenture or debt interest issued by:
- (a) an authority of the Commonwealth; or
 - (b) a State or an authority of a State;
- as if the authority or State were a company and a resident of Australia.

Part III Liability to taxation

Debentures or debt interests issued through certain non-resident subsidiaries can also get the exemption

- (8) If:
- (a) a company (the parent company) beneficially owns all of the issued equity interests in the capital of a company (the subsidiary) that is not a resident of Australia; and
 - (b) the subsidiary's only business is raising finance for the purposes of the parent company; and
 - (c) the subsidiary raises finance in a country specified in the regulations (but not Australia) by issuing a debenture or debt interest in that country; and
 - (d) when the debenture or debt interest is issued, the subsidiary is treated as a resident of that country for the purposes of the tax law (see subsection (9)) of the country;

then this section has effect as if the parent company had raised the finance and issued the debenture or debt interest.

- (a) members of the same wholly-owned group (within the meaning of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997); or

- (b) parties to the same joint venture; or

- (15) For a debt interest that consists of 2 or more related schemes (within the meaning of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997) where one or more of them is a non-equity share, this section applies only to interest paid in respect of the non-equity share.
- Note: Subsection 128A(1AB) defines interest for the purposes of this Division. Under that subsection, dividends paid in respect of a non-equity share are treated as being interest.
- (16) The rule in subsection (15) does not apply to the extent that interest in respect of the other related scheme or schemes would be interest to which this section applies in respect of a debenture or debt interest.

128FA Division does not apply to interest on certain publicly offered unit trust debentures or debt interests

Interest to which this section applies

- (1) This section applies to interest paid by the trustee of an eligible unit trust in respect of a debenture or debt interest issued by the trustee if:
- (a) for a debt interest other than a debenture—the debt interest:
 - (i) is a syndicated loan; or
 - (ii) is prescribed by the regulations for the purposes of this section; and
 - (b) either:
 - (i) the issue of the debenture or debt interest satisfies the public offer test set (see subsection (6)); or
 - (ii) for a syndicated loan—the invitation to become a lender under the relevant syndicated loan facility satisfies the public offer test (see subsection (6A)).
- (2) If:
- (a) some or all of the transfer price (within the meaning of section 128AA) of a debenture or debt interest issued by the

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 11A Dividends, interest and royalties paid to non-residents and to certain other persons

trustee of an eligible unit trust is taken under that section to be income that consists of interest; and

- (b) for a debt interest other than a debenture—the debt interest:
 - (i) is a syndicated loan; or
 - (ii) is prescribed by the regulations for the purposes of this section; and
- (c) either:
 - (i) the issue of the debenture or debt interest satisfies the public offer test set (see subsection (6)); or
 - (ii) for a syndicated loan—the invitation to become a lender under the relevant syndicated loan facility satisfies the public offer test (see subsection (6A));

this section applies to the interest.

Note: Subsection (4) does not apply to the interest because that subsection deals only with interest paid on a debenture or debt interest by the issuing eligible unit trust.

Tax not payable

- (3) Tax is not payable under this Division in respect of interest to which this section applies.

No exemption for interest paid to certain associates of the issuing trustee

- (4) This section does not apply to interest paid by the trustee of an eligible unit trust to a person in respect of the debenture or debt interest if, at the time of the payment, the trustee knows, or has reasonable grounds to suspect, that:
 - (a) the person is an associate of the trustee; and
 - (b) either:
 - (i) the associate is a non-resident and the payment is not received by the associate in respect of a debenture or debt interest that the associate acquired in carrying on a business in Australia at or through a permanent establishment of the associate in Australia; or
 - (ii) the associate is a resident of Australia and the payment is received by the associate in respect of a debenture or debt interest that the associate acquired in carrying on a business in a country outside Australia at or through a permanent establishment of the associate in that country; and

- (c) the associate does not receive the payment in the capacity of a clearing house, paying agent, custodian, funds manager or responsible entity of a registered scheme.

Debentures or debt interests issued through certain non-resident subsidiaries can also get the exemption

- (5) If:
 - (a) the trustee of an eligible unit trust holds all of the issued equity interests in the capital of a company that is not a resident of Australia; and
 - (b) the company's only business is raising finance for the purposes of the eligible unit trust; and
 - (c) the company raises finance in a country specified in the regulations (but not Australia) by issuing a debenture or debt interest in that country; and
 - (d) when the debenture or debt interest is issued, the company is treated as a resident of that country for the purposes of the tax law (see subsection (8)) of the country;

then this section has effect as if the trustee had raised the finance and issued the debenture or debt interest.

Public offer test

- (6) For the purposes of working out under this section whether the issue of a debenture or debt interest by the trustee of an eligible unit trust satisfies the public offer test, subsections 128F(3) to (5) apply to the trustee of the eligible unit trust in a corresponding way to the way in which those subsections apply to a company, subject to subsection (7) of this section.
- (6A) For the purposes of working out under this section whether an invitation to become a lender under a syndicated loan facility satisfies the public offer test, subsections 128F(3A) and (5AA) apply to the trustee of the eligible unit trust in a corresponding way to the way in which those subsections apply to a company, subject to subsection (7) of this section.
- (7) For the purposes of applying subsection 128F(3), (3A), (4), (5) or (5AA) as mentioned in subsection (6) or (6A) of this section:

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 11A Dividends, interest and royalties paid to non-residents and to certain other persons

Section 128FA

- (a) a reference in any of those subsections to a company knowing, suspecting or having reasonable grounds to suspect something, or it being reasonable for a company to have regarded something, is taken to be a reference to the trustee of the eligible unit trust knowing, suspecting or having reasonable grounds to suspect that thing, or it being reasonable for the trustee of the eligible unit trust to have regarded that thing; and
 - (b) a reference in any of those subsections to an associate is taken to be a reference to an associate within the meaning of this section; and
 - (c) a reference in any of those subsections to a global bond is taken to be a reference to a global bond within the meaning of subsection 128F(10).
- (7A) For the purposes of this section, a change (including by novation) to the lenders under a syndicated loan facility does not result in a different agreement.

be a trust or fund of that kind at all times during the year of income.

128GB Division not to apply to interest payments on offshore borrowings by offshore banking units

- (1) This section applies to:
 - (a) interest paid by a person in respect of an offshore borrowing of the person; or
 - (b) interest consisting of gold paid by a person in respect of an offshore gold borrowing of the person;if, when the borrowing took place, the person was an offshore banking unit (whether or not the person is still an offshore banking unit when the interest is paid).

128NA Special tax payable in respect of certain securities and agreements

- (1) Where, but for subsection 128AA(2):
 - (a) the transferor of a qualifying security who is not liable to pay withholding tax in relation to the transfer of the qualifying security would be liable to pay withholding tax in relation to the transfer; or
 - (b) the transferor of a qualifying security who is liable to pay withholding tax in relation to the transfer of the qualifying security would be liable to pay additional withholding tax in relation to the transfer;then, for the purposes of this section, there shall be taken to be an avoided withholding tax amount in relation to the person who is the transferee of the qualifying security of an amount equal to the withholding tax or the additional withholding tax, as the case may be, that the person would be so liable to pay.
- (2) Where:
 - (a) an attributable agreement payment or attributable agreement payments were made by a person under a relevant agreement before the commencement of section 128AC; and

(b) the Commissioner is of the opinion that the payment or payments were made before the commencement of that section, or that the payment or payments were of a greater amount than they would otherwise have been, for the sole or dominant purpose of securing the result that the total amount (in this subsection referred to as the actual withholding tax) of withholding tax payable under that section in relation to all attributable agreement payments made under the relevant agreement after the commencement of that section would be less than the amount (in this subsection referred to as the notional withholding tax) that would otherwise have been payable;

then, for the purposes of this section, there shall be taken to be an avoided withholding tax amount in relation to the person of an amount equal to the amount by which the notional withholding tax exceeds the actual withholding tax.

- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2), expressions used in that subsection that are also used in section 128AC have the same respective meanings in that subsection as in that section.
- (4) Where there is an avoided withholding tax amount in relation to a person under this section, the person is liable to pay income tax, as imposed by the Income Tax (Securities and Agreements) (Withholding Tax Recoupment) Act 1986, in respect of the avoided withholding tax amount.

128NB Special tax payable in respect of certain dealings by current and former offshore banking units

- (1) Where a person who is or has been an offshore banking unit transfers to another person an amount of tax exempt loan money or tax exempt gold, other than by way of:
- (a) payment in carrying on an OB activity or what would be an OB activity if the person were an OBU; or
 - (b) repayment of an offshore borrowing or offshore gold borrowing;

the person is liable to pay income tax, as imposed by the Income Tax (Offshore Banking Units) (Withholding Tax Recoupment) Act 1988, on the lost withholding tax amount in respect of the transfer.

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 11A Dividends, interest and royalties paid to non-residents and to certain other persons

Section 128NB

- (2) For the purposes of subsection (1), the lost withholding tax amount in respect of the transfer is an amount ascertained in accordance with the formula:

$$\text{IWT rate} \times \text{PB rate} \times \text{PB term} \times \text{TA}$$

where:

IWT rate is the rate declared by the Parliament in respect of income to which subsection 128B(5) applies.

PB rate is the prevailing borrowing rate in relation to the person at the time of the transfer.

PB term is the number of years in the prevailing borrowing term in relation to the person at the time of the transfer; and TA is the amount of tax exempt loan money or tax exempt gold transferred.

- (3) Tax under this section is due and payable by the person liable to pay the tax at the end of:
- (a) 21 days after the end of the month in which the transfer to which it relates takes place; or
 - (b) such further period as the Commissioner, in special circumstances, allows.

Application

- (3A) The Commissioner must not exercise his or her power under paragraph (3)(b) on or after 1 July 2000.

- (4) Section 128C (other than subsections (1) and (4AA)) applies, in addition to its application apart from this subsection, as if references in that section to withholding tax were references to tax payable under this section.
- (5) The Commissioner may remit the whole or part of an amount of tax payable under this section in relation to the transfer of an amount of tax exempt loan money or tax exempt gold to another person if:
- (a) the Commissioner is satisfied that:

- (i) the liability to pay the amount of tax arose because the person mistakenly believed, on reasonable grounds, that the other person was a non-resident or an offshore banking unit, that interest payable to the person in respect of the amount transferred would be an outgoing of a particular kind or that the amount transferred was not tax exempt loan money or tax exempt gold; and
 - (ii) the person had taken reasonable steps to ascertain the matter to which the mistaken belief related; or
- (b) the Commissioner is satisfied that there are special circumstances justifying the remission of the whole or part of the amount of tax.

128NBA Credits in respect of amounts assessed under Division 16E of Part III

When section applies

- (1) This section applies if:

 - (b) there is a net Division 16E amount (see subsection (5)) in relation to the taxpayer in relation to:
 - (i) if the payment of interest is a payment in relation to the transfer of the qualifying security—the security; or
 - (ii) if the payment of interest is such a payment by virtue of the application of section 128AC in relation to an attributable agreement payment within the meaning of that section—the attributable agreement payment; or
 - (iii) in any other case—the payment of interest; and
 - (c) the amount of the withholding tax payable on the interest exceeds the amount that would have been payable on the interest if the interest were reduced by the net Division 16E amount.

- (5) For the purposes of this section, if:
- (a) the sum of all amounts (if any) included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of any years of income in relation to the qualifying security, attributable agreement payment or payment of interest under section 159GQ;
exceeds:
 - (b) the sum of all amounts (if any) allowable as deductions from the assessable income of the taxpayer of any years of income in relation to the security or the payment, as the case may be, under that section;
- there is a net Division 16E amount equal to the excess.

128P Objections

- (a) in any case—to refuse to issue the certificate; or
- (b) in the case of a certificate under section 128AB—to specify a particular amount in the certificate;

the applicant may object against the decision in the manner set out in Part IVC of the Taxation Administration Act 1953.

128Q Power of Commissioner to obtain information

Section 264 applies, for the purposes of this Division, as if the reference in paragraph (1)(b) of that section to a person's income or assessment were a reference to a matter relevant to the administration or operation of this Division.

128R Informal arrangements

For the purposes of this Division, the Commissioner may have regard to arrangements, understandings and practices not having legal force in the same manner as if they had legal force.

Division 11B—Equity investments in small-medium enterprises

128TG Summary of this Division

- (1) The following is a summary of this Division.
- (2) If, in connection with a money-lending business, a taxpayer is issued shares in a small-medium enterprise, any profit or loss the taxpayer makes when it disposes of certain shares that would be dealt with under section 6-5 or 8-1 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 is, to the extent that it relates to the period after the issue, instead dealt with under Parts 3-1 and 3-3 (about CGT) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.
- (3) For this to apply, the taxpayer must, after the issue, hold shares representing at least 10% of the value of the small-medium enterprise.

128TH When Division applies

This Division applies if:

- (a) a taxpayer acquires a threshold interest in an SME (see section 128TJ); and
- (b) afterwards, the taxpayer disposes of ordinary shares, or an interest in ordinary shares, in the SME that were issued to the taxpayer (whether before, at the time of, or after acquiring the threshold interest); and
- (ba) the disposal takes place:
 - (i) in any case—in the course of the taxpayer carrying on a business of lending money or otherwise in connection with such a business of the taxpayer; or
 - (ii) if the taxpayer is a company that is a subsidiary of another company—while the one or more members of the direct ownership group of the taxpayer (see subsection 128TL(3)) are each carrying on a business of lending money; and
- (c) the shares are not trading stock of the taxpayer; and

- (d) apart from this section:
 - (i) any profit on the disposal would be included in the taxpayer's assessable income of a year of income under section 6-5 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997; and
 - (ii) any loss on the disposal would be allowable as a deduction from the taxpayer's assessable income of a year of income under section 8-1 of that Act.

128TI Consequences of Division applying

If this Division applies:

- (a) no profit on the disposal is included in the taxpayer's assessable income of any year of income under section 6-5 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997; and
- (b) no loss on the disposal is allowable as a deduction from the taxpayer's assessable income of any year of income under section 8-1 of that Act; and
- (c) the taxpayer is taken:
 - (i) to have disposed of the shares, at the time of acquiring the threshold interest in the SME, for a consideration equal to their market value at the time; and
 - (ii) to have re-acquired the shares immediately afterwards (for the purposes of this section, as if they had been issued to the taxpayer) for an amount equal to that consideration; and
- (d) any profit or loss on the disposal that is taken to have happened by subparagraph (c)(i) is included in the taxpayer's assessable income under section 6-5 of that Act, or is an allowable deduction under section 8-1 of that Act, in the year of income in which the shares are actually (disregarding that subparagraph) disposed of, and not in any other year of income.

Note: As a result of this section, the tax consequences of the actual disposal will be dealt with under section 6-5 or 8-1 of that Act in respect of any period of holding before the acquisition of the threshold interest and under Parts 3-1 and 3-3 (about CGT) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in respect of any period after the acquisition of that interest.

128TJ Acquiring a threshold interest in an SME

A taxpayer acquires a threshold interest in an SME if:

- (a) ordinary shares in an SME (see section 128TK) are issued to the taxpayer; and
- (b) the shares are issued:
 - (i) in any case—in the course of the taxpayer carrying on a business of lending money or otherwise in connection with such a business of the taxpayer; or
 - (ii) if the taxpayer is a company that is a subsidiary of another company—while the one or more members of the direct ownership group of the taxpayer (see subsection 128TL(3)) are each carrying on a business of lending money; and
- (c) immediately after the shares, and any other ordinary shares forming part of the same issue, are issued to the taxpayer and any other persons, the percentage of the value of the SME represented by ordinary shares issued to the taxpayer (whether before or as part of the threshold share issue) is at least 10%; and
- (d) no previous issue of shares to the taxpayer had resulted in the taxpayer acquiring a threshold interest in the SME.

128TK SME or small-medium enterprise

- (1) An SME or small-medium enterprise is a company the total value of whose assets, as determined under this section, is no more than $50 million.

(1) Where, by reason of the application of section 136AD in relation to the supply or acquisition of property by a taxpayer, an amount is included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of a year of income or a deduction is not allowable or is not, in part, allowable, to the taxpayer in respect of a year of income, the Commissioner may, in relation to any taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as the relevant taxpayer):

(a) if, in the opinion of the Commissioner:

- (i) there has been included, or would but for this subsection be included, in the assessable income of the relevant taxpayer of a year of income an amount that would not have been included or would not be included, as the case may be, in the assessable income of the relevant taxpayer of that year of income if the property had been supplied or acquired, as the case may be, under an agreement between independent parties dealing at arm's length with each other in relation to the supply or acquisition; and
- (ii) it is fair and reasonable that that amount or a part of that amount should not be included in the assessable income of the relevant taxpayer of that year of income;

determine that that amount or that part of that amount, as the case may be, should not have been included or shall not be included, as the case may be, in the assessable income of the relevant taxpayer of that year of income; and

(b) if, in the opinion of the Commissioner:

- (i) an amount would have been allowed or would be allowable to the relevant taxpayer as a deduction in relation to a year of income if the property had been supplied or acquired, as the case may be, under an agreement between independent parties dealing at arm's length with each other in relation to the supply or acquisition, being an amount that was not allowed or would not, but for this subsection, be allowable, as the case may be, as a deduction to the relevant taxpayer in relation to that year of income; and

- (ii) it is fair and reasonable that that amount or a part of that amount should be allowable as a deduction to the relevant taxpayer in relation to that year of income;

determine that that amount or that part of that amount, as the case may be, should have been allowed or shall be allowable, as the case may be, as a deduction to the relevant taxpayer in relation to that year of income;

and the Commissioner shall take such action as he considers necessary to give effect to any such determination.

- (1A) Subsection (1) also has the effect that it would have if the reference in that subsection to the application of section 136AD in relation to a taxpayer included references to:

- (a) the application of section 136AD in accordance with section 102AAZA for the purpose of calculating the attributable income of a trust estate; and
(b) the application of section 136AD in accordance with section 400 for the purpose of calculating the attributable income of a CFC.

- (2) Where the Commissioner makes a determination under subsection (1) by virtue of which an amount is allowed as a deduction to a taxpayer in relation to a year of income, that amount shall be deemed to be so allowed as a deduction by virtue of such provision of this Act as the Commissioner determines.

- (3) Where:

- (a) by reason of the application of section 136AD in relation to the supply or acquisition of property by a taxpayer, an amount is included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of a year of income or a deduction is not allowable or is not, in part, allowable, to the taxpayer in respect of a year of income;

Section 136AF

- (b) in the opinion of the Commissioner, an amount of withholding tax has become payable and has been paid in respect of interest or royalties paid to a taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as the relevant taxpayer), being withholding tax that would not have become payable if the property had been supplied or acquired by the first-mentioned taxpayer under an agreement between independent parties dealing at arm's length with each other in relation to the supply or acquisition; and
 - (c) in the opinion of the Commissioner, it is fair and reasonable that that amount of withholding tax or part of that amount of withholding tax should not have become payable by the relevant taxpayer;
the Commissioner may determine that that amount of withholding tax or that part of that amount of withholding tax, as the case may be, should not have become payable by the relevant taxpayer and the Commissioner shall take such action as he considers necessary to give effect to any such determination.
- (4) Where, at any time, a taxpayer considers that the Commissioner ought to make a determination under subsection (1) or (3) in relation to the taxpayer, the taxpayer may post to or lodge with the Commissioner a request in writing for the making by the Commissioner of a determination under the subsection concerned.
 - (5) The Commissioner shall consider the request and serve on the taxpayer, by post or otherwise, a written notice of his decision on the request.
 - (6) If the taxpayer is dissatisfied with the Commissioner's decision on the request, the taxpayer may object against it in the manner set out in Part IVC of the Taxation Administration Act 1953.

Division 13A—Employee share schemes

Subdivision A—Key principle and overview of Division

139 The key principle

This Division provides for the taxation treatment of shares and rights acquired under employee share schemes.

Any discount from the market price of the shares or rights is assessable. However, 2 alternative concessions are available for shares or rights provided under schemes that satisfy certain requirements.

The first concession is that the discount will not be included in the employee's assessable income until a later year of income.

The second concession is that the employee may make an election that reduces the amount assessed. Additional requirements must be satisfied to obtain this concession.

Section 139B

OVERVIEW

Subdivision	Coverage
F	Special provisions about the market value of a share or right
G	Definitions (including a list of all terms defined in the Division)

Subdivision B—Inclusion of discount in assessable income

139B Discount to be included in assessable income

- (1) If a taxpayer has acquired a share or right under an employee share scheme, the assessable income of the taxpayer includes the discount given in relation to the share or right.

Note: Employee share scheme is defined in section 139C.

- (1A) However, for any period during which the taxpayer is a non-resident, the discount is not included under subsection (1) in the assessable income of the taxpayer to the extent that the discount is given in respect of, or for or in relation directly or indirectly to, the taxpayer's engagement in foreign service that relates to the acquisition of the share or right.

Note: Foreign service is defined in section 139GBA.

When the discount is to be included

- (2) Unless subsection (2A) or (3) applies, the discount is included in the taxpayer's assessable income of the year of income in which the share or right is acquired.
- (2A) Unless subsection (3) applies, if the taxpayer:
- (a) acquired the share or right while the taxpayer was not an employee; and
 - (b) subsequently became an employee while holding the share or right;

the discount is included in the taxpayer's assessable income in the year of income in which, after the acquisition, the taxpayer first becomes an employee in respect of employment or services that affect the acquisition or holding of the share or right.

Note: Subsection 139GA(2) limits the meaning of employee in this subsection, so that engagement in foreign service is not of itself sufficient.

- (3) If the share or right is a qualifying share or right and the taxpayer has not made an election under section 139E covering the share or right, the discount is included in the taxpayer's assessable income of the year of income in which the cessation time (see sections 139CA and 139CB) occurs.

139BA Reduction of amounts included—elections

- (1) This section applies if a taxpayer has made an election under section 139E for a year of income and the exemption conditions (see section 139CE) are satisfied in relation to shares or rights covered by the election. It applies to the total amount otherwise included in a taxpayer's assessable income for the year of income under section 139B in respect of those shares or rights.
- (2) The total amount is only included in the assessable income to the extent that it is greater than $1,000.

Subdivision C—Key concepts: employee share scheme, discount, cessation time, qualifying shares and rights and exemption conditions

139C Employee share schemes

- (1) A taxpayer acquires a share or right under an employee share scheme if the share or right is acquired by the taxpayer in respect of, or for or in relation directly or indirectly to, any employment of the taxpayer or an associate of the taxpayer.
- (2) A taxpayer acquires a share or right under an employee share scheme if the share or right is acquired by the taxpayer in respect of, or for or in relation directly or indirectly to, any services provided by the taxpayer or an associate of the taxpayer.
- (3) The taxpayer does not acquire a share or right under an employee share scheme if the consideration for the acquisition is equal to, or more than, the market value of the share or right at the time that it is acquired.

Section 139CA

- (4) The taxpayer does not (except for the purposes of Subdivision DA) acquire a share under an employee share scheme if the taxpayer acquires the share as the result of exercising a right that the taxpayer acquired under an employee share scheme.
- (5) The taxpayer does not acquire a share or right under an employee share scheme if the taxpayer is the trustee of a trust whose sole activities are obtaining shares, or rights to acquire shares, and providing those shares or rights to employees of a company or to associates of those employees.

139CA Cessation time—shares

- (1) The cessation time for a share is the time when the taxpayer acquires the share if:
 - (a) there is no restriction preventing the taxpayer from disposing of the share before a particular time; and
 - (b) the scheme under which the share was acquired did not have any conditions that could result in the taxpayer forfeiting ownership of the share.
- (2) If subsection (1) does not apply, the cessation time for a share is the earliest of the following:
 - (a) the time when the taxpayer disposes of the share;
 - (b) subject to subsection (4), the later of:
 - (i) the time when any restriction preventing the taxpayer from disposing of the share ceases to have effect; and
 - (ii) the time when any condition that could result in the taxpayer forfeiting ownership of shares ceases to have effect;
 - (c) the time when the employment in respect of which the share was acquired ceases;
 - (d) the end of the 10 year period starting when the taxpayer acquired the share.
- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2), a taxpayer only ceases the employment in respect of which the share was acquired when the taxpayer is no longer employed by any of the following:
 - (a) the employer of the taxpayer in that employment;
 - (b) a holding company of the employer;

- (c) a subsidiary of the employer or of a holding company of the employer.
- (4) Paragraph (2)(b) does not apply in relation to a share that, because of section 139DQ, is treated, for the purposes of this Division, as if it were a continuation of a share acquired under an employee share scheme.

Note: Subdivision DA can affect whether the taxpayer is treated as having disposed of a share or ceased employment.

139CB Cessation time—rights

- (1) The cessation time for a right is the earliest of the following:
 - (a) the time when the taxpayer disposes of the right (other than by exercising it);
 - (b) the time when the employment in respect of which the right was acquired ceases;
 - (c) subject to subsection (3), if the right is exercised and there is a restriction preventing the taxpayer from disposing of the share acquired as a result of the exercise of the right or a condition that could result in the taxpayer forfeiting ownership of the share—the time when the last such restriction or condition ceases to have effect;
 - (d) subject to subsection (3), if the right is exercised and there is no such restriction or condition—the time when the right is exercised;
 - (da) if subsection (3) applies—the time when the taxpayer disposes of the share referred to in paragraph (3)(b);
 - (e) the end of the 10 year period starting when the taxpayer acquired the right.
- (2) For the purposes of subsection (1), a taxpayer only ceases the employment in respect of which the right was acquired when the taxpayer is no longer employed by any of the following:
 - (a) the employer of the taxpayer in that employment;
 - (b) a holding company of the employer;
 - (c) a subsidiary of the employer or of a holding company of the employer.

Note: Subdivision DA can affect whether the taxpayer is treated as having disposed of a right or ceased employment.

Section 139CC

- (3) Paragraphs (1)(c) and (d) do not apply in relation to a right if:
- (a) a share has been or is acquired as a result of the exercise of the right; and
 - (b) because of section 139DQ, another share is treated, for the purposes of this Division, as if it were a continuation of that share.

139CC Calculation of discount

- (1) This section sets out how to calculate the discount given in relation to a share or right.

Case 1—discount covered by subsection 139B(2) or (2A)

- (2) If subsection 139B(2) or (2A) applies to the discount, the discount is the market value of the share or right at the time when it was acquired by the taxpayer less any consideration paid or given by the taxpayer as consideration for the acquisition of the share or right.

Case 2—discount covered by subsection 139B(3)—share or right disposed of at arm's length within 30 days

- (3) If subsection 139B(3) applies to the discount, and the share or right (or any share acquired as a result of the exercise of the right) is disposed of by the taxpayer in an arm's length transaction at the cessation time or within 30 days after the cessation time, the discount is:

- (a) the amount or value of any consideration received by the taxpayer for the disposal;

reduced by:

- (b) the amount or value of any consideration paid or given by the taxpayer as consideration for the acquisition of the share or right; and
- (c) for a right that has been exercised—the amount or value of any consideration paid or given to exercise the right.

Case 3—discount covered by subsection 139B(3)—share or right not disposed of at arm's length within 30 days

- (4) If subsection 139B(3) applies to the discount, and the share or right (or any share acquired as a result of the exercise of the right) is not disposed of by the taxpayer in an arm's length transaction at the cessation time or within 30 days after the cessation time, the discount is:

- (a) the market value of the share or right (or the share acquired as a result of the exercise of the right) at the cessation time; reduced by:
- (b) the amount of any consideration paid or given by the taxpayer as consideration for the acquisition of the share or right; and
- (c) for a right that has been exercised—the amount of any consideration paid or given by the taxpayer to exercise the right.

Note: Section 139DS can affect the amount of consideration that the taxpayer is treated as having paid or given.

139CD Meaning of qualifying shares and qualifying rights

- (1) For the purposes of this Division:
 - (a) a share in a company is a qualifying share if:
 - (i) the 6 conditions below are satisfied; and
 - (ii) in the case of a share that a taxpayer has acquired while engaged in foreign service—section 139CDA applies to the share; and
 - (b) a right to acquire a share in a company is a qualifying right if:
 - (i) the first, second, third, fifth and sixth of the 6 conditions below are satisfied; and
 - (ii) in the case of a right that a taxpayer has acquired while engaged in foreign service—section 139CDA applies to the right.

Note 1: Section 139DF excludes certain shares from being qualifying shares.

Note 2: Foreign service is defined in section 139GBA.

- (2) The first condition is that the share or right is acquired by a taxpayer under an employee share scheme.
- (3) The second condition is that the company is the employer of the taxpayer or a holding company of the employer of the taxpayer.
- (4) The third condition is that all the shares available for acquisition under the scheme are ordinary shares and all the rights available for acquisition under the scheme are rights to acquire ordinary shares.

- (5) The fourth condition is that, at the time the share was acquired, at least 75% of the permanent employees of the employer were, or at some earlier time had been, entitled to acquire:
 - (a) shares or rights under the scheme; or
 - (b) shares or rights in the employer, or a holding company of the employer, under another employee share scheme.
- (6) The fifth condition is that, immediately after the acquisition of the share or right, the taxpayer does not hold a legal or beneficial interest in more than 5% of the shares in the company.
- (7) The sixth condition is that, immediately after the acquisition of the share or right, the taxpayer is not in a position to cast, or control the casting of, more than 5% of the maximum number of votes that might be cast at a general meeting of the company.
- (8) The Commissioner may determine that the fourth condition (see subsection (5)) is taken to have been satisfied in relation to a share if the Commissioner considers that the employer has done everything reasonably practicable to ensure that the condition was satisfied.

139CDA Additional requirement for shares or rights acquired while engaged in foreign service

This section applies to a share in a company, or a right to acquire a share in a company, if the taxpayer in question first becomes an employee, in respect of employment or services that affect the acquisition or holding of the share or right, before the cessation time for the share or right.

Note: Subsection 139GA(2) limits the meaning of employee in this section, so that engagement in foreign service is not of itself sufficient.

139CE Exemption conditions

- (1) This section sets out the 3 exemption conditions that, subject to subsection (3A), must be satisfied for section 139BA to apply to a share or right acquired under an employee share scheme.

- (2) The first condition is that the scheme did not have any conditions that could result in any recipient forfeiting ownership of shares or rights acquired under it.
- (3) The second condition is that the scheme was operated so that no recipient would be permitted to dispose of a share or right (the scheme share or scheme right) acquired under it, or of a share acquired as a result of a scheme right, before the earlier of the following times:
 - (a) the end of the period of 3 years after the time of the acquisition of the scheme share or scheme right;
 - (b) the time when the taxpayer ceased, or first ceased, to be employed by the employer.
- (3A) Subsection (3) does not apply in relation to a share or right that, because of section 139DQ, is treated, for the purposes of this Division, as if it were a continuation of a share or right acquired under an employee share scheme.
- (4) The third condition is that both the employee share scheme and any scheme for the provision of financial assistance in respect of acquisitions of shares or rights under the employee share scheme are operated on a non-discriminatory basis (see section 139GF).
- (5) For the purposes of subsection (3), a taxpayer only ceases the employment in respect of which the share or right was acquired when the taxpayer is no longer employed by any of the following:
 - (a) the employer of the taxpayer in that employment;
 - (b) a holding company of the employer;
 - (c) a subsidiary of the employer or of a holding company of the employer.

Subdivision D—Special provisions

139D Discount assessable to associate if share acquired by taxpayer in respect of associate's employment

- (1) This section applies if:
 - (a) a taxpayer has acquired a share or right under an employee share scheme; and

Section 139DA

- (b) the share or right was acquired by the taxpayer in respect of, or for or in relation directly or indirectly to, any employment of, or services rendered by, an associate of the taxpayer; and
 - (c) apart from this section, an amount:
 - (i) would be included in respect of the acquisition in the assessable income of the taxpayer of a year of income under this Division; or
 - (ii) would have been so included if the taxpayer had been a resident at the time of the acquisition.
- (2) Subject to subsection (3), if this section applies, the amount is included in the associate's assessable income of the year of income instead of in the taxpayer's assessable income.
- (3) If:
- (a) this section applies; and
 - (b) the taxpayer acquired the share or right while the associate was not an employee; and
 - (c) the associate subsequently became an employee while the taxpayer was holding the share or right;
- the amount is included in the associate's assessable income in the year of income in which, after the acquisition, the associate first becomes an employee in respect of employment or services that affect the acquisition or holding of the share or right.

Note: Subsection 139GA(2) limits the meaning of employee in this subsection, so that engagement in foreign service is not of itself sufficient.

139DA Acquisition of legal interest in shares or rights—certain discounts not assessable

- If:
- (a) a taxpayer has acquired the legal interest in a share or right; and
 - (b) the taxpayer, or an associate of the taxpayer, is required to include an amount under section 139B in the taxpayer's or the associate's assessable income as a result of the acquisition; and
 - (c) the taxpayer, or the associate, is, or would apart from section 139BA be, required to include an amount under section 139B in his or her assessable income as a result of the acquisition of the beneficial interest in the share or right; the taxpayer, or the associate, is not required to include the amount mentioned in paragraph (b).

139DB No deduction until share or right acquired

If, at a particular time, a person (the provider) provides another person with money or other property:

- (a) under an arrangement; and
- (b) for the purpose of enabling another person (the ultimate beneficiary) to acquire, directly or indirectly, a share or right, under an employee share scheme;

then, for the purpose of determining when any deduction is allowable to the provider in respect of provision of the money or other property, the provider is taken to have provided it not before the time when the ultimate beneficiary acquires the share or right.

Note: The amount included in assessable income for the acquisition of an interest in a share is the same as for the acquisition of the share—see Subdivision F and section 139G.

139DC Deduction for provider of certain qualifying shares or rights

- (1) A taxpayer is entitled to an allowable deduction in the taxpayer's assessment in respect of income of a year of income (the benefit year) if the taxpayer provides one or more qualifying shares or qualifying rights to another person in the benefit year that satisfy the following conditions:
 - (a) the exemption conditions (see section 139CE);
 - (b) the condition that no amount has been allowed, is allowable, or will be allowable, as a deduction in the assessment of the taxpayer in respect of income of any year of income in respect of expenditure incurred in providing the share or right.
- (2) The amount of the deduction in respect of the shares or rights provided by the taxpayer to the person in the benefit year is the lesser of:
 - (a) $1,000; and
 - (b) the sum of the market values, at the time that the share or right is provided, of each qualifying share or qualifying right that satisfies the conditions in subsection (1) reduced by the sum of any amounts paid by the person as consideration for those shares or rights.

Note: Only one deduction is allowable under this section in respect of each person to whom the taxpayer provided shares or rights in a year.

139DD No benefit where rights lost

- (1) For the purposes of this Division, a right to acquire a share in a company is never acquired by a taxpayer if the following 2 requirements are satisfied.
- (2) The first requirement is that the taxpayer loses the right without having exercised it.
- (2A) To avoid doubt:
 - (a) the taxpayer does not lose the right if, because of section 139DQ, another right is treated, for the purposes of this Division, as if it were a continuation of that right; but
 - (b) the taxpayer loses the right if the taxpayer loses the other right without having exercised it.
- (3) The second requirement is that the company was, at the time the right was acquired, the employer of the taxpayer or a holding company of the employer of the taxpayer.
- (3A) To avoid doubt, the company does not cease to be the employer of the taxpayer or a holding company of the employer of the taxpayer if, because of section 139DQ, the taxpayer's employment by another company is treated, for the purposes of this Division, as if it were a continuation of that employment.
- (3B) If, but for subsection 139DR(2), rights acquired by the taxpayer would, because of section 139DQ, be treated for the purposes of this Division as a continuation of other rights, the rights are to be treated for the purposes of this section as if they were a continuation of the other rights.
- (4) Section 170 does not prevent the amendment of an assessment at any time for the purpose of giving effect to this section.

139DE Amount not assessable under other provisions

Section 21A of this Act and section 15-2 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 do not apply to:

- (a) a share or right that a taxpayer acquires under an employee share scheme; or
- (b) any share acquired by a taxpayer as a result of a right covered by paragraph (a).

139DF Anti-avoidance—certain shares and rights not qualifying shares and qualifying rights

- (1) Despite any other provision of this Part, a share in a company, or a right to acquire a share in a company, acquired by a taxpayer is not a qualifying share or right if:
 - (a) the predominant business of the company (whether or not stated in its constituent documents) is the acquisition, sale or holding of shares, securities or other investments (whether directly or indirectly through one or more companies, partnerships or trusts); and
 - (b) the taxpayer is employed by the company and is also employed by another company; and
 - (c) the company and the other company are members of the same company group.
- (2) A company is a member of the same company group as another company if one of the companies is a holding company of the other or if another company is a holding company of both companies.

139DG Amendment of assessments to account for reductions of amounts included in assessable income

- (1) If:
 - (a) an amount has been included in a taxpayer's assessable income of a particular year of income; and
 - (b) that amount is reduced or increased because of a change in the extent (if any) of the application of section 23AF or 23AG or subsection 139B(1A) in relation to the amount during a subsequent year of income;section 170 does not prevent the amendment of an assessment, for the purpose of giving effect to the reduction or increase, at any time during the period of 4 years starting immediately after the income year during which the period of employment or service relating to the acquisition of the share or right in question ends.

- (2) In paragraph (1)(b):
- (a) the reference to an amount being reduced includes a reference to the amount being reduced to a nil amount; and
 - (b) the reference to an amount being increased includes a reference to the amount being increased from a nil amount.

Subdivision DA—Takeovers and restructures

139DP Object of this Subdivision

The object of this Subdivision is to allow this Division to continue to apply, in appropriate circumstances, to 100% takeovers or restructures of companies that have employee share schemes.

139DQ The effect of 100% takeovers and restructures on employee share schemes

Treating acquisitions as continuations of existing shares etc.

- (1) To the extent that:
- (a) a taxpayer acquires:
 - (i) shares in a company (the new company) that can reasonably be regarded as matching shares in another company (the old company) that the taxpayer had acquired under an employee share scheme; or
 - (ii) rights in a company (the new company) that can reasonably be regarded as matching rights in another company (the old company) that the taxpayer had acquired under an employee share scheme; and
 - (b) the acquisition occurs in connection with a 100% takeover, or a restructure, of the old company; and
 - (c) as a result of the takeover or restructure, the taxpayer ceased to hold the shares or rights in the old company;
- then, if the conditions in section 139DR are met, the matching shares or rights are treated, for the purposes of this Division and Subdivision 768-R of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, as if they were a continuation of the shares or rights in the old company.

Note: In determining to what extent something can reasonably be regarded as matching shares or rights in the old company, one of the factors to consider is the respective market values of that thing and of those shares or rights.

Treating acquisitions as disposals of existing shares etc.

- (2) However, to the extent that, in connection with the takeover or restructure, the taxpayer acquires anything that:
- (a) can reasonably be regarded as matching shares or rights in the old company that the taxpayer had acquired under an employee share scheme; but
 - (b) is not a matching share or right to which subsection (1) applies;

the taxpayer is treated, for the purposes of this Division and Subdivision 768-R of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, as having disposed of shares, or disposed of rights (other than by exercising them), that the taxpayer held, under an employee share scheme, in the old company immediately before the takeover or restructure.

Treating new employment as continuation of existing employment

- (3) If subsection (1) applies, any employment of the taxpayer in:
- (a) the new company; or
 - (b) a holding company of the new company; or
 - (c) a subsidiary of the new company or of a holding company of the new company;

is treated, for the purposes of this Division and Subdivision 768-R of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, as a continuation of the employment in respect of which he or she acquired the shares or rights in the old company or in a subsidiary of the old company.

139DR Conditions for the continuation of shares or rights

- (1) The first condition is that, immediately before the takeover or restructure, the taxpayer held shares or rights in the old company under an employee share scheme.
- (2) The second condition is that, if the taxpayer has not made an election under section 139E covering the share or right, the taxpayer is, at or about the time the taxpayer acquires the matching shares or rights, an employee of:

Section 139DS

- (a) the new company; or
 - (b) a holding company of the new company; or
 - (c) a subsidiary of the new company or of a holding company of the new company.
- (3) The third condition is that:
- (a) to the extent that the matching shares or rights are shares, they are ordinary shares; or
 - (b) to the extent that the matching shares or rights are rights, they are rights to acquire ordinary shares.
- (5) The fourth condition is that, at the time the taxpayer acquires the matching shares or rights, the taxpayer does not hold a legal or beneficial interest in more than 5% of the shares of the new company.
- (6) The fifth condition is that, at that time, the taxpayer is not in a position to cast, or control the casting of, more than 5% of the maximum number of votes that may be cast at a general meeting of the new company.

139DS Apportionment rules

- (1) If:
- (a) subsection 139DQ(1) applies to shares or rights that the taxpayer has acquired; and
 - (b) the taxpayer had paid or given consideration (the original consideration) for an acquisition, under an employee share scheme, of any of the shares or rights in the old company (the original shares or rights);
- the taxpayer is treated as having paid or given, for any of the apportionable assets for the original shares or rights, consideration of an amount worked out by spreading the original consideration proportionately among all the apportionable assets according to their market values immediately after the takeover or restructure.
- Note: Subsection 139FA(4) alters the meaning of market value of a share or right for the purposes of this section.
- (2) The apportionable assets for the original shares or rights are:
- (a) all matching shares or rights held by the taxpayer that are treated because of this Division as a continuation of the original shares or rights; and

- (b) anything else that the taxpayer acquired in connection with the takeover or restructure and that can reasonably be regarded as matching the original shares or rights; and
- (c) in the case of a restructure—any shares or rights in the old company that the taxpayer held immediately before, and continues to hold immediately after, the restructure and that can reasonably be regarded as matching the original shares or rights.

Subdivision DB—Stapled securities

139DSA Object of this Subdivision

The object of this Subdivision is to allow this Division to apply to stapled securities that include an ordinary share and are listed for quotation on the stock market operated by ASX Limited, and to rights to acquire such stapled securities.

139DSB Application of Division to stapled securities

- (1) This Division (except this Subdivision) applies, with the modifications set out in this Subdivision, in relation to a stapled security in the same way as it applies in relation to a share (including an ordinary share) in a company.
 - Note 1: For the definition of stapled security, see subsection 139GCD(1).
 - Note 2: This means the Division also applies to rights to acquire a stapled security in the same way it applies to rights to acquire a share.
 - Example: Subsection 139CD(4) will be satisfied if all the securities available for acquisition under the scheme are stapled securities, and all the rights available for acquisition are rights to acquire stapled securities.
- (2) For the purposes of the application of this Division (except this Subdivision) in relation to a stapled security or right to acquire a stapled security, a company, the shares in which are the subject of this Division, is taken to include (as part of the company) each stapled entity for the stapled security.
 - Note 1: For the definition of stapled entity, see subsection 139GCD(2).
 - Note 2: There are some modifications to this rule in this Subdivision.
 - Note 3: This rule has the effect that the company is treated as having all the interests in another entity that stapled entities for the stapled security have.

Section 139DSC

Example: The condition in subsection 139CD(3) will be satisfied if the company would be a holding company of the employer if all those stapled entities' interests in the employer were counted together.

139DSC Discount not to be included in assessable income unless stapled security or right is qualifying

Section 139B includes a discount given in relation to a stapled security or right to acquire a stapled security in the assessable income of the taxpayer only if the stapled security or right to acquire a stapled security is treated as a qualifying share or qualifying right because of this Subdivision.

139DSD Division does not also apply to share part of stapled security

- (1) If a stapled security or right to acquire a stapled security is treated as a qualifying share or qualifying right because of this Subdivision, this Division does not also apply separately in relation to a share that is a part of the stapled security.
- (2) However, if a stapled security is not treated as a qualifying share because of this Subdivision, the rest of this Division applies separately in relation to each share that is a part of the stapled security. To avoid doubt, section 139DSC does not prevent a discount given in relation to such a share from being included in the assessable income of a taxpayer.

139DSE Modifications relating to employment

Proportion of permanent employees of employer

- (1) Subsection 139DSB(2) does not affect a provision setting out a condition relating to a specified proportion of the permanent employees of a stapled entity that is the employer.

Example: In applying subsection 139CD(5), the employer of the taxpayer is not taken to include any other stapled entities. The condition in that subsection will be satisfied if it is satisfied for the employing entity alone.

- (2) The reference in paragraph 139CD(5)(b) to a holding company of an employer includes a reference to the stapled entities for the stapled security if:

- (a) the employer is not a stapled entity for the stapled security;
and
- (b) a company that included the stapled entities as parts of the company would be a holding company of the employer.

Cessation of employment

- (3) For the purposes of working out the time when a taxpayer ceases to be employed by the employer of the taxpayer, that employer is taken to include (as part of it) each other stapled entity for the stapled security.

Note: This rule affects the operation of subsections 139CA(2), 139CB(1) and 139CE(3).

139DSF Modification relating to legal or beneficial interest

A taxpayer is taken to satisfy a condition that the taxpayer not hold a legal or beneficial interest in more than 5% of the shares in a company at a time only if the taxpayer does not hold a legal or beneficial interest in more than 5% of any of the following at that time:

- (a) the shares in any company that is a stapled entity for the stapled security;
- (b) the units in any unit trust that is a stapled entity for the stapled security.

Note: This rule affects the operation of subsections 139CD(6) and 139DR(5).

139DSG Modification relating to voting rights

A taxpayer is taken to satisfy a condition that the taxpayer not be in a position to cast, or control the casting of, more than 5% of the maximum number of votes that might be cast at a general meeting of a company only if the taxpayer is not in a position to control the casting of more than 5% of the maximum number of votes that might be cast at a general meeting of:

- (a) a company that is a stapled entity for the stapled security because an ordinary share in the company is part of the stapled security; or
- (b) if more than one company is a stapled entity for the stapled security because an ordinary share in the company is part of the stapled security—each of those companies.

Section 139DSH

Note: This rule affects the operation of subsections 139CD(7) and 139DR(6).

139DSH Cessation time when stapling arrangement ceases

The cessation time for a stapled security or right to acquire a stapled security is the earlier of:

- (a) the time when any of the interests forming the stapled security cease to be stapled together; and
- (b) the time when the stapled security ceases to be listed for quotation in the official list of ASX Limited;

if that time is earlier than:

- (c) in the case of a stapled security where subsection 139CA(1) does not apply—the earliest time when an event described in any of paragraphs 139CA(2)(a) to (d) happens; and
- (d) in the case of a right to acquire a stapled security—the earliest time when an event described in any of paragraphs 139CB(1)(a) to (e) happens.

Note: The times mentioned in paragraphs (a) and (b) are additional to the times mentioned in subsections 139CA(2) and 139CB(1). The actual cessation time is the time that is the earliest, unless subsection 139CA(1) applies (when the cessation time is the time of acquisition).

139DSI Deduction to be apportioned

- (1) If a stapled security is jointly provided by 2 or more taxpayers to another person in a year of income, each of those taxpayers is entitled to an allowable deduction in respect of income of the year of income under section 139DC if, because of this Subdivision:
 - (a) the stapled security is treated as a qualifying share; and
 - (b) the conditions in subsection 139DC(1) are satisfied for the stapled security.
- (2) The amount of the deduction worked out under subsection 139DC(2) in respect of the stapled security must be apportioned between each of the taxpayers on a reasonable basis.

Subdivision E—Elections

139E Taxpayer may make election

- (1) A taxpayer may make an election under this section that subsection 139B(2) applies for a year of income. The election covers each qualifying share or qualifying right acquired in that year (the acquisition year) by the taxpayer.
- (2) An election under subsection (1) in relation to each such share or right must be made in the taxpayer's return of income for the acquisition year.
- (2A) The Commissioner may, after receiving a request made by the taxpayer in the approved form, allow the election to be made at a later time.
- (2B) This Act applies to a taxpayer as if the taxpayer had made an election under subsection (1) for a year of income if:
 - (a) the total discount for the taxpayer for the year of income is $1,000 or less; and
 - (b) the exemption conditions (see section 139CE) are satisfied in relation to the relevant shares or rights.
- (3) If:
 - (a) a taxpayer becomes an employee during a year of income (the employment year); and
 - (b) before the employment year, the taxpayer had acquired a qualifying share or qualifying right, being an acquisition that occurred:
 - (i) while the taxpayer was not an employee; and
 - (ii) after the year of income (if any) in which the taxpayer last became an employee;

the taxpayer may make an election under this section that subsection 139B(2A) applies for each of the years of income before the employment year and after the year referred to in paragraph (b). The election covers each qualifying share or qualifying right acquired in any of those years by the taxpayer.

Note: Subsection 139GA(2) limits the meaning of employee in this subsection, so that engagement in foreign service is not of itself sufficient.

Section 139F

- (4) An election under subsection (3) must be made in the taxpayer's return of income for the employment year.
- (5) The Commissioner may, after receiving a request made by the taxpayer in the approved form, allow the election to be made at a later time.

Subdivision F—Special provisions about the market value of a share or right

139F Meaning of market value of a share or right

This Subdivision sets out how to determine the market value of a share or right to acquire a share on a particular day.

139FA Listed shares or rights—market value

- (1) If the share or right is quoted on a stock market of an approved stock exchange on that day, the market value is:
 - (a) if there was at least one transaction on that stock market in shares or rights of that class during the one week period up to and including that day—the weighted average of the prices at which those shares or rights were traded on that stock market during the one week period up to and including that day; or
 - (b) if there were no transactions on that stock market in that one week period in such shares and rights:
 - (i) the last price at which an offer was made on that stock market in that period to buy such a share or right; or
 - (ii) if, in the case of a share, no such offer has been made—the value of the share that would have been determined under section 139FB if that section applied to the share; or
 - (iii) if, in the case of a right, no such offer has been made—the value of the right that would have been determined under section 139FC if that section applied to the right.
- (2) If a share or right is quoted on 2 or more approved stock markets on that day, the market value is the value determined under subsection (1) in respect of whichever of those the taxpayer chooses.

- (3) This section does not apply to a share if section 139FAA applies to the share.
- (4) This section applies for the purposes of section 139DS as if references in this section to the one week period up to and including that day were references to the period consisting of that day.

139FAA Listed shares—market value where public offer

- (1) This section applies to a share in a company if:
 - (a) the share is acquired within the period starting 7 days before and ending 7 days after the day on which shares are first acquired under a public offer of shares in the company; and
 - (b) the following rights attached to the share are the same as those attached to the shares acquired under the public offer:
 - (i) rights in respect of voting;
 - (ii) rights in respect of dividends;
 - (iii) rights in respect of distribution of share capital in consequence of a reduction of share capital;
 - (iv) rights in respect of distribution of the property of the company in the event of the winding up of the company; and
 - (c) there is at least one price at which shares were sold under the public offer that satisfies the following requirements:
 - (i) 1,000 Australian residents (other than residents who are employees of the company or who held shares in the company immediately before the offer was made) acquired shares at the price;
 - (ii) the total cost of shares acquired by such Australian residents at the price was at least $1,000,000; and
 - (d) the company has been a listed public company for at least 6 months immediately before the share is acquired.

However, this section does not apply if subsection 139CC(4) applies to the share.

- (2) The market value of a share is the lowest price that satisfies the requirements of subparagraphs (1)(c)(i) and (ii) at which shares were sold under the public offer.

Section 139FB

What is a public offer?

- (3) A public offer of shares is an offer of shares in a company where:
- (a) the offer is by the company or by a person who, immediately before the offer is made, owns at least 20% of the shares with rights in respect of voting in the company; and
 - (b) the offer is made to at least 10,000 Australian residents (other than residents who are employees of the company or who held shares in the company immediately before the offer was made).

139FB Unlisted shares—market value

- (1) If the share is not quoted on an approved stock exchange on that day, the market value is the arm's length value of the share:
- (a) as specified in a written report, in a form approved by the Commissioner, given to the person from whom the taxpayer acquires the share by a person who is a qualified person in relation to valuing the share (see section 139FG); or
 - (b) as calculated in accordance with any other method approved in writing by the Commissioner as a reasonable method of calculating the arm's length value of unlisted shares.

Partly paid unlisted shares

- (2) Without limiting the factors that must be taken into account in valuing, under paragraph (1)(a), a share that is partly paid, the qualified person must take into account:
- (a) the amount unpaid on the share; and
 - (b) the amount and timing of future calls; and
 - (c) rights to dividends that arise from holding the share.

139FC Unlisted rights—market value

- (1) If the right is not quoted on an approved stock exchange on that day, the market value is the greater of:
- (a) the market value, on the particular day, of the share that may be acquired by exercising the right, less the lowest amount that must be paid to exercise the right to acquire the share; and
- whichever of the following applies:

- (b) if the right can not be exercised more than 10 years after the day when the right was acquired—subject to section 139FE, the value determined in accordance with regulations for the purpose of this paragraph or, if no such regulations are in force, the value determined in accordance with sections 139FJ to 139FN;
 - (c) if the right can be exercised more than 10 years after the day when the right was acquired—the greater of:
 - (i) the arm's length value of the right as specified in a written report, in a form approved by the Commissioner, given to the person from whom the taxpayer acquires the right by a suitably qualified valuer; and
 - (ii) the value that would have been determined under paragraph (b) if the right could be exercised 10 years after the particular day.
- (2) In calculating, for the purpose of subsection (1), the market value of the share that may be acquired by exercising the right, subsection 139FAA(1) applies as if the share were acquired on the particular day.

139FD Conditions and restrictions to be disregarded

In determining the market value of a share or right under section 139FB or 139FC, the share or right, and any share that may be acquired as a consequence of the exercise or operation of the right, is taken not to be subject to any conditions or restrictions.

139FE Value of right nil or can not be determined

- (1) If the lowest amount that must be paid to exercise a right to acquire a share is nil or can not be determined, the market value of the right on a particular day is the same as the market value of the share on that day.
- (2) In calculating, for the purpose of subsection (1), the market value of the share that may be acquired by exercising the right, subsection 139FAA(1) applies as if the share were acquired on the particular day.

139FF Value of legal and beneficial interests

To avoid doubt, if a person acquires either the beneficial interest or the legal interest in a share or right, the value that is applicable for the purposes of this Division is the value of the share or right, not the value of the interest in the share or right.

- Notes:
1. It is the value of the share or right that is relevant because the taxpayer is taken to have acquired the share or right—see section 139G.
 2. Double taxation is avoided by section 139DA.

139FG Meaning of qualified person

A person is a qualified person in relation to valuing a share in a company if the person is registered as a company auditor under a law in force in a State or a Territory, and is not:

- (a) a director, secretary or employee of the company; or
- (b) a partner, employer or employee of a person referred to in paragraph (a); or
- (c) a partner or employee of an employee of a person so referred to.

139FI Provision of information about market value

If a taxpayer requests the person from whom he or she acquired a share or right to provide information necessary for the taxpayer to calculate the market value of the share or right at a particular time, the person must take all reasonable steps to provide that information within 60 days after the request.

139FJ Outline of remainder of Subdivision

The remainder of this Subdivision sets out the method of calculating, for the purposes of paragraph 139FC(b), the market value, on a particular day, of a right to acquire a share.

139FK Step 1—calculate the calculation percentage

- (1) Apply the following formula. The result is the calculation percentage.

Section 139FL

$$\frac{\text{Market value, on the particular day, of the share that is the subject of the right}}{\text{Amount, or lowest amount, that must be paid to exercise the right}} \times 100\%$$

- (2) In calculating, for the purpose of subsection (1), the market value of the share that is the subject of the right, subsection 139FAA(1) applies as if the share were acquired on the particular day.

139FL Step 2—how to use calculation percentage

If calculation percentage is less than 50%

- (1) If the calculation percentage is less than 50%, the market value of the right is nil.

If calculation percentage is equal to or greater than 50% but less than 110%

- (2) If the calculation percentage is equal to, or greater than, 50% but less than 110%, go to the instructions for using Table 1 in section 139FM that are set out below that Table.

If calculation percentage is equal to or greater than 110%

- (3) If the calculation percentage is equal to, or greater than, 110%, go to the instructions for using Table 2 in section 139FN that are set out below that Table.

 - (b) the calculation percentage;
- and then multiply the amount, or lowest amount, that must be paid to exercise the right by the Table 1 percentage. The result is the market value of the right.

Instructions for using Table 2—calculating the base percentage

- (2) From column 1 of Table 2, select the percentage that corresponds to the period, in months, from the particular day until the last day on which the right may be exercised (the exercise period). This percentage is called the base percentage.

Instructions for using Table 2—calculating the additional percentage

- (3) From column 2 of Table 2, select the percentage that corresponds to the exercise period. This percentage is called the additional percentage.

Instructions for using Table 2—calculating the excess

- (4) Work out the result of the following formula. Disregard any fraction. The result is called the excess.

$$100 \times \left[\frac{\text{Calculation percentage}}{\text{percentage}} - 110\% \right]$$

Instructions for using Table 2—calculating the market value

- (5) The market value of the right is the amount worked out using the following formula:

$$\text{Amount or lowest amount that must be paid to exercise the right} \times \left[\frac{\text{Base percentage}}{\text{percentage}} + \left(\text{Excess} \times \frac{\text{Additional percentage}}{\text{percentage}} \right) \right]$$

Note: If:

- (a) the exercise period; or
 (b) the calculation percentage in relation to a particular right;

is the top of one range in Table 1 or 2 and is also the bottom of another range in that Table, it is taken to be in the lower range and not in the higher range.

Subdivision G—Definitions

139G Meaning of acquiring or providing a share or right

A person acquires a share or right if:

- (a) another person transfers the share or right to that person (other than, in the case of a share, by issuing the share to that person); or
- (b) in the case of a share—another person allots the share to that person; or
- (c) in the case of a right—another person creates the right in that person; or
- (d) the person otherwise acquires a legal interest in the share or right from another person; or
- (e) the person acquires a beneficial interest in the share or right from another person.

In those circumstances, the other person provides the share or right.

139GA Meaning of employee and employer

- (1) The expression employee means:
 - (a) a person who receives, or is entitled to receive, work and income support related withholding payments and benefits; or
 - (b) a person who is engaged in foreign service.
- (2) However:
 - (a) subsection (1) does not apply in relation to section 139GBA; and
 - (b) paragraph (1)(b) does not apply in relation to subsection 139B(2A), section 139CDA or subsection 139D(3), 139E(3) or 139GB(1).
- (3) The expression employer means:
 - (a) a person who pays, or is liable to pay, work and income support related withholding payments and benefits; or
 - (b) a person who engages another person in foreign service.

139GB Meaning of permanent employee

(1) Subject to subsections (2) and (3), permanent employee of an employer is:

- (a) a full-time employee of the employer; or
- (b) a permanent part-time employee of the employer; with at least 36 months service (whether continuous or non-continuous).

Note: Subsection 139GA(2) limits the meaning of employee in this subsection, so that engagement in foreign service is not of itself sufficient.

(2) A person is not a permanent employee of an employer that is a company at any time when the person is a director of the company.

(3) A person is not a permanent employee at any time when the person:

- (a) is a temporary resident within the meaning of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997; or
- (b) is not a resident; or
- (c) is not physically present in Australia.

(4) For the purposes of subsection (1), the length of a person's service includes any period when the person is, in accordance with the terms and conditions of that service:

- (a) absent on recreation leave; or
- (b) absent from work because of accident or illness.

(5) In paragraph (4)(a), recreation leave does not include:

- (a) long service leave, furlough, extended leave or leave of a similar kind (however described); or
- (b) leave without pay or on reduced pay.

139GBA Meaning of foreign service

Foreign service is service in a foreign country as the holder of an office or in the capacity of an employee.

139GC Meaning of holding company insured person means a person with whom any insurance contract is entered into by an insurer.

insured property means the property the subject of an insurance contract made or given by an insurer.

142 Income derived by non-resident insurer

- (1) Where an insured person, whether a resident or non-resident, has entered into an insurance contract with an insurer, and the insured property at the time of the making of the contract is situated in Australia, or the insured event is one which can happen only in Australia, the premium paid or payable under the contract shall be included in the assessable income of the insurer, and shall be deemed to be derived by him from sources in Australia, and, unless the contract was made by a principal office or branch established by the insurer in Australia, this Division shall apply to that premium.
- (2) Where an insured person who is a resident has entered into an insurance contract with an insurer, and an agent or representative in Australia of the insurer was in any way instrumental in inducing the entry of the insured person into that contract, any premium paid or payable under the contract shall, wherever the insured property is situate, or the insured event may happen, be included in the assessable income of the insurer and shall be deemed to be derived by him from sources in Australia, and, unless the contract was made by a principal office or branch established by the insurer in Australia, this Division shall apply to that premium.

143 Taxable income of non-resident insurer

The insurer shall be deemed to have derived in any year, in respect of the premiums paid or payable in that year under such contracts, a taxable income equal to 10% of the total amount of such premiums:

Provided that, where the actual profit or loss derived or made by the insurer in respect of such premiums is established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, the taxable income of the insurer in respect thereof, or the amount of the loss so made by him shall, subject to this Act, be calculated by reference to receipts and expenditure taken into account in calculating that profit or loss.

144 Liability of agents of insurer

The insured person and any person in Australia acting on behalf of the insurer shall be the agents of the insurer, and shall be jointly and severally liable as such for all purposes of this Act. If either of those persons pays or credits to the insurer any amount in respect of the insurance contract before arrangements have been made to the satisfaction of the Commissioner for the payment of any income tax which has been or may be assessed under this Division in respect of that amount, that person shall be personally liable to pay that tax.

145 Deduction of premiums

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, no such premium shall be an allowable deduction to the insured person unless arrangements have been made to the satisfaction of the Commissioner for the payment of any income tax which has been or may be assessed in respect of that premium.

147 Rate of tax in special circumstances

Where the insurer satisfies the Commissioner that, on account of special circumstances, it is necessary that the rate of tax payable by him under this Division should be ascertained at the time when premiums are paid to him, the Commissioner may direct that the tax so payable in respect of premiums paid during any financial year shall be calculated at the rate which would have been payable if an assessment had been made in respect of those premiums at the date when they were paid.

 - (b) that person shall be liable to furnish returns, and to pay tax, in accordance with the succeeding provisions of this section, as agent for all non-residents with whom he so reinsures.

Section 148

- (4) A person who has made an election under this section shall, as agent, furnish to the Commissioner, within the prescribed time, or within such further time as the Commissioner allows, in respect of every year of income to which the election applies:

- (8) Where a person is liable, in pursuance of an assessment for the purposes of this section, to pay tax, in respect of any premiums, as agent for more than one non-resident, the amount which he shall be liable to pay as agent for any one of those non-residents shall be so much of the tax so payable as bears to the whole of that tax the same proportion as the total amount of such of those premiums as were paid to that non-resident bears to the total amount of those premiums.
- (9) Where a person is or may become liable under this section to pay tax as agent for a non-resident in respect of any premium paid or credited by him to that non-resident:
- (a) he shall, for the purposes of section 254, be deemed to have received the premium in his representative capacity immediately before it was so paid or credited; and

 - (b) references in this Division to the taxable income of a taxpayer shall be read as references to the amount that would have been the taxable income if:

(b) the amount of tax that would, apart from this section, section 94, Division 6AA and Part VIIB and but for any rebate or credit to which the trustee is entitled, be payable by the trustee in respect of the eligible net income exceeds the amount of tax that would, apart from this section, section 94, Division 6AA and Part VIIB and but for any rebate or credit to which the trustee is entitled, be payable by the trustee in respect of the eligible net income if the notional rates declared by the Parliament for the purposes of this section were the rates of tax payable by the trustee in respect of the eligible net income;

the trustee is entitled, in his assessment in respect of the eligible net income, to a rebate of tax of an amount ascertained in deemed net income from primary production means:

- (a) if the trust estate did not have a non-primary production profit in relation to the year of income—the eligible net income; and
- (b) in any other case—the sum of the actual net income from primary production of the trust estate of the year of income and the notional net income from primary production of the trust estate of the year of income.

eligible part of the primary production loss, in relation to a primary production loss incurred by the trust estate in the year of income, means so much of the primary production loss as is equal to the amount by which the eligible net income would have been increased if the aggregate of the relevant primary production deductions allowable in calculating the amount of the net income of the trust estate of the year of income had been equal to the assessable primary production income of the trust estate of the year of income.

net income from primary production means the amount (if any) remaining after deducting from the assessable primary production income of the trust estate of the year of income so much of the aggregate of the relevant primary production deductions allowable in calculating the net income of the trust estate as does not exceed that assessable primary production income.

notional net income from primary production means:

- (a) where the trust estate had a non-primary production profit in relation to the year of income and did not incur a primary production loss in relation to the year of income:

 - (ii) where the eligible net income exceeds the actual net income from primary production in relation to the year of income and that excess is greater than $5,000—

$5,000 reduced by $1 for each whole dollar by which the amount of that excess exceeds $5,000; and

- (b) where the trust estate had a non-primary production profit in relation to the year of income and incurred a primary production loss in relation to the year of income:
 - (i) in a case where the sum of the eligible net income and the eligible part of the primary production loss is less than or equal to $5,000—the eligible net income; and
 - (ii) in a case where the sum of the eligible net income and the eligible part of the primary production loss (which sum is in this subparagraph referred to as the non-farm income) exceeds $5,000—an amount ascertained by deducting from $5,000 one dollar for each whole dollar by which so much of the non-farm income as does not exceed $10,000 exceeds $5,000 and deducting from the resultant amount so much (if any) of the eligible part of the primary production loss as does not exceed that resultant amount.

relevant primary production deductions means:

- (a) any deductions allowed or allowable in calculating the amount of the net income of the trust estate of the year of income that relate exclusively to assessable primary production income of a year of income;

- (8) For the purposes of subsection (6), a trust estate shall be taken to have a non-primary production profit in relation to a year of income if the assessable income of the trust estate of the year of income other than assessable primary production income exceeds the aggregate of the deductions (other than relevant primary production deductions) allowable in calculating the amount of the net income of the trust estate of the year of income.

the following provisions have effect:

- (h) where a deduction was taken into account in calculating that net income or partnership loss—there shall be included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of the relevant year of income an amount ascertained in accordance with the formula $A(B - C)$;
- (j) where an arrangement payment was taken into account in calculating that net income or partnership loss—there shall be allowable as a deduction in the assessment of the taxpayer of the relevant year of income an amount ascertained in accordance with the formula $A(B - C)$;

where:

A is the amount of the relevant deduction or of the relevant arrangement payment, as the case requires;

B is the individual interest of the taxpayer in that net income or partnership loss, being that individual interest expressed as a fraction of the aggregate of the individual interests of the partners in that net income or partnership loss; and

C is the fraction that would be B if that fraction were ascertained on the basis of the individual interests of the partners immediately before the earliest application time and the net income or partnership loss at that time were equal to the net income or partnership loss of the relevant year of income.

(2) Where:

- (a) the Commissioner, having regard to any connection between the parties to the issue or transfer of a security and to any other relevant circumstances, is satisfied that the parties were not dealing with each other at arm's length in relation to the issue or transfer; and
- (b) the Commissioner determines that this subsection should apply in relation to the issue or transfer;

Section 159GP

then, for the purposes of the application of the definition of issue price or transfer price, as the case may be, in subsection (1) in relation to the issue or transfer, the consideration for the issue or transfer shall be taken to be equal to:

- (c) the consideration that might reasonably be expected for the issue or transfer if the parties to the issue or transfer were independent parties dealing at arm's length with each other in relation to the issue or transfer; or
 - (d) where, for any reason (including an insufficiency of information available to the Commissioner), it is not possible or not practicable for the Commissioner to ascertain the amount referred to in paragraph (c)—such amount as the Commissioner determines.
- (3) For the purposes of this Division, there shall be taken to be an eligible return in relation to a security if at the time when the security is issued it is reasonably likely, by reason that the security was issued at a discount, bears deferred interest or is capital indexed or for any other reason, having regard to the terms of the security, for the sum of all payments (other than periodic interest payments) under the security to exceed the issue price of the security, and the amount of the eligible return is the amount of the excess.
- (6) For the purposes of this Division, where an amount of interest is payable under a security, the amount shall be taken to be periodic interest if the period between the commencement of the period in respect of which the interest is expressed to be payable and the time at which the interest is payable is less than or equal to one year.
- (7) Where:
- (a) but for this subsection, an amount of interest payable under a security would, by reason of the application of subsection (6), be taken, for the purposes of this Division, to be periodic interest; and
 - (b) the Commissioner, having regard to the amount of the interest, considers that it is properly attributable to a period in excess of one year;
- then, for purposes of the application of this Division:
- (c) the amount of interest shall not be taken to be periodic interest; and

- (d) the amount of interest shall be taken to be attributable to the period to which the Commissioner considers it is properly attributable.
- (8) Where 2 or more of the amounts payable under a security are payable to different persons and in return for consideration given by different persons, the 2 or more amounts shall, for the purposes of this Division, be taken to be payable under a separate security having such of the terms of the first-mentioned security as are relevant.
- (9) For the purposes of the application of this Division in relation to the holding of a security acquired by a taxpayer on transfer, any prior holding of the security by the taxpayer, whether on issue or transfer, shall be disregarded.
- (9A) For the purposes of paragraph (ba) of the definition of qualifying security in subsection (1), if:
- (a) after 16 December 1984, a person issues a security (the first in the series) that is not a qualifying security; and
 - (b) during the period from the end of 16 December 1984 until the issuing of the first in the series, the person did not issue any qualifying security with exactly the same payment dates, payment amounts and other terms as the first in the series; and
 - (c) after issuing the first in the series, the person issues another security (the later security) with exactly the same payment dates, payment amounts and other terms as the first in the series;
- the later security is part of an exempt series.
- (9B) In determining for the purposes of paragraph (9A)(b) or (c) whether a security has exactly the same other terms as another security, the fact that the first-mentioned security has a different issue price than the second-mentioned security is to be disregarded.
- (10) Where:
- (a) an annuity is issued on or after 29 October 1987;
 - (b) the requirements of paragraphs (b) to (e) (inclusive) of the definition of qualifying security in subsection (1) are satisfied in relation to the annuity; and
 - (c) the annuity is not an ineligible annuity;

Section 159GQ

the annuity is a qualifying security for the purposes of this Division.

159GQ Tax treatment of holder of qualifying security

Accrual amounts to be worked out

- (1) If a taxpayer holds a qualifying security for all or part of a year of income, the effect on the taxpayer's taxable income is determined by working out the accrual amount (see section 159GQB) for each accrual period (see section 159GQA) in the year of income and then summing the accrual amounts.

Positive sum assessable

- (2) If the sum is a positive amount, the amount is included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income.

Negative sum deductible

- (3) If the sum is a negative amount, a deduction of the amount is allowable in the assessment of the taxpayer of the year of income.

159GQA Accrual period

Taxpayer's maximum term to be divided into accrual periods

- (1) The taxpayer's maximum term for the qualifying security is divided into accrual periods in accordance with this section.

Whole year of income

- (2) If a year of income is wholly taken up by any of the taxpayer's maximum term, the year of income is divided into 2 accrual periods of 6 months.

Beginning of taxpayer's maximum term

- (3) If the taxpayer's maximum term begins after the beginning of the year of income:
 - (a) if it begins less than 6 months after the beginning of the year of income—the period from the beginning of the taxpayer's maximum term until the middle of the year of income is an accrual period and the second 6 months of the year of income is an accrual period; and

- (b) in any other case—the part of the year of income taken up by the taxpayer’s maximum term is an accrual period.

End of taxpayer’s maximum term

- (4) If the taxpayer’s maximum term ends before the end of a year of income:
- (a) if it ends no later than 6 months after the beginning of the year of income—the part of the year of income taken up by the taxpayer’s maximum term is an accrual period; and
- (b) in any other case—the first 6 months of the year of income is an accrual period and the period from the middle of the year of income until the end of the taxpayer’s maximum term is an accrual period.

Example

- (5) For example, if the taxpayer’s year of income is a financial year and a security with a 2 year term is issued to the taxpayer on 1 April, the accrual periods will be as follows:

1st year of income	2nd year of income	3rd year of income
1 Apr.	1 July	1 Jan.	1 July	1 Jan. 1 Apr.
3 month accrual period	6 month accrual period	6 month accrual period	6 month accrual period	3 month accrual period

159GQB Accrual amount

Formula

- (1) The accrual amount for an accrual period is worked out using the formula:

$$[\text{Implicit interest rate} \times \text{Opening balance}] - \text{Periodic interest etc.}$$

Section 159GQB

Implicit interest rate

- (2) In the formula in subsection (1), Implicit interest rate means the rate of interest worked out under section 159GQC (for a fixed return security) or 159GQD (for a variable return security), properly adjusted to take account of the case where the accrual period is less than 6 months.

Opening balance

- (3) In the formula in subsection (1), Opening balance means the amount worked out using the formula:

Issue/transfer price + Previous accruals – Payments

where:

Issue/transfer price means the issue price or transfer price, as the case requires, of the security; and

Previous accruals means:

- (a) if paragraph (b) does not apply—the sum, whether positive or negative, of all accrual amounts for previous accrual periods in the taxpayer’s maximum term; or
- (b) if the accrual period is the first in the taxpayer’s maximum term—nil; and

Payments means all payments (other than of periodic interest) made or liable to be made under the security during all previous accrual periods in the taxpayer’s maximum term.

Periodic interest etc.

- (4) In the formula in subsection (1), Periodic interest etc. means the sum of:
- (a) all periodic interest payments made or liable to be made under the security during the accrual period, properly adjusted in the case of any payment made other than at the end of the period; and
 - (b) if any payments (other than of periodic interest) made or liable to be made under the security during the accrual period are made or liable to be made other than at its end—an amount to adjust properly for the making of the payments other than at the end of the period.

159GQC Implicit interest rate for fixed return security

For the purposes of the formula component Implicit interest rate in subsection 159GQB(1), the rate of interest for a fixed return security in relation to a taxpayer is the rate of compound interest per period of 6 months at which:

(a) the sum of the present values of all amounts payable under the security during the taxpayer's maximum term;

equals:

(b) the issue price or the transfer price, as the case requires, of the security.

159GQD Implicit interest rate for variable return security

Implicit interest rate to be recalculated each year etc.

- (1) For the purposes of the formula component Implicit interest rate in subsection 159GQB(1), the rate of interest for a variable return security must be worked out in accordance with subsection (2) separately for each year of income during the taxpayer's maximum term. If there are 2 accrual periods of 6 months in the year of income, the rate is the same for both periods. It is possible for the rate to be negative.

Rate

- (2) The rate applicable in relation to a year of income is the rate of compound interest per period of 6 months in the calculation period (see subsection (3)) at which:

(a) the sum of the present values of all amounts payable under the security during the calculation period;

equals:

(b) the opening balance, mentioned in subsection 159GQB(1), for the accrual period that begins the calculation period.

Calculation period

- (3) The calculation period means the part of the taxpayer's maximum term that occurs after the beginning of the year of income.

Section 159GQD

Where amount payable is not known

- (4) For the purposes of paragraph (2)(a), if by the end of the year of income it is not possible to determine whether an amount will be payable, or the size of the amount that will be payable, after the end of the year of income, the determination is to be made by applying subsection (5), (7) or (11), or a combination of those subsections.

Assumption of constant level

- (5) Subject to subsection (7), if an amount payable is worked out to any extent by reference to the amount or level, at a particular time, of a rate, price, index or other thing, it is to be assumed that the rate, price, index or thing will be the same at all times after the end of the year of income as it was at the end of the year of income (or, if it was not available at the end of the year of income, at the time when it was last available in the year of income).

Examples

- (6) For the purposes of subsection (5):
- (a) an example of an amount worked out wholly by reference to the amount of a rate at a particular time is an interest payment under a floating rate note. The amount payable is the product of an interest rate indicator (such as the prevailing bank bill rate) and the face or par value of the note; and
 - (b) an example of an amount worked out wholly by reference to the amount of a price at a particular time is a redemption payment under a commodity linked security where the amount of the payment is the product of the prevailing price of a commodity (such as gold) and the face or par value of the security.

Assumption of continuing rate of change

- (7) If an amount payable is worked out to any extent by reference to the amount of change in an index or other thing that occurs during a period, it is to be assumed that the index or other thing will continue to change at the same rate as it did:
- (a) if the index or other thing was available at the end of the year of income—during the year of income; or

- (b) in any other case—during the period of 12 months in respect of which the index or other thing was last available in the year of income.

Example

- (8) An example for the purposes of subsection (7) is a payment whose amount is the product of the face or par value of a security and the percentage increase in the All Groups Consumer Price Index number (the CPI) during the year ending on 30 June 1995. If the year of income for which the implicit interest rate is being worked out is the 1993-94 year of income and the CPI increases by 2% during the year ending on 31 March 1994 (the date of the last available number during the year of income), the CPI is assumed to increase by 2% during the year ending on 30 June 1995.

Disguised continuing rate of change case

- (9) For the purposes of subsection (7), if an amount payable is worked out to any extent by reference to the quotient of:
 - (a) the amount or level of an index or other thing at a particular time; and
 - (b) either:
 - (i) the amount or level of the index or other thing at a different time; or
 - (ii) another amount that, while not expressed to be the amount or level of the index or other thing at a different time, may reasonably be regarded as representing the amount or level of the index or other thing at a different time;

the amount payable is taken to be worked out to that extent by reference to the amount of change in the index or other thing that occurs during the period between the 2 times.

Example

- (10) An example for the purposes of subsection (9) is a payment under a security issued in December 1994 that is worked out by multiplying a number of dollars by the quotient of:
 - (a) the All Groups Consumer Price Index number in respect of the quarter ending on 31 December 1997; and
 - (b) the number 114.

Section 159GR

Assume that the number in paragraph (b) is the same as the All Groups Consumer Price Index number in respect of the quarter ending on 31 December 1994. In this case, it would be reasonable to regard the number as representing the amount of the index at 31 December 1994, and therefore to apply subsection (7).

General assumption

- (11) If it is not possible to make the determination mentioned in subsection (4) in respect of the whole or part of any amount by applying subsection (5) or (7), or both, (for example, because no information about a rate, price or index was available during the year of income), the determination in respect of that whole or part is to be made on the basis of what is most likely in the circumstances.

159GR Consequences of actual payments

- (1) Where a payment (not being a payment that is, or to the extent that it consists of, a periodic interest payment, a redemption payment or a partial redemption payment) is made or liable to be made in a year of income to a taxpayer under a qualifying security:
- (a) no amount shall be included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income in respect of the payment otherwise than under section 159GQ; and
 - (b) where the taxpayer acquired the qualifying security on transfer—no amount shall be allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income in respect of the payment otherwise than under section 159GQ.

159GS Balancing adjustments on transfer of qualifying security

- (1) Where there is a profit amount in relation to the transfer of a qualifying security by a taxpayer in a year of income:
- (a) if there is a net assessable amount in relation to the transfer and:
 - (i) the profit amount exceeds the net assessable amount—an amount equal to the excess shall be included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income;
 - or

- (ii) the net assessable amount exceeds the profit amount—an amount equal to the excess shall be allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income; and
 - (b) if there is a net deductible amount in relation to the transfer—an amount equal to the sum of that amount and the profit amount shall be included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income.
- (2) Where there is a loss amount in relation to the transfer of a qualifying security by a taxpayer in a year of income and:
 - (a) there is a net assessable amount in relation to the transfer—an amount equal to the net assessable amount shall be allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income; or
 - (b) there is a net deductible amount in relation to the transfer that exceeds the loss amount—an amount equal to the excess shall be included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income.
- (3) For the purposes of the application of this section in relation to the transfer (in this subsection referred to as the relevant transfer) of a qualifying security by a taxpayer:
 - (a) where the transfer price, as increased by the amount of any payments (other than periodic interest payments) made to the taxpayer under the security in respect of the period when the security was held by the taxpayer exceeds:
 - (i) the issue price of the security; or
 - (ii) where the security was acquired by the taxpayer on transfer—the transfer price in relation to that transfer; there shall be taken to be a profit amount in relation to the relevant transfer of an amount equal to the excess;
 - (b) where the issue price of the security or, where the security was acquired by the taxpayer on transfer, the transfer price in relation to that transfer exceeds the sum of the transfer price in relation to the relevant transfer and any payments (other than periodic interest payments) made to the taxpayer under the security in respect of the period when the security was held by the taxpayer, there shall be taken to be a loss amount in relation to the relevant transfer of an amount equal to the excess;

Section 159GT

- (c) where the sum of all amounts (if any) included under section 159GQ in the assessable income of the taxpayer in respect of the security in respect of the period when the security was held by the taxpayer exceeds the sum of all amounts (if any) allowable under those sections as deductions from the assessable income of the taxpayer in respect of the security in respect of that period, there shall be taken to be a net assessable amount in relation to the relevant transfer of an amount equal to the excess; and
- (d) where the sum of all amounts (if any) allowable under section 159GQ as deductions from the assessable income of the taxpayer in respect of the security in respect of the period when the taxpayer held the security exceeds the sum of all amounts (if any) included under those sections in the assessable income of the taxpayer in respect of the security in respect of that period, there shall be taken to be a net deductible amount in relation to the relevant transfer of an amount equal to the excess.

159GT Tax treatment of issuer of a qualifying security

- (1) Subsections (1A) and (1B) apply if a taxpayer is an issuer of a qualifying security to which this section applies during a period (the issuer period) comprising the whole or part of a year of income.
 - (1A) If, on the assumptions in subsection (1C), an amount would be included in the taxpayer's assessable income of the year of income in respect of the issuer period, then, subject to this section, the taxpayer is entitled to a deduction in his or her assessment for the year of income equal to that amount.
 - (1B) If, on the assumptions in subsection (1C), a deduction would be allowable in the taxpayer's assessment for the year of income, then an amount equal to the deduction is included in the taxpayer's assessable income of the year of income.
 - (1C) For the purposes of subsections (1A) and (1B), the assumptions are that:
 - (a) the security was issued to the taxpayer (rather than the taxpayer being the issuer of the security); and

- (b) the taxpayer held the security during the whole of the issuer period; and
 - (c) the taxpayer did not transfer the security at the end of the issuer period; and
 - (d) sections 159GW, 159GX and 159GY were not enacted.
- (2) A deduction is not allowable to a taxpayer under subsection (1A) in relation to a qualifying security to which this section applies unless the taxpayer would, but for this Division, be entitled to a deduction under section 8-1 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in respect of payments (not being redemption payments, partial redemption payments or periodic interest payments) made or liable to be made under the security in respect of the relevant period referred to in that subsection.
- (3) Where a payment (not being a payment that is, or to the extent that it consists of, a periodic interest payment, a redemption payment or a partial redemption payment) is made or liable to be made in a year of income by a taxpayer under a qualifying security to which this section applies, no amount shall be allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income in respect of the payment otherwise than under this section.
- (5) Subject to subsection (6), this section applies to:
- (a) any qualifying security issued on or before 22 May 1986; and
 - (b) any qualifying security issued in Australia after 22 May 1986 other than a negotiable instrument issued payable to bearer.
- (6) This section does not apply to a qualifying security issued by a taxpayer after 5 o'clock in the evening, by standard time in the Australian Capital Territory, on 23 April 1987:
- (a) to, on behalf of or otherwise for the benefit of, a non-resident or a prescribed dual resident associate of the taxpayer; or
 - (b) subject to an agreement between the taxpayer and an associate of the taxpayer under which the security is or was to be transferred to a non-resident or a prescribed dual resident associate of the taxpayer.

159GU Effect of Division on certain transfer profits and losses

- (1) Where, apart from this Division, a profit that is made by a resident taxpayer in relation to a transfer of a qualifying security that does not form part of the trading stock of the taxpayer would be included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of a year of income, the profit shall not be so included in the assessable income of the taxpayer.

- (2) Where, apart from this Division, a loss that is incurred by a resident taxpayer in relation to a transfer of a qualifying security that does not form part of the trading stock of the taxpayer would be allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the taxpayer of a year of income and there is a net deductible amount, within the meaning of section 159GS, in relation to the transfer, so much only of the amount of the loss as exceeds the net deductible amount shall be so allowable as a deduction.

159GV Consequence of variation of terms of security

- (1) Where, after 22 May 1986, a material variation is made in the terms of a security, for the purposes of the application of this Division in relation to the security in respect of the period after the variation and before any subsequent material variation:
- (a) the security shall be taken to have been issued on the terms on which it was originally issued as varied by the material variation and any prior variation;
 - (b) where consideration for the variation is paid or payable by the holder of the security—the issue price of the security shall be taken to be an amount equal to the amount that was the issue price of the security immediately before this application of this subsection increased by the amount of that consideration;
 - (c) where consideration for the variation is paid or payable by the issuer of the security—the issue price of the security shall be taken to be an amount equal to the amount that was the issue price of the security immediately before this application of this subsection reduced by the amount of that consideration; and
 - (d) paragraph (a) of the definition of qualifying security in subsection 159GP(1) shall be disregarded.
- (2) Where:
- (a) subsection (1) applies in relation to a security held by a taxpayer in relation to a material variation in the terms of the security; and

(b) if:

- (i) that subsection had effect not only in relation to the period after the variation but also in relation to the whole of the term of the security before the variation; and
- (ii) any previous material variations were taken into account but any subsequent material variations were disregarded;

the sum (in this subsection referred to as the total notional taxable income) of the taxable incomes of the taxpayer in respect of the year of income in which the variation is made and all previous years of income would have differed from the sum (in this subsection referred to as the total actual taxable income) of the actual taxable incomes of the taxpayer of those years of income;

the following provisions have effect:

- (c) where the total notional taxable income exceeds the total actual taxable income—an amount equal to the excess shall be included in the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income in which the variation is made;
 - (d) where the total actual taxable income exceeds the total notional taxable income—an amount equal to the excess shall be allowable as a deduction from the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income in which the variation is made.
- (3) In this section, a reference to a material variation of the terms of a security is a reference to a variation of the terms of the security:
- (a) that has the effect that a security that was not a qualifying security before the variation would, if the security had been originally issued with the terms as varied and if paragraph (a) of the definition of qualifying security in subsection 159GP(1) were disregarded, have been a qualifying security when the security was issued;
 - (b) that has the effect that a security that is a qualifying security would, if originally issued with the terms as varied, not have been a qualifying security at the time of issue; or
 - (c) that has the effect that the amount, or time of making, of a payment under the security, or that the holder or issuer of the security, is varied.

Part III Liability to taxation

Division 16E Accruals assessability etc. in respect of certain security payments

Section 159GW

- (4) Where any right or option under a security to extend the term of, or otherwise vary the effect of, the security is exercised, then, for the purposes of this section, the exercise of that right or option shall be taken to be a variation of the terms of the security to provide for the extension or other effect.

159GW Effect of Division in relation to non-residents

- (1) Subject to subsection (2), where during the whole or a part of a year of income (which whole or part is in this subsection referred to as the period of non-residence) a taxpayer is not a resident:
- (a) no amount shall be included in, or allowable as a deduction from, the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income under section 159GQ in relation to the period of non-residence; and
 - (c) no amount shall be included in, or allowable as a deduction from, the assessable income of the taxpayer of the year of income under section 159GS in relation to any transfer of the security that occurred during the period of non-residence.
- (2) Where:

No amount shall be included in, or allowable as a deduction from, the assessable income of a taxpayer:

- (e) where the underlying security was acquired by the taxpayer on transfer—the transfer price, in relation to that transfer, of each separate security referred to in paragraph (c) shall be taken to be so much of the transfer price of the underlying security as bears to that amount the proportion that the market value of the separate security at the time of transfer bears to the market value of the underlying security at that time.

the amount of the deduction allowable shall be an amount that bears to the issue price or transfer price, as the case may be, of the underlying security the same proportion as the market value of the stripped security at the time of issue or purchase, as the case may be, bears to the market value of the underlying security at that time.

- (2) If apart from this section:
 - (a) the purchase price in respect of the buy-back; is less than:
 - (b) the amount that would have been the market value of the share at the time of the buy-back if the buy-back did not occur and was never proposed to occur;then, subject to subsection (3), in making the determinations mentioned in paragraphs (1)(a) and (b), the amount of consideration that the seller is taken to have received or to be entitled to receive in respect of the sale of the share is equal to the market value mentioned in paragraph (b) of this subsection.

Section 159GZZZQ

Deemed consideration reduced where dividend assessable etc.

- (3) Subject to subsection (8), if there is a reduction amount in respect of the buy-back (see subsection (4)), then, in making the determinations mentioned in paragraphs (1)(a) and (b), the amount of consideration that the seller is taken to have received or to be entitled to receive in respect of the sale of the share, after any application of subsection (2), is reduced by the reduction amount.

Reduction amount

- (4) The following steps are to be taken in working out whether there is a reduction amount in respect of the buy-back:
- (a) first, work out whether the whole or part of the purchase price in respect of the buy-back is taken to be a dividend by section 159GZZZP;
 - (b) second, for any amount satisfying paragraph (a), work out whether the whole or part of it is either:
 - (i) included in the seller's assessable income of any year of income (disregarding section 128D of this Act and section 802-15 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997); or
 - (ii) an eligible non-capital amount (see subsection (5)).

The amount worked out is the reduction amount in respect of the buy-back.

- (a) debited against a share capital account or a reserve to the extent that it consists of profits from the revaluation of assets of the company that have not been disposed of by the company; nor
 - (b) attributable, either directly or indirectly, to amounts that were transferred from such an account or reserve of the company.

Debit for deemed dividend

- (7) For the purposes of subsection (5), an amount of the purchase price that is taken to be a dividend by section 159GZZZP is taken to have been debited against the account or reserves against which the purchase price was debited, and to the same extent.

Offsettable amount excluded from reduction where loss

- (8) If:
- (aa) the seller is a corporate tax entity; and
 - (a) the amount of consideration that the seller is taken by subsection (1) or (2) to have received or to be entitled to receive in respect of the sale of the share is, apart from this subsection, reduced by a reduction amount under subsection (3); and
 - (b) the dividend mentioned in paragraph (4)(a), so far as it does not exceed the reduction amount, consists to any extent of an offsettable amount (see subsection (9)); and
 - (c) disregarding this subsection, as a result of the operation of this section:
 - (i) for the purposes of Parts 3-1 and 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (about CGT), the seller incurs a capital loss or an increased capital loss (which loss or increase is the loss amount) in respect of the buy-back; or
 - (ii) a loss, or an increased loss, (which loss or increase is also the loss amount) in respect of the buy-back is allowable as a deduction to the seller under a provision of a Part of this Act other than Part 3-1 or 3-3 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997; or
 - (iii) the amount of a deduction allowable from the seller's assessable income of any year of income in respect of the issue or acquisition of the share exceeds, or exceeds by a greater amount, (the excess or increased excess is also the loss amount) the amount included in the seller's assessable income of any year of income in respect of the buy-back of the share;
- then the reduction in the amount of the consideration under subsection (3) is instead a reduction equal to:
- (d) the reduction amount;
- less:
- (e) so much of the offsettable amount as does not exceed the loss amount.

Section 159GZZZR

Meaning of offsettable amount

- (9) For the purposes of subsection (8), if the seller is entitled to a tax offset under Division 207 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 in the seller's assessment for a year of income in respect of the dividend, the dividend consists of an offsettable amount worked out using the formula:

$$\frac{\text{Amount of offset}}{\text{Corporate tax rate}}$$

For the purposes of this Act, where a buy-back by a company of a share is an on-market purchase, no part of the purchase price in respect of the buy-back of the share is taken to be a dividend.
